Fans Had to See Oilers to Believe Them

HOUSTON (AP) — It's good that the Houston-Oakland pro football game was on U.S. national television Monday night. fans had 'to see it to believe it.'

Quarterback Daryle Lamonica finally got Oakland rolling with touchdown pass plays of 16 and 27 yards and George Blanda, a former Oiler, kicked two field goals in a 34-0 rout before a standing-room only crowd of 51,378 in the Astrodome.

But by the time the Raiders made it a runaway with their fourth quarter touchdowns two of them set up by interceptions more than half of the crowd had left in disgust at the performance.

The unhappy mood spread in the TV audience. The Astrodome crew estimated 75 calls came in from as far away as Canada, blasting everything from the Oilers to the television commentary.

In Sunday's action, Miami Dolphins downed New York Jets 27-17, Dallas Cowboys edged Pittsburgh Steelers 17-13, St. Louis Cardinals nipped Minnesota Vikings 19-17, New York Giants throttled New Orleans Saints 45-21, Kansas City Chiefs crushed Cleveland Browns 31-7, Washington Redskins blanked Philadelphia Eagles 16-0, Buffalo Bills thrashed New England Patriots 38-14, Detroit Lions tripped Atlanta Falcons 23-21, Cincinnati downed Denver Broncos 31-16, San Diego Chargers upset Baltimore Colts 23-20, Green Bay Packers nipped Chicago Bears 20-17 and Los Angeles Rams rolled over San Francisco 49ers 31-7.

The Oilers, getting their first chance at the Monday night spectacle since 1970, got a severe case of stage fright and stuttered to only 86 yards in total net offence-their worst offense showing in history.

The Oakland defence, ranked first in the AFC in pass defence, picked off five Oiler passes and dropped several other possible interceptions.

Field goals of 45 and 35 yards by Blanda and 16-yard touchdown pass to Fred Biletnikoff gave Oakland a 13-0 lead going into the fourth quarter when the bottom really collapsed for the Oilers.

Lamonica hit rookie Mike Siani for a 27-yard TD to open the fourth period and intercepted two TDs: 14-yard run by Clarence Davis and a 2-yard pass from Ken Stabler to tight end Otis Sistrunk set up the final Bob Moore.

H&R Printers Parlay Small Lineup Into Big Softball Win

By ALAN TESWORTH

SUDBURY — "Sweat got us this thing" was the way coach Don Dolan described it as Belleville's Cinderella team, Howard and Robert Printing this weekend brought home the first OASA men's championship since 1955, defeating Sudbury Filion Furniture in two straight games.

The Printers captured the Jim Alexander Memorial Trophy and the Intermediate "AA" championship with only 11 players signed in certificates and braved 35-degree temperatures and snowflurries to defeat the home-towners 4-1 Saturday and record a come-from-behind 3-2 Sunday win.

Belleville had previously defeated Dashwood, Peterborough, Owen Sound and Sarnia, losing single games only to Oshawa and Sarnia.

A fine all-around team effort and some timely hitting provided pitchers Bob Swan and Bob Ebbler each with a win in the final series. Pat Asselstine and Pug Kellar both came up with game-winning triples, both driving in two runs.

Defensively, with Dwight Rathwell an infield standout in the first game, out with a badly sprained ankle, coaches Dolan and Doug Murray were once again pleased with their lineup. Outfielder Pat Asselstine was moved into the infield at third base while Ken Genereaux was shifted to Rathwell's shortstop position and pitcher Bob Ebbler was forced to play left field, coming up with some key catches from his unfamiliar position.

Howard and Robert started the series off on a winning note by recording a 4-1 win over the Northern champions. Bob Ebbler pitched a four-hitter, striking out 13 batters and walking only one.

Dwight Rathwell started the Belleville attack in the top of the fifth with a line drive knocked down by Sudbury pitcher Gerry Gauthier and beaten out by Rathwell. Larry Potter sacrificed him to second and Pug Kellar sent him to third with a sacrifice to centre.

John Campbell, Belleville's lanky first - sacker broke the scoring ice by driving a double liner through the legs of Sudbury's shortstop, Don Riopel.

The Printers added three more runs in the top of the sixth, which proved to be the winners. Campbell and Ebbler opened with base hits and Pat Asselstine unloaded his game-winning triple to deep left-centre field. A heads-up play by Asselstine accounted for the fourth run as an attempt to pick him off went off the end of third-baseman George Martel's glove.

Sudbury picked up their only run of the game when first baseman Ray Tessier walked and scored after consecutive singles by Martel and Marcel Dufresne. Sudbury's other hits were collected by Tessier with a second-inning triple, and Steve McCool with a fifth-inning single. Sudbury pitcher Gerry Gauthier allowed nine hits while fanning 10 and walking only one batter.

Belleville's other hits were picked up by Ken Genereaux and Rantzy Garvin with both Rathwell and Asselstine adding other base hits to their torvious efforts.

Sudbury came out like lions in the second game, and it appeared as if they would force a third and deciding game.

Two costly infield errors and a base hit by Gerald Routeau posted the Northerners two runs in the top of the second inning before the locals could get untracked. But superb pitchpitching by Bob Swan shut off the Sudbury rally.

Belleville finally got untracked in their half of the fifth when, with two out, Rod Ridley slapped a base hit to left field.

The big break of the game for Belleville came when Sudbury catcher Claude Gravelle allowed Ken Genereaux's third strike to elude his glove, Genereaux and Ridley advanced to second.

Sudbury pitcher Gauthier shut out Belleville the rest of the way, pitching three innings of no-hit ball. He again struck out 10 while walking three.

Sudbury forced the issue once again in the 9th as a double by Ray Tessier and another infield error placed men on first and third with only one out. Belleville was called in from left field to put out the fire, fanning Raulens and getting Maurice Martel to pop out to end the game.

Winning pitcher Bob Swan gave up only two hits in the 7 1/3 innings he pitched. He struck out six and walked half that number.

"Great team spirit and excellent fan support helped us win this for us. There was no other way to do it," noted coach Doug Murray, indicating the only reason who missed the finale were their batboys, Terry Haycroft and Bruce Spencer.

This indeed was the case as Howard and Robert Printing won the 50th game they played this season to capture the Intermediate "AA" championship in this, the 50th anniversary year of the Ontario Amateur Softball Association.

Broncos Show Some More Kick

The Trenton Broncos showed a little more kick in their second National Defence Football League bout with Rockcliffe. The Broncos held the league leaders to a 7-4 draw Sunday, after losing their opening game with Rockcliffe 38-0.

The Ottawa air base scored on their opening series of downs, but two sparkling receptions by Al Westbrooke put Trenton in position to even the score in the second quarter. Eric Emerson scored on a seven-yard off-tackle play with Paul Hall adding the convert. The second half was a scoreless defensive battle.

Hall, Rick May and Jim Simpson were two-way standouts for the Broncos, while middle guard Al Foster and defensive back Ted Baker were other top performers.

Towers Settle For Split

Towers Food City novice majors didn't have much time to relish a 3-0 Ontario Minor Hockey Association exhibition win this weekend. Towers trounced MacDonalds minor novices by that count Saturday, but were handed an 11-1 drubbing by the Kingston Young Nationals Monday.

Hanlon, Burkholder, Wolfe, Parks and Birch scored Saturday for Towers, with Hugh Northey earning the shutout. Jim Mulroney scored the only goal in Monday's loss to Kingston.

Rollins Construction peewee majors got started on the right foot with a 2-0 Sunday win over Trenton Middleton Park. Andy Plane and Steven Pearce scored the Belleville goals.

The peewee minors came out on the short end of a 7-3 bout with Kingston Young Nationals. Chapman scored twice for the losers with Mark Crawford scoring the third Belleville tally.

Western Tire juvenile took a 5-3 verdict from Blake Kerr Imperial midgets Sunday getting goals from Mark Coates, Jim Richardson, Mike Cowan, Russ Harrington and Wayne Andrews. Foster and Crawford scored for the losers.

'Pizza Crew Still Hot'

"Jim's Pizzeria don't appear to have cooled off during the summer. The defending Gas House Hockey champions opened the league season play Monday with a 2-0 win over Rollins Lumber.

Ralph Boombower and Bill Dunn scored for Jim's, who also finished in first place last year, while Gerald Bull recorded the shutout.

Two goals by Dennis Barager and the strong netminding of Warren Ray sparked the Intelligencer to a 3-1 win over Mead Johnson in another Monday opener. Dave Akey counted the third Intel goal.

In a third Gas House encounter it was Wilson Concrete picking up a 4-2 decision over Stewart Warner.

CP News Roundup

Nimble Willie Still Working

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — At 74, Willie Lee Jones is as nimble as any other construction worker scaling the beams of a 40-story skyscraper being built in Miami.

Jones pushes wheelbarrow loads of concrete, hoists lunch-bag to co-workers and "never fits less than nine hours work in an eight-hour day," says crew boss Frank Slate.

Willie says he does the back-breaking labor so he can pay for his home he bought when he married 18 years ago.

Jones is affectionately known by the younger laborers as "Pop."

"You give me a hundred Pop Jones and I'll build anything in record time," said Slate, project executive for Miami's One Biscayne Tower.

Jones sees nothing unusual about a man his age doing strenuous construction work.

Woman Beaten

BRANTFORD (CP) — A party that led to the beating and alleged near-execution of a Six Nations reserve woman recalled in the arrest of five persons on the reserve early Saturday. A 21-year-old woman of nearby Ohsweken was taken to hospital for treatment of bruises and internal injuries. Police said the woman was picked up by a carload of persons and taken to a home. She was forced from the vehicle, stripped and beaten. A rope was placed around her neck and one end thrown over the limb of a tree.

"If a man wants a full day's pay, he should put in a full day's work. Simple as that."

In Peking

PEKING (Reuter) — Lee Thomson and a team of executives and correspondents from the London Times arrived in Peking Saturday night at the invitation of the Chinese government. The party included Sunday Times photographer Donald McCullin, recently released from captivity in Uganda; David Bonavia, a London Times correspondent recently expelled from Moscow, arrived to take up residence here as the third West European newspaper correspondent accredited to Peking.

Boy At Fault

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuter) — A 15-year-old boy released 13 dangerous prisoners from a police station here by prying open a chain locking their cell door, police said Monday. Among the prisoners, none of whom was captured immediately, were several men charged with murder. The boy was caught several hours later.

India First

EAST BERLIN (Reuter) — India Sunday became the most important non-Communist country to grant full diplomatic recognition to East Germany. The two countries agreed to raise their diplomatic representations to embassy level. The West German government, in a statement issued in Bonn, rejected the Indian decision, but acknowledged it as a sovereign decision of that country.

Asks Queen To Retire

LONDON (CP) — A journalist writing in the Beaverbrook Sunday Express suggests the Queen should consider retiring at 50 to make way for Prince Charles as king. The Queen, the writer, Ronald Spark, could then become "an indispensable ambassador for Britain and the Commonwealth," living part of the year in Canada and other countries. Pointing out the frustrations felt by Edward VII, who was more than 60 when he succeeded the throne, Spark says Charles would find it difficult to fill a "gaping" 40-year void with satisfying work.

Heath Outlook

LONDON (AP) — Edward Heath was convinced he would lose Britain's 1976 general election and retire from politics without ever becoming prime minister, says a new biography published Sunday. The book, written by Margaret Laing with Heath's help and approval, was the first public admission that Heath had been depressed by unanimous polls and forecasts which made him the underdog.

Girl Mauled

OMAHA, Neb. (Reuter) — A tiger leaped out of a 10-foot cage pit at a zoo here Sunday and attacked a five-year-old girl and her mother. Lisa Condee was dragged 10 feet by the animal before her father managed to beat the tiger off. The girl's mother was bitten on the arm; Lisa suffered severe head cuts and arm scratches. The tiger was captured quickly and returned to its cage.

Dec. 2 Vote

CANBERRA (AP) — A general election will be held in Australia Dec. 2, Prime Minister William McMahon announced today in the House of Representatives.

Nominations for candidates will close Nov. 11.

McMahon will face electors for the first time as prime minister.

The present Liberal-Country party government has a majority of only seven.

Refloated

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP) — The 546-foot freighter Algorail, which sank in the Holland channel with a 15-foot hole in her bow Friday, has been refloated.

The vessel, carrying a load of rock salt, struck a channel wall while trying to manoeuvre off a sand bar and sank to the bottom.

Stanfield:

Oct. 30 to Settle Direction

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Canadians will settle the direction their country is to take for many years to come when they vote in the Oct. 30 general election, Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said Tuesday night.

"I believe for the first time in our history that unemployment threatens to become a way of life." Mr. Stanfield told a group attending an Oktoberfest.

It was the third beer festival that he dropped in while opening a five-day swing through Ontario ridings.

His first two appearances a few cities of beer from a stein

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A disturbance centred to the west of the Great Lakes will spread showers and a few thunderstorms southward over central Ontario this afternoon and across southern Ontario later today. On Thursday, the disturbance will move into Quebec. In its wake cooler air will spread across the province and temperatures will be about 10 degrees cooler in most regions.

Belly Button Now Important

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The medical profession has found another thing to worry about—the belly button—and it's all because of the bikini.

Dr. Martin Markowitz of Brooklyn reports that after a summer of beach watching: "A girl does not begin to rate unless she can display a smooth, round, symmetrical depression in her mid-abdomen."

"This state of affairs has now revolutionized my approach of the newborn female baby," writes Markowitz in a recent issue of the New York Family Physician.

"Now my first consideration is the umbilicus. I clean it, I strap it, yes—I worry over it. I am constantly plagued with the fear that some day a sweet young thing will appear on an exclusive beach, for all the world to see, with a protruding belly button and turn out to have been one of my babies."

Nominated Candidates Set Record

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A rash of last-minute entries Tuesday boosted the total of candidates in the Oct. 30 federal election to a record 1,116. The number exceeded the previous mark set in 1963 by 81.

Progressive Conservatives had a full slate for the 264 House of Commons seats while the ruling Liberals of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau registered 262.

The Liberals chose not to oppose Lucien Lamoureux, Speaker of the last House and a one-time Liberal, who is seeking re-election in the Ontario riding of Stormont-Dundas.

The New Democratic Party, which ran 263 candidates in 1968, had 261 representatives in the running.

Social Issues Said Ignored

OTTAWA (CP) — Social issues are largely ignored in community planning, say most persons in a poll by the Community Planning Association of Canada.

The survey of planners, elected officials and ordinary citizens across Canada concluded that social aspects of cities are not adequately considered in plans for new developments.

CPAC will submit a brief to the federal government based on findings of the survey, national director Ernest Taylor said Tuesday.

About 40 per cent replied "no" without further comment when asked whether social aspects were properly considered in community planning.

Another 13 per cent said there is too much emphasis on land-use planning and not enough on social problems.

On civic political parties, 48 per cent favored the idea while 48.4 per cent were opposed.

About 65 per cent of those in favor said more teamwork and better co-ordination of policy is needed to deal with the increasingly complicated problems facing cities. Civic political parties could help.

Of those opposed, 25.5 per cent felt there is no merit to a civic party system.

On news reporting of city problems, 28.5 per cent said better reporting could strengthen local government. Only seven per cent expressed satisfaction with the job done by reporters. The remainder offered specific criticisms of the way reporters write about local affairs.

Low Income Relief

TORONTO (CP) — The province is studying a student loan repayment program that is geared to income rather than the present bank loan system, Jack McNie, Ontario minister of colleges and universities said Tuesday.

Mr. McNie, who took over the portfolio 12 days ago, said the province plans to change its student aid system, but indicated there would be some forgiveness for graduates with low or moderate income.

He told a group of University of Toronto students that there will be no fee increase next year but the students will have to pay this year's increase of $100.

The minister said there was no evidence that "serious" students were deterred by the increases, but added that the provision must be made for better job of reaching low-income students.

He also told the students he favors doing away with the present standard college and university entrance examination.

The present test "depersonalizes the education system and inhibits entrance," he said.

The minister said he knows of university graduates who have tried the test, and failed. "It has lost its credibility," he said.

Mackasey Says Figures Positive

MONTREAL (CP) — Bryce Mackasey, federal manpower and immigration minister, said the mid-Septembes unemployment figures released Tuesday by Statistics Canada are no, alarming and have some positive points.

The figures showed that the number of jobless in Canada declined to an estimated 476,000 in mid-September from 503,000 a month earlier.

"Looking at the actual figures," Mr. Mackasey said in an interview, "unemployment has dropped by 44,000. The hard core " unemployed—unemployed for more than seven months—has reached the lowest level since November, 1970.

"That's very encouraging."

There was a sharp drop last month in the so-called participation rate—the number of jobholders and job seekers as a percentage of the adult population, the report said.

The reason for this, Mr. Mackasey said, was that a greater number of students have "redirected school."

Another encouraging sign was that the number of heads of households employed was maintained during the month.

He also referred to a 13,000 drop in the number of those unemployed for more than three months.

"There is a lot to be positive about in the figures."

Price Index Climbs

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer price index reversed its usual September trend and rose again, instead of falling, climbing to 141.8 from 141.3 in August, Statistics Canada reported today.

Clothing and food prices led the way as all the main components of the index rose. Tobacco and alcohol prices remained unchanged, in balance, and the costs of recreation and reading materials declined slightly.

In relative terms, the index rose 5.3 in the past 12 months.

Statistics Canada said the food price rise in September contrasted with decreases usually recorded in September. This time, the cost of restaurant meals, up 1.2 per cent, contributed to the gain but the cost of food bought for consumption at home was up 10.2 per cent higher than a year ago.

Vegetable prices were down, but less than normally for September, and fruit prices were up. Meat and fish prices were higher, led by pork, and egg prices rose strongly, up 15 per cent for the year.

Footwear prices led the clothing index into higher ground, up two per cent in the month and more than five per cent in the year. Some women's wear—hosiery and undergarments—declined in price but this was far outweighed by increases in other women's clothing and in clothing for men and children.

Rents and the prices of new homes rose last month, as did the cost of household maintenance supplies such as cleansers, soap flakes and detergents. The prices of some appliances such as refrigerators, electric stoves and vacuum cleaners, declined.

Rich Skeleton

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Discovery near the Soviet-Mongolian border of a 2,000-year old female skeleton, surrounded by gold and bronze ornaments belonging to the early Scythian culture, is puzzling archeologists. The Scythians flourished in the Crimea—more than 2,500 miles away.

Bombmakers Blow Up

BELFAST (AP) — Three young guerrilla bombmakers blew themselves up Tuesday night at the end of a day of widespread violence throughout Northern Ireland that claimed five lives. Irish Republican Army sources said three members of their Provisional wing were mixing explosives in a derelict Belfast house when the ingredients erupted in their faces. Earlier in the day a part-time soldier was killed by a guerrilla gunman and a 76-year-old man was crushed to death by a bus which overturned under a hail of rocks from rioting youngsters.

Talks In Fourth Day

PARIS (CP-AP) — Henry Kissinger's secret talks with the North Vietnamese in Paris entered their fourth day today. The surprise extension of negotiations raised diplomatic eyebrows but brought no official word of progress. The tight secrecy surrounding the talks and the duration of the current series —the longest in three years of exploratory contacts by Kissinger — prompted speculation that a breakthrough may be near.

U.S. Bombs Hit Mission

PARIS (CP) — U.S. bombs tore into the French diplomatic mission in Hanoi in an air raid early today seriously injuring the mission chief and bringing a protest to the United States from the French government. Five persons were feared dead. French President Georges Pompidou at a cabinet meeting described the bombing as "deplorable," government spokesman Jean-Philippe Lecat said.

Rail Relocation Proposed

OTTAWA (CP) — A major railway relocation program designed to move rail lines out of city centres was announced today by Urban Affairs Minister Ron Basford.

Along with the program which would cost about $10 million in the first year, Mr. Basford said the government intends to double contributions under the railway grade crossing fund to $40 million annually.

The legislation would set out steps to be followed by cities or provinces seeking relocation of railway tracks in urban cores.

The federal government would help in moving the rail lines through a special financial assistance program.

The federal contribution for construction of bridges or tunnels would be raised to $1 million from $500,000 for new structures.

Cushino Train Proposed

TORONTO (CP)— The Star says Premier William Davis will soon recommend that the Toronto Transit Commission try out a new rapid transit system featuring trains propelled electrically over a magnetic cushion.

The Star says the system, under development in West Germany, would be cheaper and involve shorter construction time than a conventional subway.

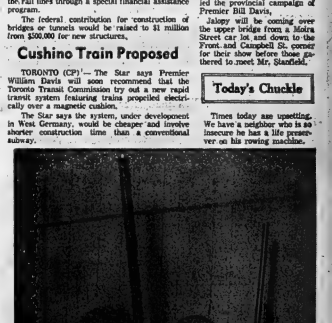
Stanfield In City Thursday

Tomorrow will be Bob Stanfield Day in Belleville.

The Conservative leader will arrive in the city by helicopter at 11:15 on the field adjacent to the cheese producers' building on South Foster Ave.

At this bayshore site, he will be met by both Jack Ellis, the Progressive Conservative federal candidate in Hastings and former Hastings MP Lee Grills.

The party will proceed by car to the corner of Front and Campbell Streets where the party leader and the local candidate will be meeting the people before moving up the street to the PC committee rooms where Stanfield will give a brief address.



At the Front and Victoria Conservative headquarters, Bob Stanfield will be introduced by riding president Jack Ireland about 11:35 a.m.

The arrival in downtown Belleville of the PC chief will be preceded by a performance from 11:10 a.m. of Jalopy, the musical group that accompanied the provincial campaign of Premier Bill Davis.

Jalopy will be coming over the upper bridge from a Moira Street car lot and down to the Front and Campbell St. corner for their show before they are ushered to meet Mr. Stanfield.

Candidates' Calendar

The following is a summary of the activities of candidates in the October 30 federal election for today and tomorrow of which The Intelligencer has been informed:

WEDNESDAY

In Hastings riding, all candidates gathered at Centennial Secondary School from 10 a.m. to 12 noon for a special broadcast from the school of the CJBQ radio program, What Do You Think, with moderator Milt Johnston.

Following radio date, NDP candidate Elridge Brethour was scheduled to spend from 1 to 5 p.m. at the party committee rooms at 411 Dundas West before spending the rest of the afternoon and early evening going door-to-door in Belleville.

For Jack Ellis, the Progressive Conservative, an informal lite luncheon was planned for people in that area. Retiring MP Lee Grills was scheduled to attend along with the candidate.

Liberal Frank Follwell was due to meet minister of national revenue Herb Gray in Trenton at 2:15 p.m. and escort him to Belleville for a meeting with party officials and local industrialists at the Shrine Club of Belleville from 2:45 to 5 p.m. Gray was scheduled to address the gathering on revenue issues, following a mid-day tour of Trenton area plants.

Candidates of all parties get together again this evening at Belleville's Centennial Secondary School for a meet-the-candidates night organized by the Quinte District Labor Council and slated to begin at 8 p.m.

After this meeting, Jack Ellis will attend a Conservative Association meeting that begins at 10 p.m.

MORE

All candidates for the riding of Prince Edward - Hastings will be attending the All-Candidates Night meeting at Centennial Secondary School, Belleville, 8 p.m., sponsored by the Quinte District Labor Council.

The individual candidates will be campaigning at the following times and locations:

—George Cunningham, Liberal, will tour the Eighteenth ering in Batawa and Downie in Trenton with the Hon. Herb Gray, minister of national revenue, from noon until 2:15 p.m.

—George Hees, Conservative, will be main - steering for Prince Edward County this afternoon.

—Richard Lunn, NDP, will be at Picton headquarters from 1 - 4 p.m. At 6:30 p.m., he will be guest on CJBQ's What Do You Think?

THURSDAY

For New Democrat Elridge Brethour, it will be a day of door-to-door campaigning in the northern reaches of the riding.

Conservative Jack Ellis begins his day with a 9 a.m. prayer breakfast for Mead Johnson's Belleville plant at 9 a.m. before meeting Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield at 11:15 a.m. Arriving by helicopter, Mr. Stanfield will spend an hour in the city maintaining contact with the candidate. From 2 until 4 p.m., Mr. Ellis will be attending a blood donor clinic in Belleville before attending an 8 p.m. Conservative Association meeting.

Frank Follwell of the Liberals has a whole door-door campaigning in Belleville.

Students Heckle Three Candidates

In one way or another 1,200 grade 13 students from across Hastings County told Liberal, Conservative and New Democratic party candidates exactly what they stood this morning at a true "bear pit" confrontation at Centennial Secondary School.

The three candidates, Frank Follwell (Lib.), Jack Ellis (PC) and Elridge Brethour (NDP) each addressed the packed auditorium, emphasizing the need for young voters, welcoming the youth population into the democratic process and — in the beginning — taking few digs at one another's party.

Campaign signs dotted the audience with junior party workers stationed at exits, plying fellow students with pamphlets and literature as they slipped in and out of the room during speeches.

When questioners gathered on at least one thing, that it would be young people in the country who would be responsible for growth and development.

With the preliminaries finished, students lined up in microphones placed about the hall to quizz candidates on policy which had been outlined early slightly during opening addresses.

No one was shy as they warmed up the candidates with inquiries on foreign ownership, unemployment and the general financial complexion of the country.

Few hands clapped and even signs and posters stayed beneath the seats for most of the question period, which one student summed up as, "condescension and evasion of questions."

Mr. Ellis, after hearing a question dealing with fractured economy, asked if the students really understood what the term meant.

A teacher rose later to tell Mr. Ellis (PC) that students pick up much more today than we did in our schooling.

Mr. Brethour, who was seldom called upon to make comments on issues — was the only candidate of the trio not to be booed during the morning session.

After replying in a lengthy fashion, a young PC campaign worker told Frank Follwell, "that's not an answer you just go on and on and on."

Mr. Follwell replied "that is your opinion."

Mr. Ellis received a hearty boo when he claimed if "we had had a calm, reasonable man like (Robert) Stanfield in office, we would not have had the Quebec (FLQ) crisis.

The greater portion of the questions dealt with the economy of the country, but two students did rise to the microphone to ask each of the candidates would they legalize marijuana, why, and have they ever smoked it?

The answer from each of the candidates to all three questions, was no, and no.

A question coming from the back of the room inquired, "Mr. Follwell, you say if you are elected, in 14 days you will do all manner of things to create a communication system for the county to the government. After those 14 days will you spend the next four years recuperating from your marathon effort?"

It was that kind of morning for the candidates — it will once again sit on the Centennial theatre stage to hear what the students parents have to ask.

Candidates for Prince Edward - Hastings Riding will also be present.

The all-candidates meeting this evening, beginning at 8 p.m. is sponsored by the Quinte District Labor Council.

Education Board Approves Moira Secondary Changes

Hastings County Board of Education last night approved a $200,000 program of building alterations for Belleville's Moira Secondary School.

Board members have decided the school's core facilities are inadequate to meet the needs of the student load" and tentatively plans to follow up the renovations with a $1 million addition to the school.

The alteration work at Moira will see the present music room converted to an occupational classroom, a commercial room changed to a secretarial laboratory and a typing room made into a computer studies centre.

The $200,000 price tag includes about $50,000 for the purchase of new equipment for these rooms. Work will be met largely by an 81 per cent provincial grant.

Work on the alterations will begin this year.

Trenton board member Ralph Weaver lent his support to alterations for the east Belleville school, recalling a recent meeting of the board's building committee there.

"We met in the main foyer with students working on tables behind us," he said, mentioning the difficulty of doing board business with students piling past in the corridor.

Weaver said the cramped conditions "must be a handicap to staff and students alike."

The board also called for the drawing of plans for a $558,000 addition to Trenton's conversion of the present Queen Elizabeth Public School. Plans will feature the renovations there to a learning resource centre (library), the building of a new gymnasium, music room, art room, home economics room and the updating in the school's heating plant.

Trustee Peter Keith Hawkins, told the board the addition to Queen Elizabeth will "give us a complete second school."

At Moira, long - term proposals call for the building of a large new wing on which is now the school's parking lot. This addition will feature new gymnasiums, a new music room, greenhouse and other horticultural facilities and additional classrooms.

The present gym will become a learning resource centre with a partition separating it from the upstairs classrooms. The bleachers will become a theatre - style seating flanked by seminar and work areas.

Comparable work will also be done at Quinte.

Says board chairman Don Williams, if the board doesn't build substantial additions at both Quinte and Moira in the next few years, it will be confronted with the need of building a fifth public high school in the city.

Two Boys Badly Burned

Two west end boys were seriously burned last night after they poured gasoline onto their small outdoor fire.

In Belleville General Hospital are Phillip Barclay, 14, of 36 Graham St., and John Barclay, 13, of 38 Hillside St., John's younger brother, Donald, escaped injury.

The boys were apparently warming themselves in a field behind Wilson Concrete. John poured gas onto the fire but apparently spilled some, sending flames shooting over himself and Phillip.

Both were enveloped by the flames, and Phillip ran to the nearby Barclay home to where they called for an ambulance. The time was about 8 p.m.

Police later found a hose and gas tank and suspect the boys were siphoning gas from a parked truck.

John Morton has burns to 30 per cent of his body, including his face, arms and chest. Many are third degree.

Phillip Barclay also suffered burns to his face, arms and chest but his condition is better than John's.

IN MEMORIAM

McGIBBET — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Alfred McGibbet, died Oct. 11, 1967.
More and more each day we miss you
Friends may think the wound is healed
But we who loved you dearly
Long within our hearts concealed.
Lovingly remembered by Son Lou, Sandy, grandchildren Sally and Rodney.

SUMMERS — In loving memory of our dear father, Ernest Summers, died Oct. 11, 1971.
I do not need a special day, dear,
To think of you and sigh,
The days I do not think of you,
Are very few indeed.
You may be sleeping in the grave,
Never shall your memory fade,
As long as there is memory,
To the spot where you are laid.
Sadly missed by the family.

SMITH — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Lloyd Smith, died October 11, 1967.
Years of sadness still come to me,
Tears in silence often flow,
Memories of you I always treasure so,
Sadly missed by Beth, Alma, Kathy, Cathy and Lloyd.

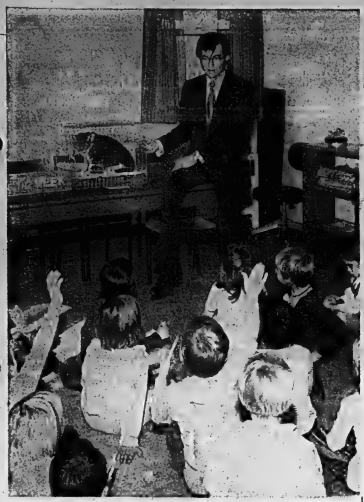
IN MEMORIAM



McGIBBET — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Alfred McGibbet, died Oct. 11, 1967.
More and more each day we miss you
Friends may think the wound is healed
But we who loved you dearly
Long within our hearts concealed.
Lovingly remembered by Son Lou, Sandy, grandchildren Sally and Rodney.

SUMMERS — In loving memory of our dear father, Ernest Summers, died Oct. 11, 1971.
I do not need a special day, dear,
To think of you and sigh,
The days I do not think of you,
Are very few indeed.
You may be sleeping in the grave,
Never shall your memory fade,
As long as there is memory,
To the spot where you are laid.
Sadly missed by the family.

SMITH — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Lloyd Smith, died October 11, 1967.
Years of sadness still come to me,
Tears in silence often flow,
Memories of you I always treasure so,
Sadly missed by Beth, Alma, Kathy, Cathy and Lloyd.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our relatives, neighbors and friends for their kindness and sympathy during our time of need.
Especially those who sent flowers.
We wish to thank our many friends for the lovely party on Saturday, Oct. 7 in honor of our parents. It was the nicest surprise we could ever have had.
Elmer and Gladys Ellis.

Jim Burns, Educational Assistant for the Hastings County Board of Education, discusses Lady's background with students from North Trenton Public School, grade one. This car, which the students chose at the Ontario Humane Society, Quinte Branch, will be one of the weekly animals sponsored in The Intelligencer by schools in the area who have visited the shelter. Educational aspects learned by these visits include language, arts and vocabulary.

Minor Accidents

North of Belleville

TWEED (Special) — A five-year-old Belleville district boy escaped with a broken leg and scratches to his face Sunday afternoon which struck by a car on County Road 11 near Marmora.

Rodney Frederick Haskin, RR7, Belleville, ran onto the road and was struck by a car driven by Lilla Empey of Deseronto. The boy was said to have darted onto the road as the car topped a knoll.

The Marmora area accident was one of several road mishaps in the Centre Hastings area over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Saturday night, Frank Lush of Bowmanville struck a rock cut on Highway 62 south of Madoc and suffered lacerations.

And in another accident in the same general area, a car driven by Steven John Potter, 19, of Marmora, collided with another car driven by Georgia Tucker of Stirling.

The Tucker car was southbound when at the CN subway at Moira Lake it was in collision with the northbound Potter car. Mr. Tucker suffered lacerations while his 1963 car was described as a write-off.

Early Sunday morning, Gary Cassidy, 22 of Tweed, escaped injury when his late model compact went out of control on the Stoco Road and ended up on the veranda of the Lessard home.

The car was damaged to the extent of $300 while about $50 damage resulted to the veranda.

Pet Population Gets A Reprieve

Belleville dog and cat lovers are going to have still an extra lease on life for their excess pets.

The reason is that the city's new animal control bylaw has again been sent back to the council resolutions committee for still further consideration.

The draft bylaw was before council two weeks ago but several members disagreed with some of its provisions.

The bylaw would put a limit of two dogs for any one household and at the same time limit the number of cats to three.

But yesterday there was objection to a provision which would rule out cats running at large.

Alderman Ben Corke said such a provision would decimate the cat population and Alderman Robin Jeffrey suggested there was just no way a cat could be kept on a leash.

Quinte Population Forecast 112,000

The first of five component studies that will comprise the Quinte conceptual plan projects an 80 percent increase in the region's population by the year 2,000.

Richard Danziger, senior planner with Quinte Planning Board, sets the total at 112,000 from the present in 61,427 in the preliminary population study.

Responsible for the population study, Danziger's analysis indicates Belleville can expect to grow from the present 35,957 to about 70,500 by the turn of the next century. The Belleville zone includes portions of adjacent townships.

Trenton's growth zone (including Glen Miller and Bayside) with a population now of 16,555 will grow to a population of approximately 28,980 in the next 28 years, the study says. This figure includes 21,600 for the town itself.

All estimates are based in part on a municipality's ability to cope with growth.

Batawa and Frankford, dealt with jointly, are expected to have a population of 5,080 by the year 2,000 from their present combined total of 2,780.

The population projections may be revised by data being brought in on related studies, Danziger explains.

Other studies will follow on the needs of rural non - farm residential populations and mobile home dwellers, as well as studies on existing land needs, recreational and cottage development and land and population needs in the future.

The conceptual plan has become a priority of QPD now that provincial authorities want to deal with it before receiving Belleville's official plan.

Friend Shoots Young Hunter

TRENTON (Staff) — A young Trenton hunter was shot and painfully wounded last weekend while hunting with a group of friends in Murray township.

James Thomas Nancarrow, 17, of RR1, Trenton, was wounded by shot-gun pellets in the face and upper body when a friend tripped and fell, his gun discharging. Brighton detachment OPP report the Nancarrow youth could have been more seriously injured if he had not been some distance ahead of his companion.

He was admitted and remains in Trenton Memorial Hospital.

FOR $3 YOU CAN LEARN ENOUGH FACTS TO HELP SAVE A COUNTRY. YOURS.

Everybody's talking about pollution and environmental quality. But just what are the problems in Canada? Who is responsible for taking action? What is being done?

The answers are in "Canada and the Human Environment," published by Environment Canada for the United Nation's conference on the human environment. The Federal government is making this book available with the hope that once you know the facts, you will help bring about pollution solutions.

The book pulls no punches. It talks about pollution of all kinds; who's responsible for what; citizens' groups and their objectives; recycling; strategies for survival — the works. It's 90 pages long and contains 49 illustrations — 32 of them in colour.

The book is available at information Canada book stores in Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver, or through your bookseller.

Environment Week is October 8 to 14. Become informed.

Housing Progress

Politics, or should we say politicking, is a barrier to a sound housing policy was discussed the other day by Ottawa bureau writer Farmer Tasington.

"It is questionable," he wrote in part, "if this ad hoc, largely political tinkering with NH (national housing) rules is any substitute for a clearly-defined national housing policy that would be adhered to regardless of short-term economic fluctuations or the imminence of general elections."

True, we have a long way to go before our national housing policy adequately fills the needs of Canadians at large and particularly those seeking accommodation that they can afford.

We have nevertheless come a long way in the last few years. It is a far cry from the inadequacies of those earlier days, when Paul Hellyer was Minister of Transport with responsibility also for housing. Mr. Hellyer determined to ease the difficulties with a plan that he put before Parliament, only to see it rejected. He resigned, founded Action Canada, then deciding he did not wish to remain in the political wilderness, went over to the Conservative party.

In any event, housing is a more smooth running initiative these days than it was in the past. To drive around Belleville is to realize this. It is also being spread over a wider range of income groups. It is being made easier for Canadians to put a roof over their heads and call it their own.

A current example is the 64-home condominium community on College Street at Prince of Wales Drive, as well as another similar development planned for O'Hara Drive across from Centennial secondary school on Palmer Drive.

There has also been a new emphasis of late on senior citizen housing. Council recently approved a move to ask the Ontario Housing Corporation to provide 162 units of rental housing accommodation on a gear-ed-to-income basis and the feeling is that, with that accomplished, still more homes of this type, for senior citizens, will be needed here.

It is a sign of the times, as homes are completed in ever-increasing numbers. And we should not be lost on the candidates in the election. Whatever the next Government, it should continue to facilitate the provision of housing, as well as improve on existing housing policy.

Menace to Health

Confirming our own observations on the subject of smoking, especially as it applies to increased usage by women, we have come upon some chilling findings in a report from New York by United Press International writer Patricia McCormack.

The report, which appeared in The Montreal Gazette, says that cigarette smoking is believed to be linked with a doubling of the number of women dying from emphysema and chronic bronchitis during the past decade. The finding is said to add, at the same times as prevalent among women smokers as among those who have never smoked.

However, these facts and others arguing for the curbing of cigarette smoking among women, the report goes on, "don't leave much of an impression on women who light up," according to Dr. Donald Kent, medical director of the U.S. National Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association.

"Cigarette usage rates for women have climbed sharply the past 15 years, while those for men have dropped," Dr. Kent said.

"All evidence indicates that women have a harder time kicking the habit."

However the Christmas Seal Association's health educators are reported to be extending a helping hand with a free brochure indicating that ten million women have quit smoking and urging others to follow suit.

It is pointed out that non-smokers, like children at home, are also harmed by breathing in smoke-saturated rooms. The heart beats faster, blood pressure goes up and so does the level of carbon dioxide in the blood.

And one other thing ladies, the report says: cigarette smoking is also linked with a greater than usual production of wrinkles, especially around the eyes.

Social Justice and Political Awareness Twin Goals

Self-Sufficient Yet India Still Faces Major Problems

Indian and Foreign Review

India completed 25 years of freedom on August 15, 1972. These years have been a period of notable endeavors and worthy achievements in all spheres of national life.

Between 1947 and 1972 the net national product at current prices increased more than three times (and the per capita product at current prices rose from Rs 306.2 in 1960-61 to Rs 595.3 in 1969-70) despite the setbacks caused by five wars, two severe droughts and influx of over 10 million refugees from across our borders during the period.

India's total population rose from 360 million to nearly 548 million in 1961-71. This rise in population was attributable largely to a rapid fall in the death rate from 27.4 per thousand in 1941-50 to 14.9 per thousand in 1966-70 due to improved health services. With the intensification of family planning program in the country since the mid-60s, the birth rate is expected to be eventually brought down from the present 36 to 25 per thousand by the end of the fifth plan (1974-79).

Life expectancy, which 25 years ago was 32 years, now stands at 50.

India is now self-sufficient in food-grains and allied commodities. Food supplies rose from 53.8 million tonnes in 1950-51 to 107.8 million tonnes in 1970-71. During the same period cereals production increased from 47.4 to 87.8 million tonnes while rice production rose from 20.5 to 40.4 million tonnes. Oilseeds production increased from 5.16 to 9.19 million tonnes. The production of commercial crops also rose by more than 70 per cent in this period.

Since independence, the total irrigated area in the country far increased from 22.8 million hectares to 37.5 million hectares.

In the following article in Indian and Foreign Review, Gurilal Jain looks at some of the problems facing India today.

The tasks ahead for the next 20 or 30 years are not very different from what India has been trying to achieve in the first 25 years of independence — to strengthen its political institutions, ensure political stability, build a strong economy, assure social justice for about 130 million people who are economically depressed, provide gainful employment to millions of young men who enter the labor market year after year, reduce disparities, control the growth of population, and integrate different religious and linguistic groups with the broad national mainstream without denial of violence to their distinct personalities.

These goals are obviously not fully consistent with each other. Any meaningful attempt to reduce disparities must, for instance, involve curbs not only on big business houses but also in course of time on medium industrial enterprises and traders with the inevitable risk of slowing down the tempo of economic activities.

The introduction of new technology by definition accentuates rather than decreases social disparities because those sections of society which are already privileged by virtue of superior education and resources can more likely to take advantages of the opportunities it creates.

This is the experience of all countries with the exception of China where Chairman Mao Tsetung has been trying to combine technological advance with spartan egalitarianism. But the battle seems hopeless because it is reasonably certain that not many Chinese leaders and bureaucrats appear to share his utopianism.

In the case of India, as in that of most other developing countries, the difficulty of combining economic advance with social justice is aggravated because society as a whole is only gradually emerging from hundreds of years of stagnation — this is a relative concept and not an absolute one — and any attempt to shackle its most enterprising section can promote serious debilitating consequences. Also, the bureaucracy is neither sufficiently socially-conscious nor competent to handle efficiently the task of administering a welfare state even if resources can somehow be found.

Similarly, it is not easy to reconcile the need for political stability with the growth of political consciousness. On the one hand, it is the latter which can create acute tensions in the country's social fabric, as frustration and the revolution of rising expectations. The rapid spread of modern education which, on the one hand, eroded the hold of religion and other old social institutions and, on the other, creates a vast army of ill-qualified men and women who are as often unemployable as they are unemployed, complicates the job of responsible political leadership as well as of the managers of the economy.

Needless to add that pronunciation of unity amidst the kind of diversity that prevails in India is not so easy. It is indeed no exaggeration to say that not a single society in human history has successfully tackled or even attempted a task of this magnitude. On the contrary most communities faced with the problem of sizable racial, religious, linguistic and cultural minorities have sought either to eliminate and expel them or assimilate them so as to blur, if not obliterate, their distinctive identities. In cases where either of these "solutions" has not been available, they have either tended to split (Austro-Hungarian empire), to practise segregation (South Africa) or maintain an uneasy form of co-existence (the United States). India may not be unique inasmuch as other societies, too, face similar problems. But the scale in our case is frightening.

But however contradictory the tasks, they have to be tackled more or less simultaneously. There is no escape from them for the simple reason that the edifice we are seeking to build can be seriously weakened if we neglect for long any one of the problems confronting us.

Wealthy Lebanon—'Switzerland' of Arab World

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst

Tiny Lebanon, about equal in territory and population to Israel before the 1967 Six Day War, sent into the news only when that latter country raids Lebanese border towns to mop up Palestinian guerrilla units.

This is too bad, since Lebanon has a dynamic of its own — namely a small but workable melting pot of Christian and Arab communities in the Middle East. Mix in the facts that Beirut, its capital, is the major educational centre of the Islamic world as well as its largest banking and international airline centre and this says much for the important role of Lebanon in the world.

Unfortunately, little of this receives any press at all. For example, the constitution of the Republic of Lebanon says the President must always be a Christian (of the Maronite persuasion), the Premier a Sunni Moslem (more-or-less liberal), and the Speaker of the elected Chamber of Deputies a Shia Moslem, (conservative).

In terms of bank holdings and international banking, business, Beirut is the wealthiest city in the entire Middle East—even the Soviet state bank having a large branch in that city. From successful Lebanese banks and businessmen flows a good deal of risk capital into the country.

In the Metropolitan Toronto area, Lebanese funds are invested in real estate and high rises in Scarborough and Etobicoke. How much only the Lebanese banks know. And like their Swiss counterparts, since Lebanon is in many ways the Switzerland of the Arab world, they won't tell.

Although Cairo claims the world's oldest university, currently dominated by theocratic Islamic views of education and by Egyptian nationalism, the American University in Beirut, financed in part by world Protestant churches, the Jesuit University College and the Lebanese state-run university, are world-renowned centres of Arab and international learning.

If you recall your Lawrence of Arabia, the dream of the Arabs after centuries of Turkish rule was restoration of the great Arab kingdom, to be ruled after the Second World War from Damascus when the Western Allies would recreate an Arab nation under Sherifian Ismail.

One of the glories of the Arab past was complete religious harmony, since the former Turkish provinces which embraced the modern Lebanon, included all Christian communities from the time of the Crusades and even older Jewish ones were ruled by Arabs from Damascus.

Lebanon emerged like Syria only in 1944 a quarter century after the cynical, post-1918 division of the Middle East into British and French colonial mandates.

But that sense of tolerance which permitted refuge even to Palestinian guerrillas, has played havoc with Lebanon. A pro-participant in the six Day War against Israel, she has been compelled nevertheless to be harsh with her Jewish minority.

And now Israel's raids into her border towns may force her to seek help Palestinian guerrillas packing as well.

Unemployment Insurance Costs Are Mounting

Brockville Recorder and Times

Prime Minister Trudeau's government finds itself in a position corresponding, in many ways, to that of the Diefenbaker government in 1962-63 when the Liberals were able to make election hay out of the devaluation of the dollar, the mess in the Unemployment Insurance fund and high unemployment.

As happened in the Diefenbaker era, the Liberals find themselves on the hot of "Unemployment", "Just-A-Buck" of the Bank of The Just Society has hit the headlines in the unenviable reclaim of the government's monetary policies. Remember the Diefenbuck?

Last week the government started taking it on the chin as the Conservatives "launched a concerted attack on the unemployment Insurance cost, with Paul Hellyer, former Liberal cabinet minister and now a Tory candidate, calling for the impeachment of the whole cabinet for what he termed deception in filling the real cost of the unemployment insurance program. He claimed the real cost would amount to $1bn in taxes for every working Canadian. He said it was impossible to find out the cost or the exact number of unemployed, although he had been trying for six months to get the information from the government.

In the same vein as the "Just-A-Buck" is a play on statistics aimed at discrediting the abuse of fund. It deals with the number of people left working when certain categories are deducted. The figures aren't exact but they illustrate a point by noting that the population of Canada is 22 million but there are seven million over 65 years of age, leaving 15 million to do the work. People under 21 total 10 million, leaving five million to do the work. Two million government employees leave three million to do the work. Five hundred thousand in or working for the armed forces leave 2.500,000 to do the work. Deduct 1,250,000 municipal employees and that leaves 1,250,000 to do the work. There are 250,000 people in hospital and nursing homes, leaving 1,000,000 to do the work. But 700,000 of these are unemployed, so that leaves only 300,000 people to do the work for 18,000 people are in part of the country at any given time and 18,000 are in jail and so down to zero.

No doubt this story and others such as the ones told by Mr. Hellyer when he cited the case of a man who made $43,300 at his seasonal job, vacationed in Mexico with his wife, and collected unemployment insurance benefits when he and his family returned. These people, he noted, were not breaking the law as it exists. But he felt it was over that the law was stupid and with that we'd agree. The Liberals are vulnerable on this point.

Today In History

Oct. 11, 1972 .....

A brilliant new chapter in the annals of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police was added 30 years ago today—in 1942—when the police schooner St. Roch arrived in Halifax after the first westto-east traverse of Arctic Northwest Passage. One of the eight-man crew died of a heart attack as the schooner wintered in the ice less than 30 miles from the magnetic pole. The St. Roch had sailed from Vancouver in the summer of 1940.

1939—Canadian films cut $150-million from the United States for small travel guests.

1949—Donald Gordon, wartime prices board head, was appointed president of Canadian National Railways.

1942—Japanese troops made fresh landings in the Solomon Islands.

1934—Canadian Finance Minister Rhodes announced the cutting of the bank interest rate to two per cent.

1911—Ontario's publicly-owned Hydro-Electric Power Commission inaugurated its first power transmission.

Television Violence

Cornwall Standard - Freeholder

We were hoping that the new television season would bring a reduction in the amount of violence being piped into our living rooms under the guise of entertainment. But a preliminary view of the latest offerings holds no such hope.

Have you ever watched a display of television violence or sadism and wondered at its effect on small children, even teenagers or unstable adults? Have you thought about it in the context of the increasing violence evident in society?

When some heinous crime is committed have you ever asked yourself whether the perpetrator had really come up with the idea himself . . . or whether he was simply refining or improving upon some criminal technique he learned about on a TV show?

It would be ironic if this approach by the Conservatives proved successful. It would be a case of history repeating itself but with the roles of the two senior political parties reversed.

Energy Crisis Brings Research

The growing energy crisis in the United States has prompted a scientific search for new means to obtain energy.

BY FRANK CAREY
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before the century ends, the process that gives the Hebrews its big bang may be harnessed to produce electricity. Coal, now a frequent cause of pollution, may be a major source of clean natural gas. Uranium supplies may last for hundreds of years.

These are among possibilities being assessed by scientists under White House orders to come up with ways of easing the energy crisis in the U.S.

Some proposals, using so-called unconventional sources of energy such as the winds, the tides and tropical currents, may not be practical until the 21st century. Other, more conventional possibilities — from coal gasification to controlled thermonuclear reactions — are under immediate consideration.

The dimensions of the energy crisis are clear. For example, demand for electricity doubles each decade, but supplies of gas and oil that today furnish 75 per cent of the energy used in the U.S. are running out. Estimates are that current domestic supplies of natural gas will be exhausted in the 1990s.

One objective is to permit plants to continue using high-sulphur coals, the most abundant type of coal, but currently the least acceptable environmentally.

Dr. Richard Balsbiser, assistant director of the White House Office of Science and Technology, said that progress is being made on techniques "to clean sweep the sulphur from the coal before you burn it, or to use advanced combustion systems, such as so-called fluidized beds wherein you have a material that reacts with the sulphur as you burn the coal, thus yielding sulphur-free hot gases for making steam."

Over-all, work will be used to generate electricity.

"Hopefully," he said in an interview, "these clean-up and advanced combustion techniques will begin to become available before the end of this decade."

Administration scientists recently have given priority to research on controlled thermonuclear reaction, the quest to harness the hydrogen fusion process that controls for the H-bomb's explosion.

If perfected, as now appears probable, reactors using this process could literally generate a power forever because the virtually limitless hydrogen from the world's oceans would be the fuel.

Balsbiser said the hope exists that the technical feasibility of at least one type of fusion reactor can be demonstrated by 1982, but he adds that any significant commercialization of such devices "is not envisioned before the year 2000."

Asked about the energy prospects in the years immediately ahead Balsbiser said:

"By and large, the energy problems of the next five years are going to have to be taken care of by the technologies of the past."

This will involve, he indicated, conserving coal, gas and petroleum supplies wherever possible while seeking additional resources, such as through offshore drilling for oil and gas.

Sixtynine Women in Race

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

When Canadian women were first able to use their franchise in the election campaign of 1921, three of them ran as candidates. Now a record 69 women have been nominated to contest the Oct. 30 federal election.

Only Agnes Macphail, a 31-year-old schoolteacher, made it to the House of Commons in that campaign 51 years ago as a representative of the United Farmers of Ontario in the old riding of Grey South-East.

At the close of nominations Tuesday women from every province but Prince Edward Island and the Yukon and Northwest Territories had filed papers to emulate the 1921 pioneers.

The previous record was 43 women nominated in 1963. Thirty four entered the 1968 campaign and 37 were in the 1969 race.

Here is a breakdown by parties of the 1972 women candidates: Liberal 30; Conservative 5; New Democratic Party 26; Social Credit 7; Independent or undesignated 2.

Of the Independents or undesignated candidates at least 11 were supporters of the Communist party or Marxist-Leninist groups.

One of the undesignated women candidates gave an unusual situation in the Nova Scotia riding of Halifax-East Hants. She was held in Nova Scotia on remission day.

Barbara Biley had filed her papers Oct. 2 until three days later was arrested on an Ontario Supreme Court order of contempt. She was taken to Don Jail to serve up a seven-nine-month sentence for obstructing police, a charge said to have arisen from a scuffle during a police raid on a Toronto Marxist-Leninist book store.

In the Quebec riding, Martha Adams, 42, is running as an independent in St. Hyacinthe where Claude Wagner, the Conservative campaign leader in the province, is seeking his first Commons seat. Mrs. Adams, whose platform call for legalization of prostitution, faces a court hearing next month on a charge of living off the avails of prostitution.

Another prominent woman candidate in Ontario is Pauline Jewett, NDP candidate in Ottawa East. A professor of political science now on sabbatical from Carleton University, she once held the Ottawa-Carleton seat for the Liberals but became disillusioned with the old-line parties and went over to the NDP.

In the Prairie provinces, Peggy Thatcher, wife of the late Ross Thatcher, Liberal premier of Saskatchewan for seven years, is running as a Liberal in Regina East.

Una Evans, 46, Edmonton alderman and mother of three, is running on the Liberal ticket in Edmonton East. She is wife of Edmonton Journal columnist Art Evans who ran unsuccessfully in a Calgary riding in the 1957 federal election.

Grace MacInnis, 67, is seeking re-election as NDP candidate in Vancouver Kingsway which she has held since 1965. She is daughter of J. S. Woodsworth, one of the pioneers of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation which gave way to the NDP.

Vancouver Quadra has as Social Credit candidate 53-year-old Edith Garner, a former personal consultant who is active in community affairs and has special interest in family relations and legislation concerning women's rights in marriage. Her son, Fares, 26, is running for the same party in Vancouver Kingsway.

Separatism Concern 'Only to Quebec'

LA POCATIERE, Que. (CP) — Quebec's independence concerns only Quebecers and not other Canadians, Social Credit Leader Real Caouette said Tuesday.

Mr. Caouette told a packed auditorium of 600 students at a junior college in this community 70 miles of Quebec City that he would give his "blessing" to independence if a separatist party won the support of the majority of voters.

However, he said he remains strongly opposed to separation, adding that any province wishing to separate should hold a referendum on the question first.

A Social Credit government in any province moves economy and freedom so that separation no longer would think of independence, Mr. Caouette said.

His party would replace present welfare programs with a guaranteed economic and social security, guaranteeing every Canadian 18-years of age and over an annual income of $1,200.

Mr. Caouette said a minority federal government generally administers the country better than a majority government and does a better job of controlling unemployment.

Quit in Protest

VALENCIA, Spain (AP) — The rector and entire governing board of the University of Valencia have quit apparently in protest the government's dismissal of eight professors. The administrative crisis comes at a time when Spain has been cracking down on university activities and follows disturbances early this year that virtually closed the University of Madrid.

Faints, Stabbed

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuter) — Policeman J. P. Van Wyk was seriously injured when he fainted and fell on his bayonet during a ceremony Tuesday to mark South Africa's national Khager Day.

Housing Empty

Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. statistics show a 20-per-cent greater availability of new housing accommodation this year than in 1971. At the end of August, there were 35,055 newly-completed but unoccupied houses and apartments, compared with 12,546 at the end of August last year. All of the increase is in new apartments and row-housing, up nearly 33 per cent. There was a five-per-cent reduction in new single, or in-detached and duplex houses. The figures apply to new unoccupied dwellings in metropolitan and large urban areas only.

Mall Planned

ORILLIA (CP) — Plans for a seven-storey, 59 million, block-wide shopping mall in the heart of Orillia were unveiled Tuesday by Mayor David Brown and Royce Martin, president of Transway Developments Hu-ronia Ltd. Mr. Martin said he hopes the building will incorporate low-rental apartments and the community centre for senior citizens, Mayor Brown said the city will approach higher governments for assistance. A large part of the block was destroyed by fire last year.

Centre Rink

TORONTO (CP) — The borough of North York approved a grant of $3,009 Tuesday to help finance construction of a natural ice skating rink in front of the Ontario Science Centre. The centre will convert its pool and pond area for the rink, provide skate rentals, and add restroom facilities while the borough will provide supervisory staff and snow clearing. The rink will begin operations after Christmas.

Reward Offered

WINDSOR (CP) — The Windsor Construction Association Tuesday offered a $2,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of William Ferguson, one of six persons charged with robbing a Windsor bank of $13,000 last December. Ferguson, 48, of Montreal, has not been seen for more than a week. Special prosecutor Bruce Affleck of Ontario County told the court that an application has been started to confiscate the $13,000 bail posted for Ferguson.

Bailed Out

MONTREAL (CP) — Richard Bizier, who returned from exile in France last weekend, was finally released Tuesday on charges of jumping bail and creating a disturbance. He was fined $50 on each charge but was given $400 of the original $500 he posted as bail four years ago after being charged with participating in a riot during the St. Jean Baptiste Day festivities in 1963. Bizier said last week he would rather spend a few months in Quebec jail than continue living in France.

Holden Held

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — William Holden, 19, object of an Ontario-wide police search a week ago after a woman and her baby were killed here, was remanded until Monday on two charges of non-capital murder in provincial court Tuesday. Holden is charged in connection with the strangulation death of Caterina DiCocan, 22, and the killing of her 10-month-old son Rocco in their home Sept. 30. The woman's husband, Severin, was shot in the head while he arrived home from work and tackled an intruder. Holden also is charged with attempting to murder him.

Bretons Freed

PARIS (Reuter) — The trial of 11 Breton separatists on bombing charges, which started an uproar a week ago before the state security court, ended in rejoicing and applause Tuesday with the defendants either being acquitted or receiving suspended sentences. All had been charged with organizing bomb attacks in Finance's northwest province of Brittany. The trial opened in uproar a week ago when one of the accused, Dr. Yves Gourves, insisted on speaking Breton to the judge and fought five guards ordered to remove him.

Grain in Danger

At least 230 millions in wheat and barley remains unharvested in the Peace River country of northern Alberta, hard hit by recent snowstorms, L. A. Malmberg, economic analyst with the Alberta wheat pool, said Tuesday. "The situation is fairly serious," Mr. Malmberg said in an interview after a Thanksgiving weekend storm left up to six inches of snow. Farmers were waiting for 1,807 federal election.

Strike Possible

Employees of the Chateau Laurier hotel in Ottawa voted Tuesday about 95 per cent in favor of strike action. The 270 employees are represented by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport, and General Workers and include firedesmen, cooks, maids, and other staff. No date has been set for a strike, but the union could legally walk out today.

Saw Snowman

KATMANDU, Nepal (Reuter) — Tadahi Shahashi, leader of a Japanese expedition on the Himalayan mountain of Puha Hiunchuli, has reported seeing a yeti, the abominable snowman. A letter written from the team's base camp Sept. 26 was received here Tuesday. Last reported sighting was in March, 1970, by British climber Don Whillans. The creatures existence is still to be proved.

Negative Tax

LONDON (AP) — The British government called Tuesday for the adoption of a negative income tax plan that would increase state benefits to millions of old-age pensioners and other low-income families. The program, called an income tax credit scheme, would also simplify state welfare benefits, reduce bureaucratic red tape and eliminate embarrassment it means, the government said in a paper for public discussion.

RCMP Honored

REGINA (CP) — A promotional slogan is to appear again on Saskatchewan motor vehicle licence plates. The 1973 plates will bear the words Homes of the RCMP, breaking with a practice of several years in which only the province's plates devoid of anything but the plate number, province and year.

Accord Signed

TOKYO (AP) — West Germany and China signed an agreement in Peking today to establish diplomatic relations, Peking's official Hsinhua news agency reported. A signing ceremony came a day after the arrival in the Chinese capital of West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel.

Ginzberg Freed

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Publisher Ralph Ginzburg was paroled from a federal prison farm Tuesday after serving eight months of a three-year term for dispensing pornography. The 43-year-old New Yorker vowed he would be "vindicated." The charges resulted from the 1963 third edition of Eros, which featured a photo essay of a nude black man and white woman. Ginzburg said he will not try to review Eros but plans other publications.

Deny Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — An appeal designed to sanction homosexual marriages was rejected by the United States Supreme Court Tuesday "for want of a substantial federal question." The case was brought by the Minnesota Civil Liberties Union for two homosexuals, Jack Baker and James McConnell. Their request for a licence was turned down in 1970 by the Minneapolis County clerk but last year they obtained a licence in Blue Earth County and were married by a United Methodist minister.

Skips Rally

TAIPEI, Taiwan (Reuter) — President Chiang Kai-shek did not make his customary appearance at a mass rally celebrating Nationalist China's 61st anniversary here Tuesday, raising new speculation about his health. The generalissimo, who will be 86 at the end of the month, has not been seen in public since May. Nationalist China said the president was recuperating from a "slight indisposition."

Successful Living

Believes Marriage at 16 Is Okay

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I read your letter to the parents of a 16-year-old daughter who is pregnant and will be married in two months. I disagree with your answer. Why can't a 16-year-old girl be married? If nature allows her to have a child and if the boy, the father of the child, is willing to marry the girl and be a father, why, disapprove them?

It is the greatest gift of a woman to be a mother. If that girl will give away her child for adoption she will all her life regret it and her conscience will always bother her and give her no peace.

And what will a girl do when she has no husband and finds out about sex? She will run around and try to find out to satisfy her sexual feelings.

Parents should help out as much as possible financially and have more confidence by having a married daughter with a sweet grandchild than a miserable unhappy girl. — M.M.

Dear M.M.: My main reason: Statistical studies have shown that a girl who is made at age 18 has one chance in six of successful marriage. Odds are just not good enough for me to go all out for cooperating with nature by approving of letting an immature boy and girl get to the altar.

Adoption does not necessarily mean guilt feelings for life on the part of the unwed mother. We have cases a-plenty to prove it. It depends largely on how it is handled, and it more often means a chance for a schooling and a complete her education; and for an innocent babe to be welcomed with open arms by mature parents.

Dear Doris: I couldn't help thinking as I read the letter from Worried Sick, how closely this followed my problem 10 years ago. My child had trouble spelling and reading. I was told she would have to repeat the grade. Examinations by two eye specialists showed perfect vision.

The specialist suggested it was the way reading and spelling were taught. Some children are able to learn by just seeing the word, but others must learn by the sounds. Helping her learn her sounds, which was the old-fashioned way of teaching, took time.

This year was graduation and the marks that were obtained would have enabled her to attend university if this had been her choice. — Always Parent.

Dear Parent: I dearly love a happy ending!

Perhaps your suggestion will be the one that Worried Sick needs. I am inclined to agree that while sounding out words may take longer, it is the surer way of learning to read and write a language. And there are cracker-jack teachers who agree with me.

Dear Doris: Thank you for sending me your list of available poems. I have indicated the ones I would like.

In exchange, I am sending you one I have always liked. It is called "If You Think You Can". — Just Pat.

Dear Pat: Appreciate your sharing it. The philosophy of your six-verse poem is summed up in the last two lines: "Sooner or later the man who wins Is the finest one who thinks he can."

Readers: If there is general interest in this poem we will have copies made available to anyone writing in, enclosing 20 cents and an eight-inch self - addressed envelope.)

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Must the best jobs have 'glamor'?

NO; some of the "low-profile" jobs have a far greater yield in personal satisfaction though they fail to match the money and the show of success in the "glamor" jobs. Take a library job: All day long, a librarian greets countless questioners seeking information. She is locked in volumes on the shelves. Watch a woman librarian track down and come up with a wanted fact. She couldn't be happier if she were accepting an Oscar for acting.

Does a true look for laughter?

NO; as life has it he or she is, a tiny child is looking for approval. A baby girl, say, soon learns that smiles and laughter are "friendly" emotions. The smiling face looks the same as Mommy's when Mother happily administers to Baby's needs. If the girl does something that brings on laughter, she knows she is being accepted. Yet when she quickly-locked white enamel bathroom door is opened by friendly; and when it is meant to ridicule her or to signify adult smugness.

Can a man duck away from love?

YES; but generally if he only unconsciously wants to flee from any involvement with love. Consciously, he may put on a good act and proudly tell people he is shy away from love; if he unconsciously wants it, though he is a goner. On the other hand, if he consciously wants to catapult from love love he craves, he may be emotionally deficient and he will unconsciously create a pattern of obstacles that will block him off from the love he ostentatiously seeks.

Writing About Crime Is Rewarding Work

HALIFAX (CP) — Perhaps crime doesn't pay. But writing about it is rewarding work for Mrs. Bowen Judd, who turns out mysteries here in the quiet of a tree-shrouded cottage set back from the water on the Northwest Arm.

Under the pen name Sara Woods, she keeps her fans supplied with suspense exploits from the annals of her barrister hero, Sir Nicholas Fielding, and his partner Anthony Maitland.

Mrs. Judd, a tall, grey-haired, middle-aged Englishwoman, is on her 21st book now. You won't find her novels on every news-stand with the Ian Fleming or Agatha Christie Simenons, but most local libraries have at least a few. About 9,000 copies a year each are sold in Britain; the U.S. market is nearly as good.

The books are all set in England. At the heart of each is the British legal system, almost a life-long interest for their Yorkshire-born author.

Mrs. Judd spoke freely about her work.

"I was writing plays and things when I was about nine. When I was 15 I studied to write a serious novel and got bogged down in the love interest. I thought crime might be easier."

The daughter of a Bradford wool merchant, Mrs. Judd acquired her fascination with the law from her eldest brother, a solicitor who died in the Second World War. Her contagious enthusiasm led her to read law as a hobby and to work in a law office.

"Quirks of the law are my main interest," she said in an interview, and her books contain terms like "embracery," which despite its sound has nothing to do with making love.

"I think we've got a pretty good legal system in England," Mrs. Judd said with a trace of pride.

"It's absolutely ready-made for a mystery writer. You don't have to strain to get the situations. You can graft any number of plots onto the barristers' chambers."

She has walked around the law courts in London to pick up atmosphere, but her first books were written before she had visited a courtroom. She finished five manuscripts before any saw print; Collins Crime Club published one and then decided to take the rest.

Mrs. Judd's career as a novelist began years ago before she came here with her husband in 1958. At times, she has managed to fit it in around other jobs.

From 1946 to 1954, the Judds ran a pig farm in the north of England, a phase that provided some of the background for The Love Nest Felon, published by Macmillan in June.

After settling in Canada, Mrs. Judd worked for six years as registrar at St. Mary's University here, writing at the same time.

"I don't know how I ever did it," she exclaimed, and she is delighted to be a novelist full-time.

"I'm one of the few people doing just what I want to do and doing it in pleasant surroundings."

However, she was quick to dispel any illusions about writing as a soft life.

"Don't let anyone ever tell you it isn't hard work," she said.

A routine is essential:

"I try to keep office hours. If you're not systematic you get nothing done at all. I may be stuck for hours, and then the only thing to do is work anyway. The problem often solves itself."

Mrs. Judd admitted she never works out plots in advance.

"I think you'd have to be very clever to do that. I work more from character than plot.

"The characters dig in their toes and say I couldn't do that, I couldn't use that.' Things happen because they have to happen."

She mentioned Jane Austen and P. G. Wodehouse as the main influences on her style.

Mrs. Judd disclaims any desire to moralize in her books.

"I'm mainly concerned with trying to be entertaining"—but she admits that some moral ideas are embodied in the characters.

—Mr. Judd is an electronics engineer with a firm in neighboring Dartmouth. His wife said he is not only "thrilled to pieces" with her writing success; he even helps with the plots from time to time.

"He's particularly good at methods of murdering people."

"Most of the letters I've had have been from men," Mrs. Judd remarked.

"I've even had some from judges."

It is a tribute to the keenness of her legal insight that no one—not even a judge—has yet caught her out on a point of law.

Ann Landers

Reader Suggests 'Live For Someone Else'

Dear Ann Landers: This letter is for all the people who are thinking of killing themselves or have already tried and failed.

I am sick of reading about you. I don't care how wretched your life is or how miserable you feel. If you have no interest in living for yourself, then live for somebody else.

Live for the people who loved life and died too young. Live for the men who died in a senseless war 10,000 miles from home in some damned rice paddy. Live for those 58,000 who were killed in highway accidents. Every one of them would like to be alive today.

I once thought of suicide because I had a crushing disappointment. It was sure life wasn't worth living. After some serious soul searching I decided I had no right to kill myself. I didn't give myself life and I had no right to put an end to it. So I flushed the 50 sleeping pills down the toilet and went to work teaching retarded children. I will never think of suicide as an easy way out. And I now know what I'm here for. — Teed Off in Memphis

Dear Ann Landers: Since investigations seem to be in vogue these days, I wish someone would take a look at what is happening to government boards like these days. Thousands of dollars are squandered by persons named who are padding themselves with red hot clarinet trains. For example:

Three years ago a married physician started to flirt with an unmarried nurse in her 30s. Everyone in the hostal knew what was going on. The nurse was rewarded by receiving three promotions in the last two years. The physician now is one of the top mucky-mucks. The government pays these two

Fashion Group to Hold Seminar for Students

The Fashion Group Career Seminar, an annual event sponsored by the Fashion Group Inc., of Toronto is to be held in the Crystal Ballroom of the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on Wednesday October, 25.

This is the only program of its kind arranged especially for students by fashion professionals and will give them a chance to see and hear top notch-professionals in the field of fashion.

The fashion group is a world-wide non - commercial association of women engaged in fashion works formed to advance the principles of applied art in industry and to foster good taste in fashion. While it is an organization of women, men are most welcome to attend the seminar. Cost of pre - registration (until Oct., 12) is $7.50. After Oct., 18, (registration at the door) is $9. These fees cover not only the seminar itself but morning coffee and doughnuts and a hot lunch.

One of the highlights of this year's seminar is an essay contest. Both students and on-the-job trainees are invited to submit an article of up to 2500 words on any subject relating to fashion. Judging will be based on presentation and knowledge of subject. Entries must accompany or follow registration, and will be accepted until October 12.

In the morning various professionals in the field will speak on the theme of this year's event, "Today's Wide Vision: Fashion is Everywhere. Fashion in Everything". A fast pace Fashion show will be presented with coordinator and emcee Marie Parker.

The afternoon session will be devoted to student participation, including announcement and discussion of award winning essays and presentation of awards.

For registration or further information regarding the seminar or essay contest one may contact Miss Sara Woodoch at 485 7506 or Mrs. Brown at 483-2727.

Social And Personal

Miss JoAnne Primeau a former resident of Belleville has now returned to the city. She has been a resident in Red Deer and Edmonton, Alberta and previous to that resided in Europe for five years.

Golfers Enjoy Party

Inclement weekend weather and a subsequent wet course forced cancellation of Saturday's Hard Times Tourney at the Bay of Quinte Country Club.

The contestant's spirits, however, were not in the least dampened and the barbecue and dance scheduled to follow the golf, turned out to be a tremendous success.

Couples arriving in the late afternoon were greeted by the smell of barbecuing burgers and fresh corn on the cob boiling in the pot.

The Clubroom was decorated for the event in a harvest theme and a roaring fire in the fireplace added to the decor as all and sundry feasted and danced until midnight.

The next event at the Club will be the Closing Harvest Ball on Saturday, Oct. 14.

Vardy — Denike

The double ring wedding ceremony was performed in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville when Donna Jeannette Denike, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Denike of Belleville was united in marriage to Paul Allen Vardy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Vardy, also of Belleville. Rev. J. C. Kellogg minister of the church officiated and wedding music was rendered by organist John Hutchinson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a full length empire styled gown of satin peau featuring a fitted bodice with long full sleeves and highlighted with small set-in rosettes and a long detachable train accented the back of the gown. A four-tier nylon shoulder length veil was caught to a headdress of small cultured pearls and she carried a bouquet of red roses interspersed with baby's breath.

Miss Karen Skene of Ottawa as maid of honor wore a floor length empire styled gown in two shades of green featuring a deep green velvet bodice with the skirt and sleeves a pale green chiffon. This was further accented with heavy embroidered daisy trim around the cuffs and wedding ring collar. She carried a single yellow commercial 'mums with miniature yellow 'mums in her hair.

Bridesmaids Miss Pat Vardy, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Jenny Jessup, cousin of the bride and Miss Kathy Empey were identically attired in the maid of honor, but in two shades of blue. Flower girl Miss Sherry Smith was also dressed identically to the maid of honor, but carried a nosegay of red sweetheart roses and yellow 'mums.

Paul Hall attended the bridegroom, while the ushers were Cecil Cantwyers, Ron Denike, brother of the bride, and Barton Vardy, cousin of the bridegroom. Ring bearer was Peter-John Jessup, cousin of the bridegroom.

At the wedding reception in the Royal Canadian Legion hall, the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a floor length gown in aqua blue summer crepe enhanced with lace top and complimented with silver accessories, a corsage of pink sweetheart roses and miniature roses in her hair. Assisting, the bridegroom's mother chose a royal blue floor length gown trimmed with crochet flowers with black accessories and a corsage of yellow sweetheart roses. Glen Denike was master of ceremonies at the reception. For the wedding trip to Ottawa, Quebec and points east, the bride donned a royal blue corduroy pantsuit with white blouse, black accessories and a corsage of red and white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Vardy will reside at 277 John Street, Belleville.

Hicks — Scanlan

Right Rev. J. A. Carley performed the double ring wedding ceremony in St. Joseph's Catholic Church when Elizabeth Rose Scanlan exchanged vows with David Lloyd Hicks. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Scanlan of Belleville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallis Hicks of Shannonville. Organist during the ceremony was Sister Mary Avila.

The bride given in marriage by her father selected a floor length silk wedding gown with a Swiss dot overlay. The long full sleeves were accented by deep cuffs while a ruffled Madeira lace neckline completed her gown. A shoulder length bouffant veil fell from her floral banded headpiece. The bride carried a cascade of eternal orange roses.

Miss Margot Scanlan, sister of the bride, as the maid of honor was attired in a harvest gold chiffon floor length gown. Puffed sleeves and a velvet bow attached at the back highlighted her gown. Her headpiece was of tiny gold chiffon flowers. The bridesmaids, Miss Judy Sarge of Shannonville and Miss Joanne Fahey of Belleville were dressed identically to the maid of honor.

Miss Carolyn Scanlan, sister of the bride, as the flower girl wore a long dress of harvest gold with a white Swiss dot overlay and puffed sleeves.

Mr. Joe Scanlan, brother of the bride was the best man. Ushers were Mr. Bernard Coughlin and Mr. Terry Scanlan, brother of the bride.

For the reception which was held at The Oddfellows Hall, the bride's mother received guests wearing a shell pink corsage of pink tinted carnations accented her dress.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a blue jersey knit dress highlighted by a floral background. Her dress was complemented by blue accessories and a blue tinted carnation corsage.

For the wedding trip to New Brunswick and USA, the bride donned a red jersey knit dress featuring a black and white collar and cuffs. Black accessories with a white carnation corsage completed her dress.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Hicks will reside at RR 1 Shannonville.

St. Julien Chapter Entertains Guests

The regular monthly meeting of St. Julien Chapter, IODE, was held Tuesday evening, October 3, at the Kiwanis Centre. The regent, Mrs. C. Lenk, presided and extended a special welcome to guests for the evening, Miss Rosa Savy, Provincial councillor, and Miss Gena Spry, both of Stirling, Mrs. Mary Good of Toronto and Mrs. T. N. M. Bayne of this city.

Those unable to attend the district dinner at Marmora on September 28, Mrs. Lenk mentioned the highlights of the enjoyable evening and the main points of Mrs. E. F. MacKay's speech. The suggested amount of $3 was unanimously voted to the National Chapter toward the IODE float for the Grey Cup parade. The change of date of the Quinte Mall charity bazaar to Nov. 3 and 4 was greeted enthusiastically. Mrs. R. Ellis will convene this project and many volunteered assistance in telephoning, collecting and manning the tables for the sale of rummage and Christmas Tree draw tickets on Saturday, November 4.

Correspondence included the Provincial Chapter newsletter and a thank you note from Mrs. T. Hammel for sympathy expressed on the death of her sister.

Mrs. R. Ellis reported she had posted the rules for the Provincial Chapter short story competition in the library and had informed the guidance departments of the secondary schools regarding the names of the two bursary winners as well as the change regarding the A. E. McColl bursary.

On behalf of the services convener, Mrs. C. W. Daff thanked the members who had brought beautifully knitted or sewn articles and personal property bags for the bale.

The sunshine draw was won by Mrs. G. Watkin.

The regent thanked Mrs. W. Gilbert, Mrs. G. Hunt, Mrs. M. Tischbein and Mrs G. Watkin, tea hostesses for the evening.

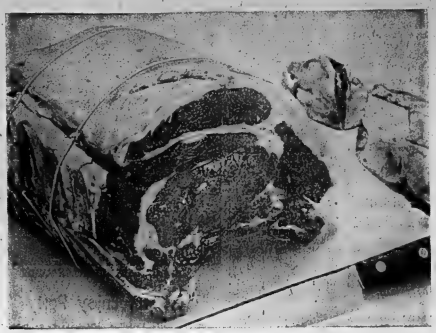
She also announced the arrival of guests for the social part of the evening — Mrs. J. B. Milroy, regent of Argyll Chapter, IODE, and Miss Ian Lumley and Miss Sonja Johnson, two South African exchange students who proceeded to show beautiful slides of their homeland and add points of interest and explanation to give a more complete understanding of life in South Africa.

Mrs. C. Lenk expressed the sincere appreciation of the Chapter to winsome speakers and invited further conversation as everyone enjoyed delicious refreshments.

Pupils Visit Apple Orchard

FRANKFORD — The combined primary classes of Miss Volezny and Miss Campbell, from Frankford Public School visited Brook's Apple Orchard in Glen Miller, recently.

Each child wrote a story about his trip and the best sentences from each story were taken and compiled into one descriptive story.



From all reports the children were most enthusiastic about their trip.

MEASURE UP!

Dominion Puts It All Together! Deep Discount Prices—Plus A Brand New Measure Of Meat Value!

We've taken Dominion's famous Red Brand Beef...naturally aged for maximum flavour, taste and tenderness...and we've added a brand new standard of performance that guarantees you top meat value when you shop Dominion.

Our standard of trim on all fresh cuts of beef is ONE-HALF INCH. Any less fat and you loose taste and cookability. Any more and you're probably paying too much.

YOU be the judge!

We set the new standard of meat excellence and we've backed it up with our written guarantee of performance, so you the shopper can measure meat value for yourself.

We can't speak for others but at Dominion, either we measure up to our long famous reputation for meat quality and trim...or we make it good...on the spot.

Take The "King" Of Roasts For Example.

A Dominion Prime Rib has long been regarded as "the King of roasts" and with good reason. Very few cuts offer as much total satisfaction. A Naturally aged Dominion Prime Rib...at Deep Discount Prices...is truly great meat value at any time. Now, let's take a look at the extra measure of value you get with Dominion's Guarantee of Performance...

EXAMPLE No. 3 (As Illustrated Above)

Dominion Prime Rib Roasts are a good example of what we mean by "performance". Our policy on "trim" is clear, simple and designed to save you money. Here's what to look for:

- Spinal cord and chine bone removed.
- Blade bone and back strap removed.
- All excess interior fat removed.
- Outside fat trim must not exceed one-half inch in any given area.
- 1st to 5th rib portion must not exceed 7 inches in length.
- 6th and 7th rib portion must not exceed 3 inches in length.

Our Guarantee of Performance

Dominion's high standard of "trim" on all regular cuts of beef is not more than ½-inch, for maximum flavour and taste. If at any time, our trim exceeds the desired ½-inch, in either pre-packaged self-serve cuts, or at the personal service counter, simply mention it to the butcher and he'll re-trim the cut on the spot, re-weigh it and re-package it for you.

Doctor Says Ethical Way To Practise Euthanasia

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuter) — A British doctor, admitting that she allowed 200 to 300 of her patients to die, outlined Tuesday the "natural, lawful and ethical way" of practising euthanasia.

"I myself have euthanased many people away" Dr. Maisie Beadnell, a former senior clinic at Queen Victoria Hospital here and secretary of the Victorian Humanist Society, said in an interview published in the Sydney Daily Telegraph.

Dr. Beadnell said that with terminal cancer victims, for instance, doctors simply increased the dosage of pain-killing drugs to a fatal level.

"Monster" babies born with hideous deformities, she said, were killed by doctors who failed to clear mucus from their breathing passages, or allowed them to catch cold.

"This is a natural, lawful and ethical way of providing an easy death," said Dr. Beadnell, adding that she had been responsible for allowing 200 to 300 of her own patients to die.

Dr. Beadnell, a widow in her 60s who still practises, said where there is no possibility of a cure and where the patient is suffering, "I regard it as stupid and wrong for a doctor to prolong life."

Olympic Funding

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says a leaked ministerial document reveals that the federal government earlier this year faced the question of whether to back the 1976 Montreal Olympic Games openly with substantial money or risk losing the Games and, in either case, risk losing political support.

The newspaper says there also was in existence at the time a draft cabinet document indicating the costs of the Games would be much higher than when the federal government took the original decision against open subsidization.

It quotes Robert Andreas, consumer affairs minister, as saying the matter was looked at and the earlier government policy reaffirmed—namely, that Montreal should have no federal money other than might be available to it under existing federal programs.

The memorandum of last Nov. 25 from a special assistant of Mr. Andras to that minister said that if the higher cost figures were correct a new strategic decision would be necessary.

The government could:

1. Take steps to counteract political pressures from Quebec for providing more money, and accept the risk of losing the Olympics.

2. Abandon the existing policy of what the assistant called covert funding and pick up a substantial part of the bill for the Olympics as such. This would carry the risk of significant political cost in the rest of the country.

"According to Mr. Andras," the Globe and Mail says, "the question was faced directly and the decision taken that the policy would remain as stated."

Police Request Political Stand On Punishment

TORONTO (CP) — Syd Brown of Toronto, president of the Canadian Police Association, said Tuesday all four major Canadian political parties have avoided discussion on issues which affect the safety of Canadian society.

Mr. Brown, following a board of governors meeting called specifically to deal with the Oct. 30 federal election, said the issues which must be discussed are the "strange" parole system, day and weekend passes for prisoners, the bail system, and immigration and deportation law.

The association has also asked all four leaders to indicate before Oct. 30 whether they will allow the Canadian public to determine once and for all the issue of the retention or abolishment of capital punishment by means of a public referendum.

"We think that these particular issues have equal importance with the issues of corporation welfare bums, massive unemployment and the strike on Unemployment Insurance Commission fund," said the president of the association, which has a 30,000-membership across Canada.

"As for day and weekend passes to attend universities, Bible classes or visits to the community, we feel it is a strange form of rehabilitation.

"If these people are considered a sufficient risk, then why are they in prison in the first place."

He said immigration and deportation laws are such that some persons are allowed to stay in Canada from five to eight years because of appeals.

Mr. Brown called for the resumption of capital punishment when the present five-year trial period of partial abolition expires this fall. He said the existing law calling for execution for the slaying of policemen and prison guards left these classes "in a poor light" since there have been commutations in all such convictions.

He said his association also urges that any premeditated murder resulting from child molestation, rape, air piracy, political assassination, treason, robbery and terrorist activities should be classed a capital murder.

"After all appeals have been exhausted, the end result should be execution," he said.

"Or if there is a mercy recommendation, the result should be true life in prison."

There should not be another "free vote" in the Commons on the issue, Mr. Brown said.

"There should be a public referendum—the people have the right to vote on retention or not—and we'll stand by that decision."

Teacher Granted Another Hearing

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A Sarnia teacher's application for a new hearing into his dismissal this year by the Lambton County board of education was granted Tuesday by the divisional court of the Supreme Court of Ontario.

Joseph Thompson had asked for a new board of reference because a member of the previous board had resigned.

Mr. Thompson's lawyer, Joseph Foreman of London, argued that the resignation required formation of a new board.

The three-man panel of Supreme Court judges hearing the application issued an order of prohibition against the original board of reference.

The original board of reference concluded one day's testimony last July before Mr. Foreman applied to have the hearing moved out of camera and into public.

The hearing had been held in camera as prescribed under the Schools Administration Act. However, Norvil Cheesman, Lambton director of education, had been allowed to sit in on some of the testimony. Mr. Cheesman had fired Mr. Thompson and had authority over other teachers and school officials who testified.

Chief Justice D. C. Wells, in delivering the ruling disbanding the previous board, described Mr. Cheesman's presence during that hearing was "most unjudicious" and said "all teachers who . . . testified did so under pressure of his presence."

Boards of reference are three-man tribunals set up to hear appeals by fired teachers. The minister of education appoints a chairman and the parties to the dispute appoint representatives.

The Lambton school board voted April 24 not to renew Mr. Thompson's contract when it expired Aug. 31. Among the reasons given were his failure to turn in examination papers to his principal before returning them to students and his habit of digressing from the course of studies to irrelevant topics.

Auto Workers Charge Sex Discrimination

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union said Tuesday it has filed separate charges against General Motors, Ford and Chrysler, accusing them of sex discrimination.

The UAW said the charges were filed with the equal employment opportunities commission under provisions of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The union accused each of the auto-makers of discriminating against female employees by providing sickness and accident benefits for disabilities related to pregnancy which are "not comparable to benefits available for other non-occupational disabilities."

UAW contracts with the auto companies now provide for up to 52 weeks of sick and accident benefits for disabilities, other than those caused by pregnancy.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock said the commission issued regulations effective March 31 last making it clear that contracts which fail to treat disabilities caused by pregnancy the same as other disabilities are discriminatory and illegal.

Diet Pills

OTTAWA (CP) — American recommendations that diet pills are "clinically trivial" and should be more stringently controlled are not necessary in Canada because all such pills now are on prescription, Dr. A. B. Morrison, assistant deputy minister, health protection branch, said Tuesday that Canada's restrictions, tightened a couple of years ago, were considerably stiffer than similar United States regulations.

UN Report Says South African Political Prisoners Tortured

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — A special UN committee reported Tuesday that the maltreatment and torture of political prisoners in South Africa has become "an essential feature" of apartheid policies in that country.

The report of the General Assembly's special committee on apartheid, traces developments in South Africa since 1963 and says that since then, there has been "a decade of inhumanity in which every a score of detainees have died during interrogation and thousands have been subjected-to physical and mental torture."

The 126-page report cites scores of names of prisoners who have been tortured by South African authorities but says these "represent a fraction of actual cases."

Debate on South Africa's apartheid, or racial separation, policies began this week in several of the assembly's main committees and the report provides fresh ammunition for black African countries which oppose the white minority government in Pretoria.

The Soviet Union attacked countries which continue to trade with South Africa during a speech Tuesday in the assembly's humanitarian committee, saying there was an "open conspiracy" being waged behind the backs of the black Africans by the forces of imperialism, racism and Zionism. The Soviet delegate also said that several countries, particularly NATO members, were using racism as "a reactionary and aggressive method of imperialism."

The special committee report says that although South Africa hopes that apartheid will intimidate the oppressed blacks, "in fact, by its policies and actions, the government is only creating a graver crisis in South Africa and beyond." It also accuses the government of shielding police officers who have been accused of assaults and torture.

"The conclusion is irrecapable that cruelty against opponents of apartheid is the application of a deliberate and centrally-directed policy, and that torture by the security police is condoned, if not actually encouraged, by the government," the committee says.

Describing the torture it says is carried out by South African police, the committee says many prisoners are often denied even one-hour of exercise a day or access to open air. It says the police "have frequently resorted not only to brutal assaults but to electric shock torture . . . and various other and more sophisticated methods of torture."

Allegations of similar forms of torture had been made from so many centres and involved so many local officers . . . that there is reason to believe that security-branch officers have been trained in these methods."

"Moreover, it appears from the evidence, that they have been experimenting with various refinements."

The report adds that black and white men have been maltreated and African women have been subjected to deliberate brutality. "There appeared to be "still some restraint with regard to white women."

In a particularly bitter reference to electric shock torture, the committee said allegations made by prisoners in Johannesburg, Pretoria and Cape Town were almost identical.

"They were handcuffed, told to sit in a squatting position and a stick was pushed between their knees and elbows. A plastic bag was pushed over their heads covering their eyes. Clips were then put over their thumbs, toes, temples and genitals and electric shocks were administered. Many of the victims fainted as a result."

The report, says police were believed to have used the methods of torture because it leaves no marks for the medically untrained."

It adds that shock torture has been used "only against Africans and Indians."

Two Deaths Accidental Crown Says

TORONTO (CP) — Maria Simone, 65, of Toronto, killed last March 18, was the innocent victim of a plot to destroy a supermarket, Crown attorney Frank Armstrong told an Ontario Supreme court jury Tuesday.

Mr. Armstrong, in opening the Crown's case, said Mrs. Simone was cleaning an office in a building here at the same time four men were scattering 10 gallons of gasoline about the adjoining supermarket.

Paolo Quaranta, 21, is charged with the non-capital murder of Mrs. Simone. She was killed when the gasoline evaporated too quickly and an explosion resulted, said Mr. Armstrong.

Quaranta pleaded not guilty.

The Crown attorney said the owners of the supermarket had plotted to destroy the building.

The explosion and fire destroyed a whole business block. Pietro Moretti, 21, was found dead under the rubble and Quaranta was trapped, he said. The other men left for Italy, he added.

The trial continues before Mr. Justice Donald Morand.

Precautions Inadequate In Drowning

ORILLIA (CP) — An inquest into the Aug. 10 drowning of a Toronto woman found Tuesday that the safety precautions used by the construction company while loading an 80-ton crane on a barge in the Severn River were inadequate.

The coroner's jury, investigating the death of Georgina Shirley, 54, also ruled that cables should not be strung across rivers without adequate safety measures.

Mrs. Shirley drowned after the 22-foot-boat in which she was riding crashed into a steel cable that was strung across the river near Silvern Bridge, 15 miles north of Orillia, and capsized. Three other persons in the boat escaped injury.

Three workers, employed by Majestic Pipeline of Toronto, testified they were loading the crane on a barge that was fastened by a taut cable stretching across the river.

Richard De Courville, of Mississauga, whose job it was to warn boaters of the cable, said he waved a red flag at the occupants of the boat which continued toward the cable.

William Grenville, of Weston Ont., a son-in-law of the dead woman, said: "When the boat hit the cable, the cable expanded like a rubber band until it stopped the boat, which then shot back."

Dief Wins Lawsuit, $12,500

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker said Tuesday he will receive $12,500 compensation and a published apology as a result of an out-of-court settlement reached on a statement of claim for libel filed over publication of an article in The Canadian magazine.

Mr. Diefenbaker cited the statement in Court of Queen's Bench after publication of the article Def. written by Tom Allen on May 13, 1971. The magazine, distributed by newspapers in 13 cities, is published by Southstar Publishers Ltd.

Southstar Publishers Ltd., publisher of the Saskatoon Star-Phoenix; the Regina Leader-Post and Mr. Alderman were named as defendants in the statement of claim.

The former prime minister released Tuesday a letter of apology written on behalf of the defendants saying the publishers and Mr. Alderman "wish to apologize for any derogatory statement and innuendoes which might have been created by the article."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the $12,500 will go to charity.

Federal Parks Program Could Double Expenditure

OTTAWA (CP) — A seven-point parks program announced Tuesday by Prime Minister Trudeau and Northern Affairs Minister Jean Chretien could double the existing $50 million federal conservation budget of the northern affairs department.

Mr. Chretien said it would be difficult to put a specific figure on the proposed program, as details of the plan have to be worked out.

New aspects of the program would be establishment of a system of historic waterways, historic land trails and scenic land routes.

The long-range plan will extend existing plans for canal systems, national marine parks, national landmarks and linear parks along Canada's remaining wilderness rivers.

Goal of the plan will be to "enhance the quality of Canadian life and to answer the demands of this country's growing and urbanized population for outdoor recreation," Mr. Chretien said.

The program, named Byways and Special Places, is to include a network of land and water routes used by Indians, fur traders and explorers and settlers. The byways will expand the traditional program of setting aside "special places" — the national parks, Mr. Chretien said.

In a film and booklets shown to reporters, emphasis is placed on the opening of large parts of Canada for travel by canoe, bicycle, by car along specially-designed low speed routes, on horseback, or on foot.

The booklet also showed maps of areas that could be included in the program, but department officials stressed that details still must be worked out, particularly in negotiation with the provinces.

Mr. Chretien mentioned one possible byway specifically, a special parkway from Quebec City to Georgian Bay, following the old fur trading routes. But he added that such a program could take as long as 20 years to complete.

Mr. Chretien said this as well as taking Canadians to seldom-seen places, the program will give an economic boost to poorer areas.

"Local businesses, such as hotels, motels, inns and restaurants will see increased trade. Museums, interpretation centres, parks and historic sites will attract new visitors. There will be a new local employment opportunities, new community projects and programs.

"There are possibilities for this program all over Canada which will bring it within the reach of every city, town and village. It will link national and provincial parks . . . bring legislation together and strengthen national unity."

A government spokesman said work on the new program had been in progress since 1970. The plan was approved by cabinet in August, Mr. Chretien said.

Among possibilities mentioned for consideration were wild rivers in Newfoundland, national marine parks on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts, canal systems in Quebec and Ontario, badlands, sand dunes and mountains in the Prairies.

Mr. Chretien also affirmed that policy being carried out now with respect to the zoning of national parks will be made legislative.

Heroism Rewarded

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Ten Canadians were awarded bronze medals by the Carnegie Hero Fund Commission here Thursday.

Malcolm Aspeslet of Edmonton, Brent Gordon Gough of West Vancouver, and Heinrich Weyland of Cobourg, Ont., were among 22 persons from the United States and Canada honored by the commission for acts of heroism.

Aspeslet, 18, rescued Barbara Beck from a grisly bear at Glacier National Park in British Columbia Oct. 1, 1971.

He and Miss Beck, also 18, were on a trail in the park when a female grizzly bear knocked Miss Beck to the ground and began biting her head. Aspeslet jumped on the animal's back and stabbed it several times in the neck before the bear shook him off and turned on him. He was severely bitten and clawed before the bear left the scene.

Miss Beck was able to reach a hotel in the area and send for help. Both young people were later treated in hospital.

Gough, 17, received his medal for saving an unidentified man from drowning in a rapids at Labelina, Hawaii, April 15, 1971. He succeeded in pulling the man ashore after being submerged several times.

Weyland, a 45-year-old steel cropper, tried to save a truck driver from an explosion in Bewdley, Ont., Oct. 19, 1971.

Albert Russell, 53, was trapped in the cab of a tractor-trailer that overturned and began leaking gasoline, diesel fuel and acid.

Weyland reached into the cab, tried in vain to shut off the engine and took hold of Russell to pull him out. An explosion then knocked him backward and set his jacket on fire. He took off the jacket but flames on the truck prevented him from rescuing Russell who died in the fire.

The Carnegie Hero Fund, established in 1904, has awarded 5,000 medals since it began.

Charter Fares To Drop

LONDON (AP) — The Civil Aviation Authority of Britain announced Tuesday plans to slash transatlantic charter flight fares and restore order to the charter business that brought a chaotic rash of stranding around the world in the last two years.

The scheme, scheduled to be introduced April 1 after a trial run, could mean round-trip fares from London to New York of $120.

The cheapest round-trip Atlantic fares on scheduled airline now range between $200 and $246. Charter tickets can cost as little as $96 one way.

Authority chairman Lord Boyd-Carpenter said the new scheme, designed to streamline charter business, will go into operation if ratified by international aviation organizations meeting in Ottawa next Monday.

Bids poured in almost immediately with dramatically slashed fares that could mean a charter bonanza next year. The London-based CPS Aviation and Travel Group said it will introduce two-way transatlantic fares of $108 to New York and Toronto and $156 to Los Angeles and Vancouver.

British Overseas Airways Corp. said it would offer an off-season return fare of $144.

College French Criticized

OTTAWA (CP) — French-Canadian studies at English universities in Canada have been labelled a "disgrace" in a report issued Tuesday by three Carleton University professors and a former Carleton student.

Professor Sinclair Robinson, Donald Smith, Robin Mathews and former Carleton student Joyce Wayne released their findings after spending several months studying the French departments at a number of English universities and two bilingual universities.

"It is inexcusable that English Canadians should be presently almost unable to study serious judgment about most critical questions of life and culture in Quebec society depend for their knowledge and education upon the French departments of English Canada."

The report blamed French departments staffed and administered by "immigrant or English-Canadian scholars" for the lack of French-Canadian material offered at universities.

These scholars are "too little acquainted with French-Canadian culture" and failed to consider the French language and literature of Canada "as a serious area of study."

Evening Council Meetings Turned Down

By ROY PEACOCK
Staff Reporter

Meeting hours for Belleville city council will remain at four o'clock in the afternoon.

At least that is the preference of present council members who rejected Tuesday night a motion by mayoralty candidate Alderman Robin Jeffrey calling for meetings to commence at 7 p.m. instead of 4 o'clock as at present.

The motion was defeated on a split vote, but not before two city organizations made presentations in favor of the later starting hour.

William Hockley presented a Citizens for Belleville Council brief stating that the council had disagreed with the 4 o'clock council meeting time because it ruled out participation by working people.

He said the 4 o'clock meeting policy was both discriminatory and repressive, and precluded participation by workers whose employers were reluctant to give them time off to attend council.

A Quinte District Labor Council brief held the same view.

Council meetings should be held at such hours as to allow hourly-rated working people and democratically governed citizens' organizations to be present during council deliberations, the brief said.

Speaking in support of her motion, which was seconded by Alderman Jack Ireland, Mrs. Jeffrey said she urged the 7 o'clock meeting time for several reasons, one of the main ones being that it would allow greater participation on the part of residents who might be contemplating running for office.

Also, the later meeting time would provide an opportunity for the general public and for deputations to attend council meetings.

With the 4 o'clock starting time, many residents did not feel like taking time from work to attend meetings, she said.

"Surely," she said, "council should be made as accessible as possible."

Many other centres across Ontario the size of Belleville had council meetings starting at 7 o'clock, the reason being to allow greater participation in civic affairs.

Several other aldermen said they might personally prefer the 7 o'clock meeting time, but wanted it made clear that the position of aldermen was a demanding one and took up much of a member's time.

Alderman Arnold Orr said he had been "amazed" at the number of committee meetings that aldermen are called upon to attend in addition to regular council meetings.

He said that any aspiring alderman thinking he would not have to be available for afternoon meetings would "be only kidding himself."

"It's a nice thought but I doubt if it would be practical" said the alderman.

Alderman Jack Ireland said if he had a choice as a businessman, he would prefer 7 o'clock meetings.

But he doubted if there would be any more public participation in civic affairs.

Alderman Paul Russell said that for any aspiring councillor to think council business would be done only in the evening would only be fooling himself.

"I would hate to think that what we said here tonight would lead people to believe that all council business is done at meetings every other week."

Alderman Donald Souther spoke in support of the motion, saying that if changed council hours allowed only one more resident to run for council, it would be worthwhile.

Alderman Rose David agreed it would be commendable if more participation would result, but the previous speakers, said if any person was going to run for council he would have to be prepared to devote much time to council work.

Alderman Ben Corbe noted that Belleville councillors at one time did meet at 7 in the evening.

But from 12 years' experience as alderman he said the later hour interest resulted in any sizable spectators' gallery. By agreement, delegations could be heard at council time.

Commenting on the considerable committee work an alderman is expected to perform, Alderman Corbe said "Whoever runs is in for a busy life."

Russian Way of Life Described to Rotarians

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Newlyweds in Russia receive a silver engraving gift from the state when they register their vows at Lenin's mausoleum — foregoing the customary two - hour wait in line.

To express gratitude and respect, the bride leaves her bouquet at the tomb of the unknown soldier.

These Russian customs were described yesterday to Picton Rotarians by Jon and Marion Hand, a Picton couple who visited Moscow for the Canada - Russia hockey games.

The trip, reviewed by Mr. and Mrs. Hand, who own the West Lake nursing and convalescent home, began with arrival at a Moscow airport, which was small and underdeveloped.

Russian soldiers described by Mr. Hand as "militant" and "very cold" were at the airfield.

Three Canadian hockey fans had been cleared through customs, then boarded the Canadian tourists dressed in bright colors, the children were timid but interested in exchanging foreign trade with Mrs. Hand.

In Moscow, the women of the city work in the streets sweeping, building and also sweeping. Often these laborers are 50 years of age or more and they are dressed in drab, shapeless clothing.

A visit to Lenin's mausoleum highlighted the trip to Moscow for Mrs. Hand. She waited in line for two - and - a - half hours to view the embalmed remains of the Russian leader.

Lenin lies in state with one flat clenched and the other even extended in view to the public only every other day.

The Hands said Russians line up for almost two miles regardless of the weather to pay tribute to their hero.

"He looks very good," quipped Mrs. Hand as she spoke of the dead leader. Lenin has been kept preserved for so many years.

Endless red flags plague Moscow and even the purchase of souvenirs requires detailed explanation of purpose.

Mrs. Hand said the strikers she purchased from were used for waiting in line first to select them, secondly to pay for them and finally to get them.

Mr. Hand displayed the thin brown wrapping paper which had been used to establish a dealer relationship among librarians in this area. Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in the library, a member from each branch of the Hastings and Peterborough libraries will address a group of area librarians and outline their experience in their fields.

The public is welcomed to the field Nov. 1, for area librarians meeting at 8:30 a.m. in the Belleville Public Library. Bill Proctor, National Film Board representative, will be present and a film preview will be shown.

While in Russia Mrs. Hand appeared on television here as she was interviewed during an intermission in the hockey game between team Canada and the Soviet Union.

While Russia's Mr. Hand appeared on television here as she was interviewed during an intermission in the hockey game between team Canada and the Soviet Union.

Women's hockey is not seen in Russia, according to Mr. Hand, and the standard of officer considers the strain faced by a bus driver equal to that of a medical doctor, so each receives equal pay.

The average worker receives 40 rubles or $40 a week and women are also in short supply the country now are offering tourists three rubles for one Canadian dollar in exchange.

Mrs. Hand remarked the Canadian tourists singing O Canada at the hockey games "sang it as never before because it meant so much to us."

She observed Russian television broadcast a recording instead of the enthusiastic rendition of Canada's national anthem provided by visiting Canadians.

Mrs. Hand said Russian youngsters apparently are directed from grade school, which begins at 8 a.m. each day and closes at 2:30 p.m.

Youngsters whose parents work are provided with custodial care until they can be picked up or released by their families.

A four hour period of physical education is offered each day in school and students with outstanding athletic ability are guided further in it.

Mrs. Hand found the Russian children "very special" and enjoyed trading gum for souvenir badges of the Soviet Union.

She explained the youngsters would plead eagerly for gum but refused to accept it without offering the badges or a similar token in return.

At first shocked at the Canadian tourists dressed in bright colors, the children were timid but later self confidence in foreign trade with Mrs. Hand.

Water Quality Said Improved

Not enough publicity has been given to work being done to clean up water in the Bay of Quinte and in the Great Lakes system.

This is the claim of Mayor J. Russell Scott, who Monday night at city council said there had been a considerable improvement in the water of Lake Erie and Lake Ontario. He said fishing in Lake Lake Erie was on the increase and also suggested that with

The Subject Is Art

When artists get together, there's always plenty to talk about. Audrey Davies of Belleville and Tom Mathews of Brampton compare notes during their show at Paul Bernard Interiors, 47 - A Campbell St. Display of ceramics, porcelain work, batik and painting continues every day until Oct. 28.

Week Emphasizes Fire Hazard

The Monday morning house fire on Lewis Street, from which a family of seven narrowly escaped, came at a particularly bad time for the Belleville Fire Department.

The $5,000 blaze gave Fire Prevention Week in the city its auspicious debut, particularly since three days a month had gone by without serious incident.

But the fire also served to verify Chief Leo Culhane's admonition at the week's proclamation is a year-round business, not just a one-week affair.

The subject of fires is on the minds of many Belleville residents this week. Inspectors Reg Christopher and Paul Stephenson are manning a booth in the Quinte Mall where fire prevention literature is available and the department's 1948 fire truck is on display. They are also conducting a draw for two free bicycles.

Both fire halls, on Dundas St. East and Moira St. West, are open for inspection at any time. The men will display equipment and discuss the latest in fire-fighting techniques.

Last week, crews visited schools and churches in the fire area, conducting fire drills and checking safety conditions.

Chief Culhane says inspections are becoming a prime force in the battle against fire.

"We're doing more inspections all the time," he said. "We seem to get more calls than in the past."

Main area of concern is Belleville's Front St., where dry, aged buildings seem to ignite each year as a matter of course.

"We try to check the furnaces in both spring and fall," said Mr. Culhane, "but it's often carelessness that starts the fires."

So far this year, the number of calls received by the department is not significantly different from 1971, when the total was far below record highs of earlier years. Up to today, trucks were dispatched to 339 instances, although Chief Culhane hastens to add, that many were false alarms in the form of, say, rubbish fires or burning tree leaves.

Still, the Fire Marshal's office of Ontario reports that in 1971, December was the worst month for fires. The Christmas season, when lights and trees pose an extra hazard, is not always the joyous season for firemen that it is for most persons.

A publication called the Fire Prevention News — issued especially for this week — contains several interesting, and often alarming, statistics.

For instance, freezing is the most dangerous job in the community with 115 men suffering accidental deaths per 100,000. That figure compares with 100 for miners, 73 for police and only 18 for industry.

A recent survey revealed that 61 of 67 deaths of six-day Canadian Christmas trees are attributable to heart attacks due to over exertion and smoke inhalation.

Careless smoking is still the most prevalent cause of fires, more than doubling the number began by faulty electrical appliances.

Trio Dazzles Audience

By EUGENE LANG

The local Community Concert Association began its 29th season on Monday night before practically a full complement of its membership who had gathered at BCI Auditorium to see and hear the world famous Beaux Arts Trio of New York in their second appearance in Belleville in a little less than two years. The renowned trio has made thousands of recital tours of Europe, Africa, the Middle East and throughout North America.

Each of the members is a soloist in his own right, but when Menahem Pressler is pianist, Isidore Cohen, violinist, and Bernard Greenhouse, cellist pool their respective musical endowments we have a resulting ensemble of oneness in approach to the varied repertoire that enriches their performances. And varied was their choice of selections before the delighted audience, with two major trios of the past two centuries folding up the outside pylons of the concert that was built around musical edifice that gave each soloist a chance to demonstrate his innate ability in his chosen instrument.

Mozart's Trio in E Major, K.542, one of the great masterworks of that category was given a treatment of Rococo delicacy in its outer movements with filigree adornments from the keyboard always enhancing the mellow speech from its string partners. In her encouragement of the lovely andante grazioso was a highlight of the performance by all three players, with jolly handling of the perky finale done in rollicking manner that bespoke unity of purpose by the threesome on stage. A wonderful performance of a marvelous composition.

Isidore Cohen gave ample display of his violinistic prowess in his rendition of the well known andante and rondo from Lalo's Symphonie Espagnole, Op. 21, which will have reached its 100th birthday next year. The violinist's movement combined rich tone backed by impassioned phrasing on the part of Mr. Cohen, with the second section (in actuality the finale of this five-part concerto) being the vehicle for our artist to dazzle the listeners with technical tightrope walking of his fiddle. With bow on four strings he not only walked, but pranced in the treacherous gauntlet that he conquered in this lively embellished dance tune he has used.

Pianist Pressler brought his weight to bear in a group of four selections, firstly in Brahms' stirring treatment of Rachmaninoff's Prelude in B Flat Major. In the Three Mendelssohn Songs Without Words, tone painting was evidence by the capricious carvings of Lost Illusions, a soft melodic gliding rose over the undulations of the Venetian Boat Song and deftness of touch sent the Spinning Song on its effervescent tracings. Seldom does one hear Busoni's transcription of the Paganini-Liszt La Campanella, simply because of its finger-boggling demands as from the Trojan executant courageous enough to tackle it.

Here we have the ultimate in keyboard gymnastics (as though Liszt didn't add enough difficulties to it), but Mr. Pressler came through with an impressive display of what 10 fingers can do to 85 keys, or maybe more than 85 on the tightrope walking of his fiddle. With bow on four strings he not only walked, but pranced in the treacherous gauntlet that he conquered in this lively embellished dance tune he has used.

Kiwanians Take Office

District Kiwanis Lieut.-Governor Jack Wilson of Trenton at a recent meeting invested the new executive officers for the Quinte Kiwanis Club.

The new president of the Quinte Club is Elvin Carr. Murray Workman is the immediate past president.

Vice-presidents are Glint Vader and Richard Hurst. Doug Reid, Lloyd Churchill and Bob Wessels.

Nearly Ready

The new water main feeding the Pine Street reservoir may be in full operation by the end of this week.

The main is now undergoing final tests, manager Neil Britton told a Belleville Utilities Commission meeting Tuesday.

Speedup Approved On Bridge St. Job

Efforts will be made to speed up construction work on the new storm and sanitary sewers now installed along the downtown section of Bridge Street.

This was agreed Monday night by city council after hearing earlier requests by area merchants who claimed the work being carried out there was seriously affecting business.

Council agreed yesterday to have the contractor, The Tri-Con Company, move a second working crew onto the job. The second work crew would be moved-from a job on Dundas Street and in the Avondale Road area.

Council agreed to pay the contractor a lump sum price of $556 to cover the transfer of equipment from the Avondale Road area to Bridge Street and return.

In a report to council, city engineer Wilbur Pigeril said it would cost an additional $4,000 to cover overtime labor on the construction job and even then there would be no working time for project completion was estimated at only about five days.

Commencement of work by the proposed second crew will be dependent on the lowering of existing watermains along Bridge Street.

The engineer said if the second crew were put on the job by October 23, there would be a definite advantage toward expediting the work.

Surprise Candidates Don't File

There are no surprise challengers to official party candidates in the Belleville-area Quinte ridings in the Oct. 30 federal election.

Deadline for nominating candidates closed yesterday afternoon without any new names being added to the political campaigns in Hastings and Prince Edward Ratings.

Thus, the constituency official party nominees had qualified by previous times before the deadline.

The only incumbency under the new riding of Hastings-Frontenac-Lennox and Addington is being challenged by George Hees, Progressive Liberal, and Richard Lunn, New Democratic Party.

Hastings, the slate remains with Frank Folwell for the Liberals and Eldridge Bretnour (NDP).

Official Plan Near Approval

STIRLING (Special) — After this week's public meeting, this village's official plan could possibly be approved.

The purpose of the official plan is to designate where residential, commercial, and industrial growth will be permitted and to what degree.

Once the plan is approved, council can pass the related zoning by-law, which is the actual governing portion of the legislation.

Water Quality To Meet

The Belleville Public Library is sponsoring two meetings this week to establish a closer relationship among librarians in this area. Tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 p.m. in the library, a member from each branch of the Hastings and Peterborough libraries will address a group of area librarians and outline their experience in their fields.

The public is welcomed to the field Nov. 1, for area librarians meeting at 8:30 a.m. in the Belleville Public Library. Bill Proctor, National Film Board representative, will be present and a film preview will be shown.

Liberace, Toronto Native Have Long Association

TORONTO (CP) — Gordon Robinson found his "niche in the world of music" 30 years ago.

It came about while the Toronto-born musician was watching the 1942 New Year's Day Rose Bowl game on television at his Los Angeles home.

"I'll never forget it," Robinson said in an interview.

"The phone rings and it's a friend of mine calling to say he had played a dance the previous night and met a man who was looking for an arranger for a piano player who was going to start a television show.

"He told me the piano player's name and I didn't even know him."

The piano player was Liberace.

A couple days later we met and formed and built that first television show.

"He was given four shows to make it in Los Angeles which is synonymous with west television station in the city. After the second show, the biggest bank chain in Los Angeles bought it and it sat on the sidelines and watched this thing develop over the years from shoestring nothing to a storybook showbiz story and I've been part of it ever since and it's been marvellous."

As well as arranging music for the orchestra that plays behind Liberace, Robinson has conducted the orchestration for all of the pianist's television and personal appearance shows for the last two decades.

"I know I could have never found a more favorable niche in the world of music than the one I have for many, many reasons."

"My style of thinking in music just fits exactly and Liberace himself trusts me thoroughly. He never questions anything I do. I have many friends who are in a comparable position and life is pretty rough—tensions, differences of opinion. I have none of that."

Robinson, whose family moved to the United States when he was a boy at 13 or 13, works only for Liberace.

A six-months-a-year job that always has had a year to catch up on the work around the home and social activities that are neglected during concert tours and nightclub and television engagements.

A master of many instruments, Robinson's talents as a piano player were first developed in Toronto where his father worked as a piano mover.

"I must have been maybe seven years old...I used to love to go into the piano warehouse where they had maybe 100 pianos being stored and I used to try to play those pianos.

"Perhaps my father noticed this, I don't know, but he and my mother scrimped and saved and bought me a real cheap piano and gave me les sons, but I wasn't too interested.

"I liked to play the piano when I could play things I wanted to play by ear, but I didn't like practising the exercises and the usual repertoire that the young student gets."

When he started high school in Ennis, Pa., he formed an orchestra "and had reasonable success with it."

At this time, he also started playing the bass violin.

"I went to school on Monday one day and the principal said they had none, he called them contre-bases, they had just purchased and anyone interested in learning now to play them come to his office.

"I had no idea what the instrument was, so why I went I'll never know. The principal told me to come to the school next Saturday morning and there'd be a teacher at 50 cents a lesson and could I afford it. I said yes, I couldn't, I didn't know whether we could or not.

"Well, the teacher walked out with this great big instrument and I wondered, 'What in the world is this?' I started to play it and I got so wrapped up in this thing I would skip after school and practice. I became a character at the school. Everybody thought I was nuts."

His bass violin playing helped win him a scholarship to Louisiana State University. Robinson graduated with a doctorate in music and stayed on as a professor and assistant orchestra conductor.

Then he was drafted into the army in the Second World War, but he didn't get away from music.

"I was a skinny kid—till am—and they wouldn't let me into anything but the band.

"At this time I considered myself a pianist, but the bandmaster said they couldn't use a pianist, so I told him: 'Well, what do you need in the band?' He said: 'We need a French horn player.' I said I played French horn. I left him and got on the phone to my wife to send me a French horn book. Two days later I was playing it in the band'."

Today, when on tour, he can sit in his room and work right down the computer orchestrations, he never leaves without the aid of a single instrument.

"I don't need a piano. I need a pen, ink. So I waste no time. You get involved if you have a deadline ahead and you start trying to build something."

While on tour, he gets up at 8:30 a.m. and works until 4 in the afternoon, "doing something in music," and then gets ready to do the show.

"The big thing in my life is challenges. I've got to have this. Everything I do is a big deal. There are deadlines, things to be accomplished, things that have to be done—this is what I have to have. There's nothing complacent about me at all. I've got to be moving, doing."

Quilico Finally Makes It to Met

TORONTO (CP) — A newcomer to the Metropolitan Opera in New York in 1973 will be Louis Quilico.

On Jan. 3 the French-Canadian baritone, of Italian descent but born in Montreal, will make his official debut at the Met in Verdi's Travista. He will sing the part of Marguerite Duval's father, which he has sung many times in all the great European capitals.

The engagement is more or less for Quilico the crowning of a career which has been brilliant from the start. As early as 1955, the singer, then only 27, won the auditions held by the Met and was offered a contract to sing minor parts. He refused.

Last February he was called at the last momen; to replace an ailing singer. After a single day of rehearsal he sang the part of Golaud, in Pelleas et Melisande, one of the most difficult in the repertory. That night, which was for Quilico a personal triumph, was to have a marked influence on his career.

It is under these promising auspices that he will make an entry into the famous Metropolitan Opera House on the first day of 1973. Sometime in January he will also sing Mephisto in the opera Faust by Gounod.

In 1967 Quilico came to Toronto to live, with his wife Lin and their three children. They both teach at the music department of the University of Toronto. They also have a studio in the basement of a large bungalow that they have just acquired in a quiet part of the city's north end.

The Quilicos admit having found in this city the peace and security which Montreal failed to bring them.

"I have lost my shirt in Montreal, and gained it back in Toronto," said Quilico in an interview. "I am a French Canadian, and so is my mother and so is my wife. I certainly love Montreal. But the artistic atmosphere there is about as unstable as the political atmosphere. To be productive, an artist needs a certain measure of stability. He has to know where his bread is coming from, at least a year ahead of time."

Quilico also said he found that the Quebecois, today, are not what they used to be. What he was a young boy in Montreal. There was more bitterness, more discrimination, a narrowness of mind. All this was crippling for the artist, who seeks to live and work harmoniously, at peace with the world.

During the interview in the family's new home, an Italian who had been working outside the house came in to ask for instructions. Quilico talked to him in fluent Italian. His wife said he learned that language during the years they lived in Rome. Later they lived a few years in Paris, and they have good memories of France.

"Even the dresser, at the Opera de Paris, was a man of extraordinary culture," Lin Quilico said. "I used to spend hours talking with him. He knew everything."

In Toronto, also, where they lived for awhile, they made charming friends, and "everybody was so nice to us and to the children."

This international mentality is probably an important factor in the discomfort Louis Quilico feels when confronted with the disputes and bickering in Montreal.

His favorite hobbies—when he has some leisure to spare —are photography and carpentry. He has just completed the panelling of the walls in the basement studio. This is not a fully surprising, for Louis Quilico started in life as a mechanic'in his father's bicycle factory in Montreal. It was on the recommendation of his wife, whom he met in 1949, that he launched himself on an operatic career.

Their meeting was providential, since today Quilico is acclaimed by musical authorities the world over as one of the greatest.

French Mission Bombed

MOSCOW (Reuter) — The Soviet news agency Tass reported from Hanoi today that the French mission in the North Vietnamese capital was destroyed during American planes bombed the central districts of the city.

It said personnel of the mission were injured and the diplomatic general was in hospital.

The brief Tass report said there were casualties among the staff of the mission, among them a member named as Gen. Susani. He is in hospital, Tass said.

The report said the U.S. planes bombed central districts of Hanoi.

Several heavy demolition bombs hit the building of the French mission, it said. The report gave no further details.

Coleman Mows Down Record 14 A's

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tigers got a two-run single from surprise starter Joe Brown and a playoff record 14-strikeout performance from Joe Coleman to blank Oakland Athletics 3-0 before 41,156 Tiger Stadium fans Tuesday.

The Tigers, however, retained one game away from elimination, trailing 2-1 in the best-of-five American League finals heading into today's fourth game.

Since the playoff system was adopted in 1969 when the leagues were divided into two divisions, no team has come from a 2-0 deficit and won three games and the pennant.

"We don't have the edge, but if we win tomorrow we'll have the edge going into the final game," Detroit manager Billy Martin said in the subdued but happy Tiger clubhouse.

He wish to send southpaw ace Mickey Lolich against Oakland's Jim (Catfish) Hunter in today's game. Lolich was the loser in the 11-inning, 3-2 opening playoff game at Oakland last Saturday before Woodie Fryman was beaten 5-0 by John (Blue Moon) Odom Sunday.

"No manager has an excuse for losing when he has a Mickey Lolich and Woodie Fryman in that order at home," said Martin, who will send Fryman to the mound Thursday should the Tigers win today.

Before Tuesday's game, Martin held a short team meeting.

"It was no rah, rah job," he explained. "I just said we should have won the first game, we didn't play well in the second and now we need to reach back for that little extra."

Brown reached back for that little extra in the fourth inning, cracking a two-out, inside ball by Ken Holtzman through the box for a bases-loaded, two-out, two-run single. Detroit had loaded the bases on a walk to Al Kaline, a double by Bill Freehan and a walk to Willie Horton.

"It was beautiful." Brown said of the hit. "I think it was the biggest hit I've had all year because it might save turned things around for us.

"I think it's pretty tough to come in and play like that because I didn't get to play over the last three weeks of the season," Brown said. "I think I only pinch hit three times."

Coleman was another Tiger who reached back for a little extra, establishing his rhythm with a good ball, then coming in with his favorite pitch, the fast ball.

The previous playoff strikeout record was 12, set by Baltimore Orioles' Jim Palmer in 1970 against Minnesota Twins. Coleman, 19-16 this season and fourth in the league with 222 strikeouts, had 14 batters fanned previously this year, an 11-inning game.

"It wasn't one of my best games. I think but I got out of trouble when I had to," the 25-year-old right-hander said.

"I quite often pitch better with men on base. You just bear down. You're a little less when you don't have them on."

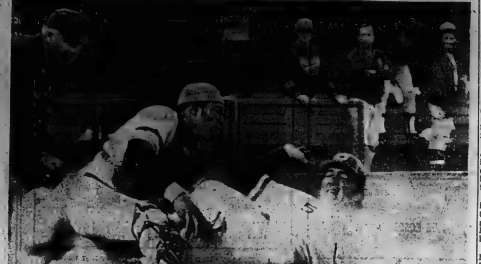
The Athletics stranded 10 runners, with Coleman in serious trouble twice. Times in the first inning, he gave up a double to Matty Alou and walked Dal Maxvill before striking out the side.

Maxvill was Oakland's shortstop in place of Bert Campaneris, benched at the start of 11 months, suspended for the remainder of the playoffs Monday by League president Joe Cronin after throwing a bat at Tiger reliever Lerrin LaGrow Sunday.

Detroit is without its regular shortstop, Ed Brinkman, who is to undergo back surgery this week. Dick McAuliffe filled in for him.

"We're still in good shape," Oakland manager Dick Williams said. "We're still ahead, two games to one.

"We had more opportunities but we didn't get the hit, Blue wasn't for lack of trying. Give Coleman credit for that. He was tough when he had to be."



Williams used a playoff record 20 players.

Freehan, who hadn't played since fracturing a thumb Sept. 21, started as catcher in place of Duke Sims for Detroit and collected a double and a home run.

"It's really a tough situation we face tomorrow," said Kaline, who had two singles and a walk.

"We face one of the toughest pitchers in the league in Hunter. He's always tough on us."

Gotcha!

Johnny Bench is tagged at home in fourth inning of Monday's Cincinnati Reds—Pittsburgh Pirates National League playoff game at Cincinnati as Pirates Catcher Manny Sanguillen puts on tag. Reds' Hopes Rest with Don Gullett

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pittsburgh Pirates turned confidently toward reliable Steve Blass, while Cincinnati Reds had to go with young and comparably inexperienced Don Gullett today in their showdown game for the 1972 National League pennant and a place in the World Series.

"I've got to like my chances with Blass," said Bill Virdon, manager of the East Division champion Pirates.

Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson spoke more cautiously about the 22-year-old Gullett, who spent most of the season wracked with hepatitis and didn't make the starting rotation until mid-August.

"I look for Gullett to pitch like he did from the second inning in the first game of the series," said Anderson.

Gullett lost 5-1 to Blass in the first game, giving up three runs in the first inning and two more in the fifth during his six-inning stint.

Cincinnati forced the best-of-five series into the fifth and deciding game by trouncing the Pirates 7-1 Tuesday behind the six-hit pitching of young Ross Grimsley. The Reds stole three bases and took advantage of three Pittsburgh errors.

Virdon had a right to be smug about his apparent pitching advantage for the final game. Blass won two games for Pitsburgh in last year's World Series victory over Baltimore Orioles, the East Division pennant-clincher this season, and last Saturday the first game of this playoff series.

The 30-year-old right-hander was 19-8 for the Pirates this season, while Gullett posted a 9-10 mark as the Reds easily won the National League West title. Gullett missed at least six weeks of the season and spent another month or so working himself back into shape.

Blass likened the game to the seventh game of the 1971 World Series.

"Everything is all wrapped up in nine innings," he said. "I'm ready to go. My arm feels fine. The fact I've been through it before should help."

Ironically Pirates catcher, Manny Sanguillen and left fielder Rennie Stennett, heroes of the Pirates' 3-2 third game victory were the goats of Tuesday's defeat. The Reds ran wild on the bases on Sanguillen, who was thrown out two fly balls in the sun.

Pittsburgh's problems started in the first round, when Sanguillen threw into centrefield as Johnny Bench stole second. Bobby Tolan scored on the error. In the fourth, usually sure-handed Gene Alley dropped a single.

Sanguillen Shook Up

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ashaken Manny Sanguillen vows he'll have to regain his confidence if Pittsburgh is to win its second straight National League pennant today.

"I embarrassed myself," said the Pirate catcher after Cincinnati Reds stole three bases, two by Johnny Bench, en route to squaring the best-of-five series at 2-2 with a 7-1 romp Tuesday.

"I just lost my confidence after that," Sanguillen told a cluster of writers in the Pirates' training room in Riverfront Stadium.

"I have to get it back tomorrow for us to win the game. I know what I can do."

Cincinnati's Pete Rose said the Reds had been told before the playoff that Sanguillen had a sore arm, that the Pirates' catcher had a low percentage of throwing out runners.

"I don't have any sore arm," said Sanguillen. "I have so much confidence I'll be all right."

Grimsley Likes Crowd

CINCINNATI (AP) — Softspoken Ross Grimsley gave credit to a boisterous crowd and wild Cincinnati bench Tuesday after pitching the Reds to a 7-1 victory over Pittsburgh in the fourth game of the National League baseball playoffs.

Grimsley's yeoman performance, a two hitter in which he dominated Pirate batters and personally contributed two of the Reds' 11 hits, evened the series at 2-2.

Grimsley was overwhelmed in three standing ovations from 29,477 Cincinnati fans, who went wild over his pitching and hitting feats.

The Cincinnati dugout, a rabble of wildly cheering, yelling athletes throughout the contest, was cited by Grimsley as a major factor in his sterling performance.

"I was surprised by the bench," he laughed. "They were just unbelievable."

"Was I confident?" Grimsley echoed a question in the Reds' noisy clubhouse. "Well, no, I was scared—as scared as ever.

"I've never pitched a better game," he said.

"Today was the best game of Grimsley's career," said Reds manager Sparky Anderson.

The victory was sweet vindication for the 8-foot-1 Grimsley, who was sent to the Reds' Indianapolis farm club to begin this season and who publicly criticized Anderson for shipping him out.

He was recalled to the Reds May 5 and compiled a 14-8 mark during regular-season play.

pop fly along the foul line in short left field allowing Bench to score.

Alley then compounded the mistake by throwing wildly in a vain attempt to get Bench at the plate, allowing the batter, Cesar Geronimo, to reach third from where he scored on a sacrifice fly.

Tigers Humming Along

DETROIT (AP) — Strains of country and western music flowed through the Detroit dressing room Tuesday after the Tigers' 3-0 victory over Oakland Athletics in the third game of baseball's American League championship playoffs.

The victory kept the Tigers alive, trailing 2-1 in the best-three-out-of-five series.

"We always like music when we win," said a grinning Tony Taylor. "We're gonna have more music tomorrow, too, you bet."

Meanwhile, a smiling and happy Joe Coleman stood surrounded by a sea of reporters, lights and cameramen. The lanky, black-haired right-hander, whom the Tigers picked up from the old Washington Senators, had just pitched the most important game of his life.

And he did it in big fashion. Coleman struck out a record 14 batters, topping a previous playoff high of 12 set in 1970 by Baltimore's Jim Palmer.

"I really had no idea I was near a record," Coleman said. "I was too busy trying to stay in the ball game, there in that easy inning in the fifth. I got my second win and knew I'd be OK."

Reporters wanted to know if Coleman could remember a more important game.

"Well, coming over from Washington," he laughed. "I'd have to say this is the most important game I've pitched since I lost a playoff game to high school."

Tiger manager Billy Martin thought the loss by the Athletics of regular shortstop Bert Campaneris "hurt them some, but it's hard to say how much."

Campy Goes some things that makes their offence better."

Campaneris was suspended for the remainder of the playoffs—but not the World Series, if Oakland gets that far—after flinging his bat at Lerrin LaGrow when he'd been hit by a pitch from the Tigers' reliever.

Quarterback Switch Works Wonders

BCI seniors came up with a new look offence, and liked what they saw.

Jerry Inglis directed the senior, Collegians to a 39-0 Bay of Quinte CORSA win over Picton Tuesday in his first quarterbacking assignment. The switch worked well in other ways as former pivot Peter LeBarre led the rushers with 120 yards from his new fullback position.

Rick Bell made another successful conversion, from fullback to halfback, picking up three touchdowns and a two-point conversion. Charlie Geen caught three passes from Inglis for 71 yards and one touchdown with Blake Jones picking up another major on a pass interception.

Peter Scott and LeBaron scored two - point conversions, while Keith Watson kicked a convert and Keith Pearce and Steve Redner combined to tackle a Picton back for a safety.

In the junior contest it was BCI winning a 42-6 bout. The Collegians rolled up 285 yards on offense while limiting Picton to 120.

Russ Simonds completed eight of 12 passes for the winners, including a 40-yard scoring pitch to Larry Wilson. Brian Roach and Larry Wilson scored two BCI touchdowns apiece with the others going to Bruce Sutherland and Simonds, who also had a two-point conversion.

Belvedere Means Business

Belvedere Hotelmen are hoping that it will be business as usual when the Quinte hockey league season gets under way Thursday.

The Hotel team will be gunning for its fourth consecutive league championship, once again faced with the challenge of three opposing teams. The Belleville high school teachers' entry, which performed in the Gas House League last season, will get first crack at unseating Bill Vesterfold's defending champs in the season opener.

Belvedere and the Teachers are slated to clash in an 8.15 p.m. bout at the Memorial Arena, followed by the Central Taxi — Reid's Dairy battle.

Brawl Halts Gas Housers

Stewart Warner burned Rosebush Fuels, while Cassidy Electric ignited Belleville General Hospital in Gas House Hockey League action Tuesday.

The Alemite team bested Rosebush 3-1, while the Cassidy - Hospital game was declared "no contest," when a bench - clearing brawl erupted.

Bill Lynch scored two goals and Roger Hinze one in the Stewart Warner win, while Dave Murray tallied the lone Rosebush goal.

The other contest, halted with Cassidy holding a 4 - 2 lead, will be reviewed by the league executive before a decision on the outcome is reached.

Frankford Walk Helps Hockey

The Frankford Hockey committee is looking for people willing to hit the trail in support of minor hockey.

The group will be holding a trailathon this Saturday — with proceeds going to support Frankford minor hockey. The course will be along the Hastings County Recreational Trail from Frankford to Oak Lake, on to Stirling and back along Highway 32.

McKenna Gets Biggest Split

Jim McKenna didn't place on top in Men's Major A bowling Monday, but he still accomplished a first.

The Belleville lad — pinner pulled off a spare on the difficult 7-10 split, believed to be the first time the feat has been accomplished during league play in this city.

Right on Course

Brian and Doreen Holmes get some help in plotting their boating course this season from Bay of Quinte Power Squadron second lieutenants Bob Sears and commander Frank Wilson during Tuesday night registration at the Quinte Yacht Club. The couple completed the beginners' course last year and are signing up for some of the more advanced boating studies offered by the squadron. The group's chief aim is to promote water safety and foster a sense of boating comradarie. The emphasis this year is being placed on family participation, especially in the 22-week course for beginning boaters. The Belleville - squadron has a current enrolment of about 70 members.

Moment of Truth At Hand for WHA

by

Maurice Switzer

Sports Editor

Tonight marks the first moment of truth for the World Hockey Association.

Sellout crowds are anticipated for the two scheduled openers in Ottawa and Cleveland for the rival league that NHL party hacks and hangers-on claimed would never get off the ground.

Once the first WHA pucks— colored or otherwise — are dropped tonight, it's every man for himself in the quest for Joe Fan's interest and, hence, dollar.

Because after watching Team Canada shade the Soviets and the persistent watering-down by expansion of the National Hockey League, spectators have the strange feeling that the new league can't be much worse.

Moreover, some of the rule differences between the game the newcomers use the NHL play may prove appealing enough to skim off even the most died - in - the - wool Hot Stove League members.

Regular - schedule overtime and unlimited forward passing are just two means the WHA are using to try and put some more excitement into a game that has deteriorated into whistle - prone contests often decided by pinball-style deflected goals.

Another clever approach employed by several WHA teams was to reap big headlines by shelling out astronomical sums to steal the services of such hockey luminaries as Bob Hull, Derek Sanderson, Bernie Parent, and Gerry Cheevers from their NHL employers.

One such attraction on a mediocre team of former minor pros, reason the upstart owners, ought to fill enough seats to pay for a few hockey sticks.

It's sort of like each WHA team had a first draft choice and was building a roster of fresh faces around him.

Compare that to the NHL expansion system where only the top one or two new teams get a crack at an untried, if promising junior superstar, then pay $6 million for the privilege of choosing a team consisting of players in the existing entries don't want.

The WHA, which some hockey experts — flikely the same ones that said Team Canada would beat the Russians eight straight) — were scoffing at short months ago, has also come within an ace of accomplishing something no other challenger for a share of the professional sport market has come close to: pulling a dent in the reserve clause.

A U.S. judge indicated this week he was about to make a ruling that hockey should not enjoy the same antitrust exemption as baseball, paving the way for profit-seeking stickhandlers to play for whatever team they want after living up to the terms of their current contract.

NHL skaters, at any rink-rat known, are bound to the first team that signs them until they die or Lyl Torrens over, whichever comes first.

Even the most ex-crowd NHL teams are not enjoying their usual turnstile-sweepers in these early days of Year One, A.Y. (After Yokusley).

Attendance at pre - season NHL exhibition was pitiful, with one Ottawa game drawing some 450 spectators, and with game Lee Calleson's Goldcrest Schlemeils received to doubleheaders — and charity fund - raisers to try and give their arenas some semblance of occupancy.

There were some 400 unsold places at Saturday night's season - opener in Maple Leaf Gardens with Chicago Black Hawks in town. Ticket resellers were committing hari-kari in the middle of Carlson St.

Some indication that the pro-hockey bauds will come tonight when the CBC has special to televise the Edmonton Oilers vs. Ottawa Nationals WHA opener in sirtime opposition to CTV's NHL encounter between Montreal and Chicago.

For the first time in the history of major league hockey, the spectator has a genuine option of turning on or tuning out.

Whatever Became Of Pre-game Steak?

LONDON (AP) — Sex before the big match is a good thing, Dr. Craig Sims, medical adviser to one of Britain's Olympic squads in Munich.

Writing in the monthly magazine The Squash Player, Dr. Craig argues that it's all to do with sleep and relaxation.

"About half an hour of sexual activity just before bedtime would maximize the next quantity and quality of sleep" and produce a more relaxed athlete.

To drive home his point, he quotes cases—without naming names—of an Olympic middle distance runner who broke a world record just an hour after making love, and of a well-known British runner who did a sub-four minute mile 1½ hours after sex.

"Discussion should centre not on the supposed ill-effects of moderate sex, but much more on the undoubted ill-effect of the deprivation of accustomed sex."

But, he warned, the athlete should be accustomed to a pattern of regular sexual intercourse. If he wasn't, then "the major events involved might result in severe stiffness and aching the next day."

And he concluded:

"It would have been a good idea for wives to have accompanied their husbands to the Olympic Games."

The sex would only be about 10 per cent, but every bit would be sheer morale."

MONTREAL (CP) — The Ladies Professional Golf Association of the United States will make a four-stop in the Montreal area next June for a minimum purse of $40,000, J. Louis Levesque of Montreal, well-known in Canadian financial and thoroughbred racing circles, will sponsor the project.

Riders the final playoff spot. B.C. could finish fourth by winning its four remaining games against Calgary Stampeders twice, Edmonton Eskimos and Saskatchewan.

Official CFL statistics released Tuesday show that Calgary's last hope for the playoffs is a sweep of its final four games plus a complete collapse by Saskatchewan. One more Stampeder loss or Roughrider victory would ensure a new name on the Grey Cup.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers could gain No. 1 in the West for the first time since 1962 by winning its four games against Edmonton and Saskatchewan at home and at Hamilton and Ottawa in Eastern travels.

For Ottawa Rough Riders to finish first in the East, they must win their three final games at Montreal and Toronto and at home against Winnipeg, while Hamilton Tiger-Cats must lose at least one game against those same teams.

Ali Signs

SATELINE, Nev., (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali and light heavyweight Bob Foster will sign contracts here Thursday for a Nov. 21 fight, it was reported Tuesday. The bout will be held in the showroom of the Sahara-Tahoe Hotel and broadcast on a closed-circuit television network. Reports earlier this week said Foster would be guaranteed at least $125,000 for the fight while Ali would get $250,000.

Almost Aces 2

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Herb Holzscheiter, of Toronto, an assistant pro at the Thunderbird golf club, shot his first hole in one Tuesday and almost aced another hole, but he and team-mate Frank Whibley of Toronto had to share first place in the opening round of the 36-hole Octoberfest best-ball championship.

The pair combined for a best-ball score of 56, four under par, after 18 holes. Other teams leading the field were Fred Kern and Mike Olszewski of London, Ont., and Bob Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association champ, with Wally Myers of Richmond Hill, Ont.

Holzschetter scored his ace on the 175-yard 13th hole with a four iron that hit a foot in front of the hole, climbed the pin and wedged down into the hole. He just missed another on the seventh, a 136-yard hole, when his seven iron off the tee landed in the cup, but bounced out to stop five feet away.

Hayes Big Help to Bullets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It can hardly be called exclusive yet, but so far the Big E Experiment is working out just fine for Baltimore Bullets.

Elvin Hayes, acquired by Baltimore in the off-season, scored 18 points, grabbed 22 rebounds and blocked six shots, leaving the Bullets to a victory over Cleveland Cavaliers as the National Basketball Association opened its 27th season Tuesday night.

In other openers, New York Knicks coasted past Seattle SuperSonics 113-86, Chicago Bulls slipped Philadelphia 76ers 96-89 and Atlanta Hawks topped Buffalo Braves 125-109.

Sellouts Expected for World Hockey Openers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After long months of speculation and a cold war with the National Hockey League, the World Hockey Association will open its first season of competition tonight before expected sellout crowds of 10,000 at Cleveland and Ottawa.

WHA president Gary L. Davidson will drop the first puck in the opener at Cleveland, where Quebec Nordiques will take on the Crusaders. Alberta Oilers will face Ottawa Nationals.

The season will start with a number of innovations that will change the game from the NHL style of play, including the use of navy blue pucks instead of the NHL's black.

In the hopes of making the game exciting, the WHA will permit offensive passes to cross two lines without being ruled offside. A WHA spokesman said the two-line pass would permit more breakaways and scoring chances than the NHL, where a pass may travel over no more than one zone line before being ruled offside.

In another change from NHL procedure, a penalized team must carry the puck across its own blue line defensive zone before clearing it down the ice with he reasoning that the penalized team will have to work harder to kill the penalty time and improve the quality of play in its defensive end.

Although no official statement has been made, the status of players who left the NHL to join the fledgling league appears to be "go" for the start of the season.

The Courts have already ruled that former Boston Bruins' Derek Sanderson and Gerry Cheevers may compete for the WHA, and a decision whether to allow superstar Bobby Hull to play in the WHA is expected shortly.

Hull left Chicago Black Hawks during the offseason to accept the player-coach position with Winnipeg Jets, who begin competition Thursday night at Madison Square Garden against New York Raiders.

WHA officials have decided to ditch the plan for having shoot-outs decide a game tied after a 10-minute overtime period. Officials had planned to have a member of each team take a penalty shot—an unmolested shot on goal— until one team didn't score, but in an exhibition game at Duluth, Houston Aeros and Minnesota Fighting Saints battled 18 shoot-out rounds until Houston finally scored an unanswered goal.

"The players and coaches hated it," said a league spokesman. "They felt it put too much pressure on the goalies."

In other games Thursday, Chicago Cougars open against Houston Aeros and Philadelphia Blazers take on New England Whalers at Boston Garden.

Los Angeles Sharks open their season at home Friday night against Houston and Winnipeg will visit Minnesota as the Fighting Saints get under way.

We'll Miss Hull: Mikita

CHICAGO (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks didn't look as though they missed Bobby Hull when they started the National Hockey League season with two easy victories, but veteran centre Stan Mikita knows better.

"Miss him? Sure we're going to miss him. How can you not miss a player like Bobby Hull?

"We're just going to have to work harder and make the best of it. It'll happen. It's something I don't want to hear but you can bet it will happen. As soon as we lose a couple of games or get behind a couple of goals, you'll hear them screaming in the gallery 'We want Bobby, we want Bobby.' That's what I don't want to hear.

"Naturally, everybody looked up to Bobby. He was the team leader. If that's the role I have to assume now, that's fine. At least we've won our first two games."

STAN MIKITA

So far, so good. The Hawks opened the season Saturday night with a 3-1 victory over the Maple Leafs in Toronto and came home Sunday to knock off New York Rangers 5-1.

Mikita has been the key. Whether it has been the absence of Bobby Hull, who took 52 million and went to Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association; the tour with Team Canada or the fact he has had to assume team leadership, the little Czech has been playing with a dash which helped him win four NHL scoring titles in the 1960s.

"I feel good," said the 14-year veteran, who has been plagued with back miseries in recent years. "I did some exercises which helped and I really extended myself working with Team Canada . . . and now find myself in great condition."

"Bobby Hull?" said Chico Maki. "If we fall behind now, we can't look over to left wing and think 'Bobby will do it.' There's no Bobby. We have to do it ourselves."

Plante Carries Load

TORONTO (CP) — With Paul Henderson back on skates at Maple Leaf Gardens, Toronto Maple Leafs are as ready as they can expect to be for a visit tonight from Montreal Canadiens.

Jacques Plante is set to face his old teammates in the first meeting of the season for the National Hockey League rivals, but the Toronto goaltender is anchoring a position in which the Leafs are short of talent.

They're the only team in the league without two NHL-calibre goaltenders. Aside from Plante, who at 43 has to be feeling the strain on his aging legs, Toronto is looking at two relative novices who have no big-league connections.

Coed McRae saw only a limited number of games last season with Tulsa Oilers of the Central League and two Eastern League teams while Ron Low had a 3.33 goals against average at Tulsa in 1971-72.

Toronto coach John McLellan is still undecided which of the two novice backstops he'll keep in camp since Leafs apparently are resigned to the departure of Bernie Parent for Philadelphia Blazers of the rival World Hockey Association.

The return of Henderson, however, brightened his day. A 35-goal scorer last year and member of Team Canada's record series victory over Russia, the 29-year-old winger has been absent from the Toronto team since his arrival home late in September.

He missed the Leafs' season-opener against Chicago Black Hawks last Saturday, won by Chicago 3-1.

Tonight's other games have Vancouver Canucks in New York against the Rangers, Boston Bruins visiting Detroit Red Wings, Buffalo Sabres at home to Los Angeles Kings, Atlanta Flames in Chicago, Pittsburgh Penguins at St. Louis Blues and California Golden Seals at Minnesota against the North Stars.

Plante, meanwhile, is looking beyond tonight's game—to a weekend doubleheader when Los Angeles visits Toronto Saturday and the Leafs are in Buffalo the following night.

It's not in his contract, but the goaltender does not play back-to-back games.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

THURSDAY, OCT. 12

Aries (March 21-April 19): Although most any change is for the best. Continue assembling that which has fallen apart lately. Be sure.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): The volume of cash going out is higher, your receipts should not be the same—if not, see what's the score pivot it.

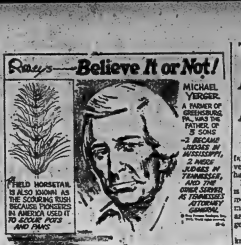
Gemini (May 21-June 20): Some setting puzzle you may bring your efforts down to a slow pace—nothing to get upset about, however—impatient you feel.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Be calm in dealing with conflict. Remember what you really want, adjust all moves. You are better off working alone.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): You should be in your element today, despite a few interruptions. Share the productive potentials with good friends.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Individual persuasion is the most likely method for getting things your way. Include everybody of importance in your round of communications.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23): You have talk and kindness from well-intentioned friends and acquaintances, some concern over an older person at a distance.



Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21): Whatever you hold in common needs complete agreement before you begin doing anything serious. Make it an early evening.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): If you have any question about working conditions, talk it over with the most important people you can reach.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Blending new information with old principles needs tactful presentation. What has been habitual may change perceptibly.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Psychologic watching is worth-while and full of interesting surprises. Younger people tend to crowd out other sets.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Keep going with whatever you started yesterday—there is more to be done, and in the shorter time than anybody will find convenient.

Bitter Taste Fairly Common

By G. . THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My father is 71 and has rather severe arteriosclerosis. He also has gout.

His main complaint, however, is a persistent bitterness in the mouth. It has been present for many months. He describes it as "bitter as gall" and says it is getting worse.

His doctors say they do not know the cause, seem almost unwilling to discuss it with him and imply that it might be psychosomatic.

Is this a common condition? Might it have a correctible physical cause? Gall stones, perhaps?

"Common? Quite. Alteration in taste in older folks is not unusual, most prevalently a salty or bitter taste.

When your father's doctors say they don't know the cause, they are being frank. We don't know, although there are some suspicions.

It is known that there is an appreciable decrease in the number of taste buds in the tongue as we grow older. It is also probable—perhaps probable—that in some cases mild strokes are the alteration in the nerve pathway dealing with taste may be involved.

However, let's talk plain talk. There isn't very much that can be done to correct this problem. Perhaps one important goal is to assure the patient that's a sign of some evil disease creeping up on him. Worry may cause more misery than the symptom itself.

Now, here are two suggestions, by no means promising that either will work for you. But nothing may help, and nutrition can be a factor in some cases, so a potent mixed vitamin supplement may be worth a trial. Second suggestion: brew tea with the mouth open in a fairly common habit in the elderly, and dryness of the mouth can distort sense of taste. Does that apply in your father's case?

Oh, and one more thought. Taste perversion may be related to smoking. Does that apply?

Sometimes sucking a hard lime or lemon candy will help.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I've been drinking two spoonfuls of apple cider vinegar in a glass of water each morning because I thought it was good for me. Now someone has told me that much vinegar is bad for the heart. Please comment.—Mrs. E.T.

It's not bad for the heart—but it doesn't do any good, either.

Dear Doctor: I have asked persons suffering from severe arthritis and have said they were heavy meat-eaters. Would a person who ate very little meat be less likely to be afflicted?—S.

No. For one classic example, because one gets rid of the gracious diseases had arthritis, and those huge creatures were not meat-eaters.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am wondering why the bulges in the intestine, if there are only a couple, cannot be removed by surgery.—Mrs. A.H.

They can—that is, a section of the intestine can be removed. One does not antic off the individual bulges. It is major surgery, and in most cases the trouble can be kept under control without surgery. Put it this way: You wouldn't amputate a toe because the toe was sore. But if the toe (for example) had a gangrenous infection, you would.

In a word, the seriousness of the trouble dictates how extreme a treatment is warranted.

	♣ Q J 2

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 ♣	Pass	3 NT
Pass	3 NT	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—six of spades.

Defense is said to be the most difficult part of the game, and there is no doubt that many players would agree with this assessment.

But, actually, good defense is a very logical process, and most mistakes in this area of play are due largely to lazy thinking. There are important inferences that can be drawn in any hand and the player who always looks for them is bound to do well in the long run.

Let's say you're West and lead a spade. East wins with the king and returns the five. South having played the ten on the first trick and now the queen.

An impetuous player might be tempted to automatically win the queen with the ace and return a spade. In that case South would win with the jack and, after taking a club finesse, make four notrump.

A more cautious citizen would defeat the contract. He would not find it difficult to deduce at trick two that South started with precisely the Q-J-10 of spades and East with the K-9-2.

South's plays of the ten and queen in conjunction with East's plays of the king and five are highly significant. Declarer cannot "afford" the Q-10 alone because, in that case, East would have returned the nine, his original fourth - best spade, not the five.

By parallel reasoning it can be deduced that South has the Q-J-10 without the deuce, because it would not make sense for him to play the ten instead of the ten on the opening lead if he held the Q-J-10-2.

In the actual hand, the effect of ducking the queen — in order to maintain communication with East — is that South eventually gets down one. A little thought can do a lot.

HERE'S A NEW IDEA

We are going to start a number of new homes this spring possession. If you are thinking about a new house, let us include it in our inventory. You can select a lot and a model either one's or your's. We will then build it to your specifications. You can then sell your existing house at your leisure. If you are unable to sell, you aren't out anything as we can sell the new house to someone else. This will solve the old problem of — "How can I build a new house when I haven't sold my old one".

CONDOMINIUM IS THE ANSWER

For the active man who wants to confine his activities to the curling rink, the golf course or anywhere else, but doesn't involve cutting grass, shoveling snow, painting, etc. This is all done for you.

We have units available for immediate possession, located on Prince of Wales Drive. Qty. from $11,000 to a resid run from $711. to $886 down.

EAST OR WEST WE HAVE THE BEST

selection of houses in the Quinte area. All in fully serviced subdivisions. All close to schools. We have 3 and 4 bedroom models. Let us show you our selection.

The Belleville Utilities Commission will spend $6,966 to purchase two trucks.

The commission approved the tender of Motorland Chrysler - Plymouth of Belleville for a pickup truck and cab and chassis at its monday meeting Tuesday. The latter vehicle will be fitted with special equipment for power line work.

Hydro Sees No Solution

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro, caught by surprise when its 12,000 employees Tuesday rejected a proposal to end a province-wide strike, sees "no immediate solution" to the 14-week-old dispute, says a management spokesman.

Strikers voted 53 per cent in favor of rejecting Hydro's contract offer, an official of Local 1000 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees said Tuesday.

The Hydro spokesman said the public utility "can see no immediate solution to the impasse."

"Hydro will continue to operate the system as best we can until the dispute is resolved," he said.

Earlier, the management spokesman had suggested that rejection of the offer would be "very unlikely event."

A second Hydro proposal, for a mutual-protection clause to safeguard union members who crossed picket lines during the strike, was rejected by 74 per cent of those voting.

Three-quarters of the union's membership cast ballots.

The union official said:

"It is clear that Hydro was mistaken in its conviction that members would overwhelmingly accept their offer.

"The strike will therefore continue and the union is awaiting word from the ministry of labor as to the resumption of negotiations."

Besides the issue of wages, the two sides are separated on the question of union members crossing picket lines.

The union official said the two issues were put to workers in separate votes "to get a true picture of how the members felt about Hydro's economic offer without the issue being clouded by the protection clause."

After the last Hydro strike, a union trial board fined a lineman $200 for breaches of strike discipline. A salaried employee also was fined $80.

The union wants a two-year contract, with annual wage increases of nine per cent. The utility's last offer was a three-year contract, with minimum raises during the period of 18.5 per cent and a maximum of 24 per cent.

Under Hydro's proposal, a lineman's hourly rates would increase to $6.85 from $5.06. First operators in large transformer stations would get a raise to $7.19 from $6.01 and storekeeper's minimum would increase to $130.75 a week from $107.24.

Negotiations stopped Sept. 24 when Hydro presented the offer to the union.

Snowmobile Defended On Economic Grounds

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario distributors Tuesday defended the impact of snowmobiles on society, saying the industry has rejuvenated winter resort areas and is worth more than $175 million to the provincial economy.

In addition, the snowmobile was a valuable contributor to the international balance of payments in that two-thirds of the units manufactured in Canada are exported, mostly to the United States.

Rene Bourassa, of Bombardier Ltd., the Quebec-based firm which originated the concept of the snowmobile, said fully 85 per cent of his firm's business of $180 million annually goes to the United States.

The remarks came during discussion before a select Ontario legislature committee of a 50-page brief from the Ontario Snowmobile Distributors. Also on hand was a non-profit group that represents 85 per cent of the distributors in the province.

The committee has been sitting since last July to study all aspects of snowmobiles and allterrain vehicles with the aim of submitting a report to the legislature before the end of the year.

In a series of proposals, the association urged that more Crown land be made available for snowmobile use, specifically parks and rural municipal areas; compulsory training for snowmobilers 16 or under; and the creation of a central agency to gather and co-ordinate information on snowmobile accidents.

The brief also rejected suggestions already made to the committee that children as young as four years be permitted to drive snowmobiles if they can pass a test. It said nobody under 14 should drive the machines unless on private property or under direct parental supervision.

The brief recommended that the control agency on accidents be entrusted to the Ontario Safety League and the cost be borne by the Ontario government.

Mr. Bourassa, one of four association officials who presented the brief, said only a small percentage of Canadian-made machines are shipped overseas. In Scandinavia, Austria, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and France but that European exports were constantly improving.

The brief contained five pages of statistics, showing an average of 8,000 persons directly employed at the distribution level for snowmobiles in Ontario.

The average capital investment in land, buildings, rolling stock, equipment and service tools of a dealer was estimated to average $20,000.

There are 2,000 dealers in Ontario, and 258,000 registered snowmobiles.

Retail sales jumped to 49,000 units last year, from 27,607, in 1968-69, representing an expenditure of $69.3 million which includes purchases of accessories, repairs, gasoline, and financing costs.

The association estimated that the cost of consumer borrowing to purchase machines in 1971-72 was $3.5 million.

In direct tax revenue, Ontario received $8.1 million in the last fiscal year from the industry.

The brief also claimed that resort operators are discovering they can stay open the year-round because of the popularity of snowmobiles. This created additional employment and revenue to the tourist industry.

In 1972, for example, the association estimated that nearly $1 million was spent in Peterborough during a three-day snowmobiling festival and winter carnival, an annual event.

It said that the industry has grown because of the increase in leisure time.

"Such increasing leisure time must be translated into forms of satisfying activity for all those persons involved," it said in promoting the snowmobile.

The association urged that the Ontario Motorized Snow Vehicles Act be amended to make it confirm to national safety standards. Manitoba and Quebec have already changed their legislation to conform with federal regulations.

It said snowmobiles should be permitted to operate on roads in emergency situations when storm renders highways impassable.

TV Show Rapped

OTTAWA (CP) — The Native Council of Canada has asked the Canadian Radio-Television Commission to cancel the second of a two - part Walt Disney television show called Savage Sam because of the "savage and ignorant," role it gives Indians.

In a letter to commission chairman Pierre Juneau, the council's president, A. E. (Tobey) Belcourt says the first part of the show, about two boys and a girl captured by Indians in American frontier days, "not only disgusted my wife and I but upset my four-and-six-year-old daughters who are Metis as I am."

The second part of the show is to be aired by the CBC this Sunday.

Last Sunday's episode ended with Savage Sam, a dog, in behind bleeding pursuit of the Indians who had captured two brothers and the sweetheart of the older one. A band of heavily - armed white men were following Savage Sam, also after the Indians.

Mr. Belcourt says in his letter that native people "have looked forward to the day when films and books teaching prejudice to children and adults would end."

"We hope that you and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation will follow the lead of the government of Ontario which recently announced the withdrawal of several school text books prejudicial to the Indian race.

"Part I of the film Savage Sam portrays the Indian race in the traditional stereotyped Disney role as savage and ignorant.

"Disgusting films of this nature must no longer be allowed to be aired, particularly on a television network Canadians are supposed to call theirs."

Copies of the letter were sent to the four federal party leaders and Laurent Picard, president of the CBC.

Great Lakes Hearings To Start

OTTAWA (CP) — The International Joint Commission announced Tuesday it will hold public hearings before starting a study into the quality of water in the Great Lakes.

Louis J. Robichaud and Christian A. Herter, joint chairmen of the Canada-United States commission, said in a news release that the studies, to be initiated next spring, are part of an effort by Canada and the U.S. to prevent and abate pollution in the lakes.

Prime Minister Trudeau and President Nixon signed a Great Lakes water quality agreement last April 15.

Two investigative boards have been set up by the commission, one to conduct pollution studies on Lake Superior and Lake Huron and the other to look into the effects of surrounding land on the quality of water in the Great Lakes.

A third group has been set up to review existing dredging practices and laws in both countries and to recommend methods for characterization and disposal of polluted dredged material.

At least seven hearings will be scheduled at locations in both countries and announcements of exact dates and places will be released later by the commission.

Marlatt Sentenced To Prison

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Gary Norval Marlatt, 25, of St. Thomas, Ont., convicted last month of three charges arising from a break-in Feb. 7 at a London apartment, was sentenced Tuesday to 3½ years in penitentiary.

Mr. Justice J. H. Osler sentenced Marlatt to 3½ years for breaking into the apartment while armed with a .22-calibre rifle and a knife, three years concurrent for the attempted rape of one of the apartment's female occupants, a 23-year-old social work student, and six months concurrent for indecently assaulting another female occupant.

John Colin Brown, 19, of Aylmer, Ont., was sentenced to two years plus a day in reformatory on the break-in charge to be followed by two years' probation. Brown also was sentenced to a concurrent one-year term on the indecent assault charge.

Both originally were charged with rape as well as the break-in and indecent assault charges.

But a 12-man jury convicted Marlatt of the included offence of attempted rape plus the other two charges.

Brown was acquitted on the rape charge at the direction of Mr. Justice Osler. He pleaded guilty on the other two charges.

Marriage Fraud Charged

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — A judge in Suchitoto ordered Tuesday the formal detention of two Canadians charged with fraud. He said extradition requests from Canada and Nicaragua are being considered.

Judge Armando Pacheco Chacon said the two, Joseph Lucien Gilles Denis, 36, and Andre Rubestiere Radelly, 27, pleaded not guilty to fraud charges.

The two are charged with collecting the equivalent of $13,000 in the towns of Suchitoto and Santa Ana.

Police say Denis was masquerading as a priest and said mass and performed marriage ceremonies. Judge Pacheco said Denis told the court he is a former Roman Catholic priest and that both men are members of the Missionary Society of Seculars of Canada.

The men were arrested last week in San Cristobal near the Guatemalan border.

Nicaragua Denis is charged with fraud totalling $50,000, an amount police say he carried in small bills when he was arrested.

Police said they had received a cable from Interpol saying the two men are charged with the $38,000 robbery of a Montreal bank in August.

Millhaven Escapee Recaptured

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A man police identified as an escapee from Millhaven prison near Kingston, Ont., is in Santa Clara County jail here after his recapture by police and FBI agents.

Charles W. Boomer, 36, armed with a .38-calibre pistol, was surrounded by officers and handcuffed without a struggle in he left his apartment in nearby Campbell Monday, police said.

Boomer was scheduled to be arraigned later before U.S. Magistrate Nordin F. Blacker.

No information was immediately available on possible extradition proceedings.

In Kingston, Boomer was serving 37 years for armed robbery, parole forfeiture and prison breach. He was originally from Edmonton.

Boomer was one of 14 convicts who escaped from Millhaven July 10, the largest escape in Canadian penal history. Only one of the escapers, Srein Dzambas, 25, of Toronto, is still at large.

Dzambas was serving a life sentence for non-capital murder.

The 14 prisoners cut their way through a steel link fence at the institution. Others recaptured were apprehended as far away as Vancouver and Montreal.

Corporate Welfare

Lewis Book in Demand

WINNIPEG (CP) — Louise Votres: The Corporate Welfare Bums, David Lewis' personal guide to the corporate welfare structure in Canada, will be released at a news conference by the NDP leader here today.

The book, written during the summer and early fall, is expected to set out in detail the various federal assistance measures available to industry and reiterate many of the arguments he has raised during his campaign for the Oct. 30 election.

"It will tie the whole issue together in one place," a party spokesman said Tuesday night.

Fifteen thousand copies of the book have been printed in paperback by James Lewis and Samuel Publishers of Toronto and virtually all have been sold already to book stores across Canada.

The book will sell for $1.95 a copy, with all royalties—11 cents to 12 cents a copy—going to the party rather than Mr. Lewis. The book is copyrighted in the party's name.

Mr. Lewis flew here late Tuesday night to open a five-day campaign swing through Manitoba and Saskatchewan where party election hopes run high. NDP governments have come to power in both provinces since the last federal vote in 1968.

The NDP leader spent Tuesday in Sudbury, Ont., where he called for a $500 million public works program, coupled with a six-to-eight per cent income tax cut, to combat unemployment this winter.

His proposals came shortly after Statistics Canada announced that the jobless rate, on a seasonably-adjusted basis, rose to 7.1 per cent in September from 6.7 per cent in August.

Mr. Lewis said the government should also continue a three-per-cent income tax exemption that has been in effect on a temporary basis since last fall. It is scheduled to expire Jan. 1.

Speaking to students at Laurentian University and Sudbury High school, he said unemployment could be cured in a matter of months, "two years at the most," if the government had the courage to act.

Between $2 billion and $4 billion could be generated to finance works projects and programs needed in Canada if the government would start by making corporations pay their fair share of taxes, he said.

Money raised by closing tax loopholes could be used to put people to work and this, in turn, would produce hundreds of million of dollars in new income tax revenue.

In addition, he said, millions more would be saved by cutting down the huge payments now being made under the unemployment insurance scheme.

"The result would be literally billions more."

While speaking to the students, he renewed his attack on the International Nickel Co. of Canada, the largest employer in the Sudbury area, and later wound up his visit to the city by going to the INCO plant gate to meet workers coming off shift.

Party spokesman said no effort was made to arrange a plant tour. "We didn't give them the chance to turn us down."

Mr. Lewis has included INCO in his list of "corporate welfare bums."

He received a generally friendly reception during the 45 minutes he spent shaking hands in mild-30s temperatures at the main plank gate.

Today, after releasing his book, Mr. Lewis will campaign in Gimli and Selkirk, then fly to Thompson, Man., for the night.

Concessions Made In Vietnam Talks

Envoy Flies Home

BULLETIN

PARIS (Reuter) — U.S. presidential adviser Henry Kissinger flew to Washington today after four days of hard bargaining here with North Vietnamese envoys, and diplomats hinted that the secret negotiations had made headway towards a Vietnam peace settlement.

They remarked that the situation is highly intriguing with interesting developments."

"Something is in the offing," commented one diplomat.

PARIS (Reuter) — U.S. presidential adviser Henry Kissinger unexpectedly delayed his departure from Paris, and well-informed sources said both sides in the secret Vietnam peace talks have made concessions on a basic issue dividing them.

Kissinger's talks with North Vietnamese negotiator Le Duc Tho went ahead for their fourth day Wednesday despite the outcry over the U.S. bombing raid which damaged the French diplomatic mission in Hanoi.

A U.S. aide was not stood by at Paris airport most of the day but Kissinger did not make his expected return to Washington the second time this week he has dropped plans to leave.

Although the White House did not rule out a fifth meeting with the North Vietnamese, informed sources said Kissinger might confer with French officials, who are angry over the Hanoi bombing raid.

The U.S. government acted swiftly to express its dismay and regret to France over the incident.

State Secretary William Rogers, while not actually acknowledging responsibility for the damage and injuries, asked the French government to accept his most sincere regrets.

In the secret peace talks, sources in Paris said both sides made new concessions on the crucial issue of the organization of a post-war government in South Vietnam.

Although the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong are still insisting on the removal of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, they are believed to be less insistent on their demand for a "three-segment" coalition government in Saigon.

The two sides were also believed to have discussed a "goodwill" plan for the release of U.S. prisoners of war in North Vietnam and political prisoners in the south after the U.S. presidential elections Nov. 7.

The Campaign Revs Up!

Surrounded by Front St. crowd, Progressive Conservative leader Robert Stanfield mainstreets his way through Belleville this morning. His visit, to boost electoral bid of party candidate Jack Ellis, (left of Mr. Stanfield) was brief, but was the first contact with a major political personality in a hitherto restrained election scene in Hastings riding.

We Can Do Better - Bob

Robert Stanfield made a flying contact with Bellevillians today.

And if his visit was brief, it added the first dash of big-time political presence to a hitherto subdued local election scene.

Mainly a mainstreeting venture, the Progressive Conservative candidate managed to tie his short stopover to launch some strong barbs at the Trudeau government.

Specifically, he cut into the government for "arrogant silence" on such issues as inflation, unemployment and the trends of modern living on senior citizens.

He emphasized the Conservatives would press for answers on issues in the current Oct. 30 election campaign.

"We have no intention of allowing the Trudeau government to do a snow job on the people of Canada between now and election day," warned Mr. Stanfield in a speech delivered to the crowded downtown campaign headquarters of Hastings Conservative candidate Jack Ellis.

"We're going to continue to put the gun to them. . ." said the Conservative leader, warning the government would not be permitted to go unchallenged in any distribution of pre-election "goodies" to the electorate.

Instead, the Conservatives will be demanding answers on such issues as the unemployment insurance fund, scheduled tax increases, and increased old-age pensions.

"I find it very hard to figure out the arrogant silence of the Trudeau government" on such issues, said Mr. Stanfield.

A Conservative administration would be neither "heartless, heartless or ruthless" in tackling such problems, he said, reiterating a frequent campaign quote.

His party was concerned about the government's "very unhealthy" lack of dealings with Canadians and the nation's integrity.

Integrity means little, he warned, unless there is op-

Gunman Misses Candidate

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — "Get out of the election." was the message attached to a rifle found by police and the one they said was used to fire a shot Wednesday night at Mike Sheppard, NDP candidate in Kitchener.

Police found the rifle on the street across from where Mr. Sheppard's car was parked. It was a Lee-Enfield .303.

Wednesday night, Mr. Sheppard left his committee room to get a package of cigarettes he had left in his car. As he opened the door a shot was fired. The bullet missed Mr. Sheppard going through the window of the passenger door— the side he was on.

"Mike was supposed to be at an appointment at the NDP committee rooms here at 8 p.m.," said Orville Thacker, Mr. Sheppard's campaign manager. "Nothing much was doing and he went out for a package of cigarettes he left in his car.

"As he opened the door, a shot went through the car. He dropped to his knees and crawled on his hands and knees back into the committee room."

Mr. Thacker said Mr. Sheppard had also received a threatening note saying: "Don't want kind in Kitchener."

You'll get the same treatment as Bobby Kennedy."

"We understand he received a letter previously, but never mentioned it to no one," said Kitchener Police Chief William Henrich. "He thought it was a crank letter."

School Start Satisfactory

TORONTO (CP) — An Edmonton public school board decision to start the school year Aug. 5 would be "disruptive" if followed in Ontario, Education Minister Thomas Wells said Wednesday night. He said he feels the best approach is to have optional summer courses for students who want to earn credits during the summer. Many school boards in Ontario offer such courses.

Later with some attention to the French-speaking areas of northern New Brunswick.

Liberal party aides eagerly making available the message to media say there's a big major plugs under the bread and even sweeping umbrellas of national integrity, economic growth, personal fulfillment and social justice.

A foretaste was delivered Wednesday by Ron Basford, urban affairs minister, in saying a re-elected Liberal government will seek parliamentary approval for a program of redeveloping downtown railway property.

That, and a blueprint for a parks program announced by Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien, are said to be part of the personal fulfilment plan.

Similarly, voters can expect to hear other Liberal party statements so far greater in breadth than detail.

These are to include improved grants for volunteer citizen groups, improved legal services for rich and poor, an Opportunities for People program lumping together existing programs such as Opportunities for Youth, and a commission for protection of human rights.

Background information on these statements is being sent to Liberal candidates.

Party sources say the overall package is to encourage voters to ponder the future, and the country as a complete unit— from further environmental protection legislation to Canada-U.S. relations— in what is designed as a four-year bundle of legislation intensions.

Mr. Trudeau will make some of the statements and others will be delegated to responsible cabinet ministers.

Mr. Stanfield has concentrated this week on Ontario and British Columbia, with a side trip to Quebec accompanied by Quebec lieutenant Claude Wagner.

Next week, he is said to be settling down to an itinerary with more morning news conferences, meet-the-people afternoon functions and a formal

Food to Climb

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for one of the country's largest supermarket chains said Wednesday that food prices are likely to continue their gradual climb.

"It doesn't look good for the consumer, and we're all consumers," said a spokesman for Dominion Stores Ltd.

"There's no doubt we're faced with more increases. Our crop position has not been great and this already is reflected in higher prices."

one, defying heavy anti aircraft fire, dived very low, dropping two bombs.

There was no possibility of pilot error. They were attacking very low over the centre of the capital. The area hit is the diplomatic quarter and there are no Vietnamese military or factories anywhere near.

I witnessed and filmed dead taken from rubble of the French residence, which was shorn in half. French Consul Christian Calvy told me the attack came without warning. He called it too horrible for words. He said he could not even imagine. French and world reaction. There were at least three bombings.

I saw the French delegation head at St. Paul's Hospital in Hanoi.

He had extreme facial burns, and was still unconscious.

One French diplomat observed that the bombs were a forced drop from a damaged jet, but this diplomat added he was inside the residence at the time of the attack and did not see the plane.

I did, and the low-hitting jet was not damaged.

Susini had been greeting the Albanian ambassador outside the residence when the bombs dropped. The Albanian escaped with lesser injuries.

Another French diplomat said: "This happens in Vietnam every day and the world pays no attention. Now it will."

A British attache said, "The United States has gone too far."

Election Strategy

All Parties Plan Tactical Campaign Shifts in Final Days

OTTAWA (CP) — Political strategists reading the Oct. 30 federal election are disclosing tactical campaign shifts designed to touch up party policy positions.

Issues that so far may appear unrelated will be packaged by voting day, say Liberal party sources offering insights into their grand design.

Prime Minister Trudeau will bring it all together "to chart the course for the last quarter of the 20th century" in the words of one spokesman.

Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield is described as finishing Phase III of his campaign this week and moving next week into what is called a more national approach with greater emphasis on what he would do as prime minister and less on the alleged sins and omissions of the Liberals.

For David Lewis and the NDP, there is to be a switch from the prolonged attack on the tax law advantages said to be enjoyed by many big companies—those so-called corporate welfare bums.

Mr. Lewis is being touted as aiming instead at high costs for consumers.

Real Caouette, Social Credit leader, has cancelled a short north into Newfoundland which means renewed concentration on the party's Quebec power

Herb Gray, federal minister of national revenue (left) after touring Batawa, stopped in at Belleville yesterday to meet with Instrings Liberal candidate Frank Falwell (right). The two talked business then went for a coon's tour of the committee rooms, before both chat with campaign worker Phyllis Doogan.

Paper Pickup A Success

Recyclable paper picked up in Belleville last week during a drive to replace paper pollution control 25 tons.

The results showed "good response" by Bellevillians and left organizers "really pleased" says Gary Rock, chairman of the subcommittee which originally launched the project for People Against A Contaminated Environment.

The paper was picked up by a city sanitation company as part of a six-month trial period after a city hall declaration setting aside the first three days of last week as a collection period.

By comparison, the city of Toronto proper — with a population of 700,000 — collects 180 tons of recyclable paper a month, says Mr. Rock.

"Our pickup last week means if we had Toronto's population we'd be collecting something like 500 tons," said Mr. Rock.

Next recyclable paper pickup will be the first Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of November.

A. H. Ketcheson Former Alderman Dies in Hospital

PICTON (Staff) — If a Liberal government were re-elected, this time with a majority, Canada would become a socialist country before its four-year term expired.

George Hees, MP Prince Edward - Hastings offered this reply to a press query regarding his predictions for the country if the Liberals won with a majority of seats.

The Conservative MP said secretary of State Gerard Pelletier, Jean Marchand and prime minister Pierre Trudeau came into power together and "are taking this route right down the road to socialism.

"These people would make the NDP look like tree centerpriners," suggested Mr. Hees. He added Prime Minister Trudeau would rather be prez' ident of Canada.

Mr. Hees said a Dominion Day broadcast "all in French" had not accidental as reclaimed it was planned and executed on Pelletier's orders. "As far as he's concerned if you speak French you can do no wrong, if you speak English, no right," asserted the MP elected in

He rapped the present requirements for entry and promotion in the civil service, since both are conditional on bilingualism.

Mr. Hees said "there are several Canadian centres such as Sherbrooke, Montreal, Ottawa, Moncton, and Cornwall which are truly bilingual, requiring bilingual civil servants. He said in the "vast majority" of centres in Quebec only the French language is needed.

Mr. Hees emphasized that to make bilingualism a requirement for entry and promotion in the civil service it "every unfair," and said the Conservatives, if elected, will return to a merit system

Revenue Minister Says Trade to Be Promoted

BATAWA (Staff) — Extension of Canadian industrial markets on a worldwide basis is of major importance to the federal government, minister of revenue Herbert Gray said in an informal interview with the press at the Bata Engineering plant here yesterday.

He said further international trade links similar to the Canadian Trade Fair held in Peking, China, this August, are in the planning stages. Mr. Gray said there are no specific plans for further direct participation in such fairs, but added the federal government is always looking for prospects.

He said involvement such as Bata's in the trade fair is "the type of co-operation we've been pushing for, especially since 1968, with the merger of the departments of trade and commerce.

"What we've been doing since then is a good example of a Canadian - based company expanding into international markets."

Mr. Gray was accompanied through the plant by Prince Edward - Hastings Liberal candidate George Cunningham and Mrs. Cunningham, plus other dignitaries such as Trenton Mayor Duncan McDonald, Sidney Township Reeve Jack Bush and Wilbur Moore, plant manager of Bata's footwear division.

At an informal press conference following a tour of facilities prepared by Bata, the federal minister fielded several questions on a number of recent public concerns as political figures intensify their campaigning for the upcoming federal election.

Dealing with the question of the three per cent increase in personal taxes, to come into effect this January, he said it is not really a rise in taxes, but actually temporary tax cuts being reinstated.

Furthermore, these are far outweighed by other tax cuts initiated January 1 of this year. "Phased in over several years, these are now worth more than the three per cent temporary tax cuts mentioned," he said.

Mr. Gray declined to comment on any future changes in the federal tax schedule, preferring to leave such announcements to federal finance minister John Turner.

Quoting several examples, the revenue minister cited recent tax reform legislation which establishes lower taxes "for all taxpayers" and taxpayers whose income comes from salary or wages, "plus the striking of one million Canadians from the tax rolls, and substantial reductions for approximately five million more."

For senior citizens, steps have been taken to increase exemption for those at age 65, plus a general tax decrease.

"A very substantial number of senior citizens will be removed from tax rolls completely. I would say married senior citizens from age 65 and over, will expect some per cent of lower taxes."

In addition, steps have been taken to increase the guaranteed income supplement to $50 per month for single persons and $225 for married couples, with payments under the GIS and old age security plans "fully escalated to increase with the increase in the cost of living."

"Canada now has the highest guaranteed income payments of any country in the world," he said.

In light of recent government statistics that show a slight decrease in the rate of unemployment, but still remain an area of concern, Mr. Gray said the government and Liberal party "won't be satisfied until every Canadian earnestly and seriously desires of working has a job. We are extending our efforts to help reduce unemployment rates.

"However, in spite of unemployment figures we have just seen, it can be said our record of creating jobs is substantially good if we compare it with other countries of the Western world."

Worker Electrocuted

TRENTON (Staff) — Port Hope man was killed while operating a hydraulic hoist from a flat-bed truck on a construction site on Highway 401 died instantly late Wednesday morning after coming in contact with 8,000-volt power lines.

James Morley Sunday, 37, of 40 Sherbourne St., Port Hope, was removing soil from the flat-bed truck on a hill overlooking Highway 401. Investigating officer Constable Ken Pratt of the Brucrest detachment OPP reports the worker was standing on the ground with a remote control cable in his hand.

Following his tour of Batawa, the member of parliament for Windsor West visited the Dominion plant in Trenton. The party then travelled to Belleville to meet with Hastings - Frontenac riding Liberal candidate Frank Falwell.

In conversation with both party workers and Mr. Falwell, the minister of revenue touched most of the key issues of the campaign, unemployment, foreign ownership and low income housing and described why so far little emphasis has been placed on the issues during the campaign.

"Opposition leaders have read our strength in Pierre Elliott Trudeau and have decided to wage a personal attack on him," he said.

Mr. Gray agreed the campaign was essentially of a "back-biting nature" so far but added as "the election progresses, more and more focus will be placed on issues."

After his meeting in the Belleville Shrine Club, Mr. Gray was taken downtown, to committee rooms to meet with more party workers.

fidence in the government and "openness" by a government willing to place itself at the servant of the people and not the people as the servants of the government.

"We are here," eliciting applause from the committee rooms crowded with local Conservatives, "because we believe this country can do better, because we believe that we can do better.

In an area where defence industries employ a large special — linked to Trenton's Canadian Forces Base — the Conservative leader was inevitably queried about his attitude to the armed forces.

"They don't know where they're going," he replied. "Their morale has been allowed to suffer."

Earlier, Mr. Stanfield's grassroots contact with Belleville's electorate lasted for more than 30 minutes — from the time he arrived with Frost and Campbell at noon to his speech at the Ellis campaign headquarters.

His handshaking trek down Front St. was punctuated by a banner-bearing young Conservatives, and The Jalopy, the Liberal party campaign vehicle drumming up background excitement from an antique jalopy.

Striding along with the party leader were Mr. Hayhe, Earl and Gills, Conservative incumbent in the area since 1957 and now retired.

Before the tour got under way Mr. Stanfield when his helicopter first touched down at the city's waterfront near the Ontario Cheese Producers' warehouse area — a stopover in a trip from Peterborough to Sault Ste. Marie.

The Stanfield visit wasn't an exclusive Belleville event, however. George Hees, MP Prince Edward-Hastings was campaigning in Trenton's area Saturday. Mr. Stanfield was thanked for his address by Hastings party organizer Earl Hawley — while the crowd which thronged the committee rooms had refreshments catered by Conservative Women's Association from Marmora and Deloro.

Liberal Leaders Really Socialists Says Candidate

Lifetime resident of Belleville and former city councillor, Allen Hampton (Ad.) Ketcheson, 269 Bridge Street, died in Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday. He was in his 79th year.

A veteran of two world wars, Mr. Ketcheson was a member of the 39th Battalion, First Machine Gun Company in World War I with the rank of major and had served 26 years with the Belleville Income Tax Department, retiring in 1960 as chief assessor.

He served on city council as alderman in 1934 and 1935.

Born in the city of United Empire Loyalist parentage, Mr. Ketcheson was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Ketcheson and took a keen interest in sports. After World War I he played city hockey and took an active part in the formation of the former Belleville Golf Club on the city's then existing outskirts.

He was also associated with the Bay of Quinte Golf Club and was an ardent angler.

He was a member of St. Thomas Church, where he was a former church warden and also belonged to Royal Canadian Legion Branch 89 and The Belleville Club.

Mr. Ketcheson is survived by his wife, the former Helen Ward, a son, Allen "Ward" Ketcheson of Moose Factory, Ont., and a daughter Mrs. Robin W. W. (Tory) Fraser of Toronto, and five grandchildren, Melinda and Susan Ketcheson and Morna, Kirsten and Jeffrey Fraser.

There are two brothers, Brigadier Donald D. Ketcheson, Toronto and E. Clifford Ketcheson of Vancouver, B.C. and two sisters Mrs. A. J. (Marion) Webster and Mrs. Murray (Thyra) Denike, both of Toronto.

Two brothers, Major P. Kenneth Ketcheson and Clare M. Ketcheson predeceased him.

The funeral will be held Saturday from the Thompson Funeral Chapel to St. Thomas' Church where service will be conducted at 11 a.m. by Rev. Peter Tett. Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery.

Man Suffers Head Injuries

A Belleville man was taken to Kingston General Hospital last night after his car slid into a ditch along Wallbridge-Loyalist Road.

Martin Joseph Walsh of 125 Lingham Street is reported conscious with a head injury and scalp lacerations.

His 1967 Chevrolet ended up in the ditch at 12:55 a.m. at the second concession of Sidney Township. Damage to the car totalled $500.

The Candidates Line Up

Six candidates in Hastings and Prince Edward - Hastings square off against a four - member panel and an audience of 200 during All-Candidates Night Wednesday. From left are Eldridge Brethour, Richard Lamb, Jack Ellis, George Hees, Frank Follwell and George Cunningham. No one commented on the seating arrangement which had Liberals positioned to the right of the Conservatives.

Candidates Face Barrage of Questions

By BRIAN AMARON
Staff Reporter

Party platforms came out for another airing at All-Candidates Night in Belleville Wednesday.

But despite the election propaganda, none of the 300 persons in Centennial Secondary School auditorium went home without some glimpses into the personalities of the men for whom they'll be voting Oct. 30.

The Progressive Conservatives presented two contrasting styles in their efforts to regain their parliamentary seats.

There was George Hees, veteran incumbent for Prince Edward - Hastings, neatly sidestepping the issue of high unemployment during the Diefenbaker regime by pointing out the low annual rise in cost of living.

Jack Ellis, former Belleville mayor and PC candidate in Hastings, based his appeal on local issues, stating that an 11 per cent reduction in sales tax on building materials would stimulate the county's already booming construction industry.

The Liberals, too, drew from different corners for their two candidates.

George Cunningham, competing in Prince Edward - Hastings, was decidedly outspoken as he blasted former Liberal Cabinet ministers Eric Kierans and Paul Hellyer for "calling sour grapes" before walking out of the government.

Cunningham's elder companion was Frank Follwell, former MP trying again in Hastings. He was a veteran which was largely a family affair. His father Teddy was an original labor organizer, "his wife Jean runs a business, his son Jim is wrestling on a farm and he himself has tried almost everything," he said.

The New Democrats were given renewed hope this year with their first-ever full-time candidates in this area.

Richard Lenz, journalism professor at Ryerson Institute in Toronto, was the heartiest scholar. When questioned about the Canadian penal system, he quipped, "The NDP's first step would be to give Solicitor - General Jean-Pierre Goyer a second honeymoon in Spain," alluding to Lucien Rivard's journey to Barcelona while on leave from St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary.

Mr. Lenz is a candidate in Prince Edwards - Hastings.

His counterpart in Hastings is Eldridge Brethour, Bancroft fuel oil distributor. Mr. Brethour got off one of the evening's best lines when, after Jack Ellis' opening interrupted him, he commented, "There go the Conservatives trying to beat us out again."

The questions, from a four-member panel and from the audience, covered a broad range of topics including unemployment, make-work programs, pensions, drugs, women's rights, the right to strike, northern oil deposits, bilingualism, Canadian unity and the armed forces.

On the latter subject, Mr. Hees said a Conservative government would restore the armed forces to "where they were before Prime Minister Trudeau hurt morale." Canada's NATO commitment would be doubled from its present status, adhered to a policy of defence through superior strength.

Another subject of local interest was the unemployment insurance situation and delays in benefit payments.

Mr. Hees blamed the government's "callous attitude" for this, while Mr. Cunningham said the solution lay in "decentralization" of payments centres.

Mr. Lenz said the NDP would create a self-supporting pension fund that would promise the elderly livable earnings after retirement.

Questioned about women in today's society, Mr. Brethour commented that the NDP was fielding twice as many female candidates for the coming election as the other two parties combined.

One member of the audience asked Mr. Brethour why he thought Ontario Premier William Davis's endorsement of Robert Stanfield and the federal Conservatives indicated the premier might be eyeing a national political berth. Mr. Hees replied: "Mr. Davis is just fed up to the teeth with his negotiations with Ottawa," to which one wag rebutted, "They don't believe that in Nova Scotia."

Mr. Follwell was caught off guard when it was asked there was no mention of unemployment or inflation in his campaign folder. He told the critic, "I didn't write that folder. I read it before it was printed though." He promised to check the folder in the morning.

The Conservatives and NDP both had immediate solutions to current high unemployment rates, the PC's promising to slash personal income taxes by 10 per cent, the NDP by eight per cent.

Such a move would also put an end to "temporary, make-shift" programs such as Opportunities For Youth and Local Initiatives Programs which, according to Mr. Hees offer "no future, . . . to the young trying to start a family."

Mr. Cunningham lay much of the blame for economic fluctuations on the Canadian public.

"We should invest in things that would create jobs," he said. "But we are notorious for buying on time X number of things and this is what causes depressions."

Although the evening was sponsored by the Quinte District Labor Council, the audience was largely made up of young students, including a sizeable contingent of Liberal supporters from Trenton High School.

The panel was made up of William Hoecker and Bert Gerling of Belleville, Kevin Quinn, a student at Prince Edward Collegiate and Carl Eisenberg of Loyalist College.

Moderator was CJBQ's Milt Johnston.

Candidates' Calendar

The following is a summary of the activities of candidates in the October 30 federal election for today and tomorrow of which The Intelligencer has been informed:

FRIDAY

PC Jack Ellis is on the Belleville coffee party circuit with a 10 a.m. date with voters at the home of Mrs. Ruth Anne Thomlinson. He plans considerable door - to - door canvassing before attending a Thurlow PC Association "Jack Ellis Night" at Club Cedars in the evening. Here euchre will be the attraction from 8 to 9:30 p.m. and dancing to an orchestra from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. The Hastings New Democratic candidate Eldridge Brethour will spend Friday meeting the people at party committee rooms at 411 Dundas West as well as canvassing Belleville homes.

Liberal Frank Follwell will spend from 10 to 11 a.m. in his Belleville committee rooms, heading for Bancroft in the afternoon to meet the main street shoppers and visit Centennial Manor. He will be in Trenton from 5 p.m. meeting constituents employed at CFB Trenton.

Conservative George Hees in Prince Edward - Hastings will spend an hour in the morning discussing issues with students of Trenton High School before going to Campbellford and Seymour township to campaign the rest of the day.

Like Mr. Hees, George Cunningham will also spend an hour talking over party policies with Trenton highschoolers. His afternoon will be spent in Picton, primarily at the Liberal committee rooms there. At 8 p.m. Mr. Cunningham will be attending the Firemen's Ball at CFB Trenton. The NDP's Richard Lamb will be campaigning door-to-door in the riding before heading for a television engagement on Ottawa's CJOH TV, broadcast in this area over Channel Six.

Naturalist's Treasure Found Near Napanee

A group of Enterprise Public School children found a naturalist's treasure yesterday which would sell on the Arabian black market for at least $10,000.

The students from Enterprise, 10 miles north of Napanee, were walking in the bush when they found a peregrine falcon with a crippled wing.

The students, not knowing exactly what their treasure was, picked up the bird and took him back to school to show the teacher.

Positive identification was not available until employees of the Napanee office of the ministry of natural resources arrived at the school to take custody of the bird.

Chief ranger E. W. Ferguson of Napanee said "Children are good like this when they see an injured animal. It is a basic instinct to take care of it."

The peregrine falcon is extremely rare in this country and has become subject to numerous studies because of its depleting numbers.

Pesticides and DDT have done their work, ruining the consistency of the falcon's eggs, making them too thin to keep the egg alive.

So rare, in fact, is the peregrine variety that Mr. Ferguson, a ranger for 26 years, has seen only four in flight and never one in hand.

The bird was brought to the Belleville Animal Hospital where Dr. Harry Burns volunteered his services to mend the wing.

Handled with heavy duty gloves, the bird was laid in all manner of contortions to have X-rays which showed later the wing was not broken but out of joint.

During the examination Dr. Burns several times had to whisk his hand away from the bird saying, "I have all kinds of respect for that bird and his bill."

The bird had twice drawn blood from handlers who did not take the precaution of wearing gloves.

Once examined, the bird was wrapped up in adhesive tape, immobilling both of his wings.

The doctor was confident the wing would heal but mentioned it would be three weeks before the bird was completely well and it would be a matter of keeping him until that time.

In previous efforts, the bird had turned up his nose to foods offered by the rangers.

In Europe, the birds are used for hunting ducks in the air, giving them the common name of duck hawk.

Through conservation legislation in Canada it is illegal to keep a bird in captivity for this purpose.

If the wing heals, the bird will be returned to the wild but, if the wing is unsatisfactory, other plans to keep the bird will be made.

Guest of honor at the Belleville General hospital yesterday was a young, male peregrine falcon found near Enterprise by school children. The bird was grounded with an injured wing. Ministry of natural resources spokesman said he was not sure if the bird was from the area or had migrated but in either case it is one of the rarest birds in North America, facing extinction. Holding the bird is naturalist resource employee Jack Stewart.

Overpass Grant Made

Announcement was made yesterday of a $500,000 grant to the Belleville and Suburban Roads commission for the construction of an overhead bridge across Canadian National tracks in Sidney township.

The grant comes as part of an urban affairs department program for relocation of railway lines and the construction of new roadway viaducts.

Total cost of the overpass to be built on Wallbridge-Loyalist Road on the township's second concession is about $700,000.

Plans for the overpass are only now beginning to be prepared by county roads officials.

Regional Vote

When the people of Galt go to the polls on October 16 they will choose a new mayor from the three candidates running and they will select a new name — either Blair or Cambridge — for an expanded community embracing Galt, Preston, Hespeler and smaller communities.

To the people who will live under the new form of regional government the picture is confusing. According to The Galt Reporter, candidates for office are finding there are few who really understand the new format anticipated with implementation of regional government.

Despite widespread publicity the newspaper observes that most electors "still are very hazy on many of the important points." Understandable, says The Reporter, since "the system of elections, representation and administration, which have been the practice for more than a century, are relegated to historical discard."

Meanwhile there are three candidates for the office of mayor of the new city. They are incumbent Gordon Rouse, Claudette Millar who already has three years experience as Mayor of Preston, and Douglas Hancock.

It is an interesting contest and all the more so for the participation in the race of the attractive Mrs. Millar. Interesting too from the standpoint of regional government which clearly is receiving a lacklustre response from the public. It will be an important vote the people of Galt and area make when they go to the polls next week.

PM Warns of Consequences

Quebec Separatism Now Discussed More Openly

by Richard JACKSON

OTTAWA — It is reasonably safe, now that Pierre Trudeau himself keeps coming back to it, to talk about Quebec separatism without being called a bigot.

For a long time it was not the wisest course to even hint of it here in the Capital where the some small "I" liberal circles, worship of the "French Fact," as they reverently call it, became almost a religion.

To speak of separatism was to be a trouble-maker unless the precaution was taken to equate Quebec separatism with what the nationalizers called Western "alienation."

It was unforgivable to suggest that separation was not something for Quebec alone to decide.

And to even hint that the other provinces, or even the federal government might have something to say about it, or perhaps, horrors, should be consulted, was to be regarded as a hopeless neanderthal impertinent.

But now that is all changed. People and across the land, more courageous than cautious souls in Ottawa, have been putting it to the Prime Minister and he has been openly discussing the subject so long tucked under the Capital's rug.

That it was kept bolted up under the carpet with the Prime Minister only now pulling out the cork, might attend to the suspicions that once again, as he did in 1968, he is running hard as the great unifier of a divided country, the one leader able to hold the country together.

So okay, admit that, and it is still a plus that Trudeau is talking about and including in, making public discussion of Quebec separation no longer distasteful but acceptable.

In Labrador City, the Prime Minister has said he does not think Quebec would separate, but if it should, then Canada could not survive.

"If the country were to break up in the middle as it were," he said, "I don't think much of it would remain together as a country.

"I imagine some bits would become independent on their own and other bits would become annexed to the United States or ask the United States for annexation.

"So let's not let it happen."

With Parti Quebecois leader Rene Levesque and his separatists publicly taking the position in their party rallies that separation is a matter to be decided simply by vote, the Prime Minister has raised the key question:

By a vote of whom?

Not by Quebec alone, he has made it plainly clear.

Just what people in which sections of the country could share in such a referendum" if separation got that far — would have to be the real question asked and answered, the Prime Minister has made plain.

Which raises a second question — that of the vote in Quebec itself — as to whether English-speaking enclaves in the province such as Westmount and Notre Dame de Grace in Montreal, Pontiac in the western counties and Brome in the Eastern Townships could void, if secede from secession.

And a third question: what about those sections of Quebec which were no part of the province at the outset but were created by the federal government after confederation?

Would these sections — huge tracts of the province's northern area — be regarded as part of Quebec or as Canada?

With the Prime Minister officially having made debate on separation respectable, there can be no crying of "bigot" if some Canadian "terms" be set down.

Should Quebec separatists go for broke with a vote for "independence," then Canadians have a right to know, and the government and opposition have the immediate, duty to inform all concerned of the position in dealing with the following areas and interests:

Control of the Seaway — is it conceivable that a separate Quebec could proclaim sovereignty over the St. Lawrence?

Land bridge for Maritimes through Quebec linking Central and Atlantic Canada.

The railway system.

Air Canada.

The Trans-Canada Highway.

Other federal and Canadian-owned assets in Quebec.

Quebec's share of the national debt.

Federalists living in Quebec and separatists in other parts of Canada particularly Eastern and Northern Ontario.

Another Look At Hockey

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

When you write letters to newspapers challenging the successfully of Canada's ice hockey supremacy, overnight you become an "intellectual giant" and "walking encyclopedia".

Time indeed were the remarks of your two correspondents in Saturday's Intelligencer. The very flowery adjectives that filled the pages of letters I received from the Toronto area indicated that the writers did not agree with me either.

However, I am sure Team Canada's victory replenished their supply of red blood corpuscles and restored their faith in the myth that the maple leaf is synonymous with puck supperiority over the rest of the world.

And it may well be so. If we send teams that play as Canada did in the final period of the concluding game there would be few that could beat us.

If we elect to send teams that conduct themselves as we did in the first period, not only will we be handicapped in the art of arena in the rest of the world, we could very well be an international incident of dangerous proportions. Many a blood bath has stemmed from international sporting confrontations that have come out of Canada.

I cannot claim to know as much about hockey as do my friends who told me the Canadian Russia series would be the "greatest". But it is a shame for our professional athletes to be so unwilling to learn a thing much about the finer aspects of refereeing. However, I am pleased to see from the views of two gentlemen that have been interviewed on hockey scene for some time, Mr. Robert Marvin Hull and Mr. Punch Imlach.

Mr. Hull found, little to war about considering the way officiating of the arics of some of our players, and knowledgeable impartial observers could see little wrong with the referees' performance.

Perhaps the pelting of the German referees by the Canadian rink-side chicken fanciers while Dieief between games is an old Canadian custom. If so I think we should have advised them what to expect.

Perhaps next two correspondents might like to dwell on the reaction in the German press — "Hooligans on Ice" — and the lack of restraint the referees in Europe must not be surprised at that find the natives adopting the attitude whether when faced by a Canadian visitor — they'll be damned if they will be pushed over the head with a hockey stick.

And, as Mr. Hull pointed out, rest be surprised if young Canadians don't start preparing toward violence in minor hockey. After all he will be following the example of his professional heroes.

Long favour the Canada-Russia series. Was it really necessary for our team to attack the referee after the game as only word for it. That little outing left a bad taste in the mouth of many and representation that did us no good. The Czech players with their ice spill open by the attentions of one of our red blooded sporting ambassadors and ended only to emphasize a completely unnecessary animal spp ness to the game.

Let's stick to hockey as it is played in the final period of the concluding game and the Canada Cup will be won hand back and admire us.

Now I'll take "Maybe Change's" advice and watch a hockey game. Being a "walking encyclopedia on politics, religion, sports and education is darn tiring — almost as tiring as sticking one's head in the sand.

WILLIAM C. HOCKLEY

Big Wind

That was rather a big wind in the Quinte area Saturday afternoon and to some extent overnight Sunday too. It brought power breaks to many, including one householder across the Bay early Saturday afternoon and continuing through to early evening.

Just before midnight it went off again. The operator on the Hydro switchboard informed our friend after the second break that the emergency crew had been on the go for long hours and indicated it might be first thing in the morning before repairs could be made.

Around 3 a.m. the township resident awoke to find the light on in the bedroom. Thus he had his power back earlier than anticipated. But what happens when the really cold weather comes and there is the possibility of such a delay?

There has been a strike in hydro and management has been carrying on as best it may. It seems someone had a tough grind at the weekend keeping up with the repair work. But we repeat, what of the public in such circumstances? And what of the quality of the equipment that seems so prone to storm damage? Our friend tells us this is not the first time he has experienced power breaks. The last time was mid winter.

Does the Shoe Fit?

Canadians rude? And if not, then why all this continuing hassle over Team Canada's performance? Why the over-reaction in some quarters? Is this not a sure sign that the shoe fits, that the charge sticks?

But let's forget hockey for a moment — let's keep a sense of proportion — and consider the complaints concerning the difficulty some citizens are experiencing in cashing cheques at a Belleville bank. Of course a bank, of necessity, must take precautions in such matters, but that seems to be less of a problem in this case than is the attitude of the bank's staff. If we are not a notably polite people — on or off the ice — we should at least cultivate what is termed common courtesy.

Multi-Racial Mosaic That Is Trinidad and Tobago

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Trinidad and Tobago, the Commonwealth Caribbean nation embracing two islands, is a crossroads country. Trinidadians are multi racial. They may have Spanish names but speak little Spanish, or East Indian and Arabic names, but often speak no Hindi or Arabic.

Trinidad is also the Commonwealth Caribbean island nation farthest from Canada and closest to South America. Her traditional economic and industrial ties have been with the affluent industrial nations like Britain and ourselves, her future political ones may have to take more regard of events in the Caribbean and Latin America.

The long flurry of guerrilla activity in Venezuela, minutes away by air from Port-of-Spain, might have spilled over into the 1970 "black power" riots in Trinidad, the culprit in both instances, possibly roaming Cuban experts in revolution.

Though small physically, minuscule compared to Jamaica or the Dominican Republic, or other Caribbean neighbors, Trinidad has perhaps the most competent public service in the Commonwealth Caribbean and a broad base of highly-skilled and realistic public officials.

Many of the best of them must "double in brass" as Trinidad's roles expand in industrial development and diplomacy. Hence Sir Ellis Clarke the new Governor-General of Trinidad previously served in a triple role in Washington as his first country's ambassador to the United States, Mexico and the Organization of American States.

Bernard V. Primuk, chairman of the Trinidad and Tobago Industrial Development Corporation, is another multi-faceted Trinidadian. He also serves as chairman of Trinidad-Tesoro, the former British Petroleum Holdings in the country jointly owned by the Trinidad government and U.S. private oil interests.

He is also chairman of the Trinidad Sugar Products Limited, which he described as a Toronto business-hunting trip, as "the new joint venture".

"It is part of a pattern we are following . . . bringing in a foreign partner on whose technical skill we have to rely, as well as the national identity of business, with minority interests held for example, by the cane farmers association and trade unions . . . ," he said.

Sugar Because Products Limited is Super cent owned by IDC, itself a Crown Corporation. German specialists in bagasse production for particle board hold 26 per cent. The rest is distributed among national minority groups representing some of the traditionally influential commercial and labor groups in Trinidad.

On the surface, government in Trinidad as in other emerging Caribbean states, appears to play too prominent a role, with freedom to participate in a foreign-owned company shows a too rapid pay-off from initial capital investment.

The local industry for example is dominated by the government—which owns outright the Trinidad Hilton and has 35 per cent ownership in the new Holiday Inn in Port-of Spain. Since Conrad Hilton never even most of his foreign hotels, including the once busy Havana Hilton, built before Castro with a $7.7 million loan from the Cuban hotel caterers' unions, this trend should not disturb the would-be investor.

What should please them is Trinidad's effort at a middle way in a region where arbitrary takeover of foreign enterprise without compensation is more and more the trend.

Mr. Primuk obviously believes, as does his government, that essential pressures for national identity and equally essential needs for transfers of foreign investment funds and technology to Trinidad competing heavily for these will other Caribbean nations, can be worked out in this new joint venture concept.

What Mr. Primuk must have is time to make it work.

Bank Rules

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Regarding the letter from "First Part" (Tues. Oct. 2), I wish to add my voice to hers.

I too tried to cash a cheque at the Mall. I will grant the bank the right to refuse to cash my cheque but rudeness I do not have to accept. I did have a cheque and on the back was proof I would run short, I left The Mall immediately. What these people do not seem to realize is that I do have credit in Belleville and I do not need the Mall. It may cost me a few cents to park downtown, I do not problem even on Saturday finding an empty meter, but I have found the courtesy and service I receive more than compensate.

There is only one way to "win" and that is to take your money and business elsewhere. Make your education felt.

A Bump or Two Too Many

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

What does on here? Last weekend when I stopped at a service station for gas the attendent remarked about the damage to the right side of the car.

This was how I discovered that once again I had been the victim of a hit-and-run driver in a local parking lot. The damage has been estimated at $161. by a respectable body shop here in the city.

This happens to be the third time in a little over five years that we have lived here that this has occurred, whereas I do not recall a single instance of it in over 15 years driving and parking in Toronto.

If any of your readers can suggest how to prevent being victimized in this way — since than by leaving one's car at home — I would be very pleased indeed to read their recommendations.

Farm Policy Revision Called for by Liberals

LONDON, Ont. — Peter MacKinnon, Liberal candidate in Frontenac - Lennox and Addington, has called for government support for agricultural exports.

He was one of 12 Liberal rural riding candidates in Southern Ontario who have drafted a five-point agricultural policy aimed at cultivating the farm vote.

They decided to campaign for:

—A national sugar-beet policy and re-establishment of the industry;

—A two-price marketing system;

—Preservation of the family farm;

—Encouragement of short-term, seasonal labor;

—Better local crop shortage facilities.

Mr. MacKinnon, past chairman of the Ontario Wheat Producers' Marketing Board, told the seminar:

"We are calling for stronger marketing legislation to protect our domestic markets against the unfair dumping practices of other countries. We are calling for government support for agricultural exports in order to assist us to compete with subsidized exports from other nations.

"I just refuse to contract with the treasuries of other countries."

Therefore, the candidates are for a two-price system for all farm products — a domestic price and a lower one, if necessary, for export.

"The industry is strong but it could be stronger," Eugene Whelan of Essex said after introducing the policy platform.

A sugar beet policy would call for a 25-per-cent domestic sugar content in Canadian consumption.

Gus Sonnevald, from Lambton - Kent riding, said Iowa will also benefit from re-establishment of the sugar-beet industry with the opening of refineries.

The candidates said the federal government should urge the Ontario government to exempt farmers from succession duties "so that farms can be passed from generation to generation."

"The government should recognize in the tax law that a farmer's pension is in his equity in his farm."

Why risk an empty heating oil tank on a blizzardy day?
Shell offers two words of advice to homeowners: Automatic Refill.
Automatic Refill is how Shell makes sure you don't run out of heating oil. The first time you purchase Shell heating oil, we start a record of your oil consumption and relate it to weather records and forecasts. We use a mathematical formula to figure how much oil you'll need during the year, and exactly when you'll need a refill. You won't end up the day of a blizzard saying: "I can't believe we used the whole tank." Call us soon.

It's called
CASH-FLOW
This is our new way of turning your personal loan wishes into reality. It's the money you're earning that counts most with us, not your possessions. Here's why.
You're probably basing many of your major expenditures on a cash-flow system right now. For example, you figure how much money you'll have coming in over a period of a year, and how much you plan to spend during the same period. This difference between income and expenditure is your guide to the amount you may comfortably borrow.
That's what our cash-flow way of lending you money is all about. Simple enough, isn't it?

Successful Living

The Value of Kindness Must Be Taught

By DORIS CLARK

Kindness and Compassion: The importance of kindness must only be friends but to all whom we meet — the humble the poor, the aged—yes, even those whom we do not like. Mercy said, "These are a couple of the values which should get incorporated into personality from the very beginning."

Who will teach these values to our young charges? Mothers and Dads, we hope; churches and church schools; and shouldn't they be part of any good elementary school curriculum?

Thoughtlessness and rudeness have no place in the high class personality; tin cans on dogs' tails are in the same category! To be kind is to be truly well-balanced, poised, mature.

Dear Doris: I am 29 years old, married to a wonderful man and have five children from eight years to two years. Doctors have made many tests and they just say "nerves". The "nerve pills" do nothing. My symptoms are: dizziness, sweating, difficulty in breathing and swallowing, seeing double the odd time, pains all over my body.

I sound like quite a mess, don't I? Well, believe me, I feel I am living in Hell! Can you help me or do you know of anyone who can?

I don't think I can hang on much longer. Suicide has been in my mind for some time and it scares me. — Four Terrible Years.

Dear Four: Any woman with five young children is entitled to nervous fatigue; but you sound worse than that.

I'd want to know about any emotional turmoil you are bottling up; what gives when it comes to sex relations; worrisome about children or money or in-laws.

We humans are a mixed up lot; we are physical, mental and emotional beings, and you can't keep this assortment separated out. Perhaps if you were to talk with a social worker and get help in straightening out your human conflicts (even if you think you haven't any), your physical pains would go away.

Dear Doris: In your column was a very nice write-up from a retired gentleman and his gardening hobby. My husband is also retired, and has time for his garden, growing vegetables and flowers.

I would like to order copies of Rose Potpourri and Rose Petal Wine recipes, for which I am enclosing 20 cents. — Gardener's Wife.

Dear Wife: The two recipes are on one sheet so the cost is 20 cents, myself guessed.

To my mind, gardening is one of the greatest of hobbies. To be able to put a seed or a tiny plant in the ground and watch it sprout and grow into an abundance of greenery then into flower or crisp fresh vegetable—it is exciting! Reminds me of Kathleen Milley's poem: "I believe in God Because"

For I have seen it now. And I believe in God For I have watched a small seed grow From out the ground where nothing was into a Golden Glow!"

WEDDING

SMITH—BURLEY

Rev. Leslie Dean, assisted by Father Ken Stitt performed the September 23 wedding ceremony in Tabernacle United Church of Judith Elizabeth Burley and Danny Alexander Smith. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas P. Burley of Belleville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith of Toronto. The organist, Robert Leslie rendered traditional wedding music to accompany the soloist, Mrs. Charles Drennan.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected a polyester crepe dress which was enhanced by an overskirt of Swiss embroidered organza, a high neckline and long sleeves. A train of the matching material was attached to her dress. The bride also wore a matching hat and carried a bouquet of pink and yellow roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Heather Forgie of Belleville, was attired in a yellow polyester crepe dress which featured long yellow chiffon sleeves, a round neckline and an overskirt. The matching floppy hat of the same material was accented by a yellow ribbon. She carried a bouquet of mauve and yellow mums.

Miss Tammy Burley, as her sister's bridesmaid, was dressed in a similar dress to the maid of honor only in mauve and she carried a bouquet of mauve and yellow mums.

The best man was Gerald Shapiro of Toronto while Robert Bronson, cousin of the bride and Michael Larue of Cornwall, cousin of the bridegroom, were ushers.

For the reception, which was held at the Royal Canadian Legion, the bride's mother wore a mauve print cotton and dress ensemble which was complemented by a corsage of tinted pink and white mums and lace accessories.

The bridegroom's mother was attired in a purple long sleeved sheath dress which was adorned by a corsage of yellow mums. Beige accessories completed her dress.

For the wedding trip to the east coast, the bride donned a white and navy pant suit.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside at 29 Lower Cornella Rd., Apt. 406, Willowdale.

Ann Landers

No Smoking in New Car

Dear Ann Landers: I need your advice as to whether or not to let my mother smoke in my new car.

I just received the car a week ago. I told my mother that neither she nor anyone else is allowed to smoke in it. I have to put up with her smoking in the house, because I have no choice, but this car is my property and I think I have the right to make the rules.

My parents gave me $1,000 for a graduation present. I took out a loan for another $1,000 and bought the car. This is the only place where I can escape from mom's smoking. She says it is not my car until the loan is paid off, but since I am the one who has to make the payments each month, I figure I own it.

Mom gets very mad at me the other day when I told her to put out her cigarette. I really thought she was going to hit me. All I ask is that you tell me whether or not I should allow my mother to help kill herself in my car.—Smoked Out.

Dear Smoked: If you don't want mom smoking in your car, that should settle it. If the situation were reversed, and it was your mother's car, I'd tell her the same thing. More power to you.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm married to a man who recently had his I.Q. tested and he was classified "near genius." It's too bad he had himself tested because now he is impossible to live with.

No matter what I say, he challenges me. He assumes he is right because his I.Q. is higher than mine. When we disagree about a quotation, an author, a statistic or any fact that can be checked and I show him that he is wrong and I am right he says, "That authority is not the final word." This sort of thing drives me up the wall. How does one deal with a person who is bull-headed, immature, arrogant, ungracious, overbearing, domineering, destructive and a bore?—Frustrated.

Dear Frus: I get the feeling you don't care much for that fella. Your problems started long before he had his I.Q. tested. You don't say how old you are, how long you've been married, whether or not you have children, etc. My advice is to get some counselling and explore the root of the problem (I call it a marriage) and learn whether or not you want to spend the rest of your life fighting it. One thing is certain, Mr. Einstein is not going to change. The questions are—can you live with it, and do you want to?

Dear Ann Landers: My heart aches for that woman who cried moving back to Benton Harbor, Michigan, because she doesn't want to have her father "hanging around for lunch every day."

My father died three years ago and I still think about him every day of my life. I thank God for the years I had my dad around to give my own children and pieces of his philosophy. They will be the richer for having known him.

One of these days that selfish little lady will sit alone and wonder why her own children don't want to be bothered with her. Kids who use their parents ignore grandma and grandpa set an example. Our children have a strange way of not doing as we say—but doing as we do. Tell her, please.—My Father's Daughter

Dear Daughter: She's been told—and I want to thank you for adding a dimension to this column that could come only from a reader such as you.

Chapter Plans Events For New Season

The first Wednesday of October found the members of the Argyll Chapter IODE eagerly looking forward to the coming season.

The regent Mrs. B. Milroy conducted the meeting and expressed the Chapter's sympathy to Mrs. Jack Cassidy, honorary regent, on the loss of her husband J. C. Cassidy. Also to the family of Mrs. J. McLeod, who was for many years a valuable member. Thank you notes in appreciation of financial assistance were received from Summer Project '72 Moira Secondary School, which allowed them to serve many more hot meals than planned and from the Central Volunteer Bureau who were able to buy much needed educational toy for the use of handicapped children's enclosure.

Mrs. C. Bristol, civil defence secretary, read an article from the EMO Digest on bomb threats and of the two kinds of bombs used — explosive and incendiary.

The Chapter has been asked to financially help support the construction of an IODE float which will be part of the Grey Cup parade to be held in Hamilton this November.

It was decided that in the future new Canadian citizens, Hastings County would be presented with a book entitled "101 Reasons for Being Proud to be a Canadian".

A combined parentage and bake sale will be held in the Belleville Armory Oct. 20 at 8 p.m. The annual Winter Fantasy ball will be held Sat. Jan. 20.

The regent conducted a pleasant ceremony installing Mrs. R. Henderson to the Chapter.

Mrs. F. Sprague and group served refreshments which was followed by an auction and green plant sale — a lucky draw was won by Mrs. R. Allan.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CORWELL

Is lukewarm friendship worthwhile?

CERTAINLY; it takes all kinds to people an individual's world. Close friends as well as bitter enemies. Every friendship need not be a personification of Damon and Pythias. A person who has very firm friends as well as some who are not so close may derive more enjoyment from friendship because he knows he won't be entirely friendless should a disagreement crop up—something that frequently happens to one who has only close friends.

What a wife talk your car off?

YES; and you better listen to her, too. Never mind any of this: "Will you shut up a minute, dear? I want to hear this newscast." Turn the radio or TV off while you're having dinner, if you can't listen to it and your wife without irritation. If your wife is "going a mile a minute" telling you about her day, she believes you are interested in what she has to say because she loves you enough to think you are interested in her.

Does a brilliant tot scare a parent?

SOMETIMES an exceptionally bright child will worry a mother or father. Not Dad, a father, say, is afraid his tiny daughter who shows clear signs of having well above average intelligence will eventually outsmart him. What does concern the father is the fear that he will fail to help his daughter develop her full potential, but also that he might mismanage her upbringing and cause her to experience mental and emotional difficulties.

School Workshop for Slow Pupils

The newly-formed South Shore Community Services Association is building a school workshop for children with learning disabilities.

The building, to be custom-built on an eight-acre farm three miles from here, is expected to be ready to accomodate 40 to 50 pupils by the end of October.

The municipal school board, the Nova Scotia education department and the education faculty of Acadia University in Wolfville, N.S., are taking part in the project.

A mobile diagnostic demonstration treatment centre will be set up in the school where persons in the community, especially in the school system, will be evaluated and given treatment to help them towards better intellectual achievement.

Dr. David Baker, executive secretary of the South Shore Community Services Association, says the centre will help not only those classified as mentally retarded or those with learning disabilities.

"A great many persons who are by every available test known to be of normal category, may be able to do better terms with if their sight problems and hearing disabilities are fixed up."

The diagnostic unit will be under the direction of Dr. Gerald Tillemans, professor of special education at Acadia University. In co-operation with Dr. Donald MacDonald, head of Acadia's education department.

Medical coverage will be given by the staff of the Izaak Walton Killam Hospital for Children in Halifax.

Those working in the school workshop hope to find better means of preparing disadvantaged young people for a fuller life while providing them with some academic education.

Dr. Baker said emphasis will be placed on family living and vocational training commensurate with the children's ability. The aim will be to develop their potential and help them relate to ordinary living in a rural community.

The building provides 14,000 square feet of space and is being built at a cost of $270,000. Equipment will cost an additional $65,000 to $70,000.

Changing levels and the use of smaller spaces within larger ones in the building are designed to provide a situation for relaxation and communication in which students can be reached and drawn out.

MR. AND MRS. STEVEN DOUGLAS CASSELMAN

Casselman – Stickle

Rev. Alexander McDowell officiated at the double-ring ceremony in Eastminster United Church, Belleville, on Saturday September 30, 1972, when Elaine Marie Stickle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant E. Stickle, Belleville, became the bride of Steven Douglas Casselman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Casselman, also of Belleville, George R. Shaw, church organist, provided traditional wedding music.

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of Swiss dot over taffeta with the fitted bodice featuring a square neckline and long full sleeves with tight fitting cuffs which were accented with appliqued lace trim. Matching lace trim also enhanced the hemline and around the waist from which extended a chapel train of Swiss dot edged with appliqued lace. A four - tier shoulder length veil was caught to a floral headdress of lace, and she carried a bouquet of yellow shasta daisies interningled with Talisman roses, baby's breath and fern.

Mrs. William (Connie) Skelly, sister of the bride from Pierrefonds, Quebec, was matron of honor wearing a full-length A-line gown of harvest gold lightweight velvet with shirring on the bodice and around the waistline, with a high neckline and full length tapered sleeves. She carried a wicker basket containing yellow shasta daisies, cornflowers and fern, and wore golden velvet ribbon in her hair.

Bridesmaids Mrs. Barry (Carol) Stickle, Belleville, sister-in-law of the bride and Miss Sean Hart of London were identically attired to the matron of honor, but in emerald green velvet, with matching velvet ribbon in their hair. Both carried identical baskets of flowers.

The bridegroom was attended by John Pugsley of Toronto and the ushers were Terry Casselman of Foxboro and David Casselman of Belleville, both brothers of the bridegroom.

A reception was held in the Holland Room at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall, where the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a full length gown of apricot shade chiffon over taffeta with the fitted bodice featuring a square neckline and long full sleeves enhanced with ruffles. A gracefully flowing skirt of chiffon extended from a self-cummerband at the waistline. She wore contrasting chocolate brown accessories with a corsage of white carnations and Woburn Abbey rosebuds, with matching rosebuds in her hair. Assisting in the receiving line, the bridegroom's mother wore a full length coat dress of polyester crepe in multicolor fall shades with the neckline, three - quarter sleeves and the front of the gown outlined with gold braid. Complementing her gown she wore brown accessories and a corsage of yellow Sweetheart rosebuds, with matching yellow rosebuds in her hair.

Master of ceremonies at the reception was John Mowat of Ottawa. Music was provided for dancing for the remainder of the evening.

Leaving on a short honeymoon trip, the bride donned a three-piece red and navy blue plaid ensemble consisting of tunic and full length skirt with navy blue sweater, navy blue accessories and a corsage of red Sweetheart rosebuds.

Mr. and Mrs. Casselman will reside at 112 Progress Ave., Apt. 4, Belleville.

New Approach to Fashion Show

The lively 'New Generation' theme song set the pace for a colorful cosmopolitan fashion showing for fall and winter fashions '72 at Wednesday evening's Road to Fashion show at St. Joseph's School, McIntosh Bros. Stores designed the show and seating while St. Joseph's Catholic Women's League hosted the packed audience.

From beginning to end, McIntosh Bros. Stores artfully, by aid of an original - rear view projection technique gave a realistic picture of The Road to Fashion. By aid of colorful cosmopolitan country and urban scenes, from local points across the ocean to Ireland, to imported Italian, Scottish, Irish, Austrian and Swedish fashions which are worn with Canadian manufacturers' latest, including Toronto and Montreal's best. Incidentally, the baggie pants were Italian designed, with from Scotland, the always warm, Scottish woods provide the ideal warmth for wintry days in cool colors to mix and match. Best quality is a Canadian fashion trend and is known around the world.

A necessity for travelling which is a part of everyone's way now — packing began the show with the McIntosh Little Theatre Group: Valerie Elliston and Mary Teresa Trusitch under the direction of Peggy Loder, giving a perky and surprisingly fast show of dressing from a trunk. Body suits were basic and from there, the children of the new generation donned co-ordinates with slacks, sweaters and skirts and skimmers in bright colors.

From that 'different yet very fitting' start, 14 models including three children fashioned the "newest look" with the colorful and pleasant country fall and winter scenes. Urban scenes were also projected as the new generation travels from city to country or across the ocean, wearable and suitable designs are a compromising must for packing.

Sheila Nash, fashion co-ordinator, gave descriptions of each of the 126 fashions and informed the audience with brief introductions for the different phases of this year's fashion world's designs: Elan; Mix It Up; Fall Into Winter; Accessories, Accessories, Accessories; Loungewear, and Night Scene Wrap Up.

The coats of '72 have an easier fit as the models showed last evening. New sleeve treatments, as widened armholes, wing sleeved dolmans, give more fullness and swing for the girl on the move.

Mary Teresa Trusitch co-commentarized Sheila for the children's fashions. In children's apparel, bdh tartans checker boards in unbonded polyester comes in colors which mix and match.

The sometimes forgotten loungewear, fashionable yet mostly comfort - oriented for a colorful lift at home, showed the large audience of children and grandmothers that the fashion cycle is there for everyone — and each and everyone has a wide selection of styles to choose from on the Road to Fashion.

Models for the show were: Ingrid Bateman, Lorraine Brown, Patricia Burrowes, Arlene Dempsey, Nadine Dolan, Marg Doyle, Kathy Drouillard, Kristin Jenkins, Peggy Loder, Meribeth McIntosh, Denise Stansfield, Johanna Bateman, Valerie Elliston and Mary Teresa Trusitch.

Slides were shown by Karel Chrastina which were taken by himself and Doug McIntosh and musical accompaniment was provided by Charlie Tilbrook. Lighting effects, including a colorful and striking kaleidoscope effect image were manned by Jim Raycroft and Dennis Lynch.

St. Joseph's Catholic Women's League president, Mrs. Albert Eves chats with model Arlene Dempsey and slide operator, Karel Chrastina before the show. The rear-view projection method used for the slide showing was a first endeavor for creative fashion shows in Belleville.

Women's Institutes

RIVER VALLEY W.I.

RIVER VALLEY—The October meeting of River Valley Women's Institute was held at the centre with the president, Mrs. George Grills as hostess. Twenty-three members and two visitors were in attendance.

Mrs. Roy Tucker, president of Hastings West District, a valued member of the River Valley W.I. gave an official visit. She chose as her subject The Life of Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir. She gave a descriptive account of their parents, their home life and education and their life in Canada when he served as Governor - General. Lady Tweedsmuir promoted the idea of each branch institute preserving their history in bookform and now, nearly all the branches have their records up to date.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen introduced the speaker and Mrs. Roy Bush voiced appreciative thanks on behalf of River Valley Women's Institute and made a presentation.

Mrs. James Hoard sang with Mrs. Phil Conley as accompanist.

The program, based on cultural activities, was in charge of Mrs. Ernest Carr and Mrs. Charles Wilson.

Demonstrations pertaining to the roll call 'What She Can Do' were given by Mrs. Claude Tucker using plastic bread wrappers and Mrs. Vernor Harry demonstrating several articles of handicraft.

Mrs. Charles Wilson gave a message on the motto and read a poem on Thanksgiving.

During business, the two resolutions that will be discussed at the area convention in Foxborough were discussed. Mrs. Glenn Bush will be the delegate with Mrs. Ernest Carr as alternate.

Following the meeting, the refreshment committee served a light lunch and after the social hour, Mrs. Ross Bush voiced thanks to everyone.

Stanfield:

Lib Statements 'Pure Fiction'

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Conservative leader Robert Stanfield said Wednesday night the government's mismanagement of the economy is the main issue in the federal election and Canadians also should be concerned about government statements that are at the very best pure fiction.

"Canadians have been fed a constant diet of misinformation, misleading claims and statements that to put it charitably are complete fiction," Mr. Stanfield told a party rally in the riding of Peel-Dufferin-Simcoe.

He added that the integrity of Prime Minister Trudeau also is at stake in the election.

"The prime minister started out this campaign talking about integrity. Since that time, he has indulged in misrepresentation to the extent that his own integrity is in question."

Mr. Stanfield spent the day travelling by bus to nine southwestern Ontario communities. He was accompanied by Ontario Premier William Davis who constantly introduced Mr. Stanfield to audiences as the next prime minister of Canada.

Mr. Stanfield's best reception of the day was at Barrie. Some 400 supporters gathered at a downtown hotel to hear him berate the government for high unemployment and rising costs of living.

At a Barrie news conference Mr. Stanfield said the Trudeau government "has achieved a record for ineptitude" in economic matters.

The cost of living had risen 8.3 per cent over the last 12 months, the biggest rise in recent years.

He said food prices alone went up 10 per cent in the same period.

In stops at shopping centres and high-school auditoriums, Mr. Stanfield promised a Conservative government would take away capital gains tax from family farms when they are transferred within families.

He said he would soon release his party's policy on foreign ownership centred on tax incentives and repeated he is not convinced of the need for a second airport in the Toronto area.

Mr. Stanfield in his speech at Brampton took issue with the prime minister's statement about unemployment and other economic performances.

Mr. Trudeau claimed Canada is creating jobs at a faster rate than any other industrial country, said Mr. Stanfield.

Not so, Mr. Stanfield added. The United States was ahead of Canada and in fact the Canadian record for job creation was better in the 31 months preceding the Trudeau government than the 31 months it was in power.

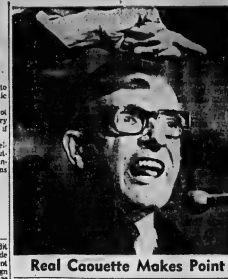
In the Trudeau years, the economy created 778,000 jobs. Under Mr. Pearson in the same amount of time, the total was 959,000 new jobs.

Comparative figures on consumer prices showed the increase in Canada was running far ahead of those in the U.S.

Canada needed a productive and healthy economy to be competitive in world markets, he said.

These factors, plus increased taxes, rising costs of social programs "and the mounting cost of Mr. Trudeau's bureaucracy added up to 'four lost years in the course of nationhood."

The Conservatives would put before the country a back-to-work program for Canada, he promised.



But first they want to know what the government's intentions in the field were.

In the meantime, Canadians should take a hard look at the government's performance.

Mr. Stanfield rejected promises of tax cuts, of increases in old-age pensions to reflect the increase due to inflation and to reduce the size of the public service.

His government would not hesitate to bring in temporary wage-and-price controls if needed.

"We are not going to be either headless, heartless or gutless in attempting to fight inflation by throwing Canadians out of work," he said.

Real Caouette Makes Point

Caouette Off Stride

BERVILLE, Que. (CP) — Real Caouette, Social Credit leader, was thrown off stride Wednesday by a persistent heckler during a campaign speech in this community 30 miles southeast of Montreal.

The 200 people who had turned up to hear Mr. Caouette and Gilbert Rondeau, the party's national president, were just about to sing O Canada when a man shouted "Vive le Quebec libre."

When Mr. Rondeau asked the man, Girard Brosseau of nearby St. Johns, to be quiet or leave, he said "Canada is an illusion, no O Canada."

Mr. Brosseau then remained seated while the audience sang the national anthem.

Later he interrupted Mr. Caouette's speech by accusing the Social Credit leader of "excellent ignorance."

Visibly annoyed, Mr. Caouette shot back "there is an ignorant person. Even among those who have thick skulls some are thicker than others and he is one of them."

Statistics Canada Fanning Debate

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For the second time this week Statistics Canada, one of the federal government's own agencies, has fanned the great election debate.

Its monthly report on consumer prices was barely issued Wednesday, before Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield and New Democrat Leader David Lewis rushed to the attack, accusing Prime Minister Trudeau of complete failure in dealing with inflation.

The report showed the price index up another half-point in September. It was the first September in four years the index did not drop. What could be bought with 71 cents in 1961 cost $1 last month. Food prices were 3.7 per cent higher than a year ago.

On Tuesday Statistics Canada reported an increase to 7.1 per cent in the seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate.

Mr. Stanfield, vote-hunting in southern Ontario, called for an immediate increase in old-age pensions to meet the rising cost of living.

Mr. Lewis, speaking in Winnipeg, said Canada's poorer families are being forced into malnutrition by soaring food prices. He urged a quick investigation into the factors responsible for the increases.

The Conservative leader recalled that two years ago Mr. Trudeau said inflation was an introduction that supports the Lewis theories and had adopted a policy of holding prices by increasing unemployment. That policy was a failure.

"Record high inflation combinations to erode the incomes and savings of all Canadians while unemployment has risen to its highest level in more than decade," Mr. Stanfield said.

Mr. Lewis meanwhile renewed his demand for government control of food prices "before they destroy the standard of living, indeed the life, of millions of poor people in this country."

He also fired another salvo at corporations he alleges are not paying their fair share of federal taxes while drawing millions of dollars in financial aid from Ottawa. The ammunition was contained in his own book on federal industrial assistance programs—Loaded Voices: The Corporate Welfare Bums.

Eric Kierans, former LOberal communications minister wrote an introduction that supports the Lewis theories and backed criticisms. However, Mr. Lewis said he has not asked Mr. Kierans to join the New Democratic Party.

PCs Defend Stephen Roman

RICHMOND HILL, Ont. (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield defended Stephen Roman Wednesday night against corporate welfare charges by David Lewis, federal New Democratic Party leader.

Mr. Roman is chairman of Denison Mines Ltd. and Conservative candidate for York North in the Oct. 30 federal election.

Mr. Stanfield said he grew up in poverty and which proud of Mr. Roman, an immigrant, could prosper.

"I am sick and tired of having free enterprise and hard work denigrated," Mr. Stanfield said.

School Pickets

BRADFORD, Ont. (CP) — Conservative leader Robert Stanfield and Premier William Davis were met Wednesday by a group of pickets parading peacefully outside Bradford district high school about 30 miles north of Toronto.

Mr. Stanfield and Mr. Davis, accompanied by York-Simcoe federal Conservative candidate Sinclair Stevens and Art Evans, Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Simcoe Centre, made a brief appearance at the school.

The pickets paraded after some public school parents objected to Grade 7 and Grade 8 pupils being invited to the high school to hear the politicians and being asked to bring a note if they were not attending.

Placards read, "Schools are for learning not politicking," and "All candidates should have the same opportunity to address the students on school time."

Lewis Seeks Kierans' Support

THOMPSON, Man. (CP) — David Lewis held out the possibility Wednesday that former Liberal cabinet minister Eric Kierans may join the New Democratic Party at some time in the future.

But the NDP leader took pains to make clear that nothing definite has been decided yet.

"He's thinking, and what he will do is entirely up to him," Mr. Lewis said in an interview after praising the former communications minister at a Winnipeg news conference where he released his book entitled Louder Voices: The corporate Welfare Bums.

Mr. Kierans, who left the Liberal cabinet in 1970 because of federal economic policies, wrote the introduction to Mr. Lewis' book.

The NDP leader said he asked Mr. Kierans in August if he planned to run for Parliament again and was told the answer was no.

"If he had said he were interested, I might have said something else. But he said the answer 'no,' so that ended that." Tuesday was nomination deadline for the Oct. 30 election.

Mr. Lewis said it is not in Mr. Kierans may declare his support for one of the federal parties before the election.

"I certainly would welcome his support but whether or not he is ready to give any support to anybody remains to be seen."

Mr. Kierans, former president of the Montreal Stock Exchange, has remained a Liberal despite leaving the cabinet.

Mr. Lewis said the former minister is totally in favor of "the policies I have explained to the people of Canada."

"Specifically, he mentioned his criticism of Prime Minister Trudeau's economic policies and the development of resources "at the expense of other industries in Canada."

Mr. Lewis flew to this northern Manitoba town late Wednesday after a full campaign day that started with his news conference in Winnipeg.

In addition to officially releasing his book, the NDP leader blasted the Trudeau government for the latest rise in the consumer price index.

Zeroing in heaviest on food prices, he said poor families are being driven into malnutrition" by rising food costs.

Even for higher-income families, the cost of food now poses a terrible burden, he said.

He renewed a previous demand for a speedy two-to-three week inquiry to determine why the increases have occurred and also called again for government measures to curb the trend.

Mackasey Says PCs Creating Backlash Against the Poor

TRAIL, B.C. (CP) — Manpower Minister Bryce Mackasey criticized the Conservatives Wednesday for labelling as welfare bums those who draw unemployment insurance.

He told about 40 persons at a Liberal party meeting here that Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield is trying to harness a backlash against the poor and the unemployed.

"Mr. Stanfield claimed he did not understand the Unemployment Insurance Act when he voted for it—this man wants to be the leader of your country?"

He said those collecting unemployment insurance should have no stigma attached to them. They contributed to the fund and have a right to collect on it.

Mr. Mackasey said Ottawa underestimated the effects of technology and that it was one of the factors in the latest rise in unemployment.

He then condemned welfare as the most inefficient method of helping the poor and said it proved to be the most costly to the taxpayer.

Switching to labor relations, Mr. Mackasey said Ottawa could not legislate peace into labor-management relations.

"B.C. has the toughest labor legislation in Canada and this is reflected in the large number of working days lost due to strikes," he said.

He added that the provincial New Democratic Party government has indicated it will oppose federal legislation in making amendments to the B.C. Labor Act.

Candidate III

KITCHENER (CP) — Keith Hymmen, Kitchener Liberal candidate for the Oct. 30 federal election, was in fair condition in hospital Wednesday suffering from an acute drug reaction. Ron Rolfe, campaign manager, said Mr. Hymmen had a "reaction to medication" taken for a severe case of abdominal influenza."

Subdued Politicking

Issues Fuzzy in Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — Gut issues in the federal election campaign in Quebec appear fuzzy, but the economy, including unemployment and high prices, is the most frequently discussed.

"I think the economy is more of a backdrop than a real issue, this far at least," said Charles Perrault, president of the Quebec Employers' Council.

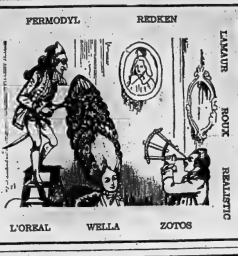
"The real issues don't seem to be coming forth. The campaign is not igniting any great public response. At this point I can't see a clear focus. I have been able to get no real feel of the campaign. The parties don't seem to have come to grips with the real issues."

Mr. Perrault articulated in an interview what many Quebecers seem to feel about the campaign, which has lacked the blazing passions familiar in past battles.

The present emphasis on electronic communication oe-tween candidate and people—notably by radio and tele-shows—results in a subdued sort of politicking as compared with old-style blood-and-thunder meetings, in one observer's opinion.

Campaigners have sometimes found themselves talking about the economy and Quebec separatism in the same breath, stressing that the economic well-being of the province is the issue now, not separatism.

Prime Minister Trudeau said in Sherbrooke he was not about to help the cause of the Parti Quebecois, which wants Quebec sovereignty in economic association with Canada, by getting involved in a separatist debate during the campaign for th Oct. 30 federal election.



He said Liberal ministers and candidates would stress "the changes we have made and the ones we are going to make to integrate further the province of Quebec into the Canadian economy."

Claude Wagner, leader of the Quebec Progressive Conservative campaign, declared in Granby:

"Unemployment and the high cost of living are the two issues of this campaign and those are the issues that bring to the forefront the state of our economy. That is where the Trudeau government has failed to deliver the merchandise and that is where the Trudeau government is going to be upset."

One Granby businessman said voters tend to be distracted in tossing to statements by those two leaders because both Mr. Trudeau, the tough federalist, and Mr. Wagner, the former Quebec Liberal cabinet minister and judge, are out to score degree losses in chauvinism.

The Liberals took 56 of Quebec's 74 seats in the 1968 general election while Real Caouette's Social Credit forces won 14 and Robert Stanfield's Conservatives won four only in the Montreal area, where the Liberals captured 29.

Olympic Memo One of Several

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government's decision not to offer direct financial aid to the 1976 Montreal Olympics was made after consideration of several reports from various sources, a spokesman for Consumer Affairs Minister Robert Andras said Wednesday.

He was commenting on a newspaper report of a, supposedly secret ministerial memorandum outlining the government options last year on supporting the Olympics.

The spokesman said the document, written about one year ago by a former special assistant to Mr. Andras, Sheryl Rosell, was only one of several exchanged within the department when the minister was asked to review government Olympic financing policy laid down in 1968.

In the document, Mr. Rosell said the government faced two alternatives: relist requests to provide funds to Montreal and risk losing the Olympics; or abandon its original decision and provide funds beyond programs available to the rest of the country — risking national resentment.

The spokesman said the memorandum represented only an individual's attempt to analyze and define the problems and risks involved in the policy decision.

He said Mr. Rosell's analysis placed different emphasis on certain factors involved than other memoranda submitted.

He noted that the Rosell document does not represent all government considerations taken into account in defining policy towards the Montreal games.

Mr. Andras, then urban affairs minister, had simply been asked to review a policy decision made in 1968.

His draft report, confirming the original policy, was eventually accepted, and Mr. Rosell's memorandum, which never reached the cabinet level, was a reaction to the draft.

The Rosell memorandum is distinguished only by having been made public, he said.

UN Ends General Debate

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — After 2½ weeks of discussion of just about every conceivable area of international concern, the General Assembly wrapped up its general debate Wednesday.

The debate, which opens the annual sessions of the assembly, provides a forum for member countries to give their impressions of the state of the world. A record 135 of the 132 UN countries took part in this year's debate.

Although the policy statements of the big powers and countries in trouble spots such as the Middle East are always given careful consideration, representatives of lesser powers get equal time on the rostrum-and often take more.

U.S. Ambassador George Bush recognized in a moment of candor Wednesday that many of the speeches "do seem to go on and on."

But he did add, diplomatically, that it was worthwhile to provide a place for all countries to give their views.

This year's assembly president, Stanislaw Trepczynski of Poland, said in a statement that the record participation in the debate reflects "an evolution of international relations toward detente and dialogue.

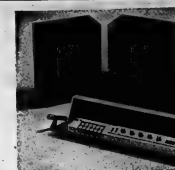
With the general debate out of the way, the assembly's seven main committees swing into high gear. The committees consider legal, political, budgetary, economic, colonial and humanitarian questions.

In the legal committee Wednesday, Canada called for the establishment of a group of international law experts to look into multi-national corporations.

Canadian representative David Miller said the committee should be set up with the UN's International Law Commission.

The question of multi-national enterprises also is expected to come up in the assembly's economic committee, which will examine how these corporations affect underdeveloped countries.

Pritchett is expected there between the economically powerful nations and the underdeveloped countries. Canada's position is somewhat different, because it has heavy foreign interests at home and extensive Canadian-owned business abroad in such fields as banking, oil and metals.



Miller told the legal committee that Canada, "perhaps as much as any other country accepts the presence of the multi-national enterprise."

Panasonic offers you so many ways to go where you're building a sound system. You can choose from many combinations of radio, phono, cartridge and cassette...or you can mix and match individual Panasonic units to create a system that's all your own.

A stage beyond stereo...The Glenview RS-2BA3 multiplies your pleasure still further. It offers the luxury of "Quadruplex" circuitry to create 4-channel sound reflexions from conventional stereo sources, when you add an extra pair of speakers. The Glenview is an FM/AM/FM stereo receiver with a cassette recorder—and provision for adding other equipment. The recorder has twin VU meters and memory, front and second-direct from cassette, through internal connections.

Panasonic Modular Stereo.
Our features multiply. Or you may add.

Here's an economically-priced stereo receiver versatile enough to grow into a high-quality stereo system. The Logasport RE-7411C plays FM/AM and FM stereo, superbly well. Circuitry includes refinements you'd expect to find on far more sophisticated equipment; FET tuner for accurate tuning, AFC on FM, ceramic filters and integrated circuits. Continuous tone control, channel balance control and the luxury of a loudness control help you produce the quality of sound you want. The Logasport has input jacks for phono and tape; outputs for tape recorder and stereo headphones. And it looks elegant, and expensive. Which it isn't.

You don't always have to add additional units yourself; simple multiplication by Panasonic can do the job for you. For example, The Chesterton SE-2010C. It's an FM/AM/FM stereo radio with a stereo record changer—but with input and output jacks for tape so that it can become a complete system. The receiver has ITL-OTL circuitry for improved transient and bass response. The changer is fully automatic, 3-speed; Magnistatic cartridge with sapphire stylus. A plexiglass cover and two handsome cylindrical speaker enclosures complete the system—and you decide to add to it.

If you can't wait for tape, take a look at the next stage of multiplication—The Redmond SE-2080C, for example. The Redmond gives you the same superb FM/AM/FM stereo radio performance, the same fully automatic changer, plus a built-in 8-track cartridge player. It's a complete home entertainment system in handsome walnut wood and woodgrain cabinetry.

Our features multiply—you'll find all possible combinations of radio, phono, 8-track and cassette in our range, many with the luxury of Quadruplex® sound. Or you may link together individual Panasonic changers, tape decks, speakers, or headphones to make a truly individual system. Visit your Panasonic dealer, and find out how little it costs to start building a sound system that can grow with you.

Sick to Death Of Davis: Dennison

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor William Dennison levelled strong criticism Wednesday at Premier William Davis, Toronto's Holy Trinity Church and protests groups at city hall.

Mr. Dennison told a luncheon meeting that he is sure everyone is "sick o death" of hearing about the Spadina Expressway.

"We are sick to death with

Toronto Votes For Pensions

TORONTO (CP) — City council voted Wednesday to have council members included in the Ontario Municipal Employees Retirement System and to have present members qualify from the dates of their first election.

The council voted $108,000 in public funds to cover retroactive payments by the city and council members. The retirement plan originally was effective from last Jan. 1.

Under the plan, every city and employee each contribute four per cent of annual salary up to $5,500 and 5½ per cent above $5,500. Benefits at the retirement age of 65 equal 40 per cent of the employee's contribution.

Highest pensions would go to council veterans William Dennison, 67, who retires as mayor at the end of this year and qualifies for 33.09 years, and Ald. Allan Lamport, 61, an alderman off council since 1957, who would get $2,607 if he retired now.

Finance Commissioner William Campbell said former alderman Thomas Wardle, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Toronto Beaches-Woodbine, qualifies for a pension based on 11 years' service even though he resigned from the council last month. New provincial legislation precludes a legislature member from holding elective office elsewhere.

V-V-Verified

BARRIE (CP) — Less than a week after it condemned the heating system in Barrie's courthouse, the Simcoe County grand jury was dismissed indefinitely because it could not work comfortably in the chilly building. Judge A. M. Carter dismissed the jury Wednesday after it was learned temperatures ranged from 36 to 60 degrees in the courthouse Tuesday and Wednesday. "It is not fair to the accused to subject a trial when the main concern of everyone involved is his own body temperature," the judge said.

Premier Davis because he has not seen the foolishness of his terrible, rash and unnecessary pre-provincial election pledge that 'the city is for the people' which has boomeranged so that

Match Delayed

SKOPJE, Yugoslavia (Reuter) — The International Chess Federation's annual congress decided Wednesday to put off for at least one year the possibility of an official return world championship match between title-holder Bobby Fischer of the United States and the defeated Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union. The congress heard a suggestion that the central committee be empowered to act on planning a return match, but the Soviet Union objected that no formal notice had been given.

To Meet Here

LONDON (Reuter) — Senior government officials of the 31-nation Commonwealth will meet in Canada next week to plan the timing and procedures for the next Commonwealth heads of government conference in Ottawa next year. The Canadian government has proposed alternative dates in July and September for the summit meeting.

Owner Shot

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The owner of a club popular with young people was found shot to death Wednesday in his building in the nearby town of Evans. Police said they had not determined a motive for the shooting of Donald J. Alberta, 28. They said Alberta apparently had been working alone remodelling the Big 10 Club.

the citizens in the side streets are being menaced and polluted by colossal traffic jams," he said.

The mayor also complained that "impossible demands" from Holy Trinity Church are holding up, and possibly killing, the proposed $200-million Eaton Centre project.

And protest groups were springing up in Toronto "like poison toadstools" and trying to do away with democratic principles.

Abortions Legal

DETROIT (AP) — Abortions were declared officially legal in Michigan Wednesday, but lawyers for the state and Wayne County say they plan to appeal the court ruling. Wayne County Judge Charles Kaufman signed an order declaring all Michigan abortion laws unconstitutional, saying that in his opinion they violate the rights of privacy of the mother. Kaufman had ruled the abortion laws unconstitutional last week, and officially signed the order Wednesday.

Half Over

LONDON (AP) — About 12,000 Ugandan Asians, nearly half the number expected to come to Britain under President Idi Amin's mass expulsion, have been flown to the United Kingdom, government officials said Wednesday.

$22 Million

CALGARY (CP) — The late G. Max Bell, publisher of The Albertan and chairman of the board of F. P. Publications Ltd., left an estate of $22,676,353, Mr. Bell, who built his fortune from a modest beginning in 1926 with newspapers and stock dealings, died July 10. Principal beneficiary was the Bell Foundation which received 200,000 common shares of F. P. Publications valued at $14 million. After other bequests, it received the remainder of the estate, of $5,979,479.

Music Hall Closes Doors

NEW YORK (AP) — The Radio City Music Hall announced it was suspending operations Wednesday night, but later the manager said he hoped America's largest movie palace would reopen eventually.

"Our basic problem is an economic one—rising costs," said James F. Gould after talking with a distressed Mayor John V. Lindsay. "We have to reconcile and make major economies.

"Of course, we hope to reopen, but it has to be in a situation that's viable economically."

Church Unity Now or Never

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Rev. N. Bruce McLeod, moderator of the United Church of Canada, says if church unity is not accomplished in the next four years, the various denominations will have to stop wasting time talking about it.

Mr. McLeod told a news conference here, Wednesday at the start of a 10-day Newfoundland visit the original spirited desire for a union of the Protestant churches and closer links with the Roman Catholics may have been lost because of too much caution.

He said church unity was a risk but "Christianity has always had to take calculated risks."

"I think we should have taken the risk.

"Whenever you don't take a risk you pay the price."

James Bay Tide Kills Moose Factory Teacher

MOOSE FACTORY, Ont. (CP) — A public school teacher from Moose Factory, who was in a hunting party with two other teachers, was found dead Wednesday after high tides from James Bay rolled in last weekend and left the hunters stranded for three days.

RCMP in Moose Factory said Richard Armstrong, formerly of Kitchener, Ont., likely died of exposure. The dead man and the two other teachers were found by a helicopter rescue party that was sent out Tuesday after the three failed to report to school.

The two other teachers are in hospital at Moose Factory, being treated for exposure.

Police said the men set out by canoe on the weekend. On Sunday they were forced to abandon camp because of high tides. There also was a heavy rain, mixed with snow and temperatures that dipped to 30 degrees, police said.

The board of education, hospital administration and RCMP organized the rescue party, which found one of the men semi-conscious about two miles from the tent. The other man was found by an Indian who signalled the helicopter.

Mr. Armstrong was found about one mile from the tent, police said.

Police described the tide as one of the highest ever in the area, which extended three miles beyond the normal high water mark.

Voluntary Arbitration Encouraged

TORONTO (CP) — Labor Minister Martin O'Connell recommended Wednesday that unions and management turn more to the use of voluntary arbitration to settle labor disputes.

Speaking to a conference of the Canadian Airline Pilots Association, Mr. O'Connell said he does not see a larger role for compulsory arbitration.

"It may play a limited role in emergency circumstances but I oppose an extension into general use."

He was not overlooking labor and management fears about arbitration when he proposed the voluntary arrangement. "But surely the costs to each party justify a reconsideration of their attitudes."

Voluntary arbitration would be quite different from compulsory arbitration, Mr. O'Connell said.

"Human nature is such that people will resist agreements that are forced upon them. Compulsory arbitration can leave this result.

"Voluntary arbitration shouldn't because the parties have freely chosen it and are more prepared to live with the arbitrator's award."

Canada Ahead

EDMONTON (CP) — A University of Alberta civil engineering professor who toured Russia says Canada is considerably ahead of the Soviet Union in the quality of concrete construction and architectural design. Dr. J. G. MacGregor said Canada's advancement is partly a result of Russia's emphasis on manufacturing standardized products.

Tigers Extend Summer

DETROIT (AP)— Bill Freehan was worried he'd suddenly sent Detroit Tigers packing to their already delayed winter vacations.

And Mickey Lolich figured today he'd have a chance to finish cutting his grass.

Instead, due to a heart-stopping 10th inning 4-3 Detroit comeback victory over Oakland Wednesday, they and their Tiger team-mates find themselves just one more triumph away from capturing their second American League pennant in five years.

But, at the same time, the West champion Athletics are just one victory away from their first pennant—a victory that eluded them Tuesday and Wednesday when they had Detroit on the ropes only to lose and see the playoffs squared at two games apiece.

This is the first year the best-of-five playoffs required the maximum number of games. Today's Oakland-Detroit winner will head for Cincinnati for Saturday's opening game of the world series.

Unfortunately for the Athletics Wednesday, they used the wrong pitchers at the wrong time. Oakland came unglued in the 10th and redeemed catcher Freehan from two embarrassing plays that could have made him the "goat of the year" in Detroit.

Freehan missed a suicide squeeze bunt in the eighth inning which caught Dick McAuliffe off third base with one out. And in the two-run Athletics' 10th Freehan let a throw from the outfield get away during a play at the plate as the tie-breaking run scored.

"I just about sent these guys to their winter vacations, but somehow I got out of the fire," the burly backstop said beaming.

Lolich, a loser to Jim Hunter in Saturday's 11-inning playoff opener, gave up five hits before being lifted for a pinch hitter in the bottom of the ninth.

One of the five was Mike Epstein's solo homer in the seventh which tied the game 3-3. McAuliffe had homered for Detroit off Hunter in the third.

"I don't deny it. I thought they had it," admitted Lolich, who had been in the clubhouse during the Athletics' rally in the 10th after Hunter (Back Seat) bach.

"When they scored one run I figured we could maybe tie it," Lolich said. "But when they got two runs I got skeptical.

"I cut the back yard grass yesterday and at that point I figured I'd guess I'd have a chance to cut the front tomorrow."

Gonzalo Marquez, whose pinch single off Seelbach Saturday tied the game for the Athletics started their 10th-inning rally with a pinch single.

Jumping for Joy

Hal McRae (11) jumps in air to avoid wild pitch from Pittsburgh Pirates' pitcher Bob Moose as Cincinnati Reds' George Foster, upper right, heads for home with winning run that gave Reds the National League title Wednesday night. Reds won, 4-3, in final game of best-of-five series. They now will go on to World Series against winner of the American League playoffs. Coach Alex Grammas is at top centre. (AP Wirephoto)

Detroit Dressing Room Deceptively Calm

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tiger dressing room was deceptively quiet after Wednesday's 10th inning 4-3 victory over Oakland Athletics, which evened the American League championship series at two games apiece.

Players spoke in reporters in muted tones that didn't quite seem to fit, in view of the joyous mob scene out on the playing field where fans had stormed the field to celebrate the comeback victory that saved the Tigers from elimination and forced a fifth and deciding game today.

Finally, after about five minutes, Norm Cash let loose a whoop and flipped the switch on the record-player in the middle of the room. Country music flooded the steamy room and the entire scene came to life. Cash has been the Tiger's humorist-in-residence for years and he had once again proved worthy of the post.

"I'll pitch again Sunday," I confident. Mickey Lolich said. "I'm certain we're going to beat Oakland now."

The rousing finish that saw the Tigers score three runs in the bottom of the 10th to overcome a 3-1 Oakland lead left the Tigers drained.

"A game like that takes a lot out of you," said manager Billy Martin.

The Tigers got a bases-loaded single from outfielder Jim Northrup to clinch the victory. Bill Freehan had missed a squeeze bunt—and could have won the game in the eighth and a Northrup throw had handcuffed Freehan in the Oakland half of the 10th, enabling a sliding Gonzalo Marquez to score.

Martin said Dick McAuliffe's sharp single, leading off the 10th, brought his ball club back to life.

Softball Going Pro

TORONTO (CP) — A new professional softball league expects to operate franchises in Toronto and Montreal as well as six United States cities next year, a league executive said Wednesday.

Mitch Litman, executive director of Major League Softball Inc., said an agreement had been reached to lease Varsity Stadium here for 15 games in 1973.

Operators of the Toronto franchise were still to be selected, Litman said.

Other teams in the league are Washington, Atlanta, New Orleans, St. Louis, Kansas City and Mobile, Ala., and Litman said the league expects to expand to 12 teams by 1974 or 1975.

Reds Use Everything To Oust Pittsburgh

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds used everything but hens signs in winning the National League pennant Wednesday—movies, a bad-hop double, a nod from Johnny Bench's mother, and a wild-pitch that allowed the winning run to score.

Manager Sparky Anderson's Western Division champions earned the right to represent the National League in the World Series starting Saturday against the winner of the Detroit-Oakland American League playoff.

The Reds won 4-3 over Eastern Division champion Pittsburgh Pirates by scoring two runs in the last of the ninth, one on a towering home run by Bench and the other on a wild pitch by Pirates' pitcher Bob Moose.

Pinch-runner George Foster sped home with the run that Cincinnati Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium into bedlam.

The Reds' victory actually started during an hour and 38-minute rain delay before the game got under way. Bench, National League home run champion, was disgusted with his inability to hit a homer in the first four of the best-of-five game playoff. He decided to do something about it.

Bench stood amid a swarm of reporters in the champagne-drenched Reds' dressing room, explaining that during the rain he looked at films of his two regular season hot streaks. He had helped the Reds move into first place in May with seven home runs in five days. Then, in September, he socked seven in seven games as Cincinnati won the West by 10½ games.

"I noticed that I wasn't crouching as much and had the bat out farther during the hot streaks," Bench said.

So, Bench straightened up a little and moved the bat farther away from his body. He said it helped him regain the home run touch when the Reds needed it most in the last of the ninth.

When Bench came to bat leading off the Reds' ninth, "I looked over my shoulder and saw momma (Mrs. Katie Bench) nodding her head."

"I know what she was nodding: 'Please hit one for me.' I always listen to mother."

Bench ripped a one-ball, two-strike pitch that curved foul into the stands in left field. Then he laced a palm ball from Pirates reliever Dave Giusti for an opposite-field home run over the right field wall, tying the score 3-3.

Bench said that when Giusti fed him "a palm ball over the plate."

"It's like a changeup but it usually sinks. This time he didn't get it down."

Giusti confirmed that Bench hit a palm ball.

JOHNNY BENCH

The Pirates probably realized it wasn't their day when, in the third inning with Darrell Chaney on second base, Pete Rose hit a chopper that first baseman Willie Stargell appeared set to field for an out, but at the last second the ball took a bad hop, struck the topofStargell's glove and rolled into right field for a run-scoring double.

The worst hop, however, still was to come.

After Bench hit his home run, Tony Perez, and Denis Menke singled, George Foster, who ran for Perez, moved to third on Cesar Geronimo's long drive to right. After Chaney popped out, Hal McRae batted for winning pitcher Clay Carroll.

Bob Moose had relieved Giusti and had a one-ball, one-strike count on McRae.

Foster danced off third after each pitch.

"Stay alert for a wild pitch or passed ball," Foster said Reds' third base coach Alex Grammas cautioned him.

"I was watching the pitches carefully," Foster said. "He Moose was throwing a lot of breaking stuff to the plate."

Moose's third pitch to McRae bounced over Pirate Catcher Manny Sanguillen, and Foster raced home with the winning run as the Reds' player went wild, along with the crowd of 41,887.

Nolan Opens Series for Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Sparky Anderson of Cincinnati Reds named right hander Gary Nolan as his opening game pitcher in the World Series, which starts here Saturday.

Anderson, however, said Wednesday that Jack Billingham would be his starter "if Nolan isn't ready." Nolan, who has suffered from shoulder and neck injuries this season, pitched six innings last Monday in the third game of the National League playoffs and left before the Reds lost the game to Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2.

The Reds, who won the National League pennant beating the Pirates 4-3 Wednesday, will start Ross Grimsley in the second game of the series against the American League champion Detroit or Oakland—and Don Gullett will pitch the third.

Giving Up Two Points Best Part for Bayside

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

Bayside Secondary School decided to concede a safety late in the second quarter of their Bay of Quinte COSSA senior battle with Trenton High School Wednesday.

Trailing 19-0 at that point, it seemed a wise move to concede two points to enable them to keep possession of the ball and try for a major score. Unfortunately for Bayside it was a little too late in the second quarter as time expired on the play, sending Trenton into a half - time break with a 21-0 margin.

The play was pretty much indicative of how things went for the inexperienced seniors as they absorbed a 54-0 pounding by the powerful Tigers.

"They showed some flashes of good football, but it's pretty tough to compete the first year," noted Trenton coach Tom Bigos. "We weren't ready to run up the score," he continued. "Our second stringers played the entire second half, but we're not Notre Dame. We had to leave some first stringers in there because we just don't have enough players for a complete change, and then once the subs get in the game, they're often up fired up at the chance to play that they create a spark of good effort.

Bayside really wasn't as hapless as the score would indicate, but had the misfortune of running into a tough football team on one of their better days. First - year running backs Steve Beecroft and Nick Alexander showed the form that helped them edge Trenton juniors in the 1971 league championship, while quarterback Dave Harvey displayed marked improvement over his early season performance.

The second - year pivot carried the ball well on "keeper" plays, while calling a fine game and passing well when he had to. "I think he's a little more relaxed out there now, and he's starting to gain confidence," said Nigro of his first string quarterback. Harvey was forced to go all the way when alternate Roger Mountford suffered an ankle injury during Tuesday's practice.

The Tigers suffered another injury blow in the second half, when Alexander was forced out with a knee injury. The rookie back, along with sophomore Don Armstrong, carried most of the inside running burden for the 4-1 Trenton team who face Mohawk in a key game next week. Centennial trails the second - place Tigers by one game on the western division. The winners were also without stellar flanker Duncan Armstrong who missed the game due to illness.

Harvey scored twice for the winners on a sweep and a 30-yard scramble, with Beecroft counting on runs of five and 22 yards. Armstrong also added a pair of major barging over from the two after setting up the touchdown with a 35 yard gallop and pulling in a 27-yard screen pass for the game's most outstanding touchdown. The Trenton fullback broke several tackles en route to the end zone.

"Our defence played well," advised the winning coach. "We've made quite a few changes since the loss to Quinte (33-12).

Defensive end Allan Weese, in his first year of football, continued to improve for Trenton while second string defensive tackle Spencer Hutchinson showed well in the second half.

Bayside went with a shotgun formation in the first half, but were forced to revert to a straight-T in the second because of the strong Trenton pass rush. Halfback John Loder played a fine game in a losing cause.

Trenton Juniors ran their season record to 5-0 with a 38-0 blanking of Bayside on the strength of their outstanding defensive squad. Our offence played well, but it was still a little spotty," said coach Joe DiCrese. "The defence didn't pick up any points, but they were given us good field position all game."

Fullback Mark Petrie ripped off scoring runs of 30 and 85 yards to pace the junior Tigers while Pete Hastie added a 50 - yard scoring pass. The winners' other majors went to John Wynne and Bill Kirk.

Ray Patterson and Glen Carley intercepted two passes each for Trenton, while defensive end Brad Manalicil came up with a strong showing.

Marmora Arena Dated

Minor hockey in Marmora isn't deteriorating, but you can't say the same thing for the arena.

Consulting engineers have given the Dr. Crawford Memorial Arena in that village a life expectancy of between two and 10 years, meaning that replacement facilities will be urgently required.

A decision has been reached to raise $30,000 for new ice making equipment, which would be installed in the present building and then moved to new facilities if they are erected.

A total of $5,000 has already been raised toward the cost of the $300,000 venture and the Marmora Arena Reconstruction Committee would be grateful for contributions from all organizations, businesses, and individuals.

Legion Champs

Sports Editor,

It stated in The Intelligencer's ANAF News that the 418 Horseshoes Championship is held by the ANAF.

As Sports Officer of the Legion I would like to put this straight.

The Champ onship was won by the ANAF in 1970.

In 1971 it was won by the 418 Club.

In 1972 it was won by the Legion Branch 99 who have played for this trophy twice this year and who have it on display in their games room and who are going to defend it on Oct. 14.

We hope it will again be in our showcase until June '73

Our sports are taken very serious in our club and we members don't like clubs stating they are defending champions if they are not.

DAVE EVANS.

Load on Loder

Bayside halfback John Loder carried most of the rushing load in his team's Bay of Quinte COSSA senior football game Wednesday. He was also loaded down with Trenton tacklers on this play as the Tigers came up with a strong defensive effort that helped them to a 54-0 drubbing of their first - year opponents.

'Feel Better?'

Trenton's Gord Kelly shows the latest neck massage technique in Wednesday's Bay of Quinte COSSA football game against Bayside. Actually, he's putting the collar on Bayside ball carrier Keith Vogle who was attempting to turn the corner on an end sweep. Kelly and his teammates kept the collar on Bayside for the entire afternoon en route to a 54-0 victory.

Collegians Kicking Opposition Around

BCI's senior soccer team continued to kick around their Bay of Quinte COSSA soccer opponents. The Collegians rolled up a 5-0 win over Picton Tuesday, while their junior counterparts emerged on the long end of a 4-2 verdict.

Senior goalie Phil Serra recorded his third consecutive shutout for the first-place BCI squad. Dave Van Vliet and Tony Donovan gave the Collegians a 2-0 lead before Van Vliet counted again on a brilliant solo effort to give his team a 3-0 edge at half time.

He completed his hat trick in the last half with Steve Redner netting the other goal.

Quinte Secondary recorded a similar sweep over OSD with the senior Saints winning 5-0 and the juniors squeezing out a 1-0 decision.

Dario Danna scored two goals to pace the senior win, while Jim Hannah recorded the shutout. In the junior contest, it was Randy Nelson scoring late in the game to give Quinte a win, with goalie Gary Wallace picking up the shutout.

Ice Rented Before Arena Built

VANCOUVER (CP) — What being built in suburban Burnaby is claimed to be the world's shy, and a spokesman says the largest indoor ice arena is prime-time ice hours are already almost fully-booked.

Al Harris, sales supervisor for the development, said that although the project has not been advertised, word has leaked out and bookings for 9:30 a.m. to midnight for the 1½ acres of ice are almost solid.

The $2 million private development is owned by Columbia Rinks Ltd., a group of local businessmen.

The project will house four standard NHL-sized ice surfaces—200 by 85 feet—under a single roof and 16 changing rooms and related facilities. It will be open 24 hours a day for most of the year.

Four Ottawa Players Object of Eligibility Row

OTTAWA (CP) — Four University of Ottawa football players, whose playing eligibility has been questioned by a number of Ontario universities, will play against Queen's University Friday.

Carol Turgeon, University of Ottawa athletic director, said in a telephone interview We'lnesday that the four players "will be dressed and ready to play."

Unnamed universities have charged that the players are pre-university students and by OUAA rules not eligible to play.

Ontario University Athletic Association rules stipulate a student is eligible if he is enrolled in a full-time course leading to a degree.

"As far as I'm concerned they're eligible," said Turgeon.

"I wouldn't permit any player to play if he was ineligible . . . I know the rules."

"Last year they (OUAA) required that a student have a Grade 13 or equivalent . . . but the rules have changed this year . . . a full-time student is considered eligible to play."

The four players in question are enrolled in pre-university and only have completed Grade 12.

Turgeon, who refused to name the players, said the University of Ottawa considers pre-university students as full-time students.

He charged that Queen's University is the university that "has questioned the eligibility of the players."

"When you are on top . . . people try to get you," he said.

The University of Ottawa Gee-Gees are in first place in the OUAA Eastern Conference.

Lakers Don't Notice Name

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Whether they're called Cincinnati Royals or Kansas City-Omaha Kings makes no difference to the champion Los Angeles Lakers in the National Basketball Association. They beat them.

The Lakers routed the Kings, the Royals, before 8,586 at Omaha Wednesday night 129-94 in their opening game of the new season.

Seattle Super Sonics defeated Philadelphia 76ers 105-100 and Boston Celtics beat Detroit Pistons 121-108 in the other NBA games scheduled.

The Lakers, led by Jim McMillan's 25 points, opened a 30-point halftime lead as 10-35 and completely dominated the Kings. Big Wilt Chamberlain pulled down 11 rebounds in the first half to match the Kings' efforts for the entire game.

Griffith Campaigns for Shot

BOSTON (AP) — Five-time world boxing champion Emile Griffith, campaigning for another shot at the middleweight title, pounded out 12-round majority decision over Joe DeNucci Wednesday night.

Griffith, who last month earned an unpopular 15-round decision over DeNucci, was i command from the outset. H moved forward most of th fight, and scored with sharp punches to both the head an the body.

The bout was dull in com parison to the exhibition put on y former heavyweight champ on Muhammad Ali, who pared two round each with ve differen opponents before disappointing turnout of 6,333.

All barely worked up a sweat s he heaved and clowned, ever ding being hurt and dropping o his knee during the exhibi ion with 12-ounce gloves.

Panasiuk Cashes In Big

KITCHENER (CP) — Bob Panasiuk, Canadian Professional Golfers' Association champion, rolled in a 25-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole to five he and partner, Wally Ayers of Richmond Hill, the annual Oktoberfest team best-ball title.

Panasiuk, of Windsor, picked up $250 of the $500 winners' purse to push his 1972 earnings to more than $20,000—the most ever by a Canadian professional without playing on the U.S. golf tour.

There were three holes-in-one during the two-day tournament.

Judge Delays Ruling On Hull Situation

NEW YORK (AP) — Hockey star Bobby Hull said Wednesday night that a federal judge in Philadelphia has postponed his decision on the National Hockey League suit against him for jumping to the World Hockey Association.

Hull, who played for the NHL's Chicago Black Hawks, recently signed a $2.75-million contract with Winnipeg Jets of the WHA.

He said that Judge A. Leon Higginbotham has reserved judgment until Oct. 24 to give the matter further study. The NHL is seeking to prevent Hull from playing with the new hockey league.

"It seems to me to be a little bit unfair to make me an example when Gerry Cheevers, Derek Sanderson and those fellows can play. I'm very disappointed, but I would hate to go against a ruling of a judge."

Hull said a news conference, "It's a big decision and I'm glad he is going to investigate all the angles of it."

Hull pointed to the decision Wednesday by Judge Earl Larsen in Minneapolis which denied a preliminary injunction in the Ted Hampson case on grounds that the NHL reserve clause is a perpetual clause and binds a player to the contract.

Hampson was sued by the NHL's New York Islanders which had drafted him from the Minnesota North Stars. He has wanted to remain in Minnesota and jumped to the WHA's Minnesota Fighting Saints.

Judge Larsen ruled that Hampson's contract with the NHL is in direct violation of Sections 1 and 2 of the Sherman Anti-trust Act. Larsen's ruling has been forwarded to Judge Higginbottom in Philadelphia, said Hull.

With Winnipeg Jets and New York Raiders opening their WHA season tonight, Hull said he did not know if coaching was affected by this decision. He said he would havetocheck. He said he would have to check with his lawyers. The previous judicial order allowed him to practice and coach.

He said he would not do anything to prejudice the case either by playing in Canada or coaching against an order.

Hampson Free To Play WHA

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — District Court Judge Earl Larsen denied Wednesday a request for a preliminary injunction preventing centre Ted Hampson from playing for Minnesota Fighting Saints of the World Hockey Association. He now can play for the Saints in their regular season opener Friday night in St. Paul against Winnipeg Jets. New York Islanders, of the rival National Hockey League, who sought the injunction, drafted him from Minnesota North Stars in the NHL expansion draft, but he chose to sign with the Saints.

Cheevers Gets Initial Zero

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The World Hockey Association, which few hockey observers allowed would get off the planning board nine months ago, made its debut on two fronts Wednesday night.

A near-sellout crowd of more than 9,000 Cleveland fans saw their Crusaders blank Quebec Les Nordiques 2-0 behind Gerry Cheevers 21 saves while Ottawa Nationals attracted about 3,000 for a 7-4 loss to Alberta Oilers. Bob Dillabough tapped in his own rebound to break up a scoreless struggle at Cleveland with a power play goal at 10:39 of the second period. Ron Buchanan gave Cleveland an insurance goal with six minutes remaining in the game, beating Serge Aubry from a scramble in front of the goal.

Cheevers, the 31-year-old star of last year's Boston Bruin club, posted a 2.50 goals-against average and went 25 straight National Hockey League games without a shutout.

The Bruins have taken action Animal Cheevers and Derek Sanderson of the WHA's Philadelphia Blazers to their services. The cases are still before the courts.

Ron Anderson and Bill Hicke connected for two goals apiece at Ottawa as the Edmonton-based Oilers took away what little excitement there might have been for the sparse crowd in the 8,500-seat Civic Centre.

Anderson scored the first WHA goal, beating Ottawa's Les Binkley at 6:19 of the first period. Bob Charlebois got that one back at 11:06 before Hicke connected with two goals 15 seconds apart later in the period.

The Oilers opened a 6-2 lead going into the last period and Ottawa never posed a serious threat despite outscoring the visitors 2-1 in the final 20 minutes.

Jim Harrison, Ron Walters and Ed Joyal also hit for the Albertans in the fast but loosely played game. Charlebois, with two, Guy Trottier and Wayne Carleton were the Nationals' marksmen.

Gary Davidson, WHA president, was on hand at Cleveland for the traditional puck-dropping ceremonies while Bill Hunter of Edmonton, another of the league founders, performed similar duties at Ottawa.

One of the oddities of hockey cropped up in the Alberta-Ottawa game when Chris Meloff of the Nationals attempted to help Binkley by picking up the goaltender's stick which had been knocked into the corner.

The Ottawa forward loaned Binkley his own stick, skated over and picked up the goalie's stick and started back towards the net.

Unfortunately he decided en route to try to pass with the stick and was immediately tagged with minor penalty by referee Ron Ego for playing with a stick larger than the allowable size.

Mikita Leads Hull-less Hawks to Win No. Three

By IAN MacLANE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The skeptics said Chicago Black Hawks would be just another team without Bobby Hull.

And when Hull decided there was more grass in the World Hockey Association, about $1-million worth of it, with Winnipeg Jets, many observers started talking Minnesota North Stars as heirs to the National Hockey League West title.

But it appears the experts forgot to tell the Hawks and veteran Stan Mikita, the one-time superstar apparently recovered from a chronic back ailment who has been playing in Hull's shadow through part of his pro hockey career.

The Czechoslovakian-born centre, who had a short summer before reporting to Team Canada in August, is away to his fastest start in years. He scored two goals and picked up the same number of assists Wednesday night to lead the Hawks to their third straight win, 4-1, over Atlanta Flames.

Elsewhere Wednesday Buffalo Sabres and Detroit Red Wings made it two straight, the Sabres 7-3 over Los Angeles Kings and Detroit 4-3 against Boston Bruins, to tie for the East Division lead.

Montreal Canadiens needed Yvan Cournoyer's second goal of the game late in the final period to hold Toronto Maple Leafs to a 2-2 tie while New York Rangers defeated Vancouver Canucks 5-3, Pittsburgh Penguins downed St. Louis Blues 5-2 and Minnesota scored four goals in the last period to turn back California Golden Seals 5-3.

Mikita, who assisted on the first goal, made it 2-0 before the period ended and before young Randy Manery broke goaltender Gary Smith's shutout at 10:31 of the third period.

Rick Martin, who earned rookie of the year honors last season with a record 44 goals, got the first two of his sophomore year in Buffalo's easy time with the Kings, who had upset Boston 4-2 in their last outing.

Gil Perreault, the Buffalo centre who engineered the Sabres' earlier win, collected a goal and three assists.

The Red Wings left for three third-period goals to hand the defending Stanley Cup champion Bruins their second successive loss. The torrid scoring pace followed a wild upheaval in the second period in which players from both teams were heavily penalized.

Phil Esposito of the Bruins was nailed with a double major late in the period, and it was while he was off Guy Charron scored twice to put the Wings ahead 3-2. Bill Collins added another before Ken Hodge closed out the scoring for Boston with two seconds remaining in the game.

Rod Gilbert's two goals turned New York's fortunes around after two early-season losses that left them languishing in the East basement.

Can Hydro Handle Winter With 12,000 on Strike?

TORONTO (CP) — The inviable current that provides heat and light to thousands of Ontario homes, industries and businesses, is at the mercy of the weather as winter approaches.

Giant generators that supply the electricity still hum but there is no sign of settlement between Ontario Hydro and its 12,000 workers who are members of Local 1000, Canadian Union of Public Employees.

The last effort at settlement stalled indefinitely Tuesday when union members rejected a new contract. Fifty-two per cent of the 8,801 union members who voted on the offer rejected it. However, the 4,681 who voted against the contract actually represent only 38.8 per cent of the total union membership.

George Gathercole, chairman of Ontario Hydro, said in a statement Wednesday that "when we made the offer ... and suggested that it be put to the membership for a vote, it was expected that the ballot would be conducted and supervised by the Ontario ministry of labor."

He felt that the union executives' decision to require members to attend union meetings in order to cast a ballot explained why only about 75 per cent of the members voted.

He said that Hydro's wage and benefits "are equal to those of the best employers. The increases offered were far in excess of any conceivable improvement in productivity, indeed, were highly inflationary. . . ."

Union and management said Wednesday they are interested in getting back to the bargaining table but there was no evidence to indicate such talks were imminent.

A Hydro spokesman said the publicly-owned utility is "hopeful" it can maintain services with supervisory personnel who have filled the positions of those on strike.

"We've got a good record so far," he said, pointing out that Hydro has had no serious power failures.

However, the union adds a note of caution.

"There has been a lack of maintenance and some lines are in bad shape," said a union spokesman. "It's very, very likely that there will be blackouts."

The union spokesman said its strike fund has been exhausted and its members have had to dip into savings and obtain loans.

"Membership support has been terrific seeing that some have been off work for about 10 weeks," said the union spokesman. "It just shows that they are not prepared to accept what Hydro is offering."

The union spokesman said Hydro is losing money and some persons who make $400 a week in normal supervisory positions are making more than $1,000 a week with overtime pay.

The spokesman said union members are fighting two main Hydro stands—that the union is too big and the mutual protection clause whereby management workers will not cross picket lines of workers who crossed picket lines to be protected.

There are 12,000 members of CUPE on strike and another 12,000 work in other Hydro jobs.

"Personnel people are driving trucks and are not training others to be linemen," said the Hydro spokesman. "The real drawback is that those people should be doing their normal jobs."

Cree Honored

OTTAWA (CP) — A plaque to the memory of the late chief Poundmaker is to be unveiled Friday at the Poundmaker reserve near Battle Knife, Sask., Indian Affairs Minister Jean Chretien announced Wednesday. Poundmaker's band suffering from a shortage of food, defended the Metis under Louis Riel, in 1885 for the Second Riel Rebellion. He died in 1886 following a term in prison. Poundmaker's band defeated federal troops in the battle of Cut Knife Hill.

Bennett Is Back ...with A Bang

VANCOUVER (CP) — Former premier W. A. C. Bennett, fresh from a three-week European holiday after his election defeat Aug. 30, re-entered provincial politics Wednesday with a bang.

He announced that he will sit as opposition leader in the legislature for the special session starting next Tuesday, ending speculation that he might never enter the legislature again.

Two weeks ago, he said he might not be present for the session and appeared to give the nod to former attorney-general Leslie Peterson, who suffered personal defeat in the election, to run for the Social Credit leadership. Mr. Bennett also indicated he would resign his seat as MLA.

But in an interview Wednesday, the 72-year-old politician denied he wouldn't sit in the House. He said he hadn't heard from Mr. Peterson about the leadership and pointed out he had only been making "suggestions" in his Sept. 28 statement.

Mr. Bennett said in the interview he will be present when the new regular session of the legislature, which is expected to open next January.

Mr. Bennett then offered a sample of the new Bennett-in opposition, lashing out at the NDP government for adopting a "lights-out-on-jobs" policy.

"These people are cutting out electricity and growth in the province with a growing population," he said. "Before they are through, they will have people using candles again.

"The lights will go out on jobs this winter. They have already destroyed a lot of jobs for B.C. because they have sabotaged through the business community and I am sure they have already stopped some industrial investment in B.C. with their no growth, slow growth policy."

increased demand for electricity, as well as strain on equipment caused by harsher weather conditions.

The union wants a two-year contract with annual wage increases of nine per cent. The utility's last offer was a three-year contract with maximum raises during the period of 18.5 per cent and a maximum of 26 per cent.

Under Hydro's proposals, a lineman's hourly rate would increase to $6.35 from $5.37. First operators in large transformer stations would get a raise to late in the period, and it was penalties in the game— two to the Leafs—but it was a surprise in the East basement.

Human Error Said Cause of Death

PERKINSFIELD, Ont. (CP) — A coroner's jury ruled Wednesday that human error caused the death of Janina Kuchma, 40, of Toronto, who drowned July 1 when a car rolled off a barge ferry into Georgian Bay.

Mrs. Kuchma was a passenger in a small car being towed on a barge from Cedar Point to Christian Island near Midland.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lower of Highland Point, Ont., managed to get out of their vehicle and were rescued. The car

Seven Years

TORONTO (CP) — Atemjit Singh Paul, 29, who pleaded guilty to trying to blow up CP 000 by a bombing threat, was sentenced Wednesday to seven years in penitentiary. Paul was accused of demanding the money from the CP Air co. and Alan Marchment, its vice-president for finance and administration, under threat of bombing the company's main downtown office and of killing the executive and his family. No explosives were found.

Lawsuits Up

TORONTO (CP) — The number of malpractice writs issued against doctors in Canada doubled within the last two years, the annual report of the Canadian Medical Protective Association says. There were 65 writs were issued every year, but in 170 the number rose to 80 and in 1971 to 131. However, fewer than half the cases ever progress to court, trial, decision or settlement, the report says.

Reward Added

NEWMARKET, Ont. (CP) — Reward money for the discovery of a 14-year-old Kleinburg girl missing since Aug. 14 has been increased to $3,000. Oscar Bauer, father of missing Ingrid Bauer, and the father's employer have each added $1,000 to the $1,000 put up last month by York police commission. The girl was last seen trying to hitchhike to the home of a friend.

UN Rep Killed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (Reuter) — The resident representative of the United Nations development program, Hashem Jawad of Iran, was shot and killed here today, United Nations sources said.

The sources said Jawad, 61, was shot by his former driver at his office this morning. The contract of employment of the driver expired 10 days ago and was not renewed "because of his bad manners," the sources said.

They said the driver walked into Jawad's office and shot him. He also shot another driver and injured him in the legs before shooting himself. He was reported to have died but this was not officially confirmed.

Jawad is a former Iraqi foreign minister. He took up his present post in Beirut in 1966.

Writer Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Masterson, a foreign correspondent and administrative executive of The Associated Press whose assignments ranged over five continents, died Wednesday of a heart attack. He had observed his 60th birthday Tuesday in apparent good health. In 30 years with AP, Masterson covered stories in the United States, the Middle East and South America. For the last 10 years he served as administrative assistant in the World Services division in New York.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

FRIDAY, OCT. 13

Aries (March 21-April 19): Do not let early morning incidents mislead you into belief in an old superstition. Celebrate a little this evening.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Get the support of people in subordinate positions; apply for whatever you feel you have earned. Legal considerations turn more favorable.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Once you get into the swing of the day you find practical uses for creative ideas. Separated items can be brought together.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Accept early confusion as a sort of unconscious practical joke; with good humor, go on into a lively day of good teamwork.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Expect to work beyond plans; returns are promptly available. An introduction is helpful to friends; establish a contact for them.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Moderate demands, spontaneous tokens of your affection are in order. Pastimes become more significant. Pause for thought.

Libra (Sept. 23 Oct. 22): Domestic problems are not nearly so soluble as distant communications where an intermediary or an agent can be very helpful.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Older people require attention. Your day may include effective chest trips, contact with institutions or officials.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your ideas seem more attractive to influential people than to friends. Suggestions have to be taken into account.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 Jan. 19): A turning point is at hand; the move you make now is for keeps, marks the direction you can proceed for the future.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Discretion means letting those who have achieved results take the credit for practically everything. Haste defeats itself.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Be as social as the situation permits, but very unconnunicative about current plans for income and what you must do to achieve it.

Alcohol Poison If Liver Damaged

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would appreciate information on cirrhosis of the liver: how it affects you; what rules to follow if you have it, and how much does it shorten your life?—W.M.

Dear Doctor: Can the liver, once damaged because of excessive alcohol, ever heal? If the alcoholic forever abstains from drinking?—H.S.

Cirrhosis (inflation and destruction) of the liver can produce very few symptoms at first—another of the "sneaky" diseases.

But as it progresses, if not brought under control, the consequences are disastrous. At first the liver enlarges, later shrinks and becomes knobby.

Many functions of the liver are irreparably disturbed, including protein metabolism resulting in loss of weight, weakness, poor appetite, nausea, "indigestion." Tiny spider like blood vessels can appear on the face, and palms of the hands frequently are red.

Fluid accumulates—ascites or dropsy," with a baby, fluid-filled belly, which may have to be drained.

How much it shortens life is hard to say. That's hard to predict in almost any disease, but complete liver failure, coma and death may take several years. Again, sudden death can occur from rupture of varicose veins in the gullet (esophageal varices). It's a nasty, savage disease.

Alcoholism is a common cause of cirrhosis, consequently no doubt because hard drinkers usually have a poor and unbalanced diet, deficient in many essentials of nutrition. Cirrhosis can occur, however, in people who have never had a drop of alcohol. And more cirrhosis is being found following attacks of hepatitis.

Continued medical care is necessary. Including regular liver function tests which show whether or how progress is being made. Medications to get rid of fluid, and drainage in some cases may be needed.

Given half a chance, the liver has remarkable powers of regeneration, but the patient must stop alcohol completely. The damaged liver cannot handle it.

Treatment usually includes a low-salt diet, but balanced as to diets, moderate fat. Sometimes other contents—protein, carbohydrates—in severe cases protein has to be restricted because the liver cannot metabolize it properly.

Whether, even with no more alcohol being consumed, the liver can "heal" itself is a moot question. Partial regeneration frequently occurs, but usually some scarring of the liver has taken place and that cannot correct itself.

But alcohol, after a person has had cirrhosis, is sheer poison, and foolhardy is a mild term for anyone who risks taking a drink after such liver trouble.

This is a too-prevalent danger. Too many patients, once they have passed the immediate danger of cirrhosis, feel so much better they begin to think, "just a drink now and then won't hurt me."

But it does.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read about the use of lithium salts to treat mental disorders, which had been tested in England. Could this treatment be used for an aged person who, is quite senile and troubled with forgetfulness and delusions? And would this form of treatment be available in the United States?—E. E. B.

Lithium is in use in the U.S. for manic depressive patients (one form of emotional disorder) but I have doubts that it would be of help in a case such as you cite.

One such convention is the grand slam force. Primarily, this convention addresses itself to the case where a player feels sure he can make a grand slam — provided there is no loser in the trump suit itself.

Take this hand where North would happily go all the way if he knew that partner's hearts were headed by at least the K-Q. He elects this information by leaping directly to five notrump, a special bid that commands partner to bid seven hearts with two of the three top heart honors.

In skipping to five notrump, North agrees by implication that hearts — the last named suit — are trumps and directs South's attention to his heart holding and nothing else. South has no option but to respond to seven hearts, and this contract is easily made.

The grand slam force is seldom used — for the very good reason that grand slam hands are seldom dealt. But when the opportunity does arise — and the solidity of the trump suit is the crucial factor — the convention can be profitably invoked by either player to ferret out the desired information.

One word of caution should be added. Extreme care must be taken not to confuse this specialized convention with the Blackwood five notrump bid that asks for kings. The Blackwood five notrump convention is always preceded by four notrump.

Tomorrow: Bidding quiz.

Opening lead — king of clubs.

Most players shun artificial bidding conventions and are happy to settle for Blackwood and one or two other gadgets that appeal to them.

There is much to be said for the natural style of bidding, and perhaps readers of this column have detected in my writings a hidden endorsement of the more natural methods of bidding.

Still, it is worthwhile to carry the philosophy too far, for some conventions are unprofitably adopted without interfering with basically natural bidding.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
"B L E F F L E D O W"

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

HERE'S A NEW IDEA

We are going to start a number of new houses for spring possession. If you are thinking about a new house, let us include it in our inventory. You can select a lot and a model either ours or your's. We will then build it to your specifications. You can then sell your existing house at your leisure. If you are unable to sell, you aren't out anything as we can sell the new house to someone else. This will solve the old problem of — "How can I build a new house when I haven't sold my old one".

CONDOMINIUM IS THE ANSWER

For the active man who wants to realize his activities in the curling rink, the golf course or anywhere else that doesn't involve cutting grass, shovelling snow, painting, etc. This is all done for you.

We have units available for immediate possession. These are located on Prince of Wales Drive. On rest Home streets run from $711. to $886 down.

U.S. Planes to Observe Buffer Zone in Hanoi

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. planes kept up their attacks on North Vietnam today, but increased restrictions were reported placed on their operations in the Hanoi area following damage to three foreign missions during an American raid on the North Vietnamese capital Wednesday.

A buffer zone was being declared around Hanoi, and all future targets in the area must be cleared first by the Nixon administration, it was learned.

Security regulations prevented disclosure of the precise details of the new restrictions.

During Wednesday's raid by 20 U.S. Navy planes from the carrier Midway, the residence of the French delegate general was destroyed, the roof was blown off the Algerian embassy, and minor damage was done to the headquarters of the Indian diplomatic mission, reports from Hanoi, Paris, Algiers and New Delhi said.

A Cambodian woman and five Vietnamese employed by the French mission were reported killed; Pierre Susini, the French delegate general, was seriously injured and an Albanian diplomat who was calling on Susini received lesser injuries.

No one was reported hurt at the Algerian or Indian buildings.

The U.S. Navy said the target of the raid was the Gia Lam rail yard and repair shop on the northeastern outskirts of Hanoi. Spokesmen said initial reports from the pilots from the carrier Midway indicated all bombs were on target.

But one official added: "This still does not mean that we can positively say it couldn't have been one of our bombs. We are checking further."

Defence Secretary Melvin Laird and the U.S. command in Saigon suggested that the damage might have been done by surface-to-air missiles that missed the American planes and detonated when they crashed to earth.

The navy said its pilots reported more than a score of explosions at the railyard and three sustained fires with smoke rising to 4,000 feet.

Spokesmen said they believed it was the first attack on the yard since the resumption of full-scale bombing last April 6, indicating that the installation had been on the restricted list, like the Gia Lam civilian airport just south of the yard.

These spokesmen said they did not know why the yard was chosen for attack—the first in the immediate Hanoi area in several weeks—at a time when presidential adviser Henry Kissinger was carrying on peace talks with the North Vietnamese in Paris.

"It's a railroad yard, it's a valid military target," said one U.S. spokesman.

The U.S. command denied a claim by Radio Hanoi that two planes were shot down during the raids and that a B-52 bomber was shot down near the port of Vinh, halfway between Hanoi and the Demilitarized Zone.

In South Vietnam, government troops fought their way into the hamlet of Xom Soai, north of Saigon, and regained control of it this morning.

Kingston Tops In Tax Exempt Property

KINGSTON (CP) — A city treasurer's report has shown that 34.4 per cent of the property in this city of 57,718 is tax exempt, putting the cost for all services on the shoulders of 65.6 per cent of the property owners.

The report, prepared by B. G. Cousens, shows that Kingston has a higher percentage of tax-exempt properties than eight other Ontario centres with comparable population.

The report includes figures on all tax-exempt property in the city including Queen's University property owned by the province and churches.

Mr. Cousens' report indicates that in Guelph 29.5 per cent of the property is tax exempt, in Peterborough 19.5 per cent, Brantford 15.4 per cent, Cornwall 17.5 per cent and Belleville 21 per cent. The other three cities had less than 18 per cent tax-exempt property.

The city has asked the province for grants in lieu of taxes to cover the 21 per cent of the property owned by Ontario. The federal government owns about three per cent of the property in Kingston.

The Canadian Press reported erroneously Wednesday that 53 per cent of Kingston's property is tax exempt.

Dennison Not Struck In Face

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Press erroneously reported Oct. 4 that Ald. Karl Jaffery struck Toronto Mayor William Dennison on the head with a sheaf of papers.

Mr. Jaffary threw the papers in front of the mayor, accidentally hitting him on the arm. The papers did not strike the mayor on the head or face.

U.S. Seeks Statement On Euromart Policy

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — U.S. State Secretary William P. Rogers has asked the European Common Market to issue a clear statement on future economic policy toward the United States and Canada, sources said Wednesday.

Rogers was said to have discussed U.S. relations with the market at a meeting with Patrick John Hillery, the foreign minister of Ireland.

With a serious trade imbalance, the U.S. is concerned that increased free trade in the expanding market will mean harder going for American goods in Europe.

The informants said they understood Rogers told Hillery he hoped for a statement on the matter from the market's Paris summit conference scheduled for Oct. 19-21. Ireland, Britain and Denmark, which are joining the market, will participate.

The U.S. would like the market to eliminate its special duty on outside farm products and the preferential treatment it gives to goods from some non-market countries but not the U.S.

CITY OF BELLEVILLE — LOCAL IMPROVEMENT NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE THAT:

1. The Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville intends to construct as a local improvement the following road, complete with storm sewer, and intends to specially assess a part of the cost upon the land abutting the work and the balance against the Corporation as large as follows:

Street	From	To	Total Estimated Cost	Corporation's Share	Owners' Share	Estimated Cost Per Foot Frontage	Estimated Annual Cost Per Foot Frontage
University Ave.	The end of the existing travelled street	Approximately 1,700 feet easterly	$43,439.00	$3,164.00	$35,275.00	$15.67248	$2.33861

EXAMPLE: Lot with 50 ft. frontage would be assessed as follows:
50 ft. x $15.67248 = $783.62
If paid over a period of 10 years at 8½% per annum, the cost would be:
50 ft. x $2.33861 = $119.43

2. The special assessment is to be paid in 10 equal annual instalments.
3. Application will be made by the Corporation to the Ontario Municipal Board for its approval of the undertaking of the said work; and any owner may, within 21 days after the first publication of the Notice, file with the Clerk of the municipality his objection to the said work being undertaken.
4. The said Board may approve the said work being undertaken, but before doing so may appoint a time and place when any objection to the said work will be considered.

Protestant Youths On Wild Rampage

BELFAST (AP) — Gangs of Protestant youths armed with guns, bombs, bricks and clubs went on a wild weekend rampage in Northern Ireland capital Wednesday night after British troops raided one of their private clubs looking for a Protestant extremist convicted of murder.

The rioters shot a soldier in the head and badly beat up two police officers while venting their fury on vehicles and buildings including a Roman Catholic church.

The gangs were angered because British paratroops raided an illegal drinking club in the Shankill Road, Belfast's heartland of Protestantism.

The soldiers, hunting the Protestant extremist, detained between 60 and 70 men for questioning—and ignited a long-simmering unrest among militants in the ghettos of Ulster's Catholics in Northern Ireland in recent months.

A crowd held up a middle-aged policeman in Shankill Road, threw a hood over his head, dragged him to an abandoned house and beat him up, the army said.

Another police officer was attacked in his car and badly cut and bruised.

In the stronly Protestant Newtownards Road in the east-ern end of the city, a roving Protestant group stoned and shot at troops. One soldier was seriously wounded with a bullet in the head, an army spokesman said.

Another crowd launched an onslaught against St. Anthony's Roman Catholic Church. The military command said the raiders ripped out pews, smashed candelabra with club hammers and then burned to the ground the church meeting hall.

They were eventually driven off by troops firing rubber bullets.

Another crowd attacked the nearby Willowfield police station. A bomb burst beside the building, shattering all its windows.

Three taverns were wrecked by groups of rioters. A television slave was hit by a gasoline bomb and set alight, a bus was set on fire and three Protestant ghetto streets were blocked off by barricades.

In one Protestant district soldiers said they hit two gunmen with return fire.

Trouble in the Shankill, a street of grimy stores and houses comprising Ulster's toughest Protestant district, stopped when a near-hysterical Defence Association marched in and called a halt.

It was a demonstration of the organization and power the UDA can muster. Some 400 men were drafted into Shankill at short notice—an invaluable capability in the event of the civil war many qualified observers now say is not far off for Northern Ireland.

The night's trouble underlined the highly volatile nature of the Protestant mood after three years of religious and social strife that has claimed more than 800 lives.

The whole situation is on a knife-edge," senior police officer said. "The events of tonight are a grave development."

As the street battles went on, a leading Belfast judge lay in hospital fighting for his life after a guerrilla attack. Robert Staunton, a 48-year-old Catholic known for his hardline against the outlawed Irish Republican Army, was shot as he dropped his two daughters off at school Wednesday. He was the first magistrate shot in Ulster.

Nationwide Raids Crack Drug Scene

Police Arrest 115

By The Canadian Press

Nationwide drug raids by RCMP and local police Thursday netted more than 100 persons suspected of drug trafficking, but many more sought by police were still at large.

The raids culminated a six-month investigation by RCMP into peddling of heroin, cocaine, hashish, MDA, and speed — methamphetamine. Warrants were made out for 278 persons.

By early today, about 115 persons had been picked up, mainly in Vancouver, Victoria, Toronto, Moncton, N.B., and Hull, Que.

The raids began at 8 a.m. Thursday as teams of city police and RCMP began searches for the suspects.

Heaviest police activity was in British Columbia, where warrants were issued for 124 persons in Vancouver and 42 in Victoria, B.C. There has been an importation point for drugs from Latin America and Asia.

By late Thursday, 68 persons had been arrested in B.C.

In Ontario, 11 of the 37 sought in Toronto had been captured, and searches were being made for those remaining.

An early roundup in Hull, with police cutting off part of the downtown area and using drug-sniffing dogs, turned up 18 of the 20 wanted there.

Another 16 persons were arrested in Moncton, and police were looking for three others. Single arrests were also made in Newcastle, N.B., Saint John, N.B., and on warrants issued by the Moncton police.

Although Montreal is regarded as a major port of entry for illicit drugs, an RCMP spokesman said the city was not involved in the nationwide raids.

RCMP disguised to fit into the drug-using communities bought supplies from traffickers over the last six months and the purchases have been traced to be used as evidence in trials, an RCMP spokesman said.

Three Killed In Shootout

NEW YORK (Reuter) — A federal narcotics squad and two suspected drug dealers were shot dead Thursday night as agents attempted to collect evidence by buying cocaine from the alleged dealers, a narcotics agent said today.

A second agent was in hospital in critical condition after the shoot-out on the 10th floor of a midtown motor hotel.

Harry Mellis'

Then The Bottom Fell Out

Ray Dearborn ingeniously hit on a way to transport cesspool from his Belleville home for dock foundation at Peat's Point cottage. He decided to shunt it three miles across Bay of Quinte by outboard motor. Last night, the tank was launched, it floated safely and Ray was set to go when a plug — its presence unsuspected — suddenly popped and the tank had to be retrieved from city harbor. For details, see Page 2.

You just never know what you are going to dig up in a potato patch. It is one thing to look at a "spud" but to have the spud look back is a little strange, at least for Thurlow resident Henry Johnston who grew it in his garden.

Verbal Radio Battle

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau arrived here Thursday night after a verbal battle with open-line callers in Thunder Bay, Ont., and spent a quiet evening before beginning another day of campaigning today.

The prime minister faced questioners in Thunder Bay when callers on an open-line radio and television show hinted he was being either slightly dishonest or evasive in his answers on the economy. Mr. Trudeau denied the allegation.

One caller suggested the Liberals had been "totally dishonest" in boasting of economic progress while inflation and unemployment continue to reach new heights.

"Man for man and government for government," he said, his Liberal government had "done a better job" than any other in the Western world.

When we hear from the opposition that the economy is in a deplorable state, we say compared to what: the Garden of Eden?"

The prime minister was greeted at the airport by several hundred people, many displaying placards both for and against the Liberal party and its policies.

"Trudeau society is just—for the American empire," read one placard carried by a member of the Canadian Liberation Movement, a socialist organization which claims Canada is being sold out to the United States.

The members sang "Trudeau is a schoul, he shall be removed."

They were out-numbered however, by well-wishers on hand to greet Mr. Trudeau.

Lawrence:

Liberals Playing Down Trudeau

VANCOUVER (CP) — Allan Lawrence, former Ontario secretary of justice, said Thursday Prime Minister Trudeau will not last much longer as leader of the Liberal party, even if the Liberals are re-elected Oct. 30.

"Even supposing the Liberals get back with a majority—certainly if a minority—Trudeau's days are numbered," said Mr. Lawrence, who quit provincial politics last month to run as a Conservative candidate in the federal riding of Northumberland-Durham.

Mr. Lawrence told a news conference that there is a feeling of "revulsion" against Mr. Trudeau and his policies right across the country and that Liberal party organizers are well aware of it.

"Nowhere on Liberal billboards or literature are they showing Trudeau's name or picture," he said. "The Liberals' national advertising campaign was supposed to have started last week but there was a pullback when they found Trudeau was simply not going over.

"There was great chaos and confusion once they had pulled those ads. Now they're stuck with them and are going ahead.

"They're afraid to bring Mr. Trudeau into some areas, especially prairie ridings. We're seeing an end to the public re-

Metro Land Swap

TORONTO (CP) — City council Thursday night approved complicated exchange of land with the developers of Metro Centre, a huge project to be created on property near the waterfront now largely covered by railway tracks.

Ald. David Rotenberg, chief financial executive of the council, said it is estimated that in return for giving up $2.5 million worth of land the city will get land valued at $15 million plus $14 million worth of "air rights" in some areas of the centre.

The city will give most of the Union Station site to the developer, along with a three-acre parking lot and some streets in the area that are to be closed.

Heath's Stand Endorsed

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) — By a 5-to-2 margin, the Conservative party has endorsed Prime Minister Heath's controversial decision to open Britain to the thousands of Asian holders of British passports being expelled from Uganda.

At a story meeting Thursday of the annual party convention, delegates rejected a militant right-winger Enoch Powell's demand for a ban on all non-white immigrants.

Laws Too Complex

KINGSTON (CP) — University professor Hiroki Tsurufuji said Thursday that policies control laws are sometimes so complex they do little but generate fat fees for lawyers who interpret them.

"Factories may be fined for polluting under one act but may be getting industrial development incentives under another act — what kind of penalty is this?"

Subsidies Out In B.C.

VICTORIA (CP) — Cominco Ltd. will get no provincial funds to help build a copper smelter in southeastern British Columbia, Premier Dave Barrett said Thursday.

"There are no subsidies for anyone," the New Democratic Party premier told a news conference. "They have the incentive of making a fair profit."

3-Step Plan Listed

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Progressive Conservative leader Robert Stanfield said Thursday he believes personal income taxes should be reduced by four per cent effective last July 1.

Replying to a question from a student at Sault Ste. Marie, Mr. Stanfield listed three ways he thought inflation should be fought.

First of all, he said, a proposed three-per-cent tax increase scheduled to go into effect Jan. 1, "is very much the wrong step to take at this time."

"I believe we should reduce the rate of increase in our per cent in the final six months of 1972," he declared.

Mr. Stanfield first brought up the subject of the retroactive tax cuts last month in a speech in Halifax.

A second way to fight rising costs was to get rid of inflationary psychology, perhaps through temporary wage-and-price controls. But such controls should only be imposed in times of urgency.

A third way was to give an immediate increase in the old age pension and to supplement it to keep pace with the cost of Living on a month-to-month basis rather than a yearly increase.

Queen Gets Roughest Reception in 20 Years From Students

STIRLING, Scotland (AP) — Hundreds of students who gave the Queen a rowdy reception when she visited one of Scotland's newest universities apologized today as an official inquiry opened into the demonstration.

The student council said it wished to "apologize for those scenes during the demonstration involving violence, drunkenness or obscene language."

The trouble started when the Queen began a tour of the campus after unveiling a plaque at the university.

She walked right into a mass of students who had earlier tried to stage a sitdown protest against, they said, costly preparations for the royal visit.

University authorities said preparations for the visit cost $1,200 (about $2,400).

A spokesman said the majority of the university's 2,600 students behaved well. "We'll be delving into this to think what is the right thing to do about this unpleasant incident."

There were no arrests.

Many of the crowd waved wine and whisky bottles. Others chanted "Queen out!" and "Go home, you Hun" strenuously a reference to the Monarch's far-off German ancestry.

The chants and yells were hurled from only a few feet away from the Queen, who looked shaken momentarily at the ruckus and the sight of a forest of clenched fist gestures.

Aides clutched her arm and a cordon of detectives and police formed around her as Lady-in-Waiting thrust one demonstrator out of the way with a firm push.

Some reporters who joined the protective chain of police and officials between the monarch and the crowd complained they were spat on. Police said they were kicked.

In the thick of the fray, however, the Queen maintained her composure after initial hesitation and smiled frequently.

At one stage six students broke through police lines, ran up to her and said the demonstration was not against her but over money spent on the visit.

"I have missed a lecture today because of you," one student complained.

The Queen asked with a smile: "Apart from this, how are you enjoying yourselves here?"

A youth invited her to a student club. "That might be a good idea," said the Queen. "I might do that sometime."

Queen Smiles at Wine-drinking Student

When she left students clambered over flowerbeds and cars, waving their flats and singing more rebald songs.

Buckingham Palace was anxious to play down the incident which one seasoned British reporter described as the worst witnessed in 25 years of covering royal tours.

A spokesman said: "The Queen was not unduly concerned for her safety. She has faced this sort of confrontation before abroad—though never in this country."

The 20-member council of the Stirling Student Association claimed "full responsibility for the fracas. President Linda Quinn, a 21-year-old sociology student, said: "We think the demonstration went off well. We have no regrets.

"We were mainly protesting at the cost of the Queen's visit. But for many, like myself, it was a political demonstration against the monarchy. Things got out of hand when police kicked a girl to the ground."

The affair got front-page treatment in a British press long used to royal occasions following a set, adulatory pattern.

The Daily Telegraph commented tartly: "Obscene outrages at Stirling University were directed . . . not against the Queen personally but against the 'unnecessary expense' of her visit. Which does the ordinary citizen most begrudge: the cost of a royal visit or the cost of maintaining such ruffians at university?"

The mass-circulation Daily Express said the students' "nastiness" was "in vivid contrast to the confidence, dignity and courage of the Queen.

"By their behaviour they have shamed the prestige of the Crown, and made them selves look mean and grubby."

A. H. Ketcheson

Former Alderman Dies in Hospital

Lifetime resident of Belleville and former city chairman, Allen Hampton (Al.) Ketcheson, 348 Bridge Street, died in Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday. He was in his 77th year.

A veteran of two world wars. Mr. Ketcheson was a member of the 39th Battalion, First Machine Gun Company in World War I with the rank of major and had served 20 years with the Belleville Income Tax Department, retiring in 1960 as chief assessor.

He served on city council as alderman in 1934 and 1935.

Born in the city of United Empire Loyalist parentage, Mr. Ketcheson was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Ketcheson and took a keen interest in sports. After World War I he played city league hockey and took an active part in the formation of the former Belleville Golf Club on the city's then eastern outskirts.

He was also associated with the Bay of Quinte Golf Club and was an ardent angler.

He was a member of St. Thomas Church, where he was a former church warden and also belonged to Royal Canadian Legion Branch 99 and The Belleville Club.

Mr. Ketcheson is survived by his wife, the former Helen Ward, a son Allen "Ward" Ketcheson of Moose Factory, Ont., and a daughter Mrs. Robert (Terry) Fraser of Toronto, and five grandchildren, Melinda and Susan Ketcheson and Morris, Kirsten and Jeffrey Fraser.

There are two brothers, Brigadier Donald D. Ketcheson, Toronto and C. Clifford Ketcheson of Vancouver, B.C. and two sisters Mrs. A. J. (Marion) Webster and Mrs. Murray (Thya) Denike, both of Toronto.

Two brothers, Major P. Kenneth Ketcheson and Clare M. Ketcheson predeceased him.

The funeral will be held Saturday from the Thompson Funeral Chapel to St. Thomas' Church, where service will be conducted at 11 a.m. by Rev. Peter Tetl. Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery.

Ruined by Fire

Jack Finkle of the Belleville Fire Department works to extinguish a burning vehicle on the Highway 401 exit ramp coming into the city. The owner, Glenn Robert Grills of Trenton pulled over shortly after the fire broke out in the back cargo. No cause was determined for the blaze which gutted the late model car yesterday at noon.

Sidney to Be Divided Between Authorities

All of Sidney township will be divided between Lower Trenton and Moira Valley conservation Authorities by actions initiated last night.

In a formal motion Thursday attended by officials of the ministry of environment, Sidney township and the Lower Trenton Region Conservation Authority yesterday it was resolved that the portion of Sidney contained in the western reaches of the Potter's Creek watershed will go into the LTRCA on January 1, 1973 (subject to provincial cabinet approval).

Reeve Jack Bush of Sidney said the process of having the rest of the township completely taken in by the Moira authority will begin shortly, the objective being to have it as part of the Moira conservation area also by the beginning of next year.

Currently about a third of Sidney is in the LTRCA and another one third is in the Moira area.

Bush said today having the entire municipality within conservation authorities will facilitate implementation of reservation and recreational properties in the central districts of the area the authorities will total about $1.500 a year, he said.

Thomas E. Fleming Was County Warden

Former warden of Hastings count and postmaster at the village of Ivanhoe for more than half a century, Thomas E. Fleming died Thursday at Hastings Manor. He was in his 80th year.

Mr. Fleming, a retired general merchant, had lately farmer, took an active interest in community affairs, was a member on the former Moira District High School Board for many years and was reeve of the township of Hungerford from 1938 until 1944.

He retired from municipal life following his term in 1944, at Hastings, count.

Born at Ivanhoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fleming, he had lived all his life until becoming a resident of Hastings Manor about four years ago. He had been in failing health for the past five ears.

A lover of fine horses, Mr. Fleming took pride in showing his horses at area fall fairs.

He was a member of the West Huntingdon Presbyterian Church.

Predeceased by his wife, the former Edna J. Bedard, he is survived by one sona. John B. Fleming of Ivanhoe and George D. Fleming of Ottawa, and a daughter Mrs. M. (Shirley) Bisset of Goyac.

Ass surviving are a sister, Miss Bessie Fleming of Belleville and six grandchildren. Five sisters and one brother predeceased him.

The funeral will be held tomorrow from the MacKenzie Funeral Home at Hydge Toe service at 1:30 p.m., conducted by Rev. Roy Taylor's of Shiloh. Interment West Huntingdon Cemetery.

Rare Bird Doing Well

A young male peregrine falcon in the Kensington Intermediate School children 10 miles north of Napanee, is recovering from a shock, a spokesman for the ministry of natural resources said.

The falcon, grounded with an injured wing was brought to Belleville Animal Hospital and had its wings bound to help in the immobilization.

After a few attempts at standing chief ranger E. W. Ferguson said "the bird has regained its equilibrium and is standing and walking about the cage."

Officers in the Napanee ranger office have been taking care of the bird and will distribute until the bird is well.

A major problem was overcome when the bird began feeding itself hamburger and chicken.

Dr. Harry Byrns, of the animal hospital, said the injury would take up to three weeks to heal and the problem was to keep the bird quiet during that time.

"As far as we can tell the bird is all right and seems to be getting used to the captivity," Mr. Ferguson said.

The bird is a rarity in that one has not been seen east of the Mississippi in many years, said a Kingston naturalist.

On Monday morning the bird will make its debut appearance before area naturalist tells to authenticate its species.

The bird will remain in its cage until well, then will be kept in a warm place.

If it can't fly once the tape is removed, permanent quarters will be arranged.

SS Septic Not Seaworthy

By HARRY MULHALL

The bottom came out of a fine piece of original thinking for Ray Dewsbrow last night.

But -not before he'd scored for effort and imagination.

What happened was this:

Ray, recently excavating a breezeway to add a family room to his 182 Wright Ave. home, found his way barred by a septic tank, installed before city services reached the area.

The concrete tank, weighing about a ton, would make an ideal duck foundation for his cottage at Peat's Point, south east of Belleville.

Taking it by road would have been unwieldy, so Ray decided to try the water - dragging the tank into the city harbor, governing it across the Bay of Quinte with an outboard motor then merely dropping it off the dock she could ride his cutlace. The trip was about three miles--about half that by land.

To ensure safe floatation he even threw in 2 empty 5 gallon paint gallon drums. Then had the tank tied to it and aboard a hoist truck to the harbor. A ruxsan was to follow by yacht, heading a few - just in case.

At the harbor, everything went smoothly. The ungainly concrete crait not only made a nimble manoeuvre but floated safely.

But there's always the unexpected. Unknown to Ray, a plug had been inserted in the tank - bottom at the factory.

After floating several minutes below the slipway near the Wheat Street Boating Club, the plug suddenly sprung loose. The tank had to be hurriedly hauled from the water.

Hiding his chagrin, Ray decided there was no alternative. The tank had to go the hard way and it did.

Deer Hunt Looks Good

Quinte district deer hunters can expect an excess rating about the same as last year, area game naturalist Lorne Mc Ivor spokesman said today at Tweed.

During the 1971 season about 11 of 100 hunters scored a deer — a success rate of 14 15 per cent, he said.

Among reasons for a good hunting season was the presence of a good fawn crop, he said.

The Tweed forestry district, a manstry official in Toronto said, is considered the most used popular hunting area, at October 19,350 of the province's 82,200 deer hunters. Parry Sound in the Muskoka area is second with 18,750 hunters etc and Lindsay third with 10,100 hunters.

The season opens in the Tweed district Nov. 6.

to be pro-government it would have showed by then."

Mr. Lawrence said the voters are now concerned with issues and policies in this campaign, items which they ignored in the 1968 election.

"I've been in public life for 4 years and I've never been questioned more on the issues, and policies,"

Among the criticisms made by Mr. Lawrence were that the federal government has been the main beneficiary of inflation. He criticized the premain higher wages which in turn means higher taxes.

Mr. Lawrence said the Tories would reduce income tax by seven per cent, drop the 11 percent sales tax on building materials and allow interest paid on residential mortgages as a tax deduction.

He said Mr. Trudeau has campaigned on the theme of national unity, when their unity is in worse shape than it was in 1968.

"People in Quebec think bilingualism is a real charade," he said. "Separatism today is stronger than it was 4½ years ago."

As for Western Canada "this time there's a much stronger feeling of alienation from Ottawa and the East . . . resulting in anti-French, anti-Quebec feeling."

Shipper Co-operation CP Speaker's Request

A senior official of CP Ships Wednesday made a bid for co-operation to local traffic control specialists, the people who handle in- and outgoing shipments of goods from, plants in the region.

R. L. Purdy, regional manager (freight services) CP Ships for North America, told the Quinte Traffic Club he is striving to make his company's container service to Western Europe as efficient as possible but needs the assistance of customers themselves.

"We need the assistance from you the customer in our efforts to forecast what our markets will be . . . so that we can plan our inventory, plan our requirements at various locations," said the 34-year veteran CP service.

Additionally, he said "advanced planning is required for the rail carrier to purchase the correct amount of equipment to adequately service the industry."

Purdy, who launched CP's container ship program and still administers its North American operation, advised the local pool of clients in attendance to place orders for elevated containers early and to keep them moving efficiently in and out of local warehouses.

He pointed out that early notification of container needs and changing needs "will certainly assist our over-all economics and ultimately reduce your costs."

As far as efficient use of the company's nearly 7,000 containers is concerned, the regional manager explained "if a unit . . . , can be turned around every seven weeks it can make seven round trips to Europe) a year."

However, he stressed should a week be lost in turnaround time, only six productive round trips can be made and this would necessitate the purchase of 15 per cent more containers to cope with the same container traffic.

"The price you pay for transportation does not reflect any such inefficiencies. It is our hope you will think of this when tempted to use a container for a few days warehousing," he said.

Purdy distributed explanatory literature instructing shippers in the proper packaging of ship containers, advising "safe transportation of that merchandise basically comes back to your ability to place the traffic into the container in such a manner as to protect it during transit."

He said proper stowage within the containers will help ensure the arrival of goods in sound condition and reduces claims for in transit damage made against the company. Again, he said, proper stowage of goods can only work to the mutual benefit of CP Ships and its clients alike.

Feeding containerized imports and exports by CP owned trucks and trains through the CP container port at Quebec City provides the kind of integrated service that can produce optimum efficiency, Purdy indicated.

Loading time for a 12,000-ton cargo ship has been reduced from seven or eight days to 36 hours through the container loading program, he said, adding what dockers at times see as "their legal right to steal" shipments from the docks has been virtually eliminated by the sealed container shipping method.

He told the Quinte club that CP Ships this week completed at $2.5-million expansion program at pier-like Pioneer container port from which a weekly container service is maintained to Rotterdam, London, Liverpool and Greenock.

Hees Promises Tax Cut

PICTON (Staff) — Unemployment in Canada can be combated by a decrease in personal income tax and stimulation of the economy.

George Hees, MP. Prince Edward-Hastings, said Wednesday at a press interview in the Progressive Conservative committee rooms here that his government, if in power, would cancel the three per cent increase in personal tax slated to become effective January 1, 1973.

Income tax would be decreased an additional 10 per cent in an effort to stimulate the economy.

Mr. Hees recalled finance minister Edgar Benson in his budget one year ago reduced income tax by three per cent to boost the economy but the decrease is scheduled to end in December.

"An increase would create unemployment and a decrease buying power," commented Mr. Hees.

He said a Conservative government would announce on its election that the three per cent increase would not go into effect as planned.

The MP termed unemployment figures "pretty darned serious" and observed Prime Minister Trudeau has stated he will do nothing to stimulate the economy. More local initiatives programs will be introduced but in Mr. Hees' opinion these fail to provide permanent jobs paid for by industry.

He said the answer to unemployment, in part, lies in selling more to produce more to employ more.

To sell more, money must be placed in the pockets of the persons who do the buying and this is done most quickly through a reduction in personal income tax.

"Where does the money come from to run the country?" asked Mr. Hees referring to the proposed income tax cuts.

He observed the unemployed produce nothing and must draw on the public treasury either through unemployment insurance or direct relief. "If employment is stimulated, then they stop drawing on the public purse and they earn wages on which they are taxed income tax which is paid into the public purse," he remarked.

The "public purse" is further filled by the sale of more commodities taxed by the government.

An increase in production reduces the overhead per unit of production and this increases profits. "And it's profits the government taxes in corporation taxes" said the MP.

Mr. Hees commented recent index figures for the cost of living show an increase of more than five per cent and said the Conservative government would introduce price and wage guidelines designed to halt the annual cost of living increase at approximately two and a half per cent.

"It's serious for all consumers, but the worst thing is that this is the simplest way to put yourself in a real depression," predicted Mr. Hees, commenting on the increased cost of living.

Hees explained as prices rise on Canadian goods, shoppers will buy the cheaper foreign imports. Unemployment results when people turn from Canadian products and factories receive no repeat orders.

Mr. Hees said price and wage controls introduced two years ago by the government failed completely because there were no penalties for non-compliance. "Both management and labor laughed at them," he recalled. He said the Conservatives' proposed price and wage guidelines would be observed by labor and management if mandatory guidelines were stated as the penalty for ignoring them.

Mr. Hees said he has conversed with top businessmen and labor leaders and both say inflation cannot continue indefinitely. They agreed that if the Conservative government presents price and wage guidelines and convinces them the penalty for scoffing at them would be mandatory controls, labor and management would have no alternatives but compliance.

Crosswalks Back To Committee

— Belleville city council wants more information about pedestrian crosswalks before authorizing the setting up of such crossovers at two locations on Pinnacle Street.

Crosswalks at Market Street and at Campbell Street were recommended by the city traffic committee but this week council referred the matter back to the traffic committee for information regarding costs.

Alderman Enos David questioned the comparatively short distance of Market Street and Campbell Street from the Bridge Street intersection, claiming this to be shorter than the 600 feet called for in regulations regarding crosswalks.

Also he felt that the present allowable 30-mile-an-hour vehicular speed was too fast for Pinnacle Street.

The traffic committee recommendation called for a vigorous public education and information program before crosswalks were introduced to make both pedestrians and motorists aware of them.

Mayor J. Russell Scott said this was particularly important, otherwise it would mean setting up "two slaughterhouse alleys" in the city.

He said that where legal crosswalks were introduced, the fatality rate almost invariably saw an initial increase until motorists became accustomed to the regulation.

Alderman Ben Corke asked whether crosswalks should not at the same time be considered for Front Street.

He was told that the report of Police Chief Douglas Forbie recommended against crosswalks on Front Street as they would interfere too much with the flow of traffic.

If legal crosswalks are installed on Pinnacle Street, the present "courtesy" crosswalks on Front Street would have to be discontinued to avoid confusion, it was stated.

Council, however, did go along with another traffic committee recommendation, calling for traffic signal lights to be installed at the intersections of Valleyview Crescent and Trevanny Street on North Front Street.

The recommendation was for the lights to be installed at the earliest possible date— if possible this year.

But City Engineer Wilbur Purcell said installation this year would be impossible even if the order was given at the night's council meeting.

In any event, delivery of equipment would not be possible until early next year, he said.

RONALD PRICE

Price First In Field

TRENTON (Staff) — The first official seeker of a town council seat here has announced his candidacy.

Ronald Price, 28 - year - old merchant, says Trenton's council "could use younger blood and some younger thinking."

As the owner of Price's Variety at 80 Byron Street and partner in Quinte Ice Products, he is constantly meeting with people. "It seems to be the general opinion of the public I deal with, that we need a change," he told The Intelligencer last night.

Mr. Price, on one occasion, represented a local side merchants who stood opposed to a development in the town, taking their message to council.

Residents Protest Delay on Sewer

Efforts will be made to speed up the installation of sanitary sewer along College Street in the city's Hillcrest area.

This was agreed by city council this week following receipt of a letter from the Hillcrest Ratepayers' Association requesting action instead of "just empty promises from a lot of people who seemingly serve only a chosen few."

The letter said Hillcrest area residents were tired of having council refer everything they can't be bothered with to the committee of the whole or to public works.

This, it was claimed, was simply delaying tactics.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds explained that sewer installation along College Street would depend on a decision for the route which the street extension would take which in turn would allow the location of services.

Mayor J. Russell Scott said that despite the complaint, there had been progress made in the installation of services for Hillcrest residents.

If there had been any holdup on the College Street sewer, he said it was because of mechanical or physical reasons rather than unwillingness of council to take action.

He said the new sanitary sewer down the river was nearing completion and this would provide an outlet for Hillcrest area sewers — something which has not been available.

On motion by Alderman Donald Soulier, council voted to have the council advisory committee to the Quinte Planning Board bring in a recommendation for the College Street sewer route.

No Let-Up

Major-General Robert Ford, field commander of the British forces in Northern Ireland, said after troops entered "no-go" areas in Belfast and Londonderry recently that citizens could now move about freely without fear or interference.

Events of course have proved him wrong to some extent. It is true people go about their business in Ulster, but the threat of violence is always present. Nobody, in the cities at least, can consider himself safe. No building or home, is invulnerable.

A week or two ago the Catholic newspaper, The Irish News, in Belfast's Donegall Street was bombed and it failed to publish one day at least. Also damaged was a Protestant Congregational church close by. Farther along the street is The Belfast News-Letter, one of the oldest newspapers in the British Isles (it was founded in 1737), still publishing despite a huge explosion on the street nearby some months ago in which several people died and many were injured.

And in recent days a Catholic judge, Robert Staunton, known for his hard line against IRA terrorists before the courts, was gunned down seconds after dropping his two young daughters off at school in the trouble-blighted Lower Falls Road.

We wonder what some famous clerics and Christian writers of the Ulster scene would have thought had they foreseen the recurring terror of recent years that continues today.

We refer to personalities such as Henry Frankis Lyte, who was educated at Portora Royal School in Enniskillen, J. S. B. Monsell, once a rector of Ramoan parish outside Ballycastle on the Antrim coast and one of whose hymns was sung at a Thanksgiving service in Belfast recently, and Cecil Frances Alexander who wrote There is a Green Hill Far Away. The "hill" is believed to be one Mrs. Alexander viewed from her County Londonderry home.

Unhappily, Ulster's Christian traditions have been marred by acts of violence which have continued for so long and show no sign of abating.

Now The Colloseum

First it was London Bridge that was falling down, to be rescued though in good time by an American businessman and transported brick-by-labelled-brick and put down again across a stretch of water in the new community of Lake Havasu City in Arizona.

Now it is the Colosseum in Rome that is feeling the ravages of time. Begun by Vespasian in 75 A.D. and completed about five years later, the great amphitheatre where the gladiators did their thing has been declared off limits. The venerable structure is showing further signs of wear.

And stepping into the breach as it were is California businessman Thomas Merrick. He wants to buy the Colosseum — and presumably restore it — for a million dollars.

We have not heard what the reaction of the Italians is but we are sure they would want to carry out any necessary restoration job on the ancient marks though to Mr. Merrick. He sounds like a real go-getter in the American tradition.

Hecklers

If we have been deploring the dearth of heckling at political meetings, we've seen evidence since of some pretty spirited and barbed questioning of candidates. The candidates' night at Centennial this week was a case in point, when students kept the party representatives on the hop. It is a good sign, for debate is the essence of democracy. A questioning attitude is essential and the students have given a good lead.

Softball Title

We were happy to note the solid performance of the Mead Johnson Squirts in trouncing Sarnia 3-1 and bringing home to Belleville the Ontario Amateur Softball Association minor softball title. It was the second time a minor softball title had come to Belleville. Good work boys.

Stanfield Hits Back

When PM Speaks of 'Integrity' It Could Backfire

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—When Prime Minister Trudeau announced the dissolution of Parliament he issued a statement which surprised many people by its high-flown rhetoric and vague philosophical nature. He worked in the tired cliche about "our threshold of greatness" and stressed the "integrity of Canada" — whatever that means.

The choice of the word "integrity" was a poor one for the Liberal party and it has been downgraded in Mr. Trudeau's more recent campaign speeches. In his own nomination speech he used the word only once in the sentence: "Canada stands straight in the renewed affirmation of our sovereignty in the North and in our respect internationally, in our will to be ourselves, in the integrity which we reflect as a state."

But Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield quickly seized the word. In his nomination speech he noted Mr. Trudeau claimed the major issue of the campaign was the integrity of the country. "He doesn't want to go to the people talking specifically about the integrity of his government, or apparently Mr. Trudeau will talk in vague terms about the integrity of the country instead. And of course the implication is that if the Trudeau government is not re-elected then somehow we will lose our integrity as a nation."

The reason integrity is not a good issue for the Liberals is that it happens to be one of the most-used adjectives in describing Mr. Stanfield. Many people regard him as slow, ponderous, lacking in color and zap, but almost everyone considers him a man of honesty and integrity. Mr. Trudeau and the Liberals would be advised to develop a new campaign theme in a hurry.

There are a number of interesting contests shaping up in the Oct. 30 vote.

The attempted return of former labor minister Michael Starr in the Oshawa-Whitby riding ensures another close fight in that strong labor union area. In 1968, NDP candidate Edward Broadbent defeated Mr. Starr by a mere 15 votes while the Liberal, popular Whitby mayor Desmond Newman, was only 210 votes behind Mr. Starr. This time the Liberal is Peter Connolly who has been the executive assistant to Bryce Mackasey, manpower and immigration minister. He is not well known in the riding and is unlikely to poll anything like the vote Mayor Newman amassed. Mr. Starr hopes to pick up enough Liberal votes this time to turn the tables on Mr. Broadbent.

In neighboring Ontario riding, the 1968 Liberal winner Norman Cafik is being challenged by a former Conservative cabinet minister, Frank McGee. Mr. Cafik has been active, not only in Commons' committee work, but in his riding, organizing seminars for farmers and businessmen and setting up non-partisan riding committees to study such subjects as the tax reform legislation. Mr. McGee is an attractive candidate, but he will have his work cut out to overcome the 3,000-vote Cafik margin out of 1968.

In Metro Toronto the Conservatives have hopes of taking the High Park riding won in 1968 by Liberal Walter Deakon by slightly less than 6,000 votes. The Conservative candidate is former world figure skating star, Otto Jelinek. The Don Valley fight between Liberal Robert Kaplan and Conservative Dr. J. Gillies is also worth watching closely.

In Newfoundland, CTV commentator and newscaster, Max Ferguson has taken on a giant-killing attempt in trying to wrest Burin-Burgeo from popular Transport Minister Don Jamieson. The riding includes the hometown of Mr. Keeping and there are reported to be some 25 families bearing the Keeping name within its boundaries. Even if the Tory hopeful doesn't win, he may make things interesting enough to keep Mr. Jamieson busy at home, thus reducing his campaigning impact in other Atlantic ridings.

Soviet Bureaucracy Weighs Heavily on Citizens

George Radvanski in the Montreal Gazette

The price of a centralized authoritarian system of the kind which controls the Soviet Union is paper-work without limit. Virtually every aspect of life is in the hands of a mammoth bureaucracy choked by its own red tape.

The most simple transaction requires filling in umpteen forms, producing sundry documents and coping with a clerk who probably has troubles of her own and couldn't care less about yours.

Ask virtually anything of Soviet officialdom, and the initial answer will be "nyet".

Need to buy a train ticket to another city? "Nyet, no seats available." Is your apartment desperately in need of repair? "Nyet, there are 50 others ahead of you with the same problem; wait your turn, comrade."

The Soviet citizen takes it for granted that this will happen. He states his case, gets the inevitable refusal and argues a bit.

The official who has reason in the world is overt himself, stands firm. If the pleader is lucky he eventually gets chunked off to someone else. Before he's through he may have to argue, plead and wheedle half a dozen times — and then, at the very best, he'll get much less than he originally wanted.

This process is so much a part of life that a kind of weary passivity sets in. Unless your need is absolutely vital, you don't even bother asking.

Then there's the waiting.

You can't do anything at all in the Soviet Union without standing in line first.

To buy a piece of sausage, you line up in the food store to wait for service at the meat counter. When your turn finally comes, you point out what you want, have it weighed and get a slip of paper with the price of your purchase — but you don't get the sausage.

Now you have to join the line-up at the cash register. After another wait, you present your slip, pay for the sausage and get a receipt.

Then you wait again at the meat counter, hand over your receipt, and, finally, collect your piece of sausage.

By the time you're through, the whole operation will have taken a good 15 or 20 minutes — just to buy one scrap of sausage.

It's exactly the same to make a purchase in a department store, to have a clothing dry-cleaned, to get a watch repaired. Your line up first.

And if you want dinner in a restaurant, or a snack in a cafe, you must wait in line for 30 minutes or an hour before going in.

Even taking a taxi in the Soviet Union requires queueing up. There's such thing as hailing a passing cab. You walk to the nearest taxi-marked taxi stand, take your place in the line-up, and await your turn.

Waiting is a part, even of the activities that are supposed to be purely pleasurable. At the Festival of Peter and Paul in Leningrad, Russian sightseers were kept waiting outside the gate in the hot sun for their turn to enter in small groups, while a policeman with a bullhorn bellowed at them to form a neat line.

George Frost and Bruce Walker, form boys attending Belleville Collegiate, picked up $40 in prize money at the International Plowing Match at Carp when they finished fifth in a special class for high school students. Each secondary school was entitled to enter a team of two boys in the special class.

Immigrant Praises Canada

Letter in The Montreal Gazette

Mr. Trudeau is right, we can't reject Ugandans. As an immigrant from Hungary back in 1956, I consider Canada first as a free country, and second the land of opportunities. Every free country must give a chance to the persecuted.

If only people who immigrate nowadays would understand (as we did in 1956) that no work whatever kind it might be, is shameful, as long as it is done well, and as long as the person can make a living at it, even if it is very modest in the beginning.

Among us in 1956 were many intellectuals and skilled people who grabbed at any available job, and I think rarely in their own profession. But sooner or later we got "experience" or learned new professions, many of us, doctors, engineers, etc. studied, and went back to their old practice and in a few years we were settled.

Oh yes, it takes time to get accustomed to the climate, to the new way of life, even to the supermarkets with all their choice of goods.

In life everyone has to pay for everything. A new immigrant who comes to Canada perhaps has to give up his old profession, his previous way of life for the freedom and opportunity. But nothing goes also for the many young people who were born in Canada and are rejecting jobs which are not exactly their forte. Young people of Canada, should grab any kind of work and work up, because they don't know what they have in this country and know how lucky they are, if have had the privilege of being born here.

MRS. FANNI FARAGO.

Forum For Opinions Of Public

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Although I am not acquainted with William C. Hockley, after reading the two letters in The Intelligencer of Saturday, Oct. 7, I feel impelled to spring to his defence.

As an occasional writer of letters to the editor, I would like to point out that this is a forum to which anyone is entitled to contribute. Perhaps the reason Mr. Hockley is so often in print is that so few others make the effort to write.

That Mr. Hockley is a man of strong opinions on many subjects is undeniable, though I doubt if he sees himself as reprehensible. His research is thorough and not to be dismissed casually.

The urge to write to a newspaper has nothing to do with seeing one's name in print, neither is it a method of advertising the ego. One of our most distinguished Canadians is a frequent contributor to the section of The Globe and Mail. I refer to the erudite, lucid and succinct Senator Eugene Forsey. Believe me, Dr. Forsey "arrives" long ago.

This compulsion to write is frequently sparked by injustice, or the deliberate distortion of others of a situation of which they may be unaware. I have sometimes been asked to espouse a cause, but have always refused because I feel that the inner compulsion should be there. I am aware that Mr. Hockley will agree with me when I say that another reason for putting these words down is because of a partial of those who say "I'm not shaking my neck dirt" — "What can you do anyway?" I have always believed that "it is better to light one candle than to curse the darkness."

My sting for a moment from the general to the particular: regarding the behavior of playrs and his handicraftch, country themselves lucky to have obtained a plane ticket at all.

And no one seems to care about anyone else's discomfort either.

McGovern Campaign

Editor,
The Intelligencer,

George McGovern's repeated denunciations of the Thieu government, are causing both domestic and foreign experts to question his motives in denigrating an ally!

It is the new standard bearer of the college-bred radical left negatively inspired by the fact that Thieu is somewhat less Democratically pure than Jane Fonda! or Ramsey Clark, like Hanoi, fear Thieu as a unifier second only to Ho Chi Minh as a Marxist Communist Party installable and genocidal compulsion to ram communism down the throat of her long-suffering neighbours?

If McGovern's ready acceptance of a Communist take-over that Hanoi's avidity for the Democratic leader another symptom of the growing world-wide confluence of Communism and the rising left?

Recently published reports indicate that the leaders of many nations vitally concerned with international security and world peace are relying heavily on Richard Nixon and the commonsense of the electorate!

Health Care Likely to Become Part of Election Campaigns

OTTAWA (CP) — Health care, one of the biggest items in the federal government's budget, hasn't been getting much attention on the hustings, although it's likely to soon.

In five weeks of campaigning, only passing references to health care have been made by the party leaders, usually on open-line radio talk-shows.

This apparent lack is odd in light of pre-election speeches suggesting health care costs were spiralling.

There are indications health care may emerge as an issue soon, with the Liberals apparently preparing a policy that will call for increased support for fitness programs.

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau has said during the campaign that Canadians probably overeat and underexercise. The government would do as much as possible "within our constitutional jurisdiction" to encourage the fitness of Canadians, he said in a news conference in Richmond Hill, Ont.

New Democratic Party researchers, now gathering information about health care costs, said only that Leader David Lewis will make a major speech on the "very near future" — 10 days.

Expenditures on health and welfare will consume $2.8 billion in 1972-73, which is one-quarter of all tax dollars. Expenditures on health programs alone probably account for about 12 per cent of the budget.

Treasury board figures show that six cents of every tax dollar goes for the federal government's share of provincial-municipal health insurance programs. Another four cents from each tax dollar goes to the medical care insurance program, which was introduced since the last general election.

Slightly more than one cent goes to nationally-administered health programs, including environmental protection and health services, food and drug testing, public health, medical research and scholarship support, northern health services and Indian health care.

The economic council has reported that the fastest-growing area in health care costs is hospital care. Cost of a hospital bed has soared from about $5 a day in 1946 to more than $100 a day in large urban teaching hospitals.

Federal politicians have once again to point out that health care is primarily a provincial responsibility. But one of the first things Lewis's new government will be a federal-provincial health ministers' conference to discuss new cost-sharing arrangements. One is scheduled for November.

Last year, Health Minister John Munro submitted a new formula for cost sharing and offered a $640-million "throw-fund" over five years in per capita payments to the provinces. This would amount to about $30 a person and would be used to finance re-organization of delivery of care according to provincial priorities.

A check with party headquarters in Ottawa and with assisting to the party leaders showed:

—Liberals will be making a statement on physical fitness as an adjunct to better health care before the end of the campaign. Other sources suggest this announcement likely will be made by the prime minister during an upcoming visit out west.

—Progressive Conservatives will be making no specific policy statements on health care, but they pledge to "protect" health costs and would take strong steps, in consultation with the provinces, to find out what is wrong and how this could be corrected.

—New Democratic Party leader Lewis is making a statement on health care suggesting that the rich are getting greater benefits from public health programs than the poor.

Sources said income-tax studies show that those with high incomes usually can claim higher medical exemptions than those with lower incomes. The poor, even under public insurance programs, can't afford to be sick.

—Social Credit will be making no definite policy statements about health care, but one source said the party believes that state-run health plans are desirable. Under Social Credit, the individual would have sufficient financial resources to make his own arrangements either for insurance through private plans or for care, the source said.

Kierans Nixes NDP Overtures

MONTREAL (CP) — Eric Kierans, former cabinet minister in the Trudeau government, said Thursday he does not intend to join the New Democratic Party despite writing the foreword for a book by David Lewis, NDP leader.

Mr. Kierans said in an interview he is sure Mr. Lewis "would like some new recruits but I have no intention of joining the NDP." He would continue to support the Liberals.

"I first spoke for the Liberals in 1935. If you disagree with your party you try and sway the party around to your way of thinking. I have always voted Liberal and will continue to do so."

Mr. Kierans said he disagrees with some of the foundations of the Waffle group's economic policy. If the government remained in power, "it would have to do a lot of soul-searching as to the kind of Canada we're going to have if we continue our present policies."

The former cabinet minister wrote the foreword for Leader Voices: The Cooperate Welfare States by Mr. Lewis. The book was released Wednesday.

Police Guard NDP Candidate

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — An around-the-clock guard has been put on Mike Sheppard, New Democratic Party candidate for Kitchener in the Oct. 30 federal election, following a shocking incident here Wednesday.

Kitchener police are investigating the incident in which a shot from a .303-calibre rifle passed through the window of Mr. Sheppard's car outside his campaign headquarters about 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The rifle, with a note attached warning the candidate to withdraw from the election, was found across the street from the headquarters.

Police Chief Wilfred Heinrich said Thursday he had approached Mr. Sheppard to give them details about the shooting and expected to work with the RCMP police force in the investigation of the incident.

A 24-hour guard has been put on the Kitchener residence of Mr. Sheppard.

Mr. Sheppard said later that he had received an earlier warning note saying: "Don't wast your kind in Kitchener. You'll get the same treatment as Bobby Kennedy."

He said he considered the warnings as the work of a crank and just ignored it.

Mr. Sheppard said he had no intention of complying with the demand made in the note that he withdraw from the election.

"I'm not going to do what it wants because if I do, it will encourage every other crackpot to try the same thing elsewhere."

Police said they found an empty casing in the chamber of the recovered rifle and three live rounds in the magazine.

The 27-year-old NDP candidate, a graduate of the University of Waterloo and a professional artist, is making his first foray into federal politics. He faces Liberal Keith Hymman, member in the last Parliament, and Progressive Conservative Harold Lawrence.

Various NDP candidates in areas surrounding Kitchener confirmed that they have been warned by police to report anything suspicious and one of them said that he is at loss as to what precautions to take.

RCMP Alerted

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP) — Leonard R. Saunders, 67, of Kelowna, a retired policeman, said Wednesday that he was called in to RCMP headquarters for interrogation last week about letters he has written expressing his dislike of Prime Minister Trudeau. He said the RCMP asked him about the letters and questioned him on his intentions in regard to an election campaign visit the prime minister is scheduled to make to this Okanagan Valley city Saturday.

Archdeacon Kenneth Boden, NDP candidate for London East, said Thursday he was called by provincial police in the morning and told to be on his guard.

"I guess the reason they alerted me was because Kitchener is close to London and he (the sniper) might be heading this way," he said. "I'm not taking any special precautions because I don't know what precautions to take."

York Crisis

TORONTO (CP) — President David Slater of York University said Thursday the university is in an economic crisis and told staff members that spending must be kept to the minimum. York expects to miss its projected enrolment of 23,662 students by 2,347 and now has to make a second $2 million budget slash this year.

Mackasey Says PCs Use 'Reactionary Mood'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Manpower Minister Bryce Mackasey accused Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield Thursday of playing on a "reactionary mood" in Canada against the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

The minister, who is on a three-day tour of British Columbia, said the new UIC regulations were approved by all parties in Ottawa. Mr. Stanfield now is saying he does not understand them, he said.

"What Stanfield does understand is that there is a reactionary mood in the country which he thinks he can utilize. In so doing, he has stigmatized Canadian workers who have been entitled to UIC benefits for 30 years."

Mr. Mackasey, who was commenting at a news conference, said some opponents of the scheme seem to want a return to the "hungry '30s."

He discounted proposals by Mr. Stanfield that personal tax cuts would stimulate the economy and provide more employment.

"I think there is a more direct effect in stimulating consumer spending by providing the unemployed with decent benefits," he said.

Lewis Tours 'Bowels' Of 'Corporate Bum'

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — David Lewis toured a nickel mine at Thompson and visited grain-loading facilities in this wintry Hudson Bay port Thursday as he carried his federal election campaign into the massive riding of Churchill.

The New Democratic Party leader put in a busy day but probably met fewer voters than a medium-sized city would have expected in most places. Other than sporadic groups of mine and port workers he met only party supporters in both centres.

Party organizers admitted freely he was playing to the media in an effort to reach as many as the sparsely-populated riding which covers more than two-thirds of the entire land area of Manitoba.

The remaining 12 federal seats in Manitoba are located in the southern one-third of the province, six of them in the Winnipeg area.

Churchill has been solidly Conservative since 1957 but the New Democrats, who ran third in 1968, regard it as their best chance to gain ground in the province this time. They held three Manitoba seats at dissolution.

The constituency candidate is Donald Duff, 44, a United Church minister from Thompson.

Mr. Lewis moved into enemy territory at noon Thursday morning by touring the Thompson mine which is operated by the International Nickel Co. of Canada, a firm he has rated high on what he calls the corporate rip-off list.

He joked with Inco guides that he was "descending into the bowels of a corporate welfare bum" when he was taken down to the 1,100-foot level of the company's Birchtree mine for a first-hand look at an active mine face.

The guides took his ribbing good-naturedly and went out of their way to make him feel welcome, partly in the interests of public relations.

"Can you imagine the flak if we told him to go back and wouldn't let him tour the plant," said one Inco spokesman.

Cutters Fired

TORONTO (CP) — Scott's Restaurants Co. Ltd. sent dismissal notices to the 15 employees at its chicken restaurant Thursday, the day before they could legally go on strike. The Canadian Food and Allied Workers' Union, which organized the workers last summer, said it is applying to the Ontario Labor Relations Board for permission to prosecute the company for an illegal lockout and failure to bargain in good faith. The company said it is disciplining the practice of cutting chickens into parts at a central point, to be shipped to its restaurants.

Half-Truths Cloud Issue Claims Paul Martin

EDMONTON (CP) — The Progressive Conservatives are clouding the unemployment insurance issue with "inaccuracies and half-truths," Senator Paul Martin said Thursday.

He said the Conservatives' talk of money being paid into unemployment insurance by Ottawa is nonsense since the federal government simply administers money paid into the fund by employers and employees.

Payments to unemployed have left the fund with an $800 million deficit, "about the same as what John Diefenbaker left out," Mr. Martin said in an interview. The unemployed must be looked after and the Conservatives could do no more than back down, he said.

The Liberal party's leader in the Senate, campaigning here Thursday, said the Conservatives' contention that every payment increased beneficiary receives $100 a week is inaccurate because the unemployed receive two-thirds of their former salary up to a maximum of $100 a week.

Mr. Martin commented on the New Democratic Party's attacks on grants incentives by saying the NDP favored tax incentives as recently as two years ago.

MR. AND MRS. GRANT SILLS

Sills — Houston

Rev. Bailey W. Snow performed the recent wedding ceremony in Woodbridge United Church of Elizabeth Merrel Houston, daughter of Mr. and and Mrs. Dorland Houston of Woodbridge and Grant Allan Sills, of London, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Donald Sills, Reslin. Mrs. Richard Phillips rendered organ music and accompanied the soloist Miss Suzanne Potter.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a lace bodiced gown which was enhanced by long lace sleeves and a full floorgetle skirt which came to a long train at the back. The long illusion veil was held in place by a white carnation crown. The bride carried a nosegay of white carnations centred by a purple orchid.

Miss Gwendolyn Houston, was attired in a long mauve a s her sister's maid of honor, organza gown which featured a full skirt, long sleeves and a flowered organza overskirt which was held in place by a mauve velvet ribbon. A mauve velvet ribbon also intermingled with mauve carnations formed her headpiece.

The bridesmaids, Miss Joan Potter, cousin of the bride and Miss Mary Tu mmon were identical gowns to the maid of honor except in deep pink organza and pale pink chiffons respectively. All the bridal attendants carried nosegays of white and deep pink carnations to match their gowns.

Mr. Harry Huffman attended the bridegroom. Ushers were Mr. John Potter, cousin of the bride and Messrs. William and Keith Sills, brothers of the bridegroom.

For the reception held at Woodbridge United Church Hall the bride's mother received guests wearing a moss green satin gown with lace and with long sleeves and a full skirt. A matching flower adorned her hair while beige accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a long gown of cerise satin featuring long sleeves with a wide cuff at the wrists. Silver trimming at the high neckline and silver accessories complemented her corsage of pink and white carnations.

For the wedding trip to Algonquin Park, and points north, the bride chose a two-piece ensemble in burgundy and white checks. Black accessories and an orchid corsage accented her outfit.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Sills will reside at 173 Oxford St., East, London, Ontario.

PTA Hears Of Planned Expansion

...of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Is it distressing not to have talent?

NOT if a person lacks gifted talent, although almost everybody believes that he has some talent and ability. Furthermore, it doesn't bother a person to know that he doesn't have a standout quality in sports, entertainment, the arts, etc., because he often sees what happens to some people who are extravagantly talented. The-from being distressed, an individual with no special talent takes pleasure in being "Mr. Average Man (or Woman)."

Can marriage do the 'impossible?'

YES; the only trouble is that many couples refuse to recognize the impossible when it happens to them. A man and wife, for instance, will have the rare opportunity to break out of the prison that is self and let each partner be the open extension of the other. Yet the wife, who may be unsure of her love, will be afraid to give her husband the chance. Then the husband, equally fearful of his ego, holds back on total communication.

Does a child want perfect parents?

OF COURSE NOT; but that doesn't mean parents should not try to improve themselves even though their child, recognizing their faults, may know how "perfectly human" they are. After all, they are still the main teachers of their youngster and the one lesson they can drill into him by their example is to strive to be as near perfect as possible. It is natural to have faults, as everyone knows, but it is almost instinctive to try to do better.

Clippings Saved for Reference

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Please forward the whole quotation "Deddeo ata".

Your column is a "must" on my reading list and I save many clippings for future reference. You must help many people with your down-to-earth advice and philosophy. You give a boost to morale and courage to carry on.

I truly trust you've not counted for a long time.— Registered Nurse, Kingston.

Dear Nurse: Glad you like me. Perhaps your comment will encourage someone who is down in the dumps to pour it out on paper and get back another chance to be useful.

After all, I've paper it seven years in college and a quarter century in practice to learn how!

Dear Doris: I am worried about a young lady, now 15, who for the last eight years of her life has developed a complex. A well-loved great aunt died when she was seven, and she was the one she had taken an interest in since.

Now Judy's features are set in grim fashion. She hates her class and feels the world is against her.

Another aunt suggests that what she should have been given was sympathy and understanding when her great aunt died. But no one helped the child with her grief. Her mother has always been too busy with the other children and is more inclined to scold Judy than to be patient or loving with her.

I just thought you might have a pamphlet you could send her! It might help if she were to buy a real nice jacket or pantsuit — something striking. Because of her build she seems to be always dressing all by children in faded outgrown clothes.

If you don't feel it wise use the money I am sending for something else. — Just An Onlooker.

Dear Onlooker: Judy is not the first little girl who was more devastated by a death in the family than anyone imagined. The aunt is right; she should have been talked to, helped to understand about death and to realize that there were other loving and helpful people in the world besides her dear great aunt.

I can't see sending her any pamphlet or advice, unasked. Instead, I would suggest you become her friend, to the point where she trusts you and values your affection. Then perhaps you could guide her to write to me herself.

Dear Doris: I have written to you for a reply from the Milton Society for the Blind. The records are for a 16 R.P.M. player. As my mother lives in Vancouver and I expect a child with her at Christmas month, I will just get a record and take it with me.

Most of the new record players have a 16 R.P.M. cycle and my mother's is not more than a year old. Anyway, we could buy a new machine if it proved given pleasure. — Grateful.

Dear Grateful: Be sure to write me her reaction. If she is enthusiastic it might move a few others to give members or other family members with poor vision (or no vision) this kind of gift.

These records of enduring literary works can be eyes for them!

(Don't just muddle along. Do something about what's troubling you. A letter to me is can put you on the way to more Successful Living.

Women's Institutes

UNIONDALE WI

FRANKFORD — Uniondale Women's Institute held the October meeting at Scott's Uniondale with Mrs. D. Harry as hostess.

Mrs. F. Tracey, president, welcomed the 18 members and one visitor and conducted the business portion of the meeting. Members were reminded of the area convention in Peterborough, Oct. 24-25.

Reports were given by conveners, Mrs. Ken Richards, Mrs. A. Sine, Mrs. H. Richards and Mrs. G. Halsall. Mrs D Harry reported on the progress being made by the 4-H Homemaking Club and announced that Achievement Day will be held at Sidney Township Hall on Nov 18.

Mrs. G. Burkitt, convener for the program introduced the guest speaker, district president, Mrs. R. Tucker who drew attention to literature available to assist in keeping members well informed concerning Institute activity.

Mrs. Tucker gave an interesting address on the lives of Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir, and stressed the value of the Institute "Yesterdays" booklet so that nothing valuable be lost.

Appreciation was expressed to Mrs. Tucker and she was presented with a gift.

Mrs. G. Burkitt gave a talk on her recent trip to Scotland and England.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants and a social time was enjoyed.

TOO RUDE

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — She-Cop tried using women traffic police but resigned them to desk jobs because motorists were too rude to them.

Ann Landers
Airline Stewardess Irked by Complaints

Dear Ann Landers: I read with interest the multiple complaints from the telephone operator. The more I read of her letter, the more irritated I became. You answer was too gentle. I'm surprised you didn't land on Miss Dizzy Fingers with both hands and feet and tell her to get another job, one that doesn't require her to deal with the public.

I am an airline stewardess. We work Sundays, holidays, rain or shine, and there is no such thing as time-and-a-half for holidays. That telephone operator can go home to a Christmas dinner after she collects her time-and-a-half. Airline stewardesses go to a sheet-packed room. It's just like any other day in the week.

As for the telephone operator's other complaints, people are people. Some are nice and others are a pain in the neck. When "public" gets personalized, profane, out-of-sorts, or demanding she can plug them out after a few minutes and a polite sign-off. How would she like to cope with it for eight solid hours, feet and all? — Up, Up and Can't Get Away

Dear Up: As one who has flown well over,two million passenger miles, I can attest to the fact you are a great group of girls. Seldom do I encounter a stewie who is not pleasant, courteous and perceptive enough not to sit herself next to me and unload her personal problems. Indeed I have 2,000 letters in my lap!

Dear Ann: I just finished eating 10 chocolate cup cakes and an aick in my stomach. I have done this sort of thing for the last two years. Of course I am terribly overweight.

I am never hungry and I actually don't enjoy food. I just have this desire to sneak things into my room and stuff myself. Don't suggest that I see a doctor because I know he will tell me to stop it and I really don't want to. I get some sort of perverse pleasure out of the act, although I can't describe it.

If you can just tell me why I do it and give me some insight into what I am doing, maybe that will help. Please, Ann, I am counting on you.—Dayton Pig

Dear D.: You're asking for mail - order psychiatric treatment and I can provide it. I don't know why you stuff yourself with food you don't want and don't enjoy, although in many such situations a teenager is trying subconsciously to get even with somebody—perhaps a parent. You need more help than I can give you and I urge you to get it. Start with your school counsellor.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a boy, 18 years old, a high school senior, and my dad is driving me nuts.

He has read a lot about drugs and is scared to death I might be trying something. Every time I come home he looks in my eyes to see if the pupils are dilated. Then he goes through my pockets looking for grass. He gives me the third degree about where I've been and with whom. Last night I caught him sniffing around my room to see if anything smelled "funny."

I know he loves me but it's terrible to be under this kind of pressure. I have never given him any trouble. There is no reason for him to be so suspicious. Will you please tell me how to get him off my back?— Inquisitive In Utah

Dear U.: Parents do their children a gross disservice by demonstrating such lack of faith. A child whose parents have a high opinion of him will bend over backwards to live up to it. And the same goes for a low opinion. Show this to your dad — and I hope it helps.

OES Officers Installed at Special Ceremony

Now officers of Belleville Chapter No. 208 of the Eastern Star were installed in office for the ensuing year at a ceremony held in the Masonic Temple, Belleville, last Friday evening.

The auditorium was decorated for the occasion. The entrance to the "East" was through a white picket fence, decorated with flowers in front of the lectern on a small table covered with a green cloth, which was a single red rose.

A large number of members of the Order were present, some coming from a long distance for the occasion. All were warmly welcomed by the retiring Worthy Matron Mrs. Jeane Stephenson and the Worthy Patron Keith Elliott.

A number of distinguished guests were present also several presiding Worthy Matrons and Worthy Patrons; Over 40 Past Matrons and Patrons from many chapters throughout the district as well as Belleville Chapters were also in attendance.

After the opening ceremonies and business of the Chapter, presentations of gifts from the retiring officers were made: To the retiring Worthy Matron Miss Jeane Stephenson, by the Associate Matron, Mrs. Laura Simpson and to the retiring Worthy Patron, Keith Elliott, by the Associate Patron, Bert Rankier. The Past Matron's jewel was presented by Mrs. Phylis Barlow (P.M.) and the Past Patron's jewel, by his wife, Evelyn Elliott.

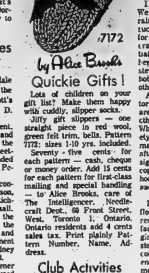
The officers installed for the ensuing year were: Worthy Matron, Mrs. Ivy Loveless; Worthy Patron, Harold Banks; Associate Matron, Mrs. Evelyn Elliott; Associate Patron, Clarence Bailey; secretary Mrs. Wynne Tomlinson, P.M.; treasurer, Mrs., Diane Plumpton; conductress, Mrs. Janet Hamilton; associate conductress, Mrs. Nance Innes; chaplain, Mrs. Rita Parsons; marshall, Mrs. Marie Beaudoin; organist, Mrs. Dorothy Taylor; Adah, Mrs. Bessie Hart; Ruth, Mrs. Helen Hay; Esther, Mrs. Laura Simpson; Martha, Mrs. Mona Ray; warder, Mrs. Ann Coombe; sentinel, Douglas Plumpton.

As the Worthy Matron was being installed, her favorite Hymn was sung by "Sister" Beverly Shaw, accompanied on the piano by the installing organist, Cleta Elliott. The star points officers were also installed.

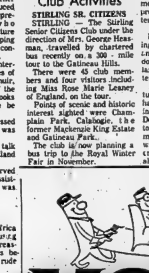
The Worthy Matron's flower is the red rose; her colors, white and green; her symbol, the open Bible and the cross; her watchwords, love, service and friendship;

The newly installed Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron addressed the assembly, stating how pleased they were to be elected to the highest office the Chapter could bestow; they deemed it a great honor, and would do their best to uphold the high ideals of the Order. They thanked the Installing Board and all who had assisted in any way, and asked for the continued support of the Chapter.

The Worthy Matron, Mrs. Ivy Loveless was happy to have with her on this memorable occasion a number of Electa, Mrs. Betty Hobbs; her family and friends. Among those introduced were her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Loveless, Oliana, her daughter (Diane) Mrs. Hugh Thomas. Bracebridge; her daughter (Judy) Mrs. Patrick White, Belleville, her brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. Tucker to Omemora, and Mrs. Jackie Sutton, Toronto.



A number of congratulations were received by the Worthy Matron from Arbutus Chapter Lady Dunsmuir, mins. Ontario; the chapter in to which she had been initiated.



Lunch was served under the convention of Mrs. Jean Grant Bell and special committee, and a social hour was enjoyed.

IN OH! CALCUTTA!

TORONTO (CP) — English actress Domini Blythe will be featured in the role of Shakespeare's Twelfth Night, the second production of the 1972-73 season at the St. Lawrence Centre for the Arts. Miss Blythe, 23, was a member of the original London company of the revue Oh! Calcutta! and has appeared on BBC television and in films.

Harp Hunt Successful

The Great Harp Search is over.

From the depths of Toronto a friend of a friend with another friend has a harp and the Belleville Theatre Guild is saved.

The production of The Price, opening Oct. 18, in its last stages of rehearsal, could not go on without a harp.

But the show must go on, cried cast and crew, so stage crew, lighting technicians, prop managers and wardrobe mistresses and director began scavenging the countryside from Kingston to Toronto to from Belleville to Barrie, looking for a real, live standup harp.

They didn't find one until a friend turned up with the news that the harp was alive and well and living in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Hencz of Toronto.

Mr. Hencz, publisher-owner of trade magazine Performing Arts in Canada — heard the desperate plea and offered his instrument if the guild transported it both ways.

Elated and eager at their find, two husky members of the guild travel to the city by night in a rented van to bring the harp.

The Hencz family is Hungarian and came to Canada at the time of the Hungarian revolution.

They bought their home from a "little old Italian lady" who owned not one but seven harps.

The new owners bought two of them and sold one later.

The harp is important to the local production because of the insights it gives to the family who have been reunited to auction off the belongings of their parents.

Charles Smith, stage manager and Doug Leal are especially well equipped to transport the 100 - year - old harp.

Mr. Leal is a musician and at one point worked with a moving company.

Mr. Smith is big enough to lift the harp with while Mr. Leal supervises.

Once the play is finished, the harp will be returned to Toronto.

The Hencz family is moving and part of the deal is for the guild to take the harp to the new address.

To the guild, the harp really is a little piece of heaven.

Theatre Liquor Back on Shelf

The Belleville Theatre Guild has decided to put the idea of serving liquor at play intermission back on the shelf.

At their last executive meeting, the possibilities were again discussed but the were dismissed but the deciding point came when subscribers began calling executive members, opposing the move.

Early in September, the Guild had gone to the city council for permission to apply for the licence.

A spokesman for the Guild said there were too many factors against the idea.

One of the biggest of these is, "the Green Room (foyer of theatre) will hold only 60 people according to Mr. Marshall's requirements."

"How can you tell an audience of 90 that only the first 60 will be allowed to come downstairs for a drink," asked the same spokesman.

There is another problem of young people who would not be able to come downstairs at all, unless food was served.

How to limit numbers, who to invite and even how much to charge for the drinks all were factors in the decision to forget the idea and stick to serving pop and coffee.

Showbiz Shorts

LONDON (AP) — British actress Hayley Mills handed a letter to the Soviet embassy in London Thursday urging the Russian authorities to allow a young Russian Jew and his pregnant wife who is seriously ill to emigrate to Israel.

Miss Mills handed the letter over on behalf of the British Committee for the Release of Soviet Jewish Prisoners. About 100 women picketed the embassy.

The couple the committee want the Soviet Union to allow to leave are Valentin Prussakov and his wife Loudmilla. She is eight months pregnant and suffers a serious kidney tumor, the British committee said.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A 17-year-old blind country music singer has signed a recording contract with Cutlass Records and will use her earnings for an eye operation.

"I don't want people to feel sorry for me," Jackie Pimental said. "It's not really much of a handicap, but if I can get my vision through this operation, I'll be the happiest person on earth."

The delicate operation, costing about $2,000, is to be performed at Johns Hopkins University Hospital in Baltimore.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Arthur Garfunkel of the former Simon and Garfunkel folk singing duo has married Linda Marie Grossman, a graphic designer and daughter of a Nashville physician, Rabbi Randall Falk performed the private ceremony Thursday.

NEW YORK (AP) — After a two-day intermission, Radio City Music Hall will reopen Saturday for at least one week while management and the musicians' union attempt to resolve their contract differences.

The sudden closing of the midtown entertainment landmark, home of the Rockettes, dismayed New Yorkers and tourists alike and prompted Mayor John Lindsay to call in a state mediator.

More worrisome, however, were hints that the favored movie showcase might move respect because of growing economic problems caused by rising costs and declining attendance.

Thursday, however, Vincent McDonnell, chairman of the state mediation board, announced the agreement for a one-week trial period to resolve the contract dispute based on orchestra size.

Management has agreed to raise the musicians' $364.75 weekly salary by $16.25 while trying to eliminate 21 pit jobs through attrition. Negotiators at the latter led to the closing announcement Wednesday night.

The 40-year-old theater, never before closed, has played host to an estimated 220 million visitors over the years. Its Corsitmas and Easter shows draw thousands of 300 of the 6,200 seats in the theatre were occupied for the final show Wednesday night.

It employs a total of 72 musicians who put in 10 hours a day for five days doing four shows a day.

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Thieves have taken more than $7,000 in musical and amplification equipment belonging to Canadian folk singer Gordon Lightfoot, forcing him to cancel a concert at Central Michigan University.

Richard Harrison, Lightfoot's road manager, said the equipment, including the performer's favorite 12-string guitar, was apparently taken from a motel. He offered a $500 reward for return of the equipment. The radio station at the college, which sponsored the event, said it would refund money to about 3,000 people who had purchased tickets.

Lightfoot refused to perform with equipment other than his own.

Laws Hurt Investment: Goodman

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Eddie Goodman of Toronto, former national chairman of the Progressive Conservative party, said Thursday that Canadian laws make it impossible for Canadian companies to compete with foreign corporations.

"U.S. firms are allowed to consolidate their losses and profits," he told a group of Progressive Conservative supporters. "The Canadian-owned corporation isn't allowed to do this under Canadian law."

This, he said, prevents Canadian companies from taking speculative risks.

"No Canadian company is going to invest $1 million in a subsidiary company if the losses is likely to incur can't be charged against the parent company's profits."

Mr. Goodman said he does not agree with the New Democratic party view that foreign-owned corporations are preventing Canadians from investing in their own country.

"It's the laws that are wrong. I think it's good business practice on the part of foreign companies to take advantage of our tax laws. The thing that's wrong is that the Canadian businessman has no alternatives."

Draft Presented

DACCA, Bangladesh (AP) — A draft constitution for Bangladesh, which provides for parliamentary government, was placed before the Constituent Assembly Thursday by Law Minister Kamal Hussain. Under it, parliament will have 70 members, with 45 seats being reserved for women. It provides for a Socialist economy with freedom to hold private property and fundamental rights, including freedom of speech and assembly and religious equality before the law.

Guns From U.S.

LONDON (AP) — The Daily Express says a special investigation shows the Irish Republican Army shops almost exclusively in the United States for its weapons. Weapons smuggled across the Atlantic include M-1 carbines, Garand armor-piercing rifles, Thompson sub-machine-guns, several U.S. Army rocket launchers and some bazookas, the Express says. Ammunition also came from the United States, it reports.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 13, 1972.

Student Exchange Result of Visit

A special committee of Belleville city council has been appointed to arrange a program of events for civic officials from Lahr, Germany, when they visit the city early in November.

Last Friday, a party of eight delegates from Belleville returned home after a six - day visit to Lahr for the official twinning of the two cities.

Returning to the city, Mayor Dr. J. Russell Scott said he is eagerly looking forward to the visit of Lahr Oberburgermeister (Lord Mayor) Dr. Phillip Brucker, and his party. "We hope to be able to show them as friendly and warm a welcome to Belleville, as we received in their city," he added.

At an official reception at Lahr city hall, Dr. Brucker announced that through arrangements with the Canadian Armed Forces, an annual student exchange program between the two cities will be developed. Each year eight students from Belleville will visit Lahr, and eight students from Lahr will visit Belleville. Dr. Brucker termed the twinning, "a friendly bridge from Lahr to Belleville".

During the reception, Alderman J. B. Gerke, chairman of the city's industrial commission, presented a letter of greetings to Lahr officials signed by all members of the Belleville Industrial Commission. He said he "hoped for tangible industrial development in both communities through this wonderful exchange of good will."

While in Lahr, three other members of the Belleville delegation: Harold Vaughan, president of the Belleville Legion; William Ford, first vice-president of the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans' Association in Belleville and Major John Inrig of Picton, Deputy Commanding Officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, placed a wreath at the Lahr cenotaph, to pay tribute to the Germans killed in World Wars I and II. Mr. Ford, a veteran of the first war, said the wreath laying "was a friendly gesture from the veterans of Belleville to the veterans of Lahr."

It's expected the Lahr delegation will arrive in Belleville about November 9 for a weeklong stay.

A Warm Winter For Whittemores

Mr. and Mrs. Carl R. Whittemore, 20 Lambert Drive, are going to escape most of the rigors of the upcoming Canadian winter.

On Monday, Oct. 16, they will fly south of the equator to Sao Paulo, where for three months Mr. Whittemore will act as metallurgy advisor to a manufacturing plant on the outskirts of the Brazilian city of more than six million population.

Mr. Whittemore is going to Brazil under the Canadian Executive Services Overstas program.

A retired metallurgist with Delton Sintlite, Mr. Whittemore is technical director for the Ivesimite Casting Institute and makes frequent trips to cities throughout the United States and Canada, in his role with the ICI Mr. Whittemore has worked with the American aerospace program.

When Canada Manpower set up its retraining program some years ago, Mr. Whittemore was chairman of the program advisory committee on welding.

He later became a part-time instructor in metallurgy with Manpower Retraining and continued in the same capacity when the retraining program was taken over by Layalist College.

This year he gave up his instructors' position at Loyalist.

Cast of Hundreds

These Queen Elizabeth Public School, Trenton, students will be three of an expected 1,600 from the town who will be taking part in Saturday's walkathon to raise funds for the proposed senior citizens' drop-in centre in Centennial Park.

Here, Michael O'Hara, 10, of 201 Sidney Street, helps 11 - year - old Kim Guy of 28 Metcalfe Street, on with her boots, while Karen Bowman, 11, 222½ Queen Street, gets hers ready for the walkathon. Walkers, of all ages, sizes and shapes, are cautioned to wear light colored clothing, heavy shoes, and wool socks. The walk begins at 8 a.m. from the Front Street fire hall.

Artari-ari-ari-o.

In the midst of the Artario display at Moira Secondary School last night were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hughes of Belleville and their nine - year - old daughter, Nancy. The 11-item art show opened yesterday at 300 locations in North America and Europe, seven in Quinte region.

Artario 'Disappointing'

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

Artario, the provincially-sponsored art show with works by 21 leading Canadian artists, opened to disappointingly small crowds at most of the local display locations.

The show, too, has its disappointing elements.

Paramount among these is the quality of some of the items. Moreover, one item had does not meet the description given in the show catalogue.

Louis de Niverville's Th; Inflatable All - Year - Round Plastic Garden, billed as a three - foot - high, multicolored vinyl art form, is only slightly more than half this height and doesn't vaguely resemble the catalogue photo.

On the quality side, three items, at least, merit mention for being poorly finished: Bo Unit, by Ilyn Gelfenbaum, Black and White Composition, by Jaques Schypens and Unexplainable-U, (aptly titled), by Kosso Eloul.

Bos Unit is a corrugated cardboard box containing two clear vacuum plastic heads against a blue and white sky background selling for $13.50. All items are on sale.

Kim Ondaatje, wife of poet Michael Ondaatje, has offered the show a subtle-toned winter fantasy scene — a good $3 buy. Other prints are equally fine in finish.

Dik Zandler's seven clear and colored laminated interchangeable units titled Modular Constructables Series 7, modest in size, offers more interest than items of grander scale. It's bright, simple and a good example of what Ontario can produce.

Similarly, Raymond Spiers and Arthur Handy have offered well finished and inventively designed sculpture forms, both items priced under $11.

Ted Bieler's nine interchangeable concrete units, inspired by Mexican temple designs, aroused considerable interest locally as the show opened at seven locations last night. Priced at $11.50, the sculpture, titled Unimal, was object of considerable rearrangement by show visitors who were clearly fascinated by its various composition possibilities.

Tony Urquhart, submitting a silkscreen on wood artform, has surely thrown better things away. The university fine art lecturer is not well represented by his work, Branches.

In the Quinte area, Artario is on display at seven points in Belleville and vicinity at Loyalist College, Quinte Secondary School, Moira Secondary, Hastings County Board of Education offices, in Bloomfield at Pinecrest Memorial Public School, in the Trenton area at Bayside and Trenton High Schools and at the Instructional Media Centre.

Unconscious After Accident

An accident on the Milltown side road sent an RR 4, Napanee, man to hospital with serious head injuries early this morning.

Brian Gourlie, 20, rolled the 1970 Datsun he was driving several times. He was taken to Belleville General Hospital before being transferred to Kingston General where he was still unconscious this morning.

Two passengers, Robert Thompson, 21, of Water St., Napanee, and Alan Latour, 23, of 26 Slavebank Rd., Belleville, were treated for minor cuts and bruises at Belleville before being released.

Investigating officer Shane Halvorsen of Belleville provincial police said nearly three hours elapsed before help reached the accident victims on the Tyendinaga Township road one mile east of Shannonville.

The accident occurred between 2 and 2:30 a.m.

Beaver Get Reprieve

HILLIER (Staff) — Trespassers at Hartsedge Hollow apparently have negotiated with Hillier council members and a cease-fire has been called in the feud between the industry and nature lovers.

Beavers who plugged a culvert in Hillier in several areas were buried this month at council's order but the ruled several determined marksmen.

Guns were dropped recently when township workmen discovered the beavers have moved toward the road and have resumed damming nearby.

Although the beavers were not plugged and the culvert is no longer plugged, the story fails to end on a happy note for the diplomatic little animals.

Trappers will develop a keen interest in the beavers in early November when their pelts are at peak.

China Farming Meeting Topic

PICTON (Staff) — Agriculture in China will be discussed at a meeting of the Prince Edward Horticultural Society next Wednesday at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute.

Guest speakers for this program will be Reginald Woodall and Mrs. Frances Weese, county residents who visited China recently as members of a farm delegation.

The meeting is open to all interested persons and will be held at 8 p.m. in room 141 at PECI.

Hundreds to Walk For Senior Citizens

TRENTON (Staff) — Candidates for long distance walking will be lining up by the hundreds at Trenton's fire hall on Front Street, between 7 a.m. and 8 a.m. in fact, organizers of the senior citizens' walkathon at the Trenton Chamber of Commerce reports no less than 1,600 pledge cards have been distributed to area schools.

The giant walkathon, which organizers hope will be one of the largest in Trenton's history . . . promises to attract hikers of all ages, sizes and shapes.

Funds raised from the walk will be used to help pay for the senior citizens' drop - in centre, to be constructed in Centennial Park.

Contacted Thursday, town councillor Ted Parker said between $12,000 and $22,000 in public support is needed, above funds already available. This figure originally stood at $30,000 but several privately and service organization donations in recent weeks have reduced the original estimate.

When the march begins, walkers will head up Highway 33, to Frankford, cross the Trent River, and return along the old concession road to Glen Miller, cross the bridge there, down the old Wooler Road, along another concession road, and onto Highway 2. From there, they will return to the fire hall.

Well-wishers and checkers will line the route, offering their support, refreshments, and a chance for a brief rest for the walkers before they set out again.

Among those walking will be Col. W. G. Paisley, base commander at CFB Trenton, the Hon. George Hees, Conservative candidate for Prince Edward-Hastings, and town councillors Parker, Paul Tripp and George Greer.

Supreme Court Defeats Planning Act Bypass

The decision Thursday by the Supreme Court of Canada to uphold the intent of the Planning Act to prevent multiple division of land tracts into building lots without government approval, was applauded today by county registrar William N. Hurst.

The Supreme Court dismissed an appeal which hinged on the legal interpretation of 18th century legal language in a modern Ontario situation.

The court ruled unanimously that Flora Ester Forfar had no over-riding right to a building permit from the township of East Gwillimbury south of Toronto to build a house on land formerly owned by her husband.

H. Bruce Forfar carved 10 two-acre building lots off the 120 acre property 30 miles north of Toronto by a legal process which lawyers believed would circumvent the Ontario Planning Act, requiring government approval for subdivisions in rural areas.

The scheme, known as checkerboarding saw alternate lots in unapproved subdivisions sold to family members or firm employees, so ownership would not be under the same name.

What Mr. Forfar did, in brief, was to transfer the legal "fee" or inheritable right to the property to his lawyer's secretary for life, retaining the right to say how the land was used.

Then at his direction the land was divided into building lots and distributed in a checkerboard pattern that was not then covered by the Planning Act.

The appeal to the Supreme Court was from an Ontario Appeal Court ruling upsetting an earlier judgment that the transfer of property rights was full and complete.

Mr. Hurst, county registrar at Belleville, said there had not been much of this type of trouble in Hastings although there had been some instances mainly in fast developing Sidney township.

"We have been watching pretty closely and if we see something we don't like we put a restraining order on," Mr. Hurst said.

Mr. Hurst said there had not been as much checkerboarding in the Belleville area as there had been in the Colborne area.

"It's a hard thing to stop," he said.

"That's good," Mr. Hurst said, when informed that the Supreme Court had upheld the intent of the Planning Act.

Provincial Treasurer Charles MacNaughton, cabinet minister responsible for the Planning Act, said he hopes the amendments will act to protect innocent purchasers whose ownership may be invalid.

However, before the cabinets acts, it was expected to wait for the answers to 10 questions it has submitted to the Ontario Court of Appeal covering the controversial checkerboarding scheme carried out by Whiterock Development Corporation Ltd.

Apple Pickers Needed

TRENTON (Staff) — Trenton area Boy Scouts and Cubs for the first time will be picking their own apples for Boy Scout Week, Oct. 16 - 21, but they are a bit short - handed for the new venture.

Most of the eager pickers are too young to harvest the shiny apple crop. Instead, the scouts are asking for older volunteers to help them out.

Glenburnie Farms on the Telephone Road west of here is donating the 50 to 60 bushels required by the scouts but is unable to supply pickers. That's where the volunteers come in.

A spokesman for the Trenton area scouts has requested volunteers to meet at the Glenburnie property at 1 p.m. Saturday where they will be welcomed by the scouts and leaders who will join in for the harvest.

Another breakaway from the older method of promoting Apple Day is being attempted this year. Rather than carry on a blitz campaign on Oct. 20 Friday and Saturday, cubs will canvass downtown Trenton Friday night and Saturday, apple baskets in hand.

Further information on volunteer apple picking can be obtained by calling Clarence Whitman at 392-4606.

Eldorado Gold Is Big Cheese

MADOC (Special) — Gold Brand Cheese, made at the Eldorado Cheese and Butter Co-op by cheesemaker Elvie Sine, was a top winner at this year's local fall fairs. Twenty-six prizes were won on entries made, 15 of which were firsts, five were seconds and six thirds.

In Stirling, the Eldorado cheese took two first prizes, one second and one third in a six-section competition.

Out of seven sections at the Marmora fair, five firsts and a third were won, while four firsts, two seconds and three thirds were awarded at the recent Madoc Fair where competition in 10 sections was offered.

Last weekend at the Tweed fair, where there were seven sections in the competition, the Eldorado cheese brought home four firsts, two second and three third prizes.

Club Robbed

Thieves who broke into Belleville Lawn Bowling Club Thursday night made off with three partly-filled bottles of whisky.

They also broke two doors, a window and two whisky dispensers, damage amounting to $128.

Best Seat in House

About 100 local Progressive Conservatives gathered at the Cheese Producers' Field yesterday morning for the arrival of national party leader Robert Stanfield. While most stood about the parking lot, workers from Stephen Adamson brewing a fork lift truck to get a bird's eye view. Once located, the crews were equipped with Canadian flags and posters by young campaign workers. Later the men left their perch to meet Mr. Stanfield who returned schedule at 11:10 a.m. by helicopter.

Nastase Makes Fellow Romanians Forget All About Soccer

BUCHAREST (AP) — This Romanian capital has gone tennis crazy, all because of a 26-year-old long-haired army lieutenant whose name, like Nastase, sends the crowd wild with excitement.

For the first time in Romania's history, tennis has passed soccer as the national sport and Nastase is the country's No. 1 idol.

Sports officials report that thousands of children have turned to tennis in the last six months, crowding tennis clubs and all with one aim — to become as great as Ilie.

When the United States Davis Cup team came to Bucharest eight days ago to play Romania in the tournament, final, which starts today, they brought the cup along. It was exhibited by the Romanians in Bucharest Polytechnic University, on a downtown boulevard.

Thousands of fans have seen it, paying an admission fee of two lei—13 cents—just for a glimpse. In the streets people stop you to ask whether you have tickets to sell for the matches in the 8,500-seat Progresul Stadium.

Nastase is so precious to Romanians that he has been carefully kept away from the crowds to keep him concentrating on his matches and to avoid too much noise and confusion from his fans.

Dozens of fans, however, stand outside the stadium for hours every day just to see him speed in or out in a car at training sessions. Hundreds stood outside the army recreation centre where the draw for the matches took place Thursday an hour before the players were scheduled to arrive.

Nastase is temperamental and has been nicknamed Nasty by tennis experts because of it. He has been involved in numerous arguments with judges, linesmen and referees.

His popularity soared this year when he was runner up to Stan Smith of the United States at Wimbledon and he then won the U.S. Open at Forest Hills. The only 1972 tournament featuring all the major stars in the game.

Tennis has not only given Nastase popularity, but it has made him one of the richest men in Communist Romania. He is shy of speaking of a new house he is building in the outskirts of Bucharest, but it is said to be a real knockout. Nastase, a bachelor, is said to be planning to be married when the house is completed. Local sports officials hope this will also help make him a more relaxed man.

The pressure on the handsome player has grown considerably in recent weeks. Romanians want him to beat the Americans in the Davis Cup so they can be the first Communist country to win the trophy.

The Romanians lost to the Americans in the challenge round 5-0 in 1969 and 3-2 last year, but many believe that they hold an upper edge now.

Officials have called in Fred Perry, a former British tennis star to help and advise Nastase, as he did during Wimbledon and Forest Hills.

"Nastase's popularity was reflected in the big show the Romanians have put up throughout Bucharest—stands erected in town to sell souvenirs alongside tennis trophies, all carry signs hailing Nastase.

The player's picture or that of his team-mate, Ion Tiriac, sells at five American cents.

Perry led Britain to victory in the Davis Cup, in 1936. That was the last time a European country won it.

Lot Has Changed In 41 Years Since A's Won

DETROIT (AP) — In 1931, Herbert Hoover was president, champagne was illegal, and manager Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics were the American League baseball champions.

A lot has changed in the 41 years since.

But in this moment when nostalgia is the one thing left in denly the same-the Athletics, now of Oakland, are again baseball League champions. They will carry their elusive pennant into Cincinnati where they'll face the National League champion Reds beginning Saturday in the World Series opener.

KEN HOLTZMAN

It took a lot of worry, persistence and the maximum of five games before the Athletics overcame Detroit Tigers 3-1 Thursday to take the playoffs three games to two.

"The day I got traded from the (Chicago) Cubs Dick Williams called me at my house and said, 'We're going to put you in the World Series.' And damned if he didn't," said Oakland pitcher Ken Holtzman, smiling as he sat quietly in front of his clubhouse locker.

Most of his team-mates were exploding champagne corks, splashing their bubbling wine other, and yelling with joy.

Holtzman is manager Williams' choice to pitch the first game opener and the Athletics will be suspended shortstop Bert Campaneris back in action, although Reggie Jackson may be out with a pulled hamstring muscle suffered in a successful steal of home plate Thursday.

"I'm just elated to make it," said owner Charlie Finley. "After we won the first two games I was sure we'd win it all.

Oakland won Thursday on the strong arms of John (Blue Moon) Odom and Vida Blue, plus some questionable Tiger fielding and the nerves of Jackson and his replacement, George Hendrick.

Winner Odom gave up an unearned run in the first inning in pitching a two-hitter for five frames before getting an upset stomach. Blue finished the job with a lightning fastball, allowing three harmless singles in picking up the save.

Jackson opened the Athletics' second with a walk off loser Woodie Fryman, stole second, and reached third on a long fly out by Sal Bando.

Mike Epstein was hit with a pitch and Gene Tenace struck out before Epstein broke for second on a steal. Tiger catcher Bill Freehan would throw to second and give Jackson a chance to steal home. And that's what Freehan did, both runners safe in safe despite Tony Taylor's quick return throw to the plate.

"You can't hold the ball," insisted Freehan. "That's for Little Leaguers.

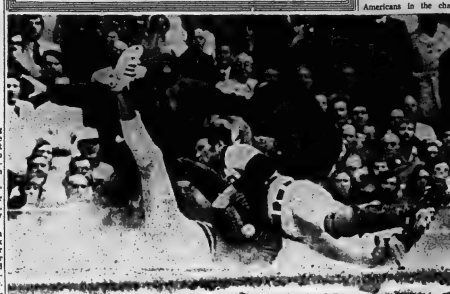
"It was early in the game and you've got to throw. He was safe by just inches, but that's the way it goes."

Jackson was racked up on the slide at plate and replaced by Hendrick, who reached first leading off the fourth as shortstop Dick McAuliffe's throw was wild for an error as it appeared Blue had completed a parently pulled first baseman Norm Cash off the bag.

Hendrick took second on Sal Bando's bunt and scored the winning run on a single by Te nace who was 0-for-15 in the playoffs.

'Routine' For Blue

DETROIT (AP) — "Just another ball game" for Vida Blue his sent Oakland Athletics into the World Series.



"I got lucky," the 23-year-old lefty's well wither as he rallied upon a stout in a corner of Oakland's raucous locker room following Thursday's 2-1 victory over Detroit Tigers in the final game of the American League baseball playoffs.

Blue's latest effort was four scoreless innings as he scattered three Detroit singles after relieving John (Blue Moon) Odom in the top of the sixth inning.

"I wanted to win like I always do," Blue said of Thursday's game.

Blue came on Thursday when Odom became nauseated. Odom said: "I was very nervous . . . I was sick to my stomach. I couldn't catch my breath."

Williams said Odom had been ill for three days.

Sparky Non-committal This Time Around

CINCINNATI (AP) — Two years ago Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson boasted: "Bring on the big, bad Birds. We'll beat 'em."

Anderson's first Cincinnati team had won the National League pennant in a three-game playoff sweep over Pittsburgh Pirates. He looked down his nose at the American League champion Baltimore Orioles.

The Orioles made Anderson chow on his words, beating the Reds in the World Series, four games to one. Anderson's not about to make the same mistake.

"I have to be honest," said Anderson Thursday as he watched Oakland Athletics take aim at the American League pennant between their two teams.

"He's a liar," raged Martin when he heard some of the lines Finley had delivered at a post-midnight news conference which the Oakland owner provided over Thursday morning.

Finley claimed that he had decided to have Martin to manage the Athletics after Billy had been fired by Minnesota Twins three years ago.

"Then Cal Griffin owner of the Twins told me I would be taking a chance with Martin's past record."

Finley ran down the list of Martin's off-the-field escapades which included a celebrated bout with Minnesota pitcher Dave Boswell when Martin managed the Twins, a fight with Minnesota vice-president Howard Fox, and the Jim Brewer affair when Martin, in acting as a knockdown pitch, broke Brewer's jaw in a subsequent fight.

"That's Billy Martin," said Finley. "He suckered Brewer, he beat up a club exec ative, and he took advantage of one of his own players who was intoxicated."

Finley accused Martin of ordering pitcher Paul Lindblad to throw at Oakland slugger Bert Campaneris in the second game of the playoffs. Campaneris, stuck in the ankle by a pitch, reacted by throwing his bat at Lagrow and was suspended from the remainder of the playoffs.

"I say with all sincerity that Mr. Martin instructed . . . no, demanded . . . that his pitcher throw at this young treat star," said Finley.

Martin said he had no objection to having Campaneris sit on the Athletics' bench but hadn't even been asked.

Finley Infuriates Martin

DETROIT (AP) — Charles O. Finley, owner of Oakland Athletics, and Billy Martin, manager of Detroit Tigers, had their private war ended on Thursday and it provided some extra-curricular sparks to the American League opener between their two teams.

"He's a liar," raged Martin when he heard some of the lines Finley had delivered at a post-midnight news conference which the Oakland owner provided over Thursday morning.

Finley claimed that he had decided to have Martin to manage the Athletics after Billy had been fired by Minnesota Twins three years ago.

"Then Cal Griffin owner of the Twins told me I would be taking a chance with Martin's past record."

Finley ran down the list of Martin's off-the-field escapades which included a celebrated bout with Minnesota pitcher Dave Boswell when Martin managed the Twins, a fight with Minnesota vice-president Howard Fox, and the Jim Brewer affair when Martin, in acting as a knockdown pitch, broke Brewer's jaw in a subsequent fight.

"That's Billy Martin," said Finley. "He suckered Brewer, he beat up a club exe utive, and he took advantage of one of his own players who was intoxicated."

Finley accused Martin of ordering pitcher Paul Lagrow to throw at Oakland slu-ttop Bert Campaneris in the second game of the playoffs. Campaneris, stuck in the ankle by a pitch, reacted by throwing his bat at Lagrow and was suspended from the remainder of the playoffs.

"I say with all sincerity that Mr. Martin instructed . . . no, demanded . . . that his pitcher throw at this young treat star," said Finley.

Martin said he had no objection to having Campaneris sit on the Athletics' bench but hadn't even been asked.

Anderson watched the Athletics go ahead of the Tigers 2-1, then suggested the Tigers might take care of all the Oakland stars for the Reds after Reggie Jackson pulled a hamstring muscle and Mike Epstein and Sal Bando.

Anderson turned serious and talked about the Athletics, who arrived here Thursday night and worked out today at Riverfront Stadium in preparation for Saturday's Series opener.

"Oakland has great balance," Anderson began. "They can run, have good pitching and a fine defence. And they've got some good bats in Reggie Jackson, Joe Rudi, Mike Epstein and Sal Bando."

The Cincinnati manager said Oakland posed a different problem from a pitching standpoint than Detroit would have presented.

"If the Tigers had won, we would have had to look at Lolich maybe three times," Anderson noted. The A's have Ken Holtzman, John Odom, Ken Holtzman, Vida Blue and a very good bullpen."

Anderson said of his own team that the Reds' pitching was 50-per-cent stronger than it was in 1970 against Baltimore.

Cincinnati does have one pitching question mark as it prepares for Oakland, right-hander Gary Nolan. Nolan finished with a 15-5 record in the regular season, but was almost unused the last two months of the season with a sore shoulder and neck.

Nolan will be our opening game pitcher," says Anderson, but the manager can't be sure of that until Nolan warms up before the game Saturday.

Should Nolan be unable to pitch, Anderson says Jack Billingham will get the assignment, followed by Don Gullett, Clay Carroll and Jim Merritt.

Grimsley and Don Gullett, Oakland probably will open with left-hander Ken Holtzman.

Anderson said he'll start his usual lineup of Pete Rose, Bobby Tolan and Cesar Geronimo in the outfield, first baseman Tony Perez, second baseman Joe Morgan and third baseman Denis Menke, with Johnny Bench behind the plate.

Outfielder Holtzman starts, Dave Concepcion will be at shortstop. An Oakland right-hander would mean Darrel Chaney at short.

QHL Quite Different

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

Two new teams made an appearance at the Quinte Hockey League opening night, on Thursday. In fact the number might even have been three or four.

The High School Teachers were the only squad-that didn compete in the Quinte loop last winter, but the three remaining teams bore little resemblance to last year's appearance.

Belleville Hotelmen, defending champions for the past two seasons, were missing many of the players that brought them the 1972 league title as they dropped a 5-3 decision to the Teachers.

Reid's Dairy, one of the weak sisters last season, turned up tough around by slinging Central Taxi 5-2. The cabbies were league finalists in 1972.

Belvedere, missing such stalwarts as Elmer Cain, Jack and Gene Francis, Bob Ethier, Larry Stewart, Jack Gilbey and Larry Potter, just weren't able to cope with the bustling Teachers.

Paul Macklin gave the Hotelmen a 1-0 lead shortly after the 15-minute mark of the first when he banged in a pass from Doug Hallam. The margin was short - lived however as Phil Meeks and Gord McGaughey scored to send the Teachers into a 2-1 lead which they never relinquished.

Al Mott potted two goals for the winners with the others going to Meeks, McGaughey and Bruce Rector. Macklin, Bill Goodfellow and Hallam scored for Belvedere.

Reids built a 2-0 lead in the second period to help pave way to their 5-3 victory in a chippy game that saw the winners draw 15 of the game's 27 penalties.

Reid Mallory had a goal and two assists for the Dairymen with other scores going to Donavan Ron Pointer, Woodlee and Garlick. Andy Prudden and Steve Moore replied for the losers.

Senior to See More Action

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

In addition to filling new faces into their lineup, Belleville Quintes are trying to get more mileage out of some familiar ones.

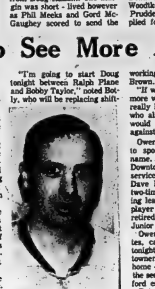
"We're going to be giving Doug Senior a little more work," said Lionel Bolly, acting coach for tonight's third Belleville senior hockey outing of the season. a 9 o'clock Memorial Arena matchup with Owen Sound.

"Last year, people were down on Doug but he was playing when he was hurt pretty bad," Bolly noted of the Trenton centre who was played sparingly in the Quintes' opening weekend split with Kingston Aces.

Senior, who came to the Belleville seniors from Kingston the season before last, started off like a house on fire, running up 19 goals and 23 assists in 31 games before being sidelined for the season when he rammed headlong into an Oakville goal post.

His point total stood up for the club leadership, but Senior's absence on centre hurt as the then Mo-Hawks bowed out in their first round playoff series.

Last winter, the former American Leaguer was still recuperating from the painful back injury, playing in only 18 games and contributing three goals and seven assists.

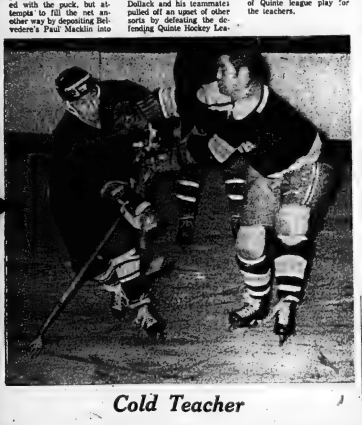


"I'm going to start Doug tonight between Ralph Plaine and Bobby Taylor," noted Bolly, who will be replacing shift-working bench boss "Weiner" Brown.

"If we can give him a little more work each week he can really help us," added Bolly, who also indicated Ron Jury would be starting in goal against Owen Sound tonight.

Owen Sound has little new to sport except a different name, And the Crescents-cum-Downtowners have lost the services of playing coach Dave McComb. The former two-time OHA Senior A scoring leader and most valuable player with Collingwood has retired to coach Owen Sound's Junior B Greys.

Owen Sound, like the Quintes, carry a 1-1 record into tonight's game. The Downtowners split their opening home - and - home series with the senior league's new Brantford entry.



Return game is Sunday night in Owen Sound.

DOUG SENIOR

'He Just Won't Fit!'

Mike Dollack of the High School Teachers team missed with the puck, but attempts to fill the net another way by depositing Belvedere's Paul Macklin into the twine. The big Hotelman wouldn't quite fit, but Dollack and his teammates pulled off an upset of older sorts by defeating the defending Quinte Hockey League champions 5-3 last night. It was the first game of Quinte league play for the teachers.

Cold Teacher

Belvedere defenceman Gary Reid managed to stop Teachers' Doug Jodoin cold turkey on this play, but the Hotelmen didn't fare as well on many others. Jodoin was one of the bright lights for the Teachers as they counted a 5-3 upset of Belvedere in the opening game of the Quinte Hockey League schedule Thursday.

Junior Saints Play Sneaky

Quinte Juniors pulled off some sneaky plays, but it was all within the rules, as they recorded a 20-6 Bay of Quinte COSSA football win over Centre Hastings Thursday.

Our quarterback Steve Hale played really well offensively," revealed Quinte coach Barry Turpin, "he was sneaking up the middle for five, 10, 15 yards per carry."

The junior Saints needed Hales' sneak attack as Centre Hastings played a strong first half to emerge with a 6-6 tie. "It was a tough game particularly the first half," observed Turpin. "Our offence looked better than they have in quite a while. They're starting to jell."

Dave Drake counted a pair of touchdowns for the evening on sweeps of 15 and 35 yards with the other Quinte pointer going to Mike Taylor. Bob Wallbridge had a single and convert for the Saints.

In the senior game, Quinte ran their record to 5-0 with a 50-0 shellacking of Centre Hastings.

Kodi Vos ran the open'ng kick-off back 85 yards to start the rout. Stan Brooks scored on the third play of the game to virtually enaire the win. The Quinte end wound up with two touchdowns with the others going to Kevin Joudva (2), John Masterson and Steve McDowell.

Quarterback Rick Meagher booted six converts and added a two-point conversion.

Bordeleau Taking Up Slack

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

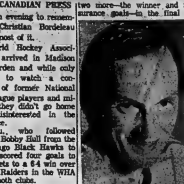
It was an evening to remember and Christian Bordeleau made the most of it.

The World Hockey Association had arrived in Madison Square Garden and while only 6,273 paid to watch a conglomerate of former National Hockey League players and minor pros, they didn't go home entirely disinterested in the performance.

Bordeleau, who followed team-mate Bobby Hull from the NHL Chicago Black Hawks to Winnipeg, scored four goals in pace the Jets to a 6-4 win over New York Raiders in the WHA debut for both clubs.

Elsewhere Tuesday night, New England Whalers edged Philadelphia Blazers 4-3 at Boston and Houston Aeros nipped Chicago Cougars 3-2 in the Texas city in one of the inaugural outings.

All WHA franchises will have opened the fledgling WHA schedule by tonight when New England returns to Philadelphia, Los Angeles Sharks entertain Houston, Winnipeg is at St. Paul against Minnesota's Fighting Saints and Alberta Oilers visit Quebec Les Nordiques.



Bordeleau, who performed briefly with Montreal Canadiens and 1½ seasons with St. Louis Blues of the NHL before going to Chicago in a trade last year, has rarely showed tendencies to emerge as a big shooter since he rapped in 42 as a junior for the hometown Mic-dics, Que., Copperkings in 1962-63.

His best year in the NHL was with St. Louis in 1970-71 when he collected 21 goals in 74 games. He tapered off last year to 16 in 68 games between the Blues and Chicago.

So it was really no surprise that the 25-year-old centre followed Hull to Winnipeg, especially with the bargaining power at a premium in the price war between the two leagues.

Now, while Hull is awaiting disposition, the cash-and-carry brought against him in the United States to prevent him from playing with the Red Bordeleau has taken up the slack.

He scored his first two in the opening period to send Winnipeg into a 3-0 lead and added two more—the winner and insurance goals—in the final 20 minutes, his fourth with one second remaining and New York goalie Gary Kurt on the bench in favor of a sixth attacker.

CHRIS BORDELEAU

Larry Pleau rapped in his own rebound with just seven minutes remaining in the game at Boston to give the Whalers their win.

Philadelphia goaltender Bernie Parent made the initial save with his leg but was out of position with the New England winger there to rap in the loose puck.

Philadelphia jumped into a 2-0 lead, Derek Sanderson and Ron Plumb providing the offence, before the Whalers, playing in front of 11,692 fans, knotted the count. Jim Williams scoring at 13:48 of the first period.

The Aeros, playing at home for the first time, built a 2-0 lead on goals by Ted Taylor and Frank Hughes to pull the game out against the Cougars.

Home Built For Oilers

EDMONTON (CP) — A design for a circular coliseum seating 16,000 for hockey games has been accepted by the Edmonton Exhibition Association and tenders are to be called in January. The announcement Thursday by the association said the coliseum, which could be expanded later to seat 30,000, will be the height of a 10-storey building and cost between 40 million and 45 million. It is designed mainly to house Edmonton's entry in the new World Hockey Association.

Geoffrion Gets Unhospitable Welcome to Forum

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Bernie Geoffrion came home Thursday night and got an unceremonious welcome from Ken Dryden and the Montreal fans who once adored him.

Geoffrion, who still makes his off-season home in the Quebec Metropolitan Hull area, returned into the Forum and emerged downed 3-0 by Ken Dryden's second shutout of the season.

The win moved Canadiens atop the National Hockey League East Division standings with five points, one ahead of Buffalo Sabres and Detroit Red Wings, both undefeated in two regular season games.

In other action, New York Islanders, along with Atlanta in their initial NHL campaign, evened their record at 1-1 by edging Los Angeles Kings 3-2 on German Gagnon's goal with 69 seconds left and Philadelphia Flyers were sparked by Simon Nolet's two goals in a 7-4 win over Vancouver Canucks.

Geoffrion spent most of his NHL career blasting in goals for the Canadiens, savoring 30 accolades of thousands chanting "Boom-Boom, Boom-Boom" throughout the Montreal arena.

So it must have been disconcerting that the Flames were mere spectators in absorbing their third straight loss. Dryden made only 22 saves while his team-mates scored once in each period. Rejean Houle's first period goal was the winner.

The Canadiens, normally a spirited club, could hardly work up the motions against their lackluster opposition and ref-eree Brian Lewis called only four minor penalties—two each club.

BERNIE GEOFFRION

Islanders' rookie Bill Harris and Bob Berry of Los Angeles had both scored two goals apiece in the mild-hitting game at Nassau County Coliseum, but it remained for Gagnon's unassisted score at 18:51 of the third period to decide it conclusively.

The Kings had held 1-0 and 2-1 leads in the game played before 9,427 fans.

Unlike Montreal and New York, the Philadelphia-Vancouver game threatened several times to disburse into mayhem but the only violence of consequence was a third-period brush between Canucks' Wayne Boddy and Gary Dornhoefer of the Flyers. Both received five-minute majors for their efforts.

It remained for Bobby Clarke, the long-haired centre who once was snared during the recent Canada-Russia hockey series, to notch the eventual winner at 2:37 of the middle period.

Petes Give Marlies Some Company at Top

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros now have company at the top of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Peterborough Petes showed their way into a share of first place Thursday night by personally putting a damper on the Marlboros five-game win streak with a 5-4 victory at Peterborough.

In the night's other action, Oshawa Generals whipped winless Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds to their first win by banging a 6-3 defeat at the northerners for their seventh straight loss of the early season.

Generals moved past St. Catharines Black Hawks and into a fourth-place tie with Ottawa 67s.

Peterborough's win over Marlboros left the team tied with identical won-lost records of 5-1.

The goals at Peterborough came in strings, with the home team running up a 5-0 lead only to have Marlies rattle in four goals within 10 minutes in the final period before they ran out of time.

Petes coach Roger Neilson said later the slump came when his team stopped hitting.

"When you stop hitting a team like Marlboros they will do that to you," he said.

Peterborough's recent call-up of Mike Fryia from the city's Junior B Lions paid dividends for the big team as he scored in the first period and left Petes with a 1-0 lead at the end of that period.

Petes added two in two record by Tim Turkiewicz and Jim Johnston and another pair in the third by Jimmy Jones and Doug Gibson before Marlies connected.

Toronto goals came from Jeff Woodyat, Glen Goldup, Mark Howe and Bob Dailey.

Rick Middleton led Oshawa to its win over Sault Ste. Marie as he scored three goals and assisted on two others.

Greyhounds manage to match Generals in the 21 first period but had fallen behind 4-2 by the end of the session.

Other Oshawa goals went to Bill Lochead, Doug Ferguson and Bob Ferguson. Paul Gervais, Bert Fournier and Lorne Jarvis scored for the Sault.

Each club had 36 shots on goal.

Tonight's schedule sees Sault Ste. Marie at Ottawa, Kitchener at Toronto and St. Catharines at London.

Sport Briefs

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League officials, bending before congressional pressure, agreed Thursday to televise this year's championship game in Los Angeles if the game is sold out in advance.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle announced that the championship game would not be blacked out in the Los Angeles area if all tickets are sold at least 10 days prior to the kick-off Jan. 14.

BOOK FAVORS REDS

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) — Cincinnati Reds were quoted at 7-5 favorites Thursday to win the World Series by oddsmakers at Harrah's Tahoe Racebook. No betting odds were posted on the World Series opener Saturday against the American League champion Oakland A's. The series will open in the National League club's park.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

SATURDAY, OCT. 14

Aries (March 21-April 19): Pitch right into the backlog of unfinished personal business, set things up for more action later. Nobody will see things as you do.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Whatever minimum you must do of serious work, do it, with no particular respect of praise or even co-operation.

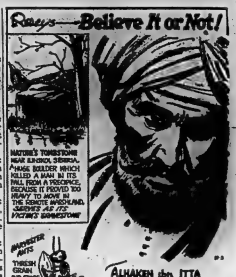
Gemini (May 21-June 20): Property and possessions must be considered now. An urge to splurge on sizable purchases may be very well channeled.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Get out early and make the rounds of places you don't often go. Your expectations of those who care for you tend to run high.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Error, impatience are all too easy—stay home and work things out. The change of pace and activity will do you good.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept 22): Impulse is not the most accurate guide to financial moves. Sympathy for others and their problems is naturally accented.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You have help going that you scarcely realize is there. Select correspondence for settling financial details.



Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Those who know you well are helpful, but take nothing for granted about those who don't—they tend to misjudge, disagree.

Sagittaries (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): A brisk start gets you through many long awaited deals with support and co-operation from all sides.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Postpone business changes, stick with plans and routines. Circumstances include pressure toward hasty moves.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Strangers, odd information leave many gaps. Hard-to-notice, Unusual circumstances bring luck while your actions are serene.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Social contacts are provocative, enjoyable—but not as yet an area for seeking any sort of business. Travels are favored.

Washing Does Not Produce Baldness

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My father says it is not safe to shampoo more than once a month, and that it will result in premature baldness. Well, I'm a soccer-buried youth and all my friends, boys and girls, seem to wash their hair two or three times a week. My mom says once a week is all right. Now I don't know what to do—A.P.

Baldness, if it is going to occur, will develop regardless of how often you wash your hair, or don't. The only rule is to wash it often enough to keep it clean whether it's once a week, twice a week, or every day.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is Indocin, and why do you have your blood tested every three months? I have taken it for arthritis.—V.O.B.

Indocin (indomethacin) is a drug which is effective in various types of arthritis, in that it relieves pain and has an anti-inflammatory action. It does not suit all patients, but it is working very well for many.

The reason for the tests is that with continued use, in some individuals, it may cause subtle bleeding of the intestinal tract by affect the white blood cells. The tests are a precaution against either of these things happening. If they occur, the medication can be stopped.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a very mild mitral stenosis from rheumatic fever when I was a child. I am 41 now.

My doctors say I'll need heart surgery in five to 10 years. I am not on any medication as of now. What medication would I take for this? And will it get worse?—G.P.

The rheumatic fever inflamed one of the valves in your heart (the mitral valve) and scar tissue formed as a result. The "stenosis" means the valve is somewhat narrowed.

Such valves do tend to become stiffer as time passes, so you very well may, as your doctor tells you, need surgery in future years, to open up the valve and let blood flow more freely.

Apparently, I would judge from your letter, you aren't having too much trouble now, so there's time to wait and see how the valve comes along.

There isn't any medication that will undo or retard the scarring of the valve now. And since your heart evidently is serving you well enough, there's no point in trying to stimulate extra activity on its part.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a test for syphilis. The doctor said my blood is a little reactive but not enough for treatment. It seems to me that if it is reactive, it all needs some treatment. Should he given. Am I right?—P.H.

Not exactly. A mildly reactive result can be caused by things other than syphilis. It is not unusual with a viral infection—cold, flu or whatever. If you were ill, or recently had been at the time of the test, that could be the explanation.

The test should be run again. If still mildly positive, then other tests should be made to get a definite answer. Under the circumstances, your doctor was quite right in not starting treatment which might turn out to be unnecessary.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it dangerous to take too many fluid pills?—F.M.

It can be harmful, so abide by your physician's instructions. Danger is loss of essential substances such as potassium and sodium.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

You have the following hand both sides vulnerable:

♠ 9 8 2 ♥ 7 ♦ Q 8 4 ♣ A K 10 5 3

1. Your partner bids One Notrump and your right-hand opponent bids Two Hearts. What would you bid now?

2. Your partner bids One Spade and you respond Two Clubs. Partner bids Two Spades. What would you bid now?

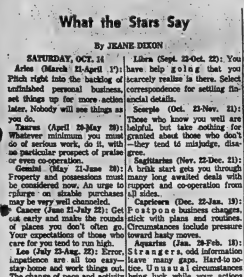
3. Your right-hand opponent bids Three Hearts and, after two passes, your partner doubles. What would you bid now?

4. Your partner bids One Spade and you respond Two Clubs. Partner bids Two No-Trump. What would you bid now?

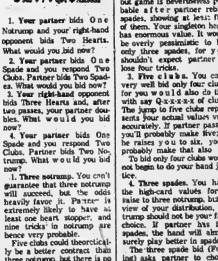
1. Three notrump. You can't guarantee that three notrump will succeed, but you have a heavily favor it. Partner is extremely likely to have at least one spade stopper, and nine tricks in notrump are hence very probable.

Five clubs could theoretically be a better contract than three notrump, but there is no way of investigating the possibility without giving up on the notrump game. You can hardly bid three clubs over two hearts, because most players treat this bid as non-forcing and partner is likely to pass.

2. Four spades. True, you have only five spade pearls, but game is nevertheless probable if your partner rebids spades, showing at least five of them. Your singleton heart is an extra value. It would be overly pessimistic to bid only three spades, for you shouldn't expect partner to lose four tricks.



3. Five clubs. You can't very well bid only four clubs, for you would also do that with say Q x x x x x of clubs. The jump to five clubs represents four actual values very accurately. If partner passes, you'll probably make five; if he raises you to six, you'll probably make that also.



To bid only four clubs would not begin to do your hand justice.

4. Three spades. You have the high-card values for a raise to three notrump, but in view of your distribution, notrump should not be your first choice. If partner has five spades, the hand will almost surely play better in spades.

The three spade bid (Preempt) asks partner to choose between spades and notrump, depending on the length of his spades. He should be the one to make the final decision.

HERE'S A NEW IDEA

We are going to start a number of new houses for the spring season. If you are thinking about a new house, let us include it in our inventory. You can select a lot and a model either our's or your's. We will then build it to your specifications. You can then sell your existing house at your leisure. If you are unable to sell, you aren't out anything as we can sell the new house to someone else. This will solve the old problem of — "How can I build a new house when I haven't sold my old one".

CONDOMINIUM IS THE ANSWER

For the active man who wants to confine his activities to golf, curling rink, the golf course or anywhere else that may be to involve cutting grass, shovelling snow, painting, etc. This is all done for you.
We have units available for immediate possession. These are located on Prince of Wales Drive. Oh yes! these units will run from $711. to $886 down.

EAST OR WEST WE HAVE THE BEST

selection of houses in the Quinte area. All in fully serviced subdivisions. All close to schools. We have 3 and 4 bedroom models. Let us show you our selection.

CP News Roundup

New Destroyers Quick to Start

HALIFAX (CP) — A fleet of new warships that can be readied for sea duty in minutes sailed up Halifax harbor Thursday to join Canada's Atlantic fleet.

The 4,000-ton helicopter-carrying destroyer Athabaskan, newest Canadian fighting ship and second in the new DDH-280 tribal class series, is so sophisticated that most of the work traditionally handled in the engine room and elsewhere can be done by fingertips from the bridge.

One of the ships that met the Athabaskan off the mouth of Halifax harbor was the new Iroquois, first ship in the series, under Cmdr. Darrock MacGillivray who said the $67-million ships feature "radar response which is so essential."

The remaining two destroyers in the class—Huron and Algonquin—are finished or due early next year.

"I think the most significant departure has been from steam

Gargle Class

ACTON, Ont. (CP) — Children in a Halton County school will soon be gargling in the classroom in a program designed to cut tooth decay by up to 80 per cent. The programs will start at Robert Little school next week and is to spread to schools in most of northern Peel and Halton counties. Children whose parents have given written consent will gargle a fluoride solution once on a regular basis under teacher supervision.

Grabs Wire

CHAPLEAU, Ont. (CP) — Martin Drapeau, 43, was electrocuted Wednesday night when he grabbed a fallen hydro line in the yard of his home. He and his wife were watching television when they heard a noise from outside. Provincial police said Drapeau went to investigate and found a hydro line carrying about 4,000 volts had fallen and started a small grass fire.

Sex Therapy

NEW YORK (AP) — State Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz says his office is conducting an investigation of unlicensed "psychotherapists" who include sexual relations with their patients as part of the treatment. Thus Lefkowitz said Wednesday, the probe was disclosed that scores of young women are being exploited by unqualified "therapists" who charge as much as $40 an hour for their services.

Kidnappers Get 15-Year Terms

CALGARY (CP) — Fifteen-year sentences were imposed Thursday on two men who admitted kidnapping a millionaire's daughter and holding her for ransom.

Donald Wayne Matheson, 27, and Louis Salon, 29, both of Calgary, were sentenced by district court Judge F. H. Quigley.

They pleaded guilty last Friday to kidnapping with intent to hold for ransom and earlier waived preliminary hearing.

They were arrested after Marlene Hashman, 17, was abducted from her home Aug. 10 and held 14 hours until her father, construction worker Sam Hashman, paid $500,000 in ransom. She was released unharmed and the money was recovered.

Ex-slave Vetoes Trip to Liberia

BARTOW, Fla. (AP) — Charlie Smith, a 120-year-old ex-slave who said he was kidnapped from Liberia in 1855, was invited to return to his African homeland Thursday. He rejected the offer.

"I ain't going nowhere," Smith told Trustees Ella Williams, a press attache at the Liberian embassy in Washington. The envoy flew to this central Florida town to tender the invitation from his government.

Loyal Pfisher, publisher of the Polk County Democrat and a long-time Smith watcher, said there was never any doubt Smith would decline the trip, which would involve an airplane flight. "Charlie's always said he would never going to get up in any airplane."

Six Killed

RIVIERE BROCHU, Que. (CP) — Six men killed Thursday in a two-car crash on Hwy. 3 in this community 230 miles northeast of Quebec City were all between 18 and 25 years old. The victims, all area residents were occupants of two cars which collided while rounding a corner.

New Building Core To Protect Owner

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Legislation aimed at protecting homeowners against contractors who use poor materials and do shoddy work can be expected in Ontario within the next year.

Eric Winkler, chairman of management board of cabinet, made the announcement in a speech Thursday to the Ontario Council of the Housing and Urban Development Association of Canada.

He said there was a "clear precedent" for provincial legislation to protect the homeowner and it was the province's "intention to exercise this power on behalf of the homeowner within the next year."

"The creation of clear standards for housing construction will be part of this legislation and building standards which has been moved up to the top of the provincial government's list of priorities for next year."

Mr. Winkler gave no details but said the government had received many ideas as to what should be part of a new building code.

One idea was for a system of licensing building contractors and sub-contractors, which Mr. Winkler said should be done by private industry, and not the government.

Another was that the building inspector be responsible for signing a certificate guaranteeing that a house meets acceptable standards before the owner moves in.

The requirement that a prospectus be provided to buyers in subdivisions of more than five houses was also raised.

Mr. Winkler said the concept behind the legislation is that the homeowner should get what he has been promised when he signs a sales contract.

Text of his speech was released before delivery.

MDs' Bills Are Said Reasonable

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The president of the Ontario Medical Association said Thursday the average bill of 310 of 340 submitted by each of 284 doctors to the provincial government in April was not unreasonable.

Dr. L. R. Harnick, commenting on the bills submitted to the provincial medical insurance plan, said that "if a man works 18 hours a day and is a specialist or a general practitioner," he has earned the money.

The letter was brought up Wednesday by A. B. MacFarlane, special adviser to Health Minister Richard Potter, at the medical conference at the Lasalle, Ont. Psychiatric Hospital.

Dr. Harnick said: "Doctor's expenses are at least 35 per cent and go to 70 per cent. If you saw the gross income breakdown you'd see they'd be around 70 per cent."

Jury Critical

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — The Lincoln County grand jury, opening the fall assizes of the Ontario Supreme Court, criticized the 130-year-old county courthouse Thursday as "inadequate to carry out the administration of justice."

The jury presented a grand poor office and court accommodation, lack of washroom facilities and poor accommodation.

"The feeling is that the efficiency of the staff is taxed due to the items listed," the jury said.

Winter Fee Strike Favored by Students

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's university students apparently favor a fee strike as a last-ditch attempt to force the provincial government to roll back increased education costs.

Eric Miglin, treasurer of the Ontario Federation of Students said Thursday night that 90 per cent of returns in a province-wide referendum backed the proposal to withhold winter fees, due Nov. 1 or in January.

Mr. Miglin said returns had been tabulated from 30,000 of about 100,000 eligible student voters from member university bodies by Thursday night.

But he stressed at a news conference that a fee strike would be a last resort in bargaining with the province and such action would be at the discretion of student governments at member universities.

Mr. Miglin, who also is president of the Students' Administrative Council at the University of Toronto, said Ontario's new universities-minister, Jack McNie, has indicated he is "open to discussion" of tuition fees.

The provincial government's budget last spring included increases of between $100 and $600 in college and university fees. In addition, the loan portion of student aid was raised by $500.

Mr. Miglin said that all but one university whose votes had been tabulated showed "overwhelming" support for a fee strike.

The exception, he said, is Trent University in Peterborough, where the institution's 2,000 students opposed withholding fees by about 2 to 1.

Canada Has Ability To Generate Capital

REGINA (CP) — Canadians don't realize the capacity the country has to generate its own investment capital, K. E. Macgregor of Waterloo, Ont., president of Mutual Life of Canada, said Thursday.

Mr. Macgregor told a news conference following a board meeting that while Canada still depends on foreign capital for "super-giant projects" such as Churchill Falls hydro-electric project in Newfoundland, the time is approaching when such funds will be available domestically.

More than 99 per cent of investment made by the life co., too, Mr., company was in Canada and most of that capital was in the mortgage field.

J. H. Panabaker of Kitchener, Ont., executive vice-president, said there is a great supply of mortgage money and the competition generated has been instrumental in keeping mortgage interest rates at a fairly low rate.

Mr. Panabaker said, however, that he expects the interest rate will increase by "about one half of one per cent" by late next year.

"The crucial thing here is the rate of inflation . . . but at the moment there is a great supply of funds."

He said the rate of housing likely will be constant in 1972. The industry has been very buoyant this year."

Moscow Plane Crash Said Major Disaster

Strike Could Idle GM

DETROIT (CP-AP) — Strikes in key General Motors plants over assembly line production standards — the number of workers on a line and how fast they work — threatened to spread today. The strikes could affect thousands of Canadian auto workers who assemble cars from parts made at U.S. plants.

GM and the United Auto Workers union scheduled weekend talks following the closing of three GM plants by strikes and the prospect of four more being idle next week.

All deal with the same issue—the union-alleged speedup on the production line in highly-automated plants.

Bitter disputes over assembly-line production caused 2,200 workers to walk out at Mansfield, Ohio; 8,500 at St. Louis, and 3,000 at Doraville, Ga., Friday.

The strike at Mansfield is of major concern to Canadian workers and could cause shutdowns and work reductions at most of the 20 GM assembly plants in the U.S., company officials said, because the Mansfield workers fabricate parts for every model car GM makes except the Pontiac Firebird and Chevrolet Camaro.

Mansfield workers also make parts for GM production lines in Canada and Mexico

A GM of Canada spokesman said Friday that production at Canadian assembly plants at Oshawa and St. Therese, Que., will stop if the strike continues. He said it had not been determined yet how long the Canadian plants could operate before running out of parts.

In addition, the UAW has a strike notice set to expire at 10 a.m. EST Tuesday at the Ford plant at Sterling Heights, Mich., the only non-GM plant at which a strike is a possibility.

The plant also is a key one, making rear-end assemblies for the entire Ford production line. The UAW said that if it shuts down, its effect will be felt throughout the Ford system.

A Ford of Canada spokesman said Sterling is a "key plant" to the Canadian operation. It was not known how long Canadian assembly plants could operate without supplies from Sterling.

BLACKPOOL, England (CP) — Western Europe must eventually move toward a unified defence program including both conventional and nuclear weapons, Britain's defence secretary said Friday.

Lord Carrington, speaking at the Conservative party's annual convention, said:

"Western Europe has its own nuclear powers in ourselves and France. I believe one day that the evolution of European defence must include some kind of European nuclear force.

"Although not on a comparable scale to the United States and without, I would hope, any weakening of the partnership with the United States, there will be problems. But, if Europe is to have a greater share of its own defence, we have to overcome these problems."

The defence secretary did not identify the problems, but they were well known. Britain is bound not to share any nuclear weapon secrets it gets from the United States. West Germany and other European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization have signed a world treaty to stop the spread of nuclear weapons and there fore are committed not to make or acquire atom bombs, hydrogen bombs and the like

A Hand for Handicrafts

For a second year, Quinte-district deer hunters have a chance to give native handicrafts a hand. Once-discarded deer hides are transformed into colorful Indian costumes — like those examples from Fort William reserve — displayed by cultural resources ministry staffer Betty McMurray, at Tweed yesterday. For details, see page 2.

Peace Speculation Grows

SAIGON (CP) — South Vietnamese ambassadors were flying back from Washington, Paris and London today, prompting speculation of new Vietnam peace moves after four days of intensive talks between U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiators in Paris in which the future of the Saigon government is a critical bargaining point. U.S. Ambassador Ellesworth Bunker called on president Nguyen Van Thieu today, apparently also to discuss the latest diplomatic moves.

Shoppers Hurled Through Window

HONG KONG (AP) — An "extremely violent" gas explosion blew out the front of a Hong Kong department store today, hurling shoppers through plate glass windows. First reports said at least two were killed and more than 250 taken to hospital, many of them listed in poor condition or critical condition.

Explosive Plant Blows Up

AVOCO, Pa. (AP) Five men are dead and 10 injured in the afternoon of an explosion that struck the Independent Explosives Co. dynamite plant here. The five were killed Friday as they worked in the plant, a cinderblock building in which nitroglycerine was mixed to produce dynamite. The injured were in nearby structures. Parts of bodies were strewn as much as 100 yards away.

No Force on Language: Caouette

HALIFAX (CP) — A Social Credit government would not enforce any laws which required a person to be bilingual, Real Caouette told a radio audience. Speaking on a CJCH open line show, the national Social Credit party leader said that as a general rule "I go along with" bilingualism but no government should force anyone to learn a second language at the age of 40 or 50.

Extortion Demand Stymied

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three persons have been arrested in connection with an attempt to extort a amount of money from television entertainer Johnny Carson, police said today.

Police said threats against Carson and his family were made in a note found on Carson's property last Monday, but they refused to give many details of the incident.

The note demanded a sum of money and said the lives of Carson and his family would be in danger if it were not paid, police said.

Authorities said without elaboration that an undisclosed amount of money was dropped "from the Carson vehicle" and that the money allegedly was found on one of the persons arrested.

Charter Flight Down

MOSCOW (CP) — Tass news agency reported today an airliner on its way from Leningrad to Moscow crashed near Moscow's Sheremetyevo Airport Friday night and all passengers and crew were killed.

But well-informed Soviet sources said there were a number of foreign tourists aboard the plane and it was an Bay-shin-62 charter flight.

The four-engined II-62 can carry up to 180 passengers.

Soviet sources said at least some of them were Latin Americans, and said they had heard Chileans were among them.

The Soviet Union rarely announces disasters such as air crashes, but may have done the magnitude of the disaster and the fact that rumors of it were circulating required a statement.

The reports that reached Western airline representatives by word of mouth said that many Soviets witnessed the explosion and crash about seven miles from the airport.

A Soviet-built II-62 crashed in East Berlin two months ago, killing 156 people in the second worst air disaster in the history of passenger aviation.

The biggest crash occurred in Japan in July, 1971, when an All-Nippon Airways Boeing 727 collided with an F-4g Sanro jet fighter, killing 162 people.

The official Russian news agency did not give any figures on the number of dead.

But an airport official, asked to confirm reports of a crash killing more than 200 persons, replied: "It is unfortunately true."

The Soviet news agency report came after some Western airline representatives said they had heard a report that an Aeroflot II-62 with 160 passengers aboard exploded in the air and crashed, killing all on board.

The Tass report did not identify the airline or the type of plane, saying only that the crash occurred at 9:50 p.m. local time and a government commission has been appointed to investigate the disaster.

Vandals Destroy Signs

The public face of the Jack Ellis Progressive Conservative campaign in Belleville received a serious setback last night through the wholesale theft or mutilation of hundreds of his red-white-and-blue lawn signs in all areas of the city.

Police chief Douglas Crosbie said it appears from preliminary reports that virtually all the Ellis lawn signs on the West Hill have either been removed or ripped where they stood. He said several East Hill signs have also been vandalized. Police said they would now double vigil on campaign signs of all political

The Election Heats Up

PM Takes Swing At RLS, Davis

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Prime Minister Trudeau and Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield donned gloves and came out swinging Friday, breathing a little fire into a normally quiet Oct. 30 federal election campaign.

Both hit out at the other's policies, or lack of them. Mr. Trudeau also had hard words for New Democrat Leader David Lewis.

The prime minister, on a Western tour, said neither Mr. Stanfield nor Mr. Lewis are talking of things that should concern Canadians across the country, implying they are giving a regional game as they seek votes.

Mr. Trudeau had the same message in Portage la Prairie, Man., and Edmonton: "We regard our goals and our platforms as national issues, as national commitments. We will not give them varying interpretations, or paint them in varying colors, from one region to another . . ."

A re-elected federal government would not be burdened with constitutional pitch promises or to the "premier of Ontario to ensure Ottawa will support in a desperate cause."

Mr. Trudeau said Mr. Lewis cannot even end his own party, which is split even on the question of economic nationalism. The party was afraid of losing votes if it enunciated a policy on Quebec's place in Confederation. While Mr. Lewis was attacking corporate welfare bums, NDP Premier Ed Schreyer of Manitoba was asking more federal support for industry in his province.

Stanfield:

PM Told 'Outright Lie'

By STUART LAKE

HAMILTON (CP) — A claim by Prime Minister Trudeau and repeated in Liberal election campaign material that his government has provided more than one million jobs since 1968 is "an outright lie," Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said Friday night.

Speaking to a noisy and enthusiastic crowd of about 1,200 in Westdale auditorium at a rally for Hamilton area party candidates, Mr. Stanfield also demanded an explanation as to why the ninth annual report of the Economic Council of Canada, said due to be made public in mid-September, now won't be available until after the Oct. 30 election.

Mr. Stanfield drew laughter from a responsive audience in Hamilton when he said he didn't want to use unparliamentary language but the the Liberal job-creation claim is false.

"So I challenge the prime minister within the next couple of days to either try to support this claim with some secret figures of his own or to apologize to Canadians and to come clean with them."

Mr. Stanfield said he has "reason to believe that the council report has taken a rather gloomy look at the prospects for job opportunities in the manufacturing sector of our economy in the period ahead."

He said the report dealt with "the rapid and alarming increase of capital in the government sector of the economy."

The Canadian people had the right to "an honest answer" as to why the report was delayed.

servative Leader Robert Stanfield said Friday night.

Lewis Charges Political Blackmail, Tax Evasion

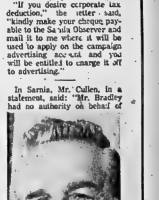
DAUPHIN, Man. (CP) — Charges of political blackmail and tax evasion were raised Friday by David Lewis when he questioned Liberal fund-raising tactics in the Ontario riding of Sarnia.

The New Democratic Party leader, livening up an otherwise uneventful day, released copies of a letter that suggested the constituency would lose an industry to the province of Quebec if Bud Cullen, Liberal MP in the last Parliament, is not returned to office Oct. 30.

Mr. Lewis, who read the letter to an election rally of 500 here Friday night, said the letter, dated Sept. 29, was sent to potential Liberal campaign contributors in the constituency.

It was writ en on Richardson Real Estate Ltd. stationery and signed by A. W. Bradley, the company's vice-president and general-manager.

"If we don't re-elect a Liberal, there is a strong possibility that we may lose our S.O.A.P. plant to the province of Quebec . . ." the letter said.



The industry referred to was Sarnia Glenns Aromatics Project, a $150-million petro-chemical undertaking now in planning stages at Sarnia, NDP officials said.

A similar project has also been under consideration by the Quebec government.

The letter said old recipients they could qualify for tax deductions by making their contributions payable to the local newspaper. Political contributions, by law, cannot be deducted for tax purposes.

"If you desire corporate tax deduction," the letter said, "kindly make your cheque payable to the Sarnia Observer and mail it to me where it will be used to apply on the campaign advertising account and you will be entitled to charge it off to advertising."

In Sarnia, Mr. Cullen, in a statement, said: "Mr. Bradley had no authority on behalf of the party to solicit funds in any manner that would be considered tax deductible. In fact, fund raisers are instructed to remind all contributors that no donation is chargable as an income tax expense. . . .

They Walked to Finance Centre

TRENTON (Staff) — Despite an early drizzle and overcast skies, about 250 volunteer walkers strode from the Front Street fire hall here this morning to raise funds for a future senior citizen's drop-in centre, to be built in Centennial Park.

Organizers of the walkathon sent out 1,500 pledge cards to local schools. Although Robert Carleton, chairman of the walkathon committee said, although disappointed by the numbers, he was well pleased with the spirit shown by walkers.

Most of the participants in the 20 - mile round trip to Frankford and back were from local schools, but a scattered along Highway 33 were several parents, accompanied by their children. Unofficial public figures were involved. Trenton Mayor Duncan McDonald, councillors George Greer, Paul Tripp and Ken Parker, Canadian Tyre Base Trenton commander Colonel A. Paisley, Prince Edward - Hastings Progressive Conservative candidate George Hees, and Trenton Chamber of Commerce president John Gumm all started out from the fire hall.

The route crossed the Trent River, south on Hastings Concession Road 4 to Glen Miller, then back to Frankford, down the Wooler Road, along another concession road and over Highway 7. From that point, walkers returned to the fire hall.

Walkers were urged to wear their hobbies, heavy shoes, and wool socks. While most paced to a steady walk, several set out to hike for the full time.

Organizers of the event were pleased with pledge responses from the community. Pledges ranged from individuals calling more than $40 per walker, totalling between $5,000 and $12,000 for the drop-in centre is needed.

Amps of Three Wars Meet

The applause was a little softer but enthusiasm right up to par when the Kingston branch of the War Amputations of Canada celebrated its 50th anniversary Thursday night.

Forty persons, including veterans of three wars and their families, renewed old ties over dinner at Sun Luck Gardens. Branch members came from as far away as Gananoque to recall the association's history that began in 1922.

At that time, they called it War Amputations of the Great War. They hoped there would be no cause to change the name.

But after another world war and fighting in Korea, new victims sought membership and the organization adopted its present name.

Special guest last night was Keith Potter, Dominion president of the War Amps and a successful amputee himself, from his home town of Kitchener. He told his listeners they were part of the most closely knit organization in Canada" where members had earned a place in the world.

Himself a victim of World War II, when he lost a leg shortly after the Normandy Invasion of 1944, Mr. Butler described how times have changed since the beginning 50 years of existence.

"War is a gruesome thing in 1922," he said, "I

Picton Pony Is Champion

PICTON (Staff) — Kirk's Leader, a nine - year - old saddle pony owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hicks, Picton fur kids of his horse shows and relax this month after finishing a brilliant season in the show ring.

"Leader," as he is dubbed by friends and associates, defeated competitors at Picton, Belleville, Napanee, Lindsay, Madoc and Odessa, winning a fistful of red ribbons for his efforts.

The superb little hackney who has enjoyed a robust career both in Canada and the United States hitchhiked his season in the ring with a victory at the Peterborough exhibition in August.

"Leader" was entered in an "over class" at Peterborough and won it before pranced into the ring to capture the trophy in an open stake class.

He has shown in both harness and lines classes this season. While in United States, the hackney pony competed at Devon, Penn., where he was judged reserve champion.

Leader is among the finest of hackney shows in North America.

Funds Raised At CFB

TRENTON (Staff) — For the first time in seven years, Canadian Forces Base Trenton fire department last night hosted a dance and banquet for the south side area population hall to raise funds for the Canadian Muscular Dystrophy Association.

There were more than 500 guests and approximately $1,000, from dance proceeds and door, were turned over to David Taylor, Canadian MDA field director.

Highlight of the evening was a selection of Loraine Brown, Trenton as Miss Fire Prevention. Banners up, Private Ann O'Connor, and local students Sharon Wigley and Dawn Tower.

The 30-piece station band, under directorship of Sgt. John VanLeeuwen last night marked its debut as a dance band.

OSD To Hear Politicians

For the first time, students at the Ontario School for the Deaf will have a voice in a federal election.

To get acquainted with the candidates and issues being discussed in their constituency of Hastings, school officials report they are hopeful of organizing an assembly with the affected.

Plans are being organized to have the candidates of all three official parties meet with the newly-enfranchised students in a session in the schools original auditorium next Thursday at 4 p.m.

OSD students approved the vote under extension of the franchise to 18 years.

Hunters Can Help Handicrafts

Deer-hunting no longer is merely sport.

The gunsights of many a rifle district hunter again this year will pinpoint a source of native culture and profit — if the success of a provincial federal program is repeated.

The project, launched on a trial basis last year, is to utilize hides, hitherto discarded, for the province's Indian handicraft industry.

"Hides that usually end up in the trash can have actually valuable sources of income to native craftsmen," says Dave Atkinson, senior conservation officer with the Tweed district office of the natural resources minister.

The hides, collected from hunters, are shipped to a tannery, then distributed to natives groups in Northern Ontario.

Launched in the Tweed district last year the project saw collection of hides from 550 deer, 10 moose and a bear.

There were even six sheep and a beef hide turned in by hunters.

In exchange, the hunters were given a handout sheet. This year, the department plans to issue a small handbook, detailing how to prepare a hide.

It's only a token and probably has little real bearing in the enthusiasm with which local hunters have responded to the program.

"The hunters of this district have felt proud that they've helped provide an income for isolated Indian families of Northern Ontario," says Mr. Atkinson.

It's a simple process to save a deer hide.

Here's how the conservation officer for the Tweed district suggests the technique:

A not-too-sharp knife should be used to avoid unneeded cutting. Once on the way, the hide can normally be stripped off most parts of the cold-but-fewer carcass simply by pulling with strong downward tugs. After removal, the largest residues of flesh and fat, can be sliced off. Don't bother with the rest. A couple of pounds of table or coarse salt will draw the natural juices.

Then, all that's required is to roll the hide, let it loosely and surrender it to the nearest natural resources station. The whole operation, once the deer is skinned shouldn't take more than five minutes.

And here's a reminder to bear hunters: Both hide and meat qualify for payment under the program.

"Usually," says Mr. Atkinson, "a hunter who kills a bear likes to parade it on his car for the ride home. But unless the weather is crackling cold, the meat will soon begin to spoil in just one or two days — both hide and meat."

Last year, conservation officials also are requesting the meat again be donated to needy in the district to assist in conservation research.

The Tweed area hunting opens Nov. 6. In regions where humidity quits earlier, hides can be left with Belleville — area conservationists George Gardiner, senior Forest Valley Fish and Game Club, near Frankford.

IN MEMORIAM

STORMES — In loved memory of a dear mother, Alice R., who died October 14th, 1971. Sadly missed, Gone, October, but never forgotten. The rolling strokes of life rolls on, Time heals the wounds they say, But memories linger on and on, Always remembered by Mother and Helen.

SHAW — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Harry Shaw, who passed away October 14th, 1970.

Sometimes so strange that those we love Are those we love the best. Are just the ones we lose at last, And life's them home to rest.

Lovingly remembered by wife Mary and family.

Don't cry I'm only sleeping,
I'm resting from my labour day,
Loving hands are folded,
Dear heart and grandchildren.

SINE — In loving memory of a dear husband, Ernest Sine, who died October 14th, 1971, one year ago.

Sweet memories linger,
Of a perfect husband and dad,
Who left a heritage of love,
For those he left behind.

Memories are dearly,
And thought that I plucked too soon,
Gone but not forgotten,
By those who loved him.

In his promising manhood,
Lovingly remembered,
Lovingly remembered by sister Mary, brother-in-law Jack and nephew Michael and Jack.

REID — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Ernest Reid, who died one year ago, October 14th, 1971.

Loved and remembered every day,
Sadly missed by those who knew him,
Gone from our home to rest.
Gone from our sight,
But never from our memory.
Don't cry I'm only sleeping,
I'm resting from my labour day,
Loving hands are folded,
Dear heart and grandchildren.

SINE — In loving memory of a dear husband, Ernest Sine, who died October 14th, 1971, one year ago.

Sweet memories linger,
Of a perfect husband and dad,
Who left a heritage of love,
For those he left behind.

Memories are dearly,
And thought that I plucked too soon,
Gone but not forgotten,
By those who loved him.

In his promising manhood,
Lovingly remembered,
—Lovingly remembered by sister Mary, brother-in-law Jack and nephew Michael and Jack.

REID — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Ernest Reid, who died one year ago, October 14th, 1971.

—Loved and remembered every day,
Sadly missed by those who knew him,
Gone from our home to rest.
Gone from our sight,
But never from our memory.

SINE — In ever loving memory of a dear son, Roger Sine, who died one year ago, October 14, 1970.

Memories are sweet and bright,
And when our hopes seemed best,
God took our boy to rest.

Happy and smiling, always content,
Loved and remembered by all who met him.

To his beautiful life came a tragic end,
He died as he lived, everyone's friend.

Sadly, sweetly, memory is kept,
For the one we loved and lost so much,
Others are taken, yes we know,
But the one we loved him best.

—Lovingly remembered by Mom and Dad.

ROYCE — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Harry Hamilton Royce, who passed away October 14th, 1969.

Three years have gone by,
Dear friends from day to day,
And never will the one we loved,
Be forgotten by us.

Candidates' Calendar

The following is a summary given The Intelligencer of activities scheduled during the October 30 federal election for Monday:

MONDAY

Jack Ellis PC candidate in Hastings will attend Belleville Rotary Club luncheon at 12 noon, campaigning in the city before heading to Picton for door - to - door meetings with residents from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. he will be guest at a meet the candidate night at Bayside Secondary. Church hall for voters in Tudor and Consecon townships.

Elridge Brethour, New Democratic Party, indicates he will spend the day visiting homes in Trenton and area.

For Liberal Frank Falkwell there will be a coffee party at 11 a.m. in his Belleville campaign rooms before a day of factory tours in the riding.

At 6 p.m. he will participate in a blitz canvass of Tweed-Stirling constituency. At 8 p.m. from 9:15 p.m. he will meet Belleville senior citizens.

Progressive Conservative George Hees in Prince Edward - Hastings will be campaigning mainly door to door throughout the riding today.

NDP candidate Richard Lunn will be in Toronto much of the day attending to address Trenton Rotary Club and Dutch Mill Inn from 6:30 p.m.

Liberal George Cunningham will be at Bayside Secondary School from 11 to 12 a.m. following a caravan of downtown Trenton earlier in the morning. His afternoon will be spent visiting Prince Edward sites before he heads to Picton. At 7 p.m. speaker date at the Orange Hall there.

Signs Destroyed

col parties in the city.

Ellis, campaigning on the less early today, said the entire city had been posted in a night but the signs will have to be replaced — "it is as simple as that."

The candidate indicated he was spending time today assessing damage to his signs his Saturday campaign activities.

Ellis, accepting use has easily explained he felt there was a voter answer to the situation than to get new signs, both pro fast. He said 95% of his signs are 9% privately-owned, each case varies, and there is a deliberate violation of regular laws.

The effect of the loss for the candidate is that he has instructions from the candidate to remove unauthorized party signs from public property. He said, although counting on these signs may have been a factor in the election, he campaigned in the city, he only wanted lawn signs on private lawns where they indicate support of the landholder or tenant concerned.

Liberal party headquarters said this morning to the best of their knowledge none of their signs have been destroyed.

Likewise local NDP organizer Ian Reily reports no evidence of destroyed signs this morning.

Reilly, however, noted Liberals "for putting signs all over public property . . . they have even got them in a park now."

He said he was against the municipal regulations forbidding placing of campaign signs on public lands. But said there is no way his party will violate it.

"They are going back over with their signs," he said. Official campaigning ends for all parties dropdown the next, nightly city-wide sign vandalism.

Fee Structure To Remain

TORONTO (CP) — Jack McNie, Ontario minister of colleges and universities said today the proposed student fee strike "is not going to put any pressure on the government."

He said in an interview the fee and loan program is a fact of life" and the government is satisfied with them.

On Wednesday and Thursday students across the province voted 59 per cent in favor of withholding winter fees.

Mr. McNie added he is willing to hold fur her talks with students' groups but said he would not change the fee structure.

Conservation Authority Emphasis to Shift

Sharply increasing costs of vacant and sub-marginal land which has all but ruled out continued large scale reforestation, has forced a change in operations of the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Where emphasis originally was on the development of new conservation areas and in planting of trees, the trend now is toward water improvement projects, outdoor education and pollution control.

And the future will likely see still further changes in the work of the authority.

This was indicated Wednesday by W. Graham Bell, chairman of the authority's board, during a bus trip to authority projects taken by organization members.

Mr. Bell said sharply increasing land prices had all but forced the authority out of the land purchase market.

The all - day bus trip covering many authority projects was sponsored by the authority pollution control and forest advisory boards as part of the organization's "25 year anniversary celebrations.

The tour included a drive, through inspection of Belleville's west side Moira green belt area, purchase cost of which to a large extent was provided through provincial grants arranged through the authority.

The tour also included the recently opened Sidney Conservation Area, taken over from the now closed federal research laboratory in Belleville, the Marmoraton Mine, and an inspection of the old Thompson mill at Queensboro.

Noon luncheon was enjoyed at Price's Restaurant at Actinolite (courtesy Jack Ellis, Hastings Progressive Conservative candidate).

During the afternoon, members inspected authority pine plantations at Actinolite and in Hungerford township, stopped at the Vanderwater Conservation Area at Thomasburg and also at the Plainfield Conservation Area where the Hastings County Board of Education has set up an outdoor education area.

Here a portable classroom has been erected from which the board's outdoor education program will be conducted. The area will be officially opened on October 21.

Pollution control advisory board chairman Graham Bell acted as the day's tour guide. Carl Richmond, of Richmond township is chairman of the forest advisory board.

Tour members were told that the Moira authority in its quarter century of existence had been fortunate in being able to purchase large areas of reforestation area property, which in future years would be the envy of other authorities across the province.

The Moira authority now owns approximately 17,000 acres of land and operates three water control reservoir dams at Lingham Lake, Shoostamaita Lake and at Deerock Lake.

Originally, the authority had but four advisory boards — conservation areas, forestry, water control and education.

In recent years two other advisory boards, wildlife and pollution control have been added.

Old Time Millstone

Touring members of the Moira River Conservation Authority inspect old millstone showpiece outside the Thompson water - powered mill at Queensboro. The old mill, closed for the past three years, together with 20 acres of land, is up for sale.

Enumeration Has Its Problems

Revision of voters' lists for the Oct. 30 election ended Friday and mixed feelings about the enumeration system by returning officers across the country is reflected in Quinte district ridings.

Several officers call the system inadequate. Some even have called for permanent voters' lists to overcome shortage of time in compiling correct lists.

One such suggestion was pondered by Grace Radcliffe, returning officer for Prince Edward - Hastings. She believed the government should examine possibilities of compiling a permanent list based on voters' social security registrations.

While voters showed a substantial increase — 8,000 to 43,191 — in the riding, this meant a "huge" enumeration although the officer was able to fill her quota of 153 enumerators.

Revision of the lists — which sees revising agents making return calls to mitred voters for registration at courts of revision — was bigger than other years. There were perhaps 300 voters who had to be added to the original lists, estimates Mrs. Radcliffe.

There also have been problems obtaining district returning officers to open their homes as polling stations.

But a vote based on social security numbers could make a registered vote possible without enumerations, thus reducing pressure on the grassroots electoral organization. Mrs. Radcliffe says she can work 10 12 hours daily at her job, and with increasing population and lower voting ages work will become heavier, she surmises.

In Hastings, enumerations have shown an electorate of 41,682, up from 33,934 in 1968, reports returning officer Reginald Dunham. He expected only about 100 more names to be added by revision which closed last night.

While almost simultaneous canvassing by provincial enumerators for municipal voting lists had some effect on the federal enumeration organizing, enumerators performed as well as ever, believed Mr. Dunham.

He agreed a permanent list, perhaps based on social welfare registrations, could be an ideal solution.

But it also would be costly, he warned.

"You'd have to have people like me, perhaps, working the year round. It would be efficient, but much more costly."

Two holiday weekends intruded in the enumeration organization period which also might have created some problems, Mr. Dunham noted.

"I don't see that many problems," he added. "And, anyway, after Oct. 30 we'll have forgotten about it."

In other Canadian ridings: Officials say up to more than 1,000 names have been left off the rolls in individual constituencies.

Kenneth Thompson, returning officer in York West, laid part of the blame on the fact that in Ontario a simultaneous registration is being undertaken by the provincial government to be used for the first time in municipal elections being held in the province in December.

This had created a shortage of good enumerators, he said, and "as long as the body was warm, I hired it".

"There has got to be a permanent voters' list to put an end to this shambles and get the onus for registering on the citizen," he said.

Cara Kaplan, returning officer in Toronto Rosedale, said "there just wasn't sufficient time" to train enumerators properly and many had no instructions at all.

"A permanent voters' list is the only answer," she added.

Zetta Howe in York East agreed, saying a permanent list could also be used for provincial and municipal elections.

"It's impossible to have an accurate enumeration," said Rosemary Clark, whose riding of York - Scarborough with 112,000 voters is the most populous in Canada. "The blitz character of enumeration is impossible."

Ernest Farrow, returning officer in Toronto Etobicoke, said there should be a new form of annual enumeration paid for by the federal government and available to all three levels of government.

In Vancouver, returning officer Humphrey Mostyn of Vancouver Centre said Wednesday preparations for the election there are "chaos" and he expected about 2,600 names would be added during the three-day revision. The major factor was shortage of time.

Ferry Service Restricted

PICTON (Staff) — Repairs to the docks at the Glenora ferries next week will necessitate a change in ferry service.

Captain Keith Daubney said yesterday the ferry Quinte Loyalist will be taken out of service at 8 a.m., Monday, October 16 for a period of approximately one month.

The ferry Quinte will provide half-hour service from both the Glenora and Adolphustown shores until repairs are completed at the docks.

The boat will leave the Glenora shore on the hour and half hour and will load at the Adolphustown shore at 15 minutes before and after the hour.

The load limit for trucks will be 10 gross tons for the next few weeks.

Donations Received

MARMORA (Special) — At the September meeting of the Marmora Recreation Committee, Gary Nobes, treasurer, reported that donations to assist with expenses of summer program had been received from Marmora and Lake Township — $300, Marmora Red Cross Society — $250 and Deloro Village — $50.

George Wisti, chairman of the park committee, advised a successful Red Cross swimming program had been conducted, with 160 children registered for classes. Marmora swimmers also won many events in the four competitive swim meets they attended.

Mr. Wisti also stated he had been very gratified with the number of volunteers who turned out to assist with the removal of the dock and other work required to clear the beach area at Legion Park at the close of the summer season.

The recreation committee will pay the examination awards fee of 25 cents for candidates successful in obtaining the Red Cross Swimming Awards.

It was reported that the Marmora Young Adult Club had held a successful dance to raise funds for MARC and a substantial donation had been turned over to the committee.

Indian Summer

Indian Summer is nature's most dramatic hour. She wears her radiant ribbons of awards for distinguished service . . . she has produced . . . she has yielded . . . she has merited her winter of rest.

So it is in our lives . . . our finest hour is the last of life for which the first was made.

Through death we return to our Maker and rewards unfathomable for a life well lived. It is to the loved ones left behind that death is a sorrow.

It is to the bereaved that our sympathetic understanding is sincerely expressed by directing a funeral priced within their means and complying with individual needs and personal requirements.

Newspaperboy Day

This is International Newspaperboy Day and once again we pay tribute to the youngsters — boys and girls — who day in day out and in all weathers deliver the newspapers to homes in their communities.

It is a task the youngsters take to easily. In carrying it out they become acquainted with their neighbors. Early on in their lives they are acquiring a sense of responsibility and this is one of the principal means of doing so. They are also performing a task that goes hand-in-hand with their school and home work, complementing it and making it the easier for the contrast it provides, not to mention acquiring a familiarity with the outdoors that is so essential to good upbringing.

In fact there is much in the running of a newspaper route that has to do with the development of resourcefulness and integrity. Many a famous personality took his first steps on the road to manhood by operating a paper route.

We join in thanking the boys and girls for their excellent performance in this important sphere. Newspapers are the life-blood of democracy and without the carriers there would be neither democracy nor a properly-informed public.

Helping the Retarded

Treatment of the mentally retarded has come a long way from the days when patients were simply kept in institutions with little attempt to improve their condition.

Nowadays there is a much greater sense of compassion which, allied with modern methods of treatment, means new hope for those handicapped in this manner.

An authority in this field is Dr. Harold Franks, director of the Smiths Falls institute for the mentally retarded. "We are in a new era in the 1970's," he told a recent graduation ceremony for staff of the new Prince Edward Heights complex in Picton. "There is a tremendous increase in knowledge because of research. Training can enhance the ability of anyone. . . ."

Janks foresees still further progress in this direction, as further knowledge is gained of what he terms the complex of disabilities in a section of the population that seems to be a chain — involving mostly the lower income group, accompanied by malnutrition, accompanied in turn by retardation.

It is essential, he told the graduates, to realize that each of them can play some part in breaking this chain of poverty.

It is encouraging to note there were 24 men and women graduates from two courses at the institute ceremony, dealing with the retarded calls for a special kind of person, but the necessary qualities may be enhanced through training. It is rewarding work.

Influence of Environment

The influence of environment on the human psyche is a powerful one. The prairies have their own compelling beauty but the people who come from the mountains are fortunate indeed.

From Biblical times to the present observers have responded to the magnetism of the peaks.

When all is said and done though, both prairie and mountain folk produce their own brand of world and each man from the other. Possibly the prairie population are at a disadvantage without those dramatic changes in scenery but then, when they see the Rockies for the first time, the experience is all the more dramatic. Mean while, those who are mountain-born and bred may become a little accustomed to their surroundings and don't look any more.

As to city-life in itself, in these different environments there can be many a drama, as in Anarene, a small town in the Texas flatlands not far from the Mexican border.

Anarene is the setting for the immortalized in Larry McMurtry's novel The Last Picture Show which became an award-winning movie and was shown at The Mall here recently. It was around the time of the Korean war in 1951 and it was a story with Peyton Place overtones. Yet the pace of the film was as slow as that of the community itself and the film was a mere one of mood and characterization. Life was so dull and the hinterland so featureless that escape meant sex or an evening out in Mexico.

On the surface, life in such desolate accidents of geography might seem one of devastating boredom. Maybe it is, and for the most part pretty straitlaced too. But such communities are numerous enough. They are to be found in all parts, even up there among the mountains.

The Rest Is Silence

Solicitor-General and His 'Full and Complete Inquiries'

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — You have to hand it to Solicitor General Jean-Pierre Goyer — when he gets a script he likes, he sticks to it.

On April 18, 1971, the day 496 convicts ended their bloody four - day riot, kicking an inmate and wrecking beyond repair Kingston penitentiary's maximum security cellblock, Mr. Goyer announced appointment of a three-man commission to "carry out a full and complete inquiry into all the circumstances surrounding the disorder".

On July 10, 1972, out through the convenient pair of matching holes in two chain - link fences at Millhaven, the newest, most modern maximum security prison (replacing ruined Kingston), went 14 prisoners in one of the biggest breakouts in Canadian penal history, a mild crumbled warnings in advance from the staff that Mr. Goyer was running the place "more like a country club," as the guards put it, than a penitentiary.

And Mr. Goyer announced appointment of a three-man commission to "carry out a full and complete inquiry into all the circumstances surrounding the escape."

On August 2, four inmates slipped away through another chain-link double fence from the maximum security unit at Laval federal penitentiary.

And this time, Mr. Goyer was beaten to his punchline of a "full and complete inquiry," by a fifth convict who slipped out of Laval two days later.

But, better late than never.

And on August 6, Mr. Goyer announced the appointment of still another three-man commission — his third — to, yep, you guessed it, "carry out a full and complete inquiry into all the circumstances surrounding the escape."

While it might have been getting a little tricky to keep tracks of Mr. Goyer's pudgeting three-man commissions all busy with their "full and complete inquiries," it was a cinch compared to keeping tabs on the number of travelling convicts cruising the country, courtesy of the Solicitor General's "country club" type prisons.

So what happened with all three three-man commissions looking into "all the circumstances" of each one?

Well, first the Kingston riot—the hearings, all in camera except for a fleeting 18 opening minutes, went on all through the summer, and into the fall of last year. . . .

Hundreds of inmates were interviewed. The prison staff was examined and cross-examined. Evidence was heard from members of the self-appointed and so-called "Citizens' Committee" which claimed its intervention ended the riot, by "negotiation" after four deadly and demoralizing days.

The report is in Mr. Goyer's hands, has been for months, and he is still "studying it," trying to decide which parts of it, if any, should be made public.

Now the Millhaven- mass escape — the "full and complete inquiry into all the circumstances" has been made.

And again, silence.

It was an "inside" inquiry made jointly by the Justice Department with the representative and the Solicitor General with two.

And just the other day, Mr. Goyer, screwing up his courage — or perhaps more accurately, displaying his uncon-cern with public opinion — said that is the way it was going to be. Silence.

Mr. Goyer, said his departmental spokesman, "has decided not to release the Millhaven report."

Why not if, as with the Kingston inquiry, the three-man commission was to look "fully and completely into all the circumstances?"

Because, said Mr. Goyer, "it would not be in the long - term interest of the penitentiary service". . . .

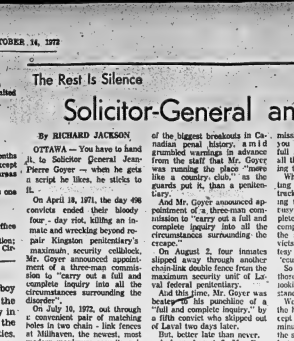
Just that, and nothing more.

And what about the three-man commission investigating the Laval breakouts?

Again, nothing.

Nothing, that is, except that the voluble Solicitor General was puts prisoners in a dock of public and has said so both in and out of parliament, keeps talking about prison reform.

While he insists his penitentiary administration "has nothing to hide," he admits there have been some "errors".



But he pleads for "patience" from the public, claiming that "mistakes are unavoidable" in any "meaningful program of reform."

Could it be that the three commissions in their reports might have said something about these "errors" and "mistakes" in Mr. Goyer's kind of reform?

Funny, is it not — something goes wrong in government and the instant government answer is the "full and complete inquiry."

It has happened dozens of times.

But this time it just possibly might be different, because this time Mr. Goyer's "reform" — or lack of it — is becoming an election issue.

"We don't tolerate language like that in here—who do you think you are, the prime minister?"

Nixon Maintains Low-Profile in Campaign

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Nixon isn't simply out to win. It is becoming increasingly clear he wants a landslide victory in the Nov. 7 presidential election.

And the best way to get it, he apparently feels, is to do as little personal campaigning as possible.

Aides had said in advance that Nixon would remain "very presidential," maintaining that his presidential duties do not permit him the luxury of an all-out campaign.

This has infuriated and frustrated Democratic nominee Senator George McGovern who constantly chides the president for "hiding out" in the White House and refusing to join the campaign battle.

Even some Republicans, particularly in areas where candidates feel the president's prestige could make the difference in close congressional battles, have been urging Nixon to make himself more visible.

McGovern would love to stage a face-to-face debate with Nixon. But the president has made it crystal clear he has no desire to share the spotlight with anybody.

Nixon's strategy appears to be to make himself more visible, but his ability as a vote-winner is not on the campaign trail.

There are those who still remember Nixon's near-fatal blunder in 1960 in agreeing to 10 debates — actually debates with John F. Kennedy that set the stage for the election victory of the first Roman Catholic president.

Nixon's weakness as a campaigner was brought home recently in the unprecedented elections of 1970 when he and vice-President Spiro T. Agnew made an all-out push to help Republican congressional candidates. In many districts their efforts were counter-productive and the overall result was generally humiliating.

This time, party campaign chairman Clark MacGregor and the president wants "a friend in Congress" in each district who would strengthen his hand in Congress and in negotiations in foreign affairs.

The party has plenty of money and although workers are brimming with confidence they are working and organizing as though they were in a tight race.

Among cabinet members, the Nixon family, party lieutenants—everyone but Nixon—are excited about the election and are beginning to show signs of nervousness every new McGovern policy almost as soon as it is enunciated.

And according to a fistful of national and local polls, Nixon's "low profile" strategy is working. Although they vary somewhat in degree, all polls show Nixon with a large lead as of this date.

Although McGovern's fast-paced campaign has been running smoothly of late, he still hasn't made the anticipated impact. While he is specific on a wide range of promises programs and policies, the Nixon program remains largely a question mark.

In the little campaigning he has done, the president has emphasized his accomplishments in foreign affairs—his trips to Moscow and Peking, the signing of the strategic arms limitations agreement with the Kremlin and the like.

On the domestic front, he has been to attack each and every McGovern proposal while Nixon himself remains silent on such issues as tax reform, what is to become of the present wage price control system, or future Vietnam war policy.

Many complain that this absence of dialogue has cut the heart out of the Democratic system cherished by Americans, but the tactics are working and has a charm for President Nixon so far. . . .

Appointment Under Fire

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

This is personally a hard piece to turn out.

One of the distasteful parts of political writing is that if you are to do an honest job from time to time you must be critical of, or even hurt, people you like and respect.

This is one of those times.

It has been announced that W. H. Palmer, former deputy minister of the old department of municipal affairs, is to be chairman of the Ontario Municipal Board, succeeding J. A. Kennedy.

This has to be judged as a highly unfortunate appointment, and to the discredit of the government.

Not to the discredit of Bill Palmer.

Bill Palmer has been a lifelong civil servant who rose in the ranks and has shown good ability.

But he is not the man for this job, if the OMB is to continue as a healthy and vigorous force.

He certainly is no J. A. Kennedy.

And of course this board today is J. A. Kennedy.

The retiring chairman has taken a body which was largely an administrative superbus-tenacracy and turned it into a protectorate of last resort from bureaucrats and politicians.

This has been a unique function. In this day of exploding bureaucracy it is one which is very valuable—and which will be needed more and more.

The chairman of the board has to give the lead.

Which seems to be not only has to know and be dedicated to this protectorate function but also has to have enough of the wise cnough to stand up to the continual attacks from those who give no ground in the face of either bureaucrats or politicians.

This simply can't be expected of Bill Palmer.

He has been a bureaucrat himself all his life. He is used to the authoritarianism of bureaucracy. And he is used to taking orders from politicians.

He knows municipal law and undoubtedly is very able to lead the board in its routine administrative functions.

But there is nothing in his background to suggest he has the penetrating judgment and fierce independence the higher function requires. . . .

Hopefully, this is wrong. But there are two further reasons why it probably isn't. Why his posting looks like government expediency.

One is that the government has had some high-priced civil servants to edge out, and find jobs for.

It has sent former deputies Don Collins to Sudbury as regional chairman and Stuart Clarkson to the energy board as chairman. Now Palmer goes to the OMB.

The second is that it well might want a weaker board. This would get some local politicians, who have been screaming, off its back.

Soviet Scene

George Rodwanski

In the Montreal Gazette

In the crowd waiting to board one plane, there was a pregnant young woman who must have been in her eighth or ninth month. She stood in the freezing sun for some 10 minutes along with everyone else.

Then — as is the practice in the Soviet Union — foreign tourists were allowed first aboard. The woman was left in the middle of the crowd which would then stampede aboard the plane, pushing and shoving as they jockeyed for the choice seats.

She didn't ask for any special treatment, and she certainly would have been insulted if she had. Everyone was too busy with his own troubles.

It isn't only airplanes which are uncomfortable, however.

Air conditioning is virtually does not exist in the Soviet Union, and deodorants are not available. The result is that every crowded public place in the Soviet Union is hot, stifling and foul-smelling.

But that, like everything else, is simple accepted as a fact of life.

If people don't bother to complain about the discomforts, the reason is partly one of attitude and the constant waiting, there is nevertheless no doubt that a scarcity does to an extent which affects their productivity.

Except in very high - level jobs, it is almost impossible to get fired, because unemployment isn't tolerated in the Soviet Union and it would be more trouble than it's worth to find the person onetolve job. It's almost equally difficult to get promoted on merit alone.

Woman Veterans

Editor,

The Intelligencer.

I noted with interest the vetarans who went on a trip a short time ago to Germany, I believe cementing public relations.

The President of Br. 99, Royal Canadian Legion, the president of ANAF and also I believe Ontario president.

I did not notice either in the writeup or picture any mention of Br. 257 — which is only a Women's Veteran Branch, but we are veterans in every sense of the word — the same as men and some of us had as have served in more theatres of war than some of the men.

We recognize and remember the men and boys fought and died and the men who returned, but why always snub the women?

The ATS, the CWAC, the WRENS and the RCAMC — who could have "Queen Alexandra" Nursing Sisters?

So many people do not understand there were and are women veterans.

I have been asked on occasion if I wore my husband's medals on my dress and on such occasion is not even legal. My medals were earned the same as any male veterans were earned — work, sweat and tears by myself and a woman.

Yes, the WRENS, the CWAC, the RCAMC, the Nursing Sisters, too. Why are we always the forgotten veterans of World War II? . . .

Radio Music

Editor,

The Intelligencer.

I wish to convey my appreciation and I am sure many residents feel the same, of the good quality of radio music in the evenings. Give credit where credit is due and there is no doubt that a lot of thought gone into the fine music that is presented.

After a day's work it is very relaxing to hear compositions that have clearly stood throughout the years. Also, the commentary and introductions to the various pieces of music are highly commendable.

This is truly a worthwhile service to the community and noteworthy.

A salute to the radio staff is due for a job well done. Looking forward to many fine programs presented by our local radio station.

Summit Experiences in Prayer Are Not Done Often Enough

By Rev. Gordon C. Smyth

Mount Hermon reaches a height of more than 9,000 feet above the Mediterranean Sea and offers a majestic view from its summit. The mountain has always fascinated the human mind and been considered sacred since time immemorial. All the nature set since the Transfiguration (Luke 9:28-36).

It was characteristic of our Lord to take Peter, James and John with Him at important junctures in His ministry. There, irrespective of limitations, were closest to Him in spirit. The idea of telepathic communication is suspect in the Western Sovereign souls of the East have always sworn to its reality. The three apostles were more or less of one mind with Jesus when He "went up on the mountain to pray". It is also important to note it was a "vision" they were privileged to share (Matthew 17:9).

As Jesus prayed "the appearance of His countenance was altered, and His raiment became dazzling white". Bridegroom radiant on their wedding day. The intense devotion of saints' and mystic often chance how they look to others. The power transfiguring Love of was the reflected glory of His prayerful soul.

If He thanked God for the measure of light vouchsafed to His apostles at Caesarea Philippi, He prayed they might have more light, but He most of all. He was bathed in light. His prayer was answered. "He said, two men talked with Him, Moses and Elijah, who appeared in glory and spoke of His departure, which He was to accomplish at Jerusalem." Jerusalem! The holy city over which the Master would weep. Jerusalem! The heavy burden on His soul.

I wish you would obtain a set of Prayer and the Modern Man by Jacques Ellul, published by the Seabury Press, New York. I quote: "Prayer is the begetting of a future . . . to assert the possibility of a history, the history of my own life . . . It is there to assure us the history of my church . . . It is there to assure the history of my people . . . It is to say that prayer is there in order that there might truly be a history at all levels, and a successful history of faithful, meaningless actions . . . It is prayer, and prayer alone which can make history."

Jesus was steeped in the history of Israel. He would concentrate His prayer on its significance. Two figures in particular rose out of the past: Moses representative of the Law, and Elijah, representative of the Prophets. Did not Moses stand shine, mediating between rebellious tribes and God? Who but Elijah really defied the priestly hierarchy of Baal? The thought of those lonely pilgrims on life's road refreshed our Lord for the road only He could take.

Each of us is a focus of interest. We have friends. I like Peter, James and John, that behind them is a much larger company of those who form the fabric of our common life and the truth and ethic of the Christian religion, a parliamentary system of democracy with the Crown its fountain-head, a judiciary independent of election results, the press as a watchdog of liberty and critic of corruption, and, dating the land, politics in which "a man may speak the thing he will".

The fellowship is richer still. In the Revelation to John, the seer of Patmos saw before God's throne elders holding "golden bowls full of incense, which are the prayers of the saints"; and to the Lamb "they sang a new song, saying, Worthy art thou to take the scroll and to open its seals, for thou wast slain and by thy blood didst ransom men for God . . . and hast made them a kingdom and priests to our God" (Revelation 5:8-10). That dead are alive the living in God's sight. Their prayers rise like incense for us day and night.

Let us climb the Mountain. There we can join the throng in being a long and valiant associated life. There we can catch the vision of a great cloud of witnesses. There we can find comfort and strength in more than human companionship. On the Height we see things clearly and see them whole.

Dr. Frederick H. Wilkinson, former Anglican Bishop of Toronto, has written "Without some vision of God, through prayer and contemplation, we cannot know Him and serve Him. Perhaps we fail to realize how ready God is to reveal Himself to the humble and sincere seeker after Him. It is quite possible we need fewer so-called down-to-earth sermons and more summit experiences in quiet solitude and prayer."

DR. EVA MOSES, Superintendent of Indore Christian Hospital, Indore, India, will be visiting the Belleville Kingston area, and will be the guest speaker at King Street United Church, Trenton, on Tuesday, October 17 at 7.45 p.m.

As a medical doctor who has participated in church and school activities over the years Dr. Moses is well equipped to give a picture of India in these changing times, with particular emphasis on the Christian church.

Leprosy Mission Does A Vital Job

If the Rev. Arthur Bateson has his way, more and more churches in the area will become aware of the work of the Leprosy Mission, now in its 97th year in the continuing fight against one of man's least understood and most feared diseases.

At the Oct. 19 meeting of the Belleville Ministerial Association Mr. Bateson explained the prejudice and stigma that still attaches to the disease. The regional representative of the organization observed that, even in 1972, leprosy is still widely regarded with revulsion and horror, even though by means of sylphone drugs the germs may now be killed, and by orthopedic surgery the most serious disabilities corrected.

Hopelessness and despair are still the common lot of the majority of leprosy sufferers in the world. It is, says Mr. Bateson, essentially a disease of poverty. Due to the population explosion, and increased life expectancy, the disease is enable increase, and more in evidence even in western countries, through increased travel. As yet no vaccine has been found, although intense research is being undertaken at the Institute of Microbiology at McGill University.

Whereas less than a hundred years ago a mere handful of concerned and dedicated Christians realized the desperate plight of many leprosy sufferers and decided to do something about it, today, through the Leprosy Mission, a great host of people around the world, through prayer and sacrificial giving, are concerning themselves with leprosy. The fact that competent doctors and nurses are willing to take the clawed hand, the dropped foot, or the disfigured face, and lovingly and tenderly dress them in the name of Christ, is practical evidence to the leper that "God is love." A new hope, a new faith, a new health of body, a new dignity, and a new life has been the happy story of many who have been helped through the Leprosy Mission.

For Human Rights

ANTIGONISH, N.S. (CP) — A community committee of human rights, set up this week following disturbances between black and white residents of this town, has added Indian citizens to its ranks. Representatives of churches, business and government have been working to help blacks and Indians surmount problems created by white policy-making positions.

A SPOTLIGHT ON SPORTS

"Play up! play up! and play the game!" — Vital Lampada.

Chess, ping pong, hockey, golf, football, the Olympic Games each played with the eyes of the world watching, sets this year 1972 apart — in its belief that life which is all work and no play — makes not only Jack a dull boy, but the world a drab place.

Play is a means of communication with our fellow-men, it is said, and with this in mind along with present day nostalgic overtones of days past, the question arises as to what games played a part in the life of a community such as ours of Belleville? What pastimes were popular?

Research reveals chess was played by telegraph in the 1870s between Belleville and Napanee teams, as well as with other centres.

Cricket, however, was the favored sport in the time of Confederation, and teams formed in the 1830s. The Belleville team formed in the 1840s carried the boast "Belleville against Toronto — Cobourg — Kingston — the whole world!" and its members were referred to by a Kingston editor as "winged cats—ugly to look at but very devils to go."

Although baseball (really called baste ball in 1860) displaced cricket's popularity, a July 5, 1882 account of a Belleville cricket game between married and single men states the game was interrupted due to rain. Nor was it continued the following day either, "as very few bachelors appeared on the scene of action. No doubt they were otherwise engaged."

However, "the Belleville" was considered an excellent club in 1878, and the game flourished, with a new club established in 1903.

The national game, was as you may know, lacrosse which found popular acclaim in the late 19th century. Enthusiasm for the sport may be surmised, by an announcement, in 1882, of the Oka Lacrosse Club of Belleville, that the members were to report for a 6 a.m. practice, three mornings a week, with a request that "of course this early practice is not intended to interfere with the usual evening practice."

Mudoc's first lacrosse match August 22, 1882, was played between the clerks and mechanics of the Sinus Lacrosse Club, which the clerks won.

In another game, an operator (Mr. Christie by name) on the Grand Trunk "was knocked insensible," when Dr. Dolan soon revived.

Box lacrosse, by 1892 was being played in the Belleville arena. While the game is introduced at some county secondary schools into the sports programs, lacrosse has never regained its first popularity.

And for these interesting facts, we are indebted to "Historic Hastings" by Gerald E. Boyce, which he wrote on behalf of the Hastings County Historical Society.

Shoplifting Is Stealing -- A Criminal Act

By DORIS CLARK

Shoplifting is not a prank; it is a crime. So much so that a number of TVP business firms in Sudbury got together with the police department and ran a full page advertisement in the Sudbury Daily Star, dealing with it.

It is as criminal to steal from a large organization as from an individual. Sometimes teen-agers operate in groups, and the one will not do his share of the light-finger work is called chicken. The others tell him the store won't miss it.

Don't bet on it, says the ad. Stores are taking measures to catch shoplifters in the act and turning them over directly to the police. Being a juvenile will not save him—or her. Punishment for even a first offence can be a stiff fine and possibly a jail term.

A police record can haunt a person for life. He may be turned down for job, which require bonding or special licence; may be kept out of the college of his choice.

There are things that parents can do about it — so be watching for any comments on what the Sudbury ad suggests.

Dear Doris: I felt that your answer to Depressed in Twenty was cruel, in that it seemed to say "shape up"; Very Happy at Twenty-five applied an unrealistic "ship out". I think the correct respons is somewhere in between.

I have the impression that Depressed is committed to her family, but is unhappy and doesn't know why. She needs help to find out what she really wants from life. The use of us who find housewifery a constant struggle tend to become terribly discouraged, but it is possible to do right by your family and yourself. I know, I'm — Twenty-Seven and Still Trying.

P.S. There are books that will help in understanding children; others on nutrition and physical exercises. It seems that much unhappiness is caused by poor physical condition. If I don't get lots of B vitamins and work off my tensions in exercises I just can't cope. Also, having some time to oneself is essential — T. S.

Dear Twenty-seven: Thank you. You are right that Depressed is committed to her family, but the word she used was "condemned".

She will appreciate your concern and your encouragement in do something (which both you and I agree on) and that is to study child psychology. You may added, in effect that the person who keeps herself in the pink of condition seldom has the blues.

There are probably further complications we don't know about — but letters like yours will help Depressed to make it. If she would like to write in for them, I could give her the names of the specific books you recommend.

Ann Landers

Thinks Her 'Past' the Culprit

Dear Ann: Here's a puzzler for you. We have been married a year and a half. I am 10 years older than my husband—a few years past the 45 mark, but far from "over the hill."

I love my husband very much. But the old zing has gone out of our lovemaking. Could it be the guilt I feel because of my "past?" I had a fancy-free, sexually-active five years between my first marriage and my second. My present husband knows this. He is aware of one man in particular. We are all friends but I sense an uneasiness in my husband when this other fellow is around. There is nothing between us anymore except friendship, yet. . . .

My husband was always the quiet type. He made it clear that what I did before we married was of no concern to him. He knew I would be a faithful wife to him and I have been. I can't explain the absence of the spark that once existed between us and is no more. I keep thinking it's my "past." Or can it be that I am losing my womanhood due to the natural aging process?—Puzzlement

Dear Puz: Forty-five is too early to be losing your womanhood, especially if you were a swinger in your younger days. But it may well be that the carnal passions are now reduced to a low glow rather than the raging blazes of yesteryear—which is normal. No marriage can endure 180 degrees fahrenheit forever. You'd both be burned out. Relax and enjoy it—in a lower key.

Dear Ann Landers: Have times changed so much that it is no longer important for nieces and nephews to tack "uncle" or "Aunt" in front of names? Please let me know about this because I am an antediluvian creep 48 years of age and I can't possibly know what is considered proper these days.

Thanks.—Strictly From Squaresville

Dear Square: I have a lovely assortment of nieces and nephews and some of them call me aunt and others don't. It doesn't matter to me either way. It's what they say after the salutation that counts.

Dear Ann Landers: Like thousands of other women I was married in a beautiful and expensive while wedding gown. Granted, it didn't have to be that expensive-but I dreamed of being an exquisite bride and I saved my money so I could go nog-wild on the gown—which is what I did.

But why should such a beautiful gown be worn only once? It's nothing more than a tradition. Traditions do change, so why not change this one?

Please let me know what you think of a bride getting her money's worth out of her wedding gown instead of letting it rot in the attic.—Honey Sunk

Dear Sunk: Sorry—no yes vote from here. Bridal gowns are for weddings—in the same way that a bikini is for the beach and a housedress is for the house.

A bride who wears her wedding gown as a party dress in order to "get" her money's worth will look like a bride who is trying to get her money's worth—and who wants that?

Confidential to Historical Reference Please: Many presidents had symptoms of emotional problems. George Washington had a nervous stomach, Thomas Jefferson had severe migraine headaches, Abraham Lincoln had serious bouts with depression and Woodrow Wilson had "blue spells." People who have had treatment for emotional illness are often in better shape than people who have had no treatment—but could use some.

Today it's a matter of initiative. Local initiative.

Last year, quite a few people stopped talking about unemployment and started doing something about it. Through the Local Initiatives Program, they created over 92,000 jobs. And improved the quality of life for thousands of their neighbours.

LIP, in short, was a real success.

This year, starting right now, it's back.

And we're looking for ideas. Ideas from private individuals, organizations, clubs and municipalities. Ideas for projects that will benefit as many people as possible while creating useful work for those who would otherwise be unemployed.

There's lots of scope for imagination. The guidelines are simple. Your Canada Manpower Centre has complete details.

Applications are being accepted any time between now and December 31st. But remember, LIP grants can cover project costs only until May 31st, 1973. So start planning your project now.

You may be surprised how far a little initiative will go.

Every week last summer, over 100 underprivileged Toronto children went to camp because a LIP grant allowed expansion of Camp Kurtiou on Moffat Lake — and created 39 jobs.

A 122-man LIP task force cleared the Great White Goose wildlife refuge, a Mopimapny, Quebec tourist attraction, of debris and pollution, vastly improving conditions for thousands of visiting white geese, duck and bustard.

Before the LIP grant enabled 11 of their men to dig an aqueduct, the closest drinking-water for 18 families in Hogwall, Nova Scotia was 7 miles away. Now it's piped right to their homes.

3 Salvation Army "Thrift Stores" went up in Surrey, Richmond and Coquitlam, B.C. with the help of a LIP grant. 14 temporary jobs were created — plus 9 full-time ones.

It's a matter of initiative. These Canadians proved it.

A lawyer

may have delivered your newspaper today

Newspaper route management: There's a future in it.

Or a doctor. Or an accountant.
Or a future Prime Minister of Canada

Of course, we're talking about the future—but a carrier is laying the groundwork for his future NOW.
Because he is a carrier, he has the stuff that makes for success.
He's managing a business of his own. That's what a newspaper route is all about. He is learning the lessons of responsibility and promptness and courtesy. And how to make a profit.
That profit, chances are, he is banking away. To use when he will need it. For something important, like college and a professional career, perhaps. To become the lawyer who once delivered your newspaper, and learned a great deal while doing it.
So congratulate a future lawyer. Or future doctor. Or statesman.
Congratulate him the next time he comes around to deliver or collect for your newspaper.

Holmes Tips Scales For Bobcats

BRAMALEA (Special)—Ken Holmes was taking a few tips from his defencemen and the result was a 4-3 win for the Belleville Bobcats in their opening game of the Toronto Metro Junior B league regular season.

The Belleville left winger tipped two shots into the net as part of his hat trick scoring effort that gave the Bobcats a comeback win over the hometown Roers.

The Belleville left winger deflected Wally Dainard's hard shot from the point and Bramalea goalie Glen Butler at 3.02 of the final period for the winning goal after the Bobcats had trailed 3-1 in the early going.

The fine netminding of Bob Moore allowed Belleville's 4-3 margin to stand up as the rookie goalie kicked out 13 shots in the final period and 29 in the game in fashion that 1-0 season record.

Holmes, one of four Picton products in the starting lineup, scored his team's first goal at 19.21 of the opening frame by deflecting Darryl Cole's point drive. Cole, who played last season with the Smiths Falls Bears, was playing his first game in a Belleville uniform. The six - foot, 185 - pound rearguard proved to be a welcome addition to the Belleville defence.

The Bobcats sagged in the opening period as two goals by Steve Beasley gave coach Don "Turk" Barclay's Blues an early 2-0 lead. The period was a chippy affair with 11 minor penalties being dished out.

The Bobcats settled down somewhat after that drawing five penalties in the second but none in the last frame.

Dean Hartwell scored from the blue line after only six seconds of play in the middle period, but Belleville cut the margin when Holmes cashed in Dainard's rebound.

A huge crowd of 1307 was on hand for the game, including Toronto Maple Leafs' star Ron Ellis.

Rick Meagher counted the tying goal at 17.33 of the second on a passing play from Tim Yohn.

The Bobcats' first home game will be Sunday night at 8 p.m. when they face the Markham Waxers at the Memorial Arena. Markham is a farm team of the Junior A Toronto Marlboros.

Every Picture Tells A Story

At least this picture tells the story of Friday's OHA Senior A hockey contest at the Belleville Memorial Arena as Doug Senior and Ralph Plane do a victory dance in front of Owen Sound goalie Ron Patterson. The pair were celebrating a score by linemate Bob Taylor (out of the picture). The Quintes had plenty of chances to celebrate last night as they recorded a 13-3 win that jumped them into a five-way tie for first in the league standings.

Crush Owen Sound 13-3

Quintes Can't Get Help

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

The Belleville Quintes regret that due to technical difficulties beyond their control they were unable to bring you an OHA Senior A hockey game Friday night.

It was certainly no fault of the Quintes. They gave a display of skating, passing, defence and scoring that would do justice to any Senior A entry.

The difficulties in staging a respectable senior match must be laid at the skates of the Owen Sound Downtowners, who discovered that this Friday 13th more than lived up to its ominous reputation.

To begin with, the Owen Sound bus broke down, delaying the start of the scheduled 8 p.m. game by over 30 minutes. Then an early Owen Sound checking effort broke down as the Quintes overcame a 3-2 deficit to emerge from the first period leading 5-3. After that came the Downtowners' bad news as the Quintes pumped in eight unanswered goals in the last 40 minutes to fashion a 13-3 rout. The victory gives Belleville a 2-1 season record earning them a five-way tie for first in the league standings.

"You're looking for quotes? Well, what can I say . . . the scoreboard pretty well tells it all," said playing coach Lionel Botly who took over from shift - working Wayne.

One thing he might have said is that this year's Belleville addition appears to be better able to withstand the heavy hitting than their 71-72 counterparts. The big Downtowners' defence handed out some stiff checks in the opening period but couldn't slow down the Belleville skating attack.

Another point which might have come to mind is that the Quintes' may have found themselves a more - than - adequate replacement for departed goalie Steve Rexe. Ron Jury, whose play has been spotty in the exhibition season, didn't play exceptionally well in the opening period. ("I just didn't feel right at the start," he admitted afterwards.) In the second frame however he appeared to gain confidence, and was unbeaten for the rest of the night.

Jury faced 31 shots during the course of the game while Ron Pitkerson and Gary Waugh were tested 39 times in the Owen Sound net. The Belleville goalie was responsible for the play that "just may have ensured the runaway win, diving in front of a rebound attempt for a seemingly impossible save on Doug Lawyer's scoring chance.

The puck rebounded again, this time to Belleville's Al Fergusson who put linemate George Gedon in the clear with a lead pass. The speedy pivot made no mistake on the scoring chance that upped the count to 8-3. While Belleville was holding a four - goal lead before that point Owen Sound appeared to be making a comeback threat with the help of some loose defensive play by the Quintes. Jury's save, and the resulting goal seemed to completely deflate the Downtowners.

At the other end of the rink, Wayne McConnell put the icing on Belleville's scoring cake by potting a third period hat trick. The right winger

Jackson to Miss Entire Series

CINCINNATI (AP) — Reggie Jackson did home and his childhood dream disappeared in a cloud of dust.

"You dream about the World Series as a child," Jackson said wistfully Friday, leaning hard on crutches to protect the leg he smashed helping Oakland Athletics win baseball's classic against the National League champion Cincinnati Reds.

"It's a strange feeling," murmured the graduate of Arizona State. "This is the World Series, I'm here, but I'm not in it."

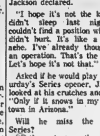
The 26-year-old outfielder, slugging star of the American League champion Athletics, had a home Thursday with the first run as Oakland beat Detroit Tigers 2-1 to win the pennant.

He recalled the feeling as he lay sprawled under Tigers' catcher Bill Freehan.

"I knew I was hurt bad," Jackson said. "I knew I'd be out for awhile."

At first they told Jackson he had pulled a hamstring muscle.

"If this is a hamstring, it's as serious as a heart attack," Jackson declared.



"I hope it's not the knee. I didn't sleep last night. I couldn't find a position where it didn't hurt. It's like a toothache. I've already thought of an operation. That's the worst. Let's hope it's not that."

Asked if he would play in Saturday's Series opener, Jackson looked at his crutches and said: "Only if it snows in my hometown in Arizona."

Will he miss the entire Series?

"I don't say the whole Series," he replied hopefully. "Maybe I'll be able to play Thursday at home, and we win in five games."

Late Friday, Jackson got the final, crushing word. He would, indeed, miss the entire series. Team doctors told Athletics owner Charles O. Finley that Jackson would be in no shape to play because of the pulled hamstring.

REGGIE JACKSON

Jackson's place in centre field will be filled by George Hendrick, who scored the winning run in Thursday's game.

"I can't put into words what is going through my mind," said Jackson, speaking in a slow, measured voice.

"You feel sorry for yourself, but what can you do? I can't be in the World Series. I can't help the team."

Jackson didn't regret the stride that marred his lifetime dream.

"I feel like I helped," he said. "I'm glad I scored even though I got hurt. This is an opportunity for extra money for a lot of guys.

"I would've traded all that money to have been able to have played. I don't need the money."

Did Jackson want to be introduced with the other players before today's opener?

"Right now, I couldn't get to the foul line," he said, standing only 15 feet from third base. "I don't want to embarrass myself or for anyone by my hobbling out to the foul line. If I can't get out there decently, I'm not going to go because I don't want anybody to feel sorry for me."

Sport Briefs

NEW YORK (AP) — A man was shot and killed Friday during an argument in a bar over Thursday's American League championship baseball game, police said. Police said John Forte, 40, pulled a pistol during a heated discussion with John Batten, 38. Batten grabbed the gun from Forte, police said, but Forte produced a second gun and fired once at Batten, missing him. Batten then fired at Forte, hitting him in the head.

COMO, Italy (Reuter) — Brian Huggett of Britain shot a three-under-par 65 Friday to take the lead in the Italian open golf championship after two rounds, with a 132 total. Gary Slater of Burlington Ont., was well down the list at 140, after consecutive rounds of 70. Al Balding of Toronto fired a 70 Friday for a 142 total, and he and Slater made the cut. Mike Fraser of Burlington, Ont., was out there decently. I'm not going to go because I don't want anybody to feel sorry for me."

Killer Instinct Helps Lee In Match Play Tourney

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — "All good golfers have a killer instinct and I'm one of them," said Lee Trevino, basking in the afterglow of a supreme achievement in the Piccadilly World Matchplay golf championship.

The 31-year-old golfer from El Paso, Tex., was preparing to meet fellow American Tom Weiskopf today in the 36-hole final over a once-proud but now humbled course in the English countryside near London.

Trevino, who reached a climax of the three-day knockout tournament with a one-hole victory over Britain's Tony Jacklin in an epic match Friday that will go into the annals of golf, was an odds-on favorite to take the Piccadilly title for the first time.

Weiskopf, the rangy long hitter from Columbus, Ohio, reached the final with a 4 and 3 victory over Britain's Peter Oosterhuis, the youngster who eliminated defending champion Gary Player of South Africa in the opening round.

Organizers of the tournament stood by for a rush of fans to the 6,997-yard par-74 Wentworth course on the final day, one of the year's biggest attractions whether or not a hometown player is involved.

No British golfer ever has won the nine-year-old event. Player has done it four times, Arnold Palmer twice, Nicklaus and New Zealand's Bob Charles once each.

Trevino was an amazing 22 shots under par after winning the two 36-hole matches that brought him to the final.

Trevino and Jacklin each had 14 birdies and two eagles in their stunning semi-final, which Trevino won with a birdie four on the home hole.

Gaels Overcome Ottawa Gee Gees

OTTAWA (CP) — Queen's University Golden Gaels edged University of Ottawa Gee Gees 18-17 Friday night in an Ontario Universities Athletic Association football game.

Douglas Cozac picked up 11 points for Queen's, kicking a convert, a single point, and three field goals. David Haddon led Queen's only touchdown, while David Campbell added a single point.

Paul Kilger and Don Smith had a touchdown each for Ottawa, while Nick Lauzden added two converts and a single point.

Athletics Could Make Sparky Cut Down

CINCINNATI (AP) — Oakland Athletics got a chance today to prove that Sparky Anderson's theory was wrong when they opened the World Series against Cincinnati Reds.

The Cincinnati manager has long insisted that teams faced tougher competition to win the National League pennant than Oakland did in winning the American flag.

"I'm not saying that Oakland can't beat us," said Anderson. "But I'm saying that you can't compare our league to theirs.

Our league is tougher from top to bottom."

Naturally, Oakland manager Dick Williams doesn't agree with the assessment.

"I don't agree," said Williams. "I've seen some pretty bad National League teams on television this season."

Both managers formerly held similar posts with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League, Williams taking the Toronto club to two successive championships in their last two years in the league.

Celtics' Coach Confident

Boston Celtics have always been contenders in the National Basketball Association. Coach Tommy Heinsohn says this year is no different.

"Last year I felt we were a contender" said Heinsohn Friday night, "but this year I feel we're a stronger contender."

The Celtics beat Los Angeles Lakers 112-104 in Boston Friday night, doing it the typical Celtic way with John Havlicek scoring 29 points and with team defence.

Part of that defence was holding the Lakers' high-scoring guard Jerry West to just four points for three quarters at hough he managed to break loose in the final period to score 17 points.

Dave Cowens tallied 28 for Boston as well as grabbing 21 rebounds.

In other games, Baltimore Bullets whipped Atlanta Hawks 109-96, Detroit Pistons topped Chicago Bulls 100-91, Buffalo Braves trimmed Philadelphia 76ers 104-101, Houston Rockets edged Cleveland Cavaliers 109-107, Milwaukee Bucks thumped Phoenix Suns 117-105 and Seattle Supersonics downed Portland Trail Blazers 92-84.

If it meant anything. Williams had a former National League pitcher starting in the first game at sold-out Riverfront Stadium but manager Ken Holtzman didn't look for any advantage over the Reds. A team that he pitched a no-hitter against last year while a member of Chicago Cubs.

"I might know the Reds' hitters—but they know me, too," said Holtzman. "I also know that they hit left-handers pretty well."

Holtzman, 19-11, who drew

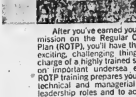
SPARKY ANDERSON

the starting assignment against Cincinnati's Gary Nolan, 15-5, has formed his own opinions about the athletics of the two leagues.

"I think they play more aggressive baseball in the National League and I also think that, generally, teams are slightly deeper there" said Holtzman, who pitched two no-hitters in the National League. "But I don't think it's going to make a difference in a short series.

"I think that of all the teams in the American League, we've got the best chance to beat the Reds. Our teams are very much similar. We play a lot like Cincinnati with our speed and power."

Bert Campaneris, the Athletics' shortstop, suspended from the last three American League playoff games after throwing his bat at Detroit Tiger pitcher Lerrin LaGrow, was reinstated for the series by baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn.



However, another element of the Oakland offence was missing from the lineup—the bat of centre fielder Reggie Jackson. The bearded slugger injured his left leg in Thursday's playoff game in Detroit and will miss the entire World Series.

Oakland owner Charles O. Finley also said he had received permission from Kuhn to fill Jackson's spot on the roster with Allan Lewis, who played most of the season with Oakland's Birmingham Farm club in the Southern League.

Stamps, Argos--'Do-Or-Die'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three Canadian Football League games are scheduled this weekend in the West - two of them count for something and the third will just be exercise.

The crucial one is Toronto at Calgary, with last year's Grey Cup winners and runners-up fighting to keep their 1972 playoff hopes alive in an interlocking game Sunday night.

The other game which means something has a fired-up Saskatchewan squad charging into Winnipeg Sunday for a shot at the current co-holders of first place in the Western Conference.

And then there's tonight's game in Vancouver, Edmonton against British Columbia. A win for the Lions means Vancouver fans may hold off criticizing coach Eagle Keys quite so much while a win for the first-place Eskimos will be just what Ray Jauch undoubtedly expects.

Stampeder coach Jim Duncan looks forward to a make-or-break weekend.

"We're not out of it and they're still fighting," he said of the Toronto-Calgary match. "We're both in there, but we're hanging on by our toenails."

Those Calgary toenails and playoff hopes could be clipped this weekend by either another Stampeder loss or a Saskatchewan win. The third-place Roughriders are 7-5 while the Stamps are 4-8.

The Argonauts' position (2-9) is also precarious. Toronto has a slim chance of wrestling the third playoff spot in the East away from Montreal. Both clubs have three games remaining, with two Montreal wins and two Toronto losers giving the Als the final playoff berth.

Who's Number 1

BUCHAREST, Romania (Reuter) — The United States still soothing over bad line calls and the attitude of their opponents and local fans, meets Romania in the doubles today of the Davis Cup final, aware the result could decide who is the world's top tennis country.

The countries are level at 1-1 after the opening singles Friday which left the American team bitter and caustic about the Romanians' approach to International tennis.

"This is the most disgraceful day in history of the Davis Cup," said American team manager Dennis Ralston after the matches.

He claimed both the Romanian players, Ilie Nastase and Ion Tiriac, were a disgrace to the game and should be barred from international tennis unless they radically improved their court manners.

Both singles matches were marred by inept calls by Romanian line judges which had Argentine referee Ricki Morea intervening on many occasions to reverse decisions.

In the first singles, Stan Smith gave his finest display to date on clay to crush Nastase in three straight sets, 11-9, 6-2, 6-3.

It was an anti-climax for fans hoping to see a repeat of the memorable Wimbledon final earlier this year in which Smith beat Nastase, who later went on to win the U.S. title at Forest Hills, N.Y.

In the second singles, Tiriac came from behind to beat Tom Gorman, 4-6, 2-6 6-4, 6-3, 6-2.

Marlies Alone In First

Toronto Marlboros have first place all to themselves in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, at least for a day.

The Marlboros gained sole possession of top spot in the 18 team league Friday night with a 7-2 win over Kitchener Rangers at Maple Leaf Gardens.

The victory moved Toronto two points ahead of the second-place Peterborough Petes, who did not play Friday night but get a chance to move back into a tie for first tonight when they play host to Oshawa Generals. In other games Friday night, London Knights outlasted St. Catharines Black Hawks 9-5 and Ottawa 67s trounced Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds 9-2.

Mark Howe, son of former National Hockey League great Gordie Howe, paced the Marlboros with two goals and two assists. Bruce Boudreau added two goals for Toronto, with Paulin Bordeleau, Wayne Dillon and Glenn Goldup scoring one each.

Tony White and Mike McGregor scored for Kitchener.

The win was the sixth for Toronto in eight games. The Knights remain in seven starts. Kitchener is winless in six games.

In the third period on its home ice in downing St. Catharines.

Lou Nanne scored three goals and assisted on three others for the Knights. Andy Spence added two goals for John Held, Tom Price and Roger Lemelin completing the scoring.

Gord Titcomb and Dave Gorman scored two goals each for the Black Hawks while Greg Craig connected once.

Dennis Verworgerat had five assists for London, and Rick Addiuono four for St. Catharines.

Denis Potvin scored three goals and assisted on two others for Ottawa as Ottawa. David Lee also scored three goals with Bryan Braker and Blaine Dunlop connecting once each. Paul Woods and Gary Farelli scored for Sault Ste. Marie.

It was the eighth loss in a row for the winless Greyhounds.

Tonight, Kitchener is at Sudbury in addition to the Oshawa-Peterborough game.

Sunday, Hamilton is at Ottawa, Kitchener at Sault Ste. Marie, Peterborough at Oshawa, London at Toronto and Sudbury at St. Catharines.

Nordiques Respond To Opening WHA Hoopla

It was just like opening night of a Broadway musical and Quebec Les Nordiques, alert to the occasion, responded to the accolades of more than 10,000 in the Quebec Coliseum.

Les Nordiques, making their first start at home in the fledgling World Hockey Association, stunned favored Alberta Oilers 6-0 Friday night in one of four scheduled games.

Elsewhere, Friday the 13th proved an unfavorable omen in Philadelphia where the Blazers were to open their home season against New England Whalers only to discover the ice-making machine—which arrived after the 7:30 p.m. starting time—was unsafe for the floor structure of Convention Hall and the game had to be cancelled.

In other games, Duke Asmundson scored in the final two minutes of play to give Winnipeg Jets a 4-3 victory over Minnesota Fighting Saints at St. Paul, Minn., and there were more than 10,000 at the Sports Arena in Los Angeles to see the Sharks lose 3-2 to Houston Aeros.

A Bavarian band, which normally performs in a local beer garden, and military band entertained the fans in Quebec and French-Canadian songstress Ginette Reno led the crowd in a spirited post-game songfest to celebrate the Les Nordiques' win.

Renald Leclerc scored twice to pace Quebec including one with his team playing a man short. Francoise Lacombe, Yves Bourgeois, Robert Guindon and captain J. C. Tremblay completed the rout.

Les Nordiques, coached by former National Hockey League star Maurice (Rocket) Richard, directed 38 shots at Alberta goaltender Jack Norris while Serge Bernier, in the Quebec goal, stopped 28 for the shutout.

Blazer president Jim Cooper walked into a shocking grey when he learned only 600 fans were on hand for the 7:30 minutes after game time announce the New England-Philadelphia game was being cancelled.

The 5,000 fans, who braved heavy traffic to attend the game in the 9,000-seat arena, settled him with all types of deboris in voicing their displeasure.

"Maybe this is what we get for trying to open on Friday the 13th," he remarked ruefully after reaching safety beneath the stands.

The Jets, still playing without player-coach Bobby Hull and defenceman Bob Woytowich—both out while their playing status is still being considered by U.S. courts—trailed 2-1 in the first period and 3-2 in the second before Ab McDonald and Asmundson tallied in the final 20 minutes.

Chris Bordeleau, who scored four goals the previous night, and Danny Johnson were the earlier Winnipeg scorers. Wayne Connelly, Fred Speck and Mike McMahon replied for the Saints in front of 7,891 fans.

The ice in the Sports Arena, like the previous night, wasn't much improved over the Philadelphia sheet but it didn't stop the Aeros and Sharks from putting on a spirited battle for 10,800.

The Sharks led early on a goal by Steve Sutherland, only to have the Aeros extend their unbeaten streak to two games—the same as Winnipeg—when Murray Hall and Larry Lund scored 79 seconds apart in the second period and Dave McCallum made it 3-1 early in the third.

Bill Young closed out the scoring late in the game.

Bruins Miss Stars

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, winless in their first two outings of the season, have so far been missing two important ingredients in their recipe of success: the play of Bobby Orr and Phil Esposito.

Orr, who underwent knee surgery last June, has been sidelined and limited to just skating in practice. Esposito, NHL scoring champ for three of the last four seasons, has yet to pick up either a goal or an assist.

Orr, who paid another visit to the team doctor Friday, has indicated he would like to play Sunday when the Bruins meet Pittsburgh Penguins at Boston. However, no decision has been made, a club official reported.

Coach Tom Johnson put the Bruins through a workout Friday in preparation for a game against the New York Islanders Saturday night and Pittsburgh contest.

Kings Await Decision

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The World Hockey Association said Friday night that three former members of Los Angeles Kings of the rival National Hockey League will not play in the new league until a Philadelphia judge makes a ruling in the Bobby Hull case.

Jim Johnson of Minnesota Fighting Saints, Bob Woytowich of Winnipeg Jets and Doug Barrie of Alberta Oilers were restrained by a California court from playing in that state unless they were members of the NHL Kings.

A WHA spokesman said a decision was made for them not to play at all until the Hull case is settled Oct. 31 in federal court in Philadelphia.

Hot Line Electioneering Beginning To Cool Out

OTTAWA (CP) — Hot-line campaigning for the Oct. 30 federal election appears to be cooling, but the radio phone-in programs have struck some bright sparks into an otherwise-tepid campaign—so far, at least.

Robert Stanfield, for example, lionized himself on an open-line show in Newfoundland. Pierre Trudeau went job-hunting for a hot-line caller in Vancouver.

David Lewis called the prime minister on an open-line in Winnipeg. Real Caouette ticked off a startled program host in Montreal.

All in all, however, some campaign organizers are beginning to wonder whether the open-line shows are quite the credible, person-to-person vote-getter that others believe.

One factor that might be reducing the effectiveness of the phone-in shows is revelation that a few apparently impromptu situations were pre-arranged.

Another involves indications that some programs are dominated by well-rehearsed callers. Supporters of the subject being questioned throw up straight lines and patsy queries.

For the first month or so of the campaign, open-lining was a major campaigning technique. That time, Conservative Leader Stanfield and New Democrat Lewis each each participated in more than 15 open-line shows, Prime Minister Trudeau and Social Credit Leader Caouette on somewhat fewer.

While party organizers in Ottawa say the emphasis on open-line shows will be reduced as the Oct. 30 election day approaches—there will be more stress on public appearances—the hot-lines provoked some lively moments.

There was the moment in St. John's when hot-liner Ron Humphery suddenly asked Mr. Stanfield this: If he were to be an animal, which beast would he want to be.

"I'd like to be a lion," Mr. Stanfield shot back just as surprisingly. "How represent what's noble in the jungle."

"What are you supposed to say when someone asks a question like that," the Conservative leader mused afterwards.

It was in Newfoundland, too, that Mr. Trudeau was outraged by a retired army colon wel by a retired army colonel who lives in the province, without a army base, would defend itself against a Russian invasion.

"I must tell you," replied Mr. Trudeau, "that if the Soviets start a war, I doubt they will land in Newfoundland."

Winnipeg moderator Peter Warren threw the prime minister for a curve when he told Mr. Lewis on the line to question his gun-grooving: a brief, but so far the only, leader-to-leader debate of the campaign.

Mr. Lewis accused Mr. Trudeau of misleading the public by refusing to suggest that there were plenty of jobs around for the unemployed.

Irrepressible Real Caouette opened a two-hour session on CBC radio's Cross Canada Checkups show by sarcastically scolding the CBC.

It's a funny thing, said Mr. Caouette, that in Ottawa the CBC always interviewed him last when getting statements from party leaders. Now, however, he was first 4 four on the weekly phone-in show, permitting his rivals to perform closer to election day.

Among other hazards of hotlining are occasions when episodes in a normally spontaneous show are rehearsed and exposed later as setups.

That happened in Vancouver to Mr. Trudeau when an unemployed fellow claimed he was about to take a vacation in Hawaii financed by unemployment insurance benefits.

The prime minister promptly promised to find him a job. Federal officials were as good as Mr. Trudeau's word—until it was revealed that the call had been a put-up job and the deal fell through.

Conservative tour director John Thompson—the first to organize extensive use of open-line shows during the 1971 Ontario election—complained later that such set-up situations harm the credibility of such programs.

Mr. Thompson says that, as their best, the advantage of open-line shows for campaigners is that the leaders can reach large audiences and the normal spontaneity makes them believable.

Campaign organizers in all party camps agree that use of radio and television have many advantages over the mass public rally.

Party workers can be out doing constructive canvassing rather than spending days arranging for a rally.

In any case, workers say, it's getting harder and harder to attract votes in great numbers to campaign rallies. Many ties are padded with party faithful. Even so, attendance is down from earlier years.

Organizers see other, more subtle, advantages.

Nancy Douill, NDP tour co-ordinator, suggested that the harvest from participation in an open-line show is bigger than just the immediate listening audience. What the leaders say on the shows is reported and given wider exposure on other radio stations, TV and in the news papers.

News Roundup in Brief

VD Climbs

BRAMPTON (CP) — Peel Health Unit reported Thursday that the incidence of venereal disease in Peel County this year is already three times higher than last year. The total cases and carriers of gonorrhea and syphilis in the first nine months this year was 384. Board members described the situation as "alarming" and Dr. Appleford said: "We started our VD clinic just in time."

Students Out

OTTAWA (CP) — High school students in the Ottawa Valley towns of Smiths Falls and Perth left their classes Friday to protest a decision by 256 teachers to work to rule. About 650 of the 1,100 students at Smiths Falls District Collegiate Institute left school about 10 a.m. The teachers' work-to-rule decision has curtailed all sports activities at the schools and a football game between Perth and Smiths Falls scheduled for Friday was cancelled.

Tax Proposal

WINNIPEG (CP) — Robert Thompson told a news conference Thursday a Conservative government would raise the basic income tax exemption for a single taxpayer to $2,000 from $1,500. Mr. Thompson, former national leader of the Social Credit party and a Conservative candidate in the British Columbia riding of Surrey-White Rock, said the change would reflect cost-of-living increases.

Little Contact

CAP CHAT, Que. (CP) — Politicians no longer have enough time to spend in their constituencies and, as a result, Canadians know little about their government's policies, Jean Marchand, economic expansion minister, told an election rally Friday. He said he was looking for a way to allow members of Parliament to spend three days a week in their constituencies to regain contact with their electors.

SST Banned

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The United States Senate voted Friday to ban the British-French Concorde and Soviet TU-144 supersonic jetliners from landing at United States airports because of their noise. It overwhelmingly approved an amendment to the environmental Noise Control Act prohibiting all supersonic aircraft from landing at U.S. airports until their noise levels are brought within current international standards for subsonic jet planes.

Royal Twins

NIJMEGEN, Netherlands (AP) — Princess Irene, the second daughter of Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard, gave birth Friday to twins, a boy and a girl. Irene 33, married Prince Charles Hugh de Bourbon Parma, the Carlist contender to the Spanish throne, April 29, 1964. The marriage did not win Dutch government approval and Irene forfeited her rights of success to the Dutch throne. The couple had a son last year.

Defence Bill

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Congress gave final approval Friday to the largest United States spending bill, since the Second World War. The Senate approved by voice vote defence spending of nearly $74.5 billion in the fiscal year ending next June, a cut of about $5.2 billion from President Nixon's request.

Book on Revolt

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Russell Oswald, the New York state corrections commissioner who ordered the assault on Attica prison last year, says in a book published Friday that the insurrection was the work of "revolutionaries." Oswald's book, Attica—My Story, differs with the state's special McKay commission which concluded the uprising was spawned spontaneously by prison conditions and carried out by a "new breed of politically-aware urban-oriented convicts.

Drastic Law

BEIRUT (AP) — Any person convicted of theft in Libya will have his right hand cut off, the Middle East news agency reports, and those convicted of robbery will lose the right hand and left foot, in accordance with Islamic law.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

SUNDAY, OCT. 15

Aries (March 21-April 19): Once you've completed a minimum of participation in commonality formalities, get away from it all, fine something pleasant to do.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Putting extra energy into any work complicates matters. Live this Sunday as a holiday instead of just time off from work.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Budget both your strength and your money; it's a long day replete with lively suggestions, eager friends, temptations to overdo.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Ordinary methods don't bring marked results; if you have a task to work out, use all the influence you can bring to bear.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): From an uneven start the day unwinds into a fairly successful Sunday. If you must travel, do so with care and caution.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Get a common opinion on what to be done. Don't be surprised if nobody wants to do anything that takes much exertion.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Now is not the time to talk about what you are going to do later. Pursue quieter, less strenuous forms of sports, fun and games.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Bright and early do what is expected of you for your community. Then out of it all for a leisurely day. Mind your own concerns.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Striving for more social and sports contact brings tensions to the surface. As leisurely as you can make it is fast enough.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Select your companions, then get along with their group projects instead of trying to enforce your own detailed schemes.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): This isn't your day to force any issues or try bringing agreements to finality. Get some rest, find time for meditation.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Have patience with diverging views and moods of nearly everybody. Avoiding crowded places is another suggestion.

CROOKED FOOT: A PLOUGH USED IN SCOTLAND, CONSISTED OF A CURVED HANDLE WITH AN IRON TIP AND THE FARMER TURNED THE SOIL BY PRESSING ON A PROJECTING PEG WITH HIS FOOT AND WALKING BACKWARDS!

Ultrasonic Rays Have Limitations

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Ultrasonic rays have proved quite effective in painlessly dissolving calcium deposits in ferial after treating bursitis. Have any experiments been conducted in the use of ultrasonic rays to reduce or dissolve cataracts? If so, what have been the results?—D.M.D.

Experimentation in this field has been done and is continuing, but to my knowledge the results are not too encouraging.

The intense heat generated at the focal point of the sound waves can be quite destructive to certain types of tissue.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If one is counting calories, would there be any advantage in taking some kind of instant protein? A friend says it gives her an abundance of energy and everybody counting calories should take it. Are there any calories in it? — G.F.

If it's protein, you can be sure protein, that's one thing. If she represents any calories in the day's total. If your friend takes ing diet, that means she's adding instead of some other form of ing some weight.

HERE'S A NEW IDEA

We are going to start a number of new houses for spring possession. If you are thinking about a new house, let us introduce it in our inventory. You can select a lot and a model either one's or your's. We will then build it to your specifications. You can then sell your existing house at your leisure. If you are unable to sell, you aren't out anything as we can sell the new house to someone else. This will solve the old problem of "How can I build a new house when I haven't sold my old one".

CONDOMINIUMS THE ANSWER

For the active man who wants to confine his activities to the surfing rink, the golf course or anywhere else that doesn't involve cutting grass, shovelling snow, painting, etc. This is all done for you.

We have units available for immediate possession. These are located on Prince of Wales Drive. Oh yes! Down payments run from $711. to $886 down.

EAST OR WEST WE HAVE THE BEST

selection of houses in the Quinte area. All in fully serviced subdivisions. All close to schools. We have 2 and 4 bedroom models. Let us show you our selection.

Hayakawa Quits

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, who rose to prominence by taking a hard line against campus rioters four years ago, said Friday he is resigning as president of California State University at San Francisco. The Vancouver-born Hayakawa told a news conference he has asked to be named president emeritus of the institution and wants "to continue serving the university in whatever capacity I can."

Orient Flight Plan Endorsed

OTTAWA (CP) — China and Canada concluded a civil air agreement Friday and direct flights between the two countries are expected to begin early next year.

The announcement was made by External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp following four days of negotiations here between Canadian officials and a delegation headed by Ma Jengkui, deputy director-general of the Chinese civil aviation authority.

The agreement must be referred to the Chinese and Canadian governments for approval.

The Canadian carrier has not yet been designated, but it is widely expected to be Canadian Pacific Airlines, which already flies to the Orient.

New Name

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — The board of governors of Cambrian College here announced Friday that the school has been renamed Sault College.

G. Ray Lawson, newly appointed president-designate of the college, said the new name was chosen from more than 30 submissions.

Mother-to-Be Plans Sit-In

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — A woman who wants to adopt a baby from Bangladesh but can't get approval from the Children's Aid Society said Friday she will stage a sit-in at Queen's Park unless her case is investigated by the province.

Joan Jamieson, who is seven months pregnant, said she will start her sit-in Tuesday unless Rene Brunelle, social and family services minister, replies to a letter she sent him Wednesday.

Mrs. Jamieson previously wrote to Mr. Brunelle asking that he instruct the Children's Aid Society to carry out a study of her home to determine whether the family is suitable for adoption of a Bangladesh baby.

The society told Mrs. Jamieson to wait until next spring before attempting to adopt a Bangladesh baby in order to get used to her own first child.

In her most recent letter to Mr. Brunelle, Mrs. Jamieson said the welfare act doesn't designate race as a valid grounds for refusal to do a home study.

Bishops Support Local Authority

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian Catholic bishops support decentralization, handing more authority for local problems to regional councils of bishops.

Bishop W. E. Power of Antigonish, N.S., president of the Canadian Catholic Conference, said Friday that a committee of bishops has been asked to prepare details of the new church organization.

Bishop Power told a news conference that there is some confusion about what the Canadian Catholic Conference really is and what it should be doing.

He said the bishops, meeting this week in Ottawa, confirmed that the organization is a conference of Catholic bishops who represent their local churches.

But, the bishops also decided that regional conferences of bishops should take over more responsibility for local matters, such as experimental work with different groups of people.

Oshawa GM Could Close

DETROIT (AP) — Auto workers went on strike at three General Motors plants in the United States Friday, including one which manufactures parts for Canadian GM models. Company officials said the firm faces four-week shutdowns as early next week, all over the issue of production standards.

The new contract strike is the one at Mansfield, Ohio, where 2,300 UAW members walked out of the Fisher Body plant.

A spokesman for General Motors of Canada in Oshawa said production at Canadian assembly plants at Oshawa and St. Therese, Que., will be brought to a halt if the strike continues.

Dyes Harmful

OTTAWA (CP) — Babies born to women who have had x-rays involving the use of dyes may have a thyroid disorder which can be treated at birth, could cause mental retardation, an Ottawa doctor said Friday. Dr. Ian Henderson, of medical doctor specializing in pediatrics, said pregnant women who have had x-rays involving the use of dyes anytime within the two previous years should make certain their doctors use them in special tests and not in routine examinations.

Israel Has Initiated 'Hit First' Air Strikes

Death Toll 176

MOSCOW (AP) — In the worst civil air disaster in history, 176 persons were killed when a Russian jetliner crashed Friday night while trying to land in bad weather at Moscow's international airport, a reliable Soviet source reported.

A day later, a British jetliner turned back from the same airport because the instrument landing system on the ground was not working, a British European Airways spokesman said in London.

Foreign embassies in Moscow said they were told 36 Chilean tourists, five Algerians, a Frenchman and a Briton were aboard the Russian plane.

The source who reported the crash gave this account:

Coming from Leningrad, the Tyushin-62 made three landing passes over Sheremetyevo airport. It was raining and the visibility was poor.

On the fourth try, the big jet plowed into the ground and exploded in a section of rolling hills and woods three miles from the runway.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported on Saturday that an airliner en route from Leningrad to Moscow had crashed near the airport but did not specify that it was a Soviet plane. It reported all aboard were killed but did not give the number.

This is in line with customary Soviet policy of minimizing news of such disasters.

Tass also said a commission had been appointed to investigate the crash.

Another such plane crashed two months ago shortly after taking off from East Berlin, and 156 persons were killed.

The worst previous air disaster in Soviet history was last year over Japan. A student pilot flying a jet fighter collided with a Japanese airliner, and all on board the airliner were killed. The student pilot survived.

Liberals on Parade

Prince Edward - Hastings Liberal candidate George Cunningham and Trenton - area party organizers, staged an old-fashioned parade Saturday afternoon. Mr. Cunningham rode in a classic car with entourage consisting of even older cars. There were even two horse-drawn wagons, pipers, clowns and all the trappings of an old fashioned political parade.

Stanfield Looks to Big Gains

OTTAWA (CP) — Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said Sunday pinpointed Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia as provinces where he expects his party to make substantial gains in the Oct. 30 general election.

In the case of Quebec, he said on CTV's public affairs program Question Period, he would define a substantial gain as 15 seats.

The Conservatives won only four of Quebec's 74 seats in the 1968 election.

He noted that his party's Ontario showing in 1968—it won only 17 of 88 seats available—was one of its worst showings.

The Conservatives won none of B.C.'s 23 seats in 1968.

Both on television and later on CBC radio's Cross-Country Checkup, he vigorously denied making any deals in return for the support of Ontario Premier William Davis.

He was vague, however, when asked whether Mr. Davis might have some federal ambitions.

"When the time comes when I might have to worry about someone succeeding me . . ." he replied, without finishing the sentence.

The suggestion was made last week by Prime Minister Trudeau.

"I am being supported actively not only by Mr. Davis and Premier Loughead of Alberta but also by two premiers of less-prosperous provinces in Canada, New Brunswick and Newfoundland," Mr. Stanfield said.

The Conservative leader said both former premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland and the late Angus L. Macdonald of Nova Scotia had loosed their Liberal strength in past federal campaigns.

"I really have to say very frankly that I think Mr. Trudeau is trying to work both sides against the middle and is trying to appeal to what used to be at least a prejudice against Ontario to work it against the Conservative party.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Arctic air will plunge across the northern part of Ontario late today and across southern Ontario tonight and early Tuesday. Three to five inches of snow will fall in northern regions. Tuesday strong gusty winds will bring cold air and snowflurries. Temperatures will fall steadily Tuesday and dip below freezing by evening.

Air Raids Start

From AP-REUTER

Israel made five strikes Sunday against guerrilla bases in Lebanon and Syria. A top Israeli official said they signalled a new policy of "no longer waiting for the guerrillas to hit first."

The raids were the first against the guerrillas since the Sept. 16-17 sweep into Lebanon by Israeli army units. There has been relative quiet on the borders since then, but Gen. Haim Herzog, the former intelligence chief, said in a broadcast commentary: "From now on the very presence of saboteurs" in Syria and Lebanon "is to be regarded as a provocation."

"This is the operative phase of our pledge to hit the terrorists wherever they are and they are in Lebanon and Syria," another high-ranking military source said.

An Israeli spokesman said the targets in Lebanon were at Sink, Dakik and Dier el Ashayer and a guerrilla naval base at Ras el Naba south of the Litani River delta. He said a guerrilla training camp was hit in Syria. The raiders came within 35 miles of Beirut and within 20 miles of Damascus.

The spokesman said all the planes returned safely.

Speaking to a group of visiting American editors women soon after the raids, Premier Golda Meir said the country's secret centres of training for terrorists who conducted operations across the border and against Israelis around the world.

She said letter bombs also were prepared in these bases.

Radio Damascus said the Syrian air force drove off the Israelis after them, attacked

New City To Get Name

GALT, Ont. (CP) — An estimated 170,000 voters will elect a name today for the new city formed by the merger of Galt, Hespeler, Preston and some adjoining farm land through regional government. Voters will be asked to choose between Blair and Cambridge in the name referendum and also select a mayor for the new city.

Union Asks Tax Reform

TORONTO (CP) — The executive board of the Canadian Union of Public Employees called Sunday for the next federal government to reform the tax system. "Nine years of work on tax reform was scuttled because the business lobby successfully protested the principle of taxing everybody's dollar equally," the release stated.

Wrong Ads Said Fraud

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A law professor said Saturday that misleading advertising was like fraud and corporation heads should be jailed for making illegal claims. Dr. R. I. Cohen of McGill University's law school, told a symposium on consumer rights that by their misleading advertising or claims that can't be substantiated, these corporation heads are making illegal gains and they should go to jail."

Belfast Gunmen Kill 3

BELFAST (AP) — Gunmen killed three Roman Catholics in Belfast during the weekend, and militant Protestants vowed they would prevent local elections from being held in Northern Ireland in December.

Two of the men were serving customers in a liquor store Saturday night when two hooded gunmen burst in and opened fire on them. Two other men were seriously wounded. Another man was found shot through the head in another part of Belfast.

To appease the Catholics, the British administration agreed to hold the elections on the basis of proportional representation for the province's million Protestants and half-million Catholics.

But militant Protestants opposed the proportional representation system and demanded that any elections be preceded by a referendum on whether the six northern counties should be united with the Catholic Irish republic in the south.

Socred Says FLQ Coup Was Known

QUEBEC (CP) — A former member of the Commons' permanent justice committee charged Sunday that the committee knew more than a year prior to the October, 1970 kidnap crises that the Front de Libération du Québec planned to abduct a foreign diplomat.

Rene Matte, Social Credit MP for Champlain, said in suburban Loretteville that the committee had read an FLQ communique and was told phone of Jacques and Paul Rose but waited until after British diplomat James Cross was kidnapped and Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte was murdered before imposing "an ironfist" on Quebec.

He also said a member of the RCMP had rented an apartment just below the one in which Mr. Cross was held from the time of his abduction in October, 1970, until his release in December the same year.

"There was a man lying down in the car which took Mr. Cross and his abductors to Dorval airport," he said, "and that man was the RCMP agent."

Lewis' Food Prices Manipulated

TEMMINS, Ont. (CP) — David Lewis turned his attention to giant food companies Sunday night, calling for a rigid Competition Act to police their activities and halt the food price spiral.

The New Democratic Party leader said corporations such as Kraft and General Foods have become so diversified they control food distribution at every stage from the field to the supermarket.

They not only drive up prices by such practices as extravagant packaging, but also fix prices by making agreements among themselves, he said.

"Because there are so few of these food giants, almost every element of competition and market influence has been eliminated."

To break the chain that escalates food prices between the farmer and the consumer, he said, the Competition Act with the teeth to be effective should be adopted.

Mr. Lewis, speaking to a rally of about 250 supporters, said food prices jumped 10.2 per cent in the 12-month period ending Sept. 30 because of "this chumminess" among companies.

With price boosts on this scale, he said, it becomes easy to understand why the profits of General Foods rose 22.2 per cent between 1968 and 1972, and Steinberg's profit level soared 47.8 per cent in the same period.

Mr. Lewis said a prime example of how corporations treat consumers occurred when "Lobbes and probably all the others" jacked the price of coffee to $1.05 a pound from 79 cents after a poor coffee crop was reported in Brazil.

Instead of waiting until the bad crop translated itself into higher costs, he said, the companies boosted the price long before it should have been raised.

Tudeau No Tax Cuts In the Cards

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — Although the government would like nothing better than to cut taxes during the current election campaign, massive cuts aren't in the cards if a Liberal government is re-elected, Prime Minister Trudeau said Saturday night.

The economy is booming, he said a crowd that filled an 800-seat school auditorium. About 400 packed an adjacent gymnasium where his question-and-answer session was piped in.

Unemployment, at 7.1 per cent of the labor force in September, is the one factor not reflecting the boom, Mr. Trudeau said. But tax cuts across the board to combat this would over-stimulate the economy and could push inflation out of control.

His government wanted to attack unemployment in areas where it is particularly high, those with slow industrial growth.

It preferred to put money into the regional economic expansion program. Cutting taxes for rich and poor alike was a step that would leave the government facing a massive deficit.

One Sudetener said there had been some talk of special programs for youth being used to pander to youth just before an election when the voting age drops to 18 from 21.

Mr. Trudeau rejected the accusation. Every government program was beneficial to somebody, he said. The Liberals tried to act as a good government for all Canadians, although it had recognized that some groups, such as women and youth apparently needed a better break than they have been getting.

$200 Pension Keynote of 1st NDP Government

VICTORIA (CP) — A New Democratic Party government, will display its legislative wares for the first time in British Columbia at the opening Tuesday of the third session of the provincial legislature.

Armed with a decisive mandate from the Aug. 30 provincial election, Premier Dave Barrett will announce several pieces of legislation in the throne speech to be read by Lt.-Gov. John Nicholson.

Included in this initial legislative program will be a $200 a-month guaranteed monthly income for elderly citizens; a repeal of the current ban on teachers' unions; a modified automobile insurance plan; changes in the Public Schools Act; an increased minimum wage, and labor changes in labor law.

There will be no budget speech during the fall sitting, which the NDP administration says could last two weeks or longer depending on how much time is taken up on the throne speech debate.

Because this is the first time the NDP has been in power in B.C. and in light of Mr. Barrett's announcement last week that several major companies are in line for a government takeover, a great deal of public attention is expected to be focused on the session.

For the last 20 years the province has been governed by the Social Credit party led by W. A. C. Bennett, who let it be known many times that he had little patience for the annual sitting of the legislature like holding it a waste of time during which the government could better be about the business the people elected it to do.

Starting in the 35-seat house is NDP 38, Social Credit 18, Liberals five and Conservatives two. Twenty-nine of the members have no legislative experience.

Mr. Bennett, the 71-year-old leader of the official opposition, says he will not play the role of an obstructionist during the sitting, but will offer alternative programs. "Compare programs, compare" will be his motto, he said.

The government's major piece of legislation will be that adding a $200 guaranteed monthly income for every person 65 or over. Rehabilitation Minister Norman Levi said the necessary bill will be introduced despite uncertainty about how much of the cost the federal government will share.

The pension scheme, which will affect about 110,000 elderly citizens, is expected to cost about $42 million and the NDP government maintains that under the Canada assistance plan, the federal government is obligated to enter into a 50-50 cost-sharing agreement on the pension increases.

Following a meeting last week with Mr. Levi, Federal Health Minister John Munro said discussions will continue on the legality of federal funds being provided for the plan under the Canada Pension Plan.

Employment Situation Is Good in Belleville

No serious job-loss incidents have surfaced in the economy of the Belleville area recently — a time that has seen unemployment reference increase.

Federal statistics actually show a drop in the number of persons seeking work from the same time last year.

Indications from the industrial sector show that if there has been dramatic expansion, there also has been an absence of sharp cutback situations affecting the workforce.

Canada Manpower statistics meanwhile indicate the number of jobless in Belleville area continues below the current national average.

Latest Statistics Canada figures show although the number of jobless is down by 44,000 across Canada in the past month, the seasonally-adjusted unemployment rate rose to 7.1 per cent of the labor force.

Belleville Manpower officials estimate the percentage at 4.8 in their area — which includes Hastings County municipalities and Ameliasburg township in Prince Edward county. This is consistent with a pattern of recent times — where Quinte area jobless statistics have repeatedly been below the Canadian average.

This is only an estimate, since Manpower's Ottawa headquarters reserves the authority to break down statistics into local blocks. However, the estimate comes from local officials who have dealt with the Belleville - area situation for years.

Return of summer-jobbing students to high schools and universities also eased local job pressures.

Nationally 459,000 were reported seeking work in mid-September, compared with 503,000 in August and 434,000 in September 1971.

Belleville Manpower statistics for the same period show this job registration (including men and women):

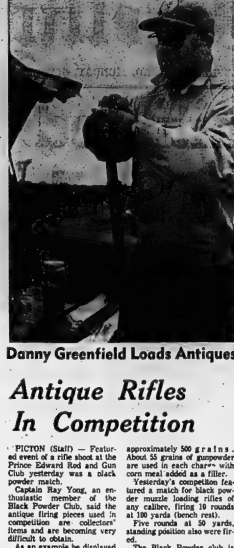
No Cash For Robber

A would-be robber failed in an early morning attempt to hold up the Sun Valley Motor Inn, fleeing on foot and empty-handed.

About 2:25 a.m. a man wearing a brown hood over the head and branding a small hand gun appeared at the front desk of the North Front Street motel and demanded money.

He was told by night desk-man, Douglas Chapman, that the day's receipts had gone to the bank and there was no cash on hand. On hearing this the masked man left the motel and Chapman called city police who conducted a search but failed to find the robbery suspect.



The man in question is reported by police to be about 5 ft. 7 in. in height, wearing a dark jacket and light-colored trousers at the time.

Antique Rifles In Competition

PICTON (Staff) — Featured event of a rifle shoot at the Prince Edward Rod and Gun Club yesterday was a black powder match.

Captain Ray Young, an enthusiastic member of the Black Powder Club, said the antique firing piece used in competition are collectors' items and are becoming very difficult to obtain.

As an example he displayed his Snider Enfield army rifle made in 1869.

Captain Young observed the Enfield is a popular model among jet set Daniel Boone's and is a readily adaptable to black powder shooting.

The antique firearms are loaded with bullets weigh'ng approximately 500 grains. About 55 grains of powder are used in each charge with corn meal added as a filler.

Yesterday's competition featured a match for black powder muzzle loading rifles of any calibre, firing 10 rounds at 100 yards (three rests).

Five rounds at 50 yards, standing position also were fired.

The Black Powder club is a affiliate of the Prince Edward Rod and Gun club and black powder shoots are held monthly.

President of the rod and gun club is, which has a membership of approximately 50 members, is Roy Wight of Glenora.

Warkworth Inmate Still at Large

WARKWORTH (Staff) Provincial police from Brighton and Campbellford reinforcing prison guards, are continuing the search for a prison inmate who escaped from Warkworth medium security institute Sunday . . .

A second prisoner is back in custody after his recapture less than three hours after the two-man breakout.

Prison officials originally believed three prisoners had climbed the 20 foot chain fence, topped by three strands of barbed wire, a 3:10 p.m. near the prisons east side recreation hall.

Still at large is Diemar Harold Holzer, 18, Hamilton. Serving five years for break-en ter and theft, ea is not considered dangerous, said prison officials and police.

He is described as five feet, eight inches in height, weighing 136 lbs., slim build with light brown hair, brown eyes and tattoos of a cross on the right wrist and five dots on the left humb.

The second prisoner, Kenneth Robertson, 19, Moose Creek, near Cornwall, was recaptured on the Telford Line Road of Brighton township by prison guards Donald McFagart and Brian Thompson.

MacPherson, serving two years for burglary, was apprehended by a police officer as he crossed the road between two fields, said a prison spokesman.

A total of 30 prison guards and eight provincial police officers combined in the search which sealed the area with roadblocks.

Police today are investigating a breakin at the transportation and communications department garage on Highway 30 north of Brighton in connection if the incident is link-

Plane Wrecked

GILMOUR (Staff) — A forced landing near narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday when his light aircraft crashed shortly after takeoff, fires a farmer's field near here.

Robert Eastman, 32, of 121 Minerva Avenue, Scarborough was departing for Toronto from a farm two miles southeast of here about 3:00 p.m. when the front wheels of his aircraft struck a field fence, forcing the plane down.

Eastman, who had been in the Gilmour district for the weekend visiting his brother Carl, sustained minor injuries in the crash and was taken to Bancroft Red Cross Hospital, where he was kept overnight for observation.

The $15,000 aircraft was completely demolished in the mishap, investigated by Madoc detachment OPP.

near Misalia, about 100 miles north of Damascus. Syrian cabins were reported.

The rockets and bombs could be clearly heard in Beirut and sunbathers along the Mediterranean coast for over an hour in streaked towards the target.

A Lebanese army spokesman said two civilians were killed. 15 were wounded and two others are missing. A second Israeli aircraft fire kept the planes from hitting targets almost 20 miles from the coast and in the southern Bekaa Valley.

The raids came at a time when the guerillas have pulled back from some parts of the Lebanese border area and frozen military activity in an attempt to avoid giving Israel any excuse for mounting new attacks on the country.

This was the result of an undertaking reached between the Palestinian resistance leaders and Lebanese authorities after last month's Israeli attack on Southern Lebanon.

Walkathon Raises $8,000

TRENTON (Staff) — The last tired walker shuffled into Trenton's Front Street fire hall at 5:15 p.m. Saturday, marking the close of a 10-hour Chamber of Commerce organized 20-mile walkathon that promises to find better than $8,000 to drop-in centre coffers.

The more than $8,000, promised in pledges to the 360 walkers Saturday, will go toward a senior citizens' centre to be built in Centennial Park.

The project has been long in planning and short on funds. At a recent council meeting, Councillor Ted Parker—whose own $455 in pledges for his 20 miles ranks highest of all — announced $30,000 above funds available, was needed for the centre.

By the time the walkathon started, on a cold, overcast and drizzly Saturday morning, approximately $21,000 was needed. The difference was made up by several Belleville and Trenton service organizations.

At first, Chamber of Commerce organizers were a bit disappointed at the turnout at the fire hall Saturday morning. Unofficial counts of 250, later altered to read 360, were still far below the hoped-for number of walkers.

But what the walkers lacked in numbers, they made up in enthusiasm. Most of them were school children, with a scattering of parents and older folks mixed in. Even the senior citizens themselves weren't left out.

Most of the 60 who did participate, enthusiastically manned several check points along the 20-mile roundabout route to Frankford and back, but several set out on the march with pledges in hand.

Oldest of the septuagenarian set was 74 - year - old Harry McKee, who lives on the Carrying Place Road. His pledge isn't known, but he finished a total of 14 miles. One senior citizen who finished the 20-miles ahead of many younger walkers was Earl Sickle, 71, of Trenton. His pledges at last count, topped the $300 mark, with promises of more still to come.

The first person to finish the trek was Duncan Rodgerson of Trenton, a trainer runner who came in two hours after he started, with his promise of between $80 and $90 for the venture.

Most of the walkers talked to at the fire hall, as they rested with hot dogs, coffee or soft drinks in hand, spoke of the enthusiasm and dedication of fellow walkers.

There were stories of younger children encouraged by the presence of a parent or older walker . . . or vice versa: the tired dad few miles of many who stalwartly refused the offered lifts of motorists and the ever-watchful eye of organizers from almost all Trenton area service clubs, the Trent Valley Five-Waiters Radio Association with cars and people in constant touch along the route, The St. John Ambulance fire department- and the checkers who stood in the early morning drizzle, marking the walker's cards, and adding their own words of encouragement.

Said walkathon organizer Bob Carleton, "It was really wonderful the way so many people turned out to help, even if they didn't walk."

There were public figures involved as well: Trenton Mayor Duncan McDonald, whose bad knee didn't prevent him from making 14 miles; Councillors Parker and George Greer, who finished the 20 miles; and CFB Trenton base commander Col. W. G. Paisley, who completed the march with Chamber of Commerce president John Gumme.

But the day really belonged to the youngsters from Trenton, Carrying Place, Frankford, Murray Township, Bayside and Middleton Park. "They were just great," organizer Carleton said, as he too, rested after the march.

There were even several youngsters such as 12-year-old Betty Vanduzen of RR 5, Trenton, who walked the 20 miles, without pledges, to help out a friend. For those, the organizers had a special word of thanks, as well as promises of pledges for all.

To show their thanks, the organizers will be sponsoring a party in mid-November. Each walker — the 230 who finished, as well as the 30 who didn't — will receive a certificate of completion and a fun and merriment.

Walkers have until Oct. 25 to collect their pledges, to be dropped off at the Front Street Chamber of Commerce office. Receipts will be issued upon request.

While this walkathon doesn't rank as the highest fund-raising venture of its kind, it is close to the top. The largest, held in the late 1960s, raised better than $21,000 for the Adult Retraining Centre. That gruelling march was held over a 32-mile stretch.

Two Hurt Here

Police direct traffic as one of two young men is taken to ambulance after motorbike collided with car at Bridge St. E. - MacDonald Ave. intersection Saturday. Cyclist James Stather, 18, 80 Rollins Drive had fractured leg, while passenger William Scott McDonald, 17, 61 Meadowvale Ave., was released from Belleville General Hospital after checkup for possible head injuries. Police say they charged 19-year-old girl driver of car with failing to yield right-of way.

Build Addition For Bank

TRENTON (Staff) — Workmen with Miron-Wiggers Construction Ltd. of Trenton, have begun foundations at the rear of the Dundas Street West Bank of Nova Scotia.

Building owners John and Paul Tripp expect the $25,000 addition to be completed "as soon as possible," which bank officials interpret to mean the early part of 1973.

A spokesman for the bank said working conditions have become cramped. The addition will provide an extra loan department and office facilities, the staff room and stationery storage room moving into the new section. Cost of the one-storey addition is being met by the Tripps, with interior work and redecorating the cost of the bank.

Mrs. G. Fraser Appointed To Loyalist Board

TWEED — Mrs. Myrtle Fraser has accepted appointment to the Loyalist College board of governors.

She replaces Donald Hodgins, who resigned from the board last summer, board chairman John Donaldson confirmed yesterday.

She is the wife of Gordon Fraser, well known in this area, who has handled the communications section of the natural resources ministry here for the past 25 years.

Actors Needed

Rehearsals begin this evening for Belleville's entrant to the Eastern Ontario Drama League competition.

Because the Pinnacle Playhouse is in use by-the resident company with their opening production, rehearsals will be held in schools about the city.

No location had been set for the rehearsal this evening at press time but further information is available by calling director Deirdre Warren. 967-6297.

The Serpent, written by Jean Claude van Italie, has been chosen as play material and is described by its director as a "celebration of life."

This contemporary piece is in contrast to other submissions by the Belleville guild, being basically improvisational, offering only a basic structure for the cast to work with.

Problems have begun to crop up with the play even before its first rehearsal.

Up to 20 actors are needed for the production and so far they have not been obtained. There is an extreme shortage of males.

At least six more are needed, said Mrs. Warren.

Several vacancies in production staff also need to be filled, including production manager, lighting crew, electrician and stage manager.

The one act play, termed "a ceremony" by its author, draws much of its theme from the Book of Genesis and allows actors the freedom to inject personal experience into their parts.

Mr. Italie is also the author of America Hurrah.

The play must be ready for Nov. 9 when formal competitions begin in Lakefield.

No less than 12 plays will be entered in this year's competition.

Hard Going

A Canadian Press round-up of election candidates' schedules in the closing stages of the campaign is indicative of the pace being set and of the hard going that is still ahead.

It is an awesome grind, and all the more so for the Prime Minister and other party leaders.

As Prince Edward-Hastings MP George Hees (a former Conservative trade minister) put it in a recent interview: "When you are in government, you wish you could get out. The pressures get terrific and you think, oh, if I could only get out of this. And when you're out, you want back in."

All of which strikes at the very core of human psychology. Idleness may become some of us, but we doubt if there is much enjoyment in it. A tight schedule on the other hand, filled with commitments, has its own built-in challenges and in the tackling of them, ultimate rewards.

If a man enjoys this kind of life and is in sound health, there is nothing more fulfilling, once again to George Hees, as he told it to Joanne Strong of The Globe and Mail. A former Toronto Argonauts football-er, Mr. Hees was a candidate in the Pc-leadership race won by Robert Stanfield and he is saying: "Look you can't win 'em all. I didn't attain my ambitions. I wanted to be PM. But when I lost the leadership race I just picked myself up, dusted myself off and said, okay, what's in the books for me now? Some people are always pining for the great, good old days. I say every day is a great day."

And we are reminded of some words of a one-time British cabinet minister, Lord Chandos, the former Oliver Lyttleton: "It may has got to be part of your being that nearly everything and everybody is fascinatingly interesting."

But if George Hees — the politician's politician and sportsman is up at 6 a.m. he is often in bed by 10 p.m. Enough is enough and adequate sleep is essential to one man's health. We see that Mr. Stanfield's schedule last Thursday included Peterborough, a stop here in Belleville and then on to Sault Ste. Marie. But a man — politician or whoever — may just as easily wear out on a much less rigorous schedule, say a combination of improper diet and lack of exercise. The Trudeaus' and Hees' and Stanfields' and Lewis' of our day are not in this category.

Small Farms

Whither the small family farm? This is one of the subjects brought up by candidates in the election.

Together with the smaller cheese factories in this area the family farm operation has been under strong economic pressures in recent years, to the point that many have folded.

We hope that the next government will intensify programs aimed at maintaining the integrity and economic viability of small farms. The lure of the city life is strong; many farmers have given up the rural life for better pay and material comforts in the city, and this is a loss to the rural environment as well as to the nation's food production.

Canada is wealthy, but there are still vast tracts of farmland lying undeveloped nor want of willing hands and economic aid.

It is an area the Government should not neglect in mapping future legislation.

Paint Ice

We see that the section of Front Street housing O'Connor's Jewel Box and the new Cooke's Gourmet Store has been given a paint job and the result is attractive and in good taste.

It is the type of thing long singe reflected in the concepts of the Norwich Plan in England and which have been followed in several communities in Canada.

Should other establishments on Front Street follow suit it can only be to the advantage of storeowners and customers alike, not to mention an aesthetic boost for the city.

A Good Haul

Twenty-five tons of paper for recycling is the encouraging public response to Belleville's first official endeavor in this sphere. It is a good start, especially when it is seen to be much higher on an average per capita basis as compared with say Toronto. Citizens are' to be congratulated for their cooperation in this initiative and we look forward to an even bigger pick-up next time.

Deficit Runs Into Millions

Unemployment Insurance Abuse Is Prime Election Issue

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—So far, this has been a "bum" campaign.

NDP leader' David Lewis grabbed the early headlines with his charges about corporate welfare "bums." In recent days, interest and attention has shifted to another kind of "bum"—those Canadians who have been getting a free ride on the Pogey Train at the expense of the working taxpayers.

It isn't exactly news that some people make a career out of drawing unemployment insurance benefits. This swindle practice has been going on since unemployment insurance came into operation. The plan dates back to 1940 when all provinces finally gave assent to an amendment to the British North America Act, allowing unemployment insurance to be handled as a federal matter. Parliament had passed the necessary act, but the Supreme Court ruled that it was a matter of provincial jurisdiction.

Since then, some have adopted the habit of working just long enough to qualify for benefits. Others, who felt there was something inherently dishonest about this, finally adopted the same tactics when they saw how their contributions to the fund were being passed out to bums and Canadians.

The politicians, fearful that any complaint would cost them votes, turned a blind eye to these practices. They excused their inertia on the assumption that the number of cheaters was not great in terms of the total and legitimate number receiving benefits. But all this has changed since the government introduced the new act in 1971. This came into effect at the beginning of this year and it offers greatly improved benefits to unemployed persons—so much improved that many decided they were better off drawing insurance than they were working. Among the changes is that only eight weeks of insured employment are required to qualify, compared to 20 weeks within two years under the old act. Claimants can now qualify for a maximum benefit of $100 a week for a maximum period of 51 weeks and all they need to do is mail in a claimant's report form at regular intervals to receive their cheques.

Even the simpler, easier and more beneficial system would not have attracted too much attention if it was not for the revelation that contributions had been falling far short of meeting the benefit payments. Under the new formula, the fund is designed to be self-supporting if the national unemployment rate is four per cent, or less. That is, contributions of employers and employees will cover the benefit payments plus the administrative costs. But with unemployment rates consistently in the five-to seven-per-cent range for many months, the funds need help and the government must meet the extra cost out of general revenue.

While no one is revealing the exact state of the fund, there is speculation that the deficit is running around $500 million and could require a Canadian total of between $700 million and $800 million for the fiscal year.

This drain on the working taxpayer cannot be tolerated indefinitely and the government has been threatening to crack down on the cheaters. In the last year, the Unemployment Insurance Commission has disqualified about 742,000 claimants but this large figure only intensifies the suspicion that many more must still be making that free ride on the Pogey Train.

Prime Minister Trudeau and Manpower Minister Mackasey declare that the flaw in the plan's scheme is the best in the world —certainly it must be the most generous. But voters will not be satisfied with bald assertions statements and vague promises to root out the wrong-doers.

Only a few months ago members of Parliament were besieged with complaints about the inefficient and slow handling of insurance claims. Mr. Mackasey promised a shake-up in the commission and its staff to correct this and some improvement has been made.

But it's obvious much more is needed, not only in better claim processing to reduce the number of free-riders, but to put the so-called insurance fund on a sound actuarial basis. This will involve amendments to the highly-touted new act perhaps by reducing benefits and tightening eligibility requirements or raising premiums, or both.

Failure to give some assurance on these points is providing the election campaign with its most legitimate and telling issue.

Spain Seeks Market Membership

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst

Denmark will undoubtedly have easy entry into the European Common Market now that a public referendum has agreed to such a move. Even Norway which for the moment has rejected the Market through a similar public vote, won't have trouble seeking entry.

But another important European country, Spain, eager to join the other major Western European nations in the Common Market, will have a much tougher getting in. And, paradoxically, it will be even tougher perhaps impossible, if the Scandinavian countries become members before her.

They have been totally opposed to the participation of Spain in any European alliance, military or economic so long as the Franco regime is in power. So have some present EEC members including the Dutch and from time to time, Luxembourg.

Spain, like Britain must join the common market to better changing but too-often creaky economy into certain competition—with more dynamic European ones. Another obstacle is that General Franco since the early 1960s has surrounded himself with modern economists in his key ministries of finance, planning, trade and foreign affairs.

These men who are "Europeans" in the broadest sense, see common market entry as Spain's golden opportunity to return to Europe, as it were, after her long isolation almost to the beginning of this century and the loss of the last of her world empire in the 1898 Spanish American War.

Members of the powerful Roman Catholic lay movement Opus Dei ("God's Work"), these cabinet ministers have shown much to modernize the Spanish economy by devaluating the peseta in 1959, reducing the role of the Spanish State in inefficient, costly government-run industries, persuading hundreds of European companies to build branch plants in Spain.

The result has been unprecedented and continuous boom, as European countries expanding also throughout the Common Market countries, also take advantage of the new industrial opportunities in Spain.

Italian car and motorbike manufacturers were among the first—including the world-girdling Fiat which now turns out tens of thousands of medium-priced Spanish cars called Seat from Spanish plants.

If Spain had a regime acceptable to other European countries. She probably would be in the Common Market by now. But there are too many elements in modern Spain, left over from the tough days of Spanish Fascism, which are totally unacceptable to European governments. The chief of these is the Madrid government's total clamp on labor in Spain.

In effect, the state-run syndicates, the last preserve of the once-powerful Falange Party are the trade unions. This ban on labor in Spain is the main reason for intense opposition by Scandinavian countries to any Spanish role in European organizations.

Other countries, with their long history of trade union development, and of labor parties in their parliaments, insist Spain must "liberalize" her labor movement before she should be accepted in a modern, liberalized common market.

There are other hang-ups where Spain is concerned, for example the continuing dispute with Britain over Gibraltar. This would unnecessarily foul up relations between two major European states if they were in the last two years. Spanish trade organizations and the government have been thumping hard in public for measures which would make Spain more acceptable.

But the sharpest paradox of all is that public referendums in Franco's authoritarian state, are impossible.

Health Costs Cut: Hospitals Hit

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau

Recently the health department announced permission for an addition to a large Toronto suburban hospital.

The addition had been in the planning stage for a few years and public funds had been raised towards it.

The announcement therefore caused a bit of an uproar.

This is an uproar we can expect to spread. Perhaps eventually even to your town.

For there are going to be more refusals of hospital additions.

Government policy, through the department of health and Minister Dr. Dick Potter is in the future will be tough on hospitals.

A few figures explain why.

Almost 50 per cent of health costs in Ontario go for public hospital care.

These total health costs are about $2 billion.

In Canada at large 9.7 per cent of the gross national income goes for health care.

This compares with 8.2 per cent in the U.S. and six per cent in Britain.

Canada's health spending has been rising at an annual rate of 11.9 per cent. In the U.S. this has been 10.4 per cent and in the U.K. 9.2 per cent.

So we are already the biggest health spenders in the world and growing faster than anybody.

Obviously there has to be a stop.

Dick Potter has chosen hospitals as his No. 1 target in the cut-back program not only because they represent the biggest share of health spending.

There is the further reason that they also are the biggest area of abuse in the health field.

There are many patients in the expensive general hospital beds, up to $50 a day, who should not be there. They should be in less expensive care.

The government itself is partly to blame for this.

Only in the last year or so has it done anything about providing alternatives in nursing homes and home care programs.

This despite the fact that as long ago as 1957 and 1958 then health minister, Mackinnon Phillips, was having the government turn down his proposals for just these programs.

With general hospital beds about the only beds we have had available naturally everybody has been using them.

But even further than this there has been actual abuse.

Doctors, not all but some, have left patients in hospital longer than necessary, and have had them admitted sooner than they had to be.

There also has been inefficient scheduling in hospitals and wasteful use of facilities.

In other words generally a failure to recognize the practicalities of the high-cost health situation.

To meet this Dr. Potter and his people have been appointed for more co-operation from both the medical profession and the public.

They will continue to appeal. But also any hospital wanting to add beds will need a strong, strong case.

Philip on Conservation

Winnipeg Tribune

Prince Philip retains his penchant for speaking his mind even though the views he expresses may not be fashionable in some quarters. Addressing students at a Scottish university recently he attacked fadditats. He said that conservation, like other issues that become popular, is open to exploitation.

He commented, "A few years ago conservation was really quite a sensible business. Now people have escalated it to the point where the more extreme proponents are lost in the clouds of their own verbal pollution."

During the last few days there have been reports of alleged ecologists demanding preservation of semi-desert areas in Manitoba. Surely they would be much better employed advocating measures to prevent more Manitoba land from becoming desert and measures to reclaim the arid wastes that already exist.

Some Reflections on Discipline in Schools

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

With regard to your editorial "Slack Discipline" on September 30, may I compliment you on your editorial staff for once again demonstrating a complete lack of awareness of what is going on in the world outside your offices.

A popularly-supported educational theory regarding discipline is that it has a positive form. In short, misbehavior is seen as the result of a child who has been unable to behave in a socially acceptable manner. Specifically, the student who disturbs a class attracts attention because of the inability to achieve satisfaction in his assigned or chosen tasks.

According to the theory, the solution is not immediate punishment but rather an adjustment of the situation causing the disturbance, thereby providing an 'out' for the student. this disciplinary form encourages a positive attitude while providing an opportunity for the student to achieve personal gratification in an acceptable fashion.

As to your totally inaccurate association between open classrooms and the absence of student direction by school staffs, consider the following facts:

1) Open learning schools are a physical adjustment which can be the movement of students of varying abilities but never the movement of staff (detrained adult) leadership.

2) Educational innovation of any sort is undertaken with the intent of better matching curriculum with student ability. This attitude, is the very antithesis of a negation of adult direction.

3) Most open concept schools with which I am familiar are the ultra-modern technical means of communication of directional and, hence, experience.

To the last of the two major points raised, if you will, articles by your correspondents, Lenny Williamson, graduating the manner in which this country's second-rate schools were applying the newest Department of Education directions regarding open concept. Considerable emphasis was placed upon ensuring that students met the requirements of both the Ministry and post secondary institutions; hardly a lack of guidance.

In conclusion, I must answer your suggestion that young people lack a genuine interest in others.

It appears that the editorial position of The Intelligencer regarding the young people of today is that they are as a group to be put down. Where were the editorials in praise of virtually every school (elementary and secondary) in the Belleville area were slogging around in the Huira River, try the next time the next left by generations of Belleville students.

Since it appears that the practice of honoring secondary school graduates who attain an average of 80 per cent or above at their Grade 13 studies is about to be discontinued, did you or your group deserve a pat on the back?

How many of the recreational activities in this area depend upon the energy and enthusiasm of the young people who officiate and assist in their organization?

R. G. C. FREELAND

EDITOR'S NOTE: We were simply giving the gist of observations by a veteran elected school official. Unfortunately we had mislaid the newspaper clipping containing the word and have named the gentleman and quoted him more fully. The suggestion was that perhaps discipline could be tightened somewhat during a period of it becoming too lax.

Where were we during the Moira River clean-up? At work . . . but we have frequently praised this and other student endeavors.

PCs Anti-Quebec Pepin Tells Crowd

WATERLOO, Que. (CP) — Jean-Luc Pepin, federal minister of industry, trade and commerce, said Saturday that Robert Stanfield, Progressive Conservative leader, cannot promote Canadian unity.

There are too many anti-French Canadian elements in the Conservative party, Mr. Pepin said at a rally in this Eastern Townships community 35 miles east of Montreal "too many anti-Quebec elements . . . which do not yet accept the French-speaking phenomenon."

"You only have to remember the departure from the party a few years ago of Leon Balcer and more recently Roch Lasalle, members of the last Parliament for Joliette, following a disagreement within the party about this."

Mr. Balcer quit the Conservatives in 1965, when he represented Trois-Rivieres and left federal politics the same year. Mr. Lasalle left the Conservatives to sit-in the Commons as an independent in 1971.

Mr. Pepin aimed his sharpest criticism at Claude Wagner, leader of the Conservative party's campaign in Quebec, whom he called "Claude the First, King of Quebec."

"Mr. Wagner is the stop-gap pan excellence of the Conservative party," Mr. Pepin said.

"But what a great joke and what a farce to see this former Liberal become head of the Conservative party in Quebec."

Mr. Pepin said neither the New Democratic Party nor Social Credit are national parties because they are not representative. Social Credit, he said, is representative in Quebec, but not in the rest of Canada.

"As far as Real Caouette is concerned, he is a good guy who, I believe, is a little tired and should be retired by the electorate."

Mr. Pepin was asked about Quebec independence and replied that it would be political, economic and cultural disaster for Canada.

He said he was not going to discuss the question at greater length because the Parti Quebecois is not involved with the federal election campaign and too many politicians have already discussed the matter.

Meet the Candidate

Caouette Speaks French to Acadians

BUCTOUCHE, N.B. (CP) — Social Credit Leader Real Caouette spoke entirely in French at a rally in Buctouche, N.B., Saturday night, when some members of his audience told him not to speak English.

Mr. Caouette offered to speak English before the audience of 250 in the eastern Kent County community since, he said, the French-speaking people on hand understood English, but the reverse was not true.

"No, in French. We are not English but Acadians," a group of young people shouted in French.

"I do not speak Acadian, but French-Canadian," Mr. Caouette replied, "but I will not deliver two speeches."

He reiterated, in French, Social Credit policy on income security and interest-free loans to provinces from the Bank of Canada.

He said the problem of bilingualism was exaggerated by some people and certain information media.

The problems of all provinces is the lack of money ". . . but while we squabble on linguistic terms, the big financiers fill their pockets," he said.

Mr. Caouette criticized Parti Quebecois leader Rene Levesque and Mayor Leonard Jones of Moncton. Buctouche is about 35 miles from Moncton.

He said that even if Quebec became independent, "Mr. Levesque would join the other premiers in their regular pilgrimage to New York to borrow from the Americans."

"Mr. Levesque, like the others, would crawl on all fours and would ask, in English, for his loans."

He said the only way to arrive at sovereignty is to make available to all the provinces interest-free loans from the Bank of Canada.

Mr. Caouette attacked Mayor Jones as narrow-minded and unjust in his treatment of Acadian claims. He said people like Mr. Jones and certain Quebecers are doing great harm to Canadian unity.

The Social Credit leader spoke at five rallies in eastern and northeastern New Brunswick Saturday and Sunday.

Today, he visits Dalhousie, N.B., before beginning a tour of the Gaspe Peninsula area of Quebec.

It was meet - the - candidate night at Club Cedars Saturday as the Thurlow Township Progressive Conservative Association held a euchre and dance. About 350 party supporters attended. Pictured (from the left) are Francis Cole, Hazel Tufts, Hastings PC candidate Jack Ellis and Bertha Atkins.

ANAF News

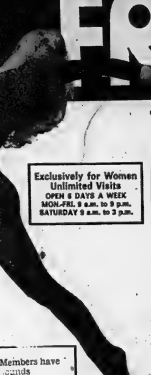
A fair sized crowd turned out for the general meeting and initiation last Thursday evening and enjoyed a very interesting evening. Eleven new members were initiated and three members were presented with their twenty-five-year pin by 1st vice-president W. J. Ford.

Before the meeting proper started president H. G. Ford called upon youth development chairman Stan Melbourne to introduce the two members of 608 squadron, Air Cadets, A. Rasmussen and K. Watson. These young men were among the chosen few to represent Canada youth on the youth exchange programme. Mr. Watson was sent to Austria and Mr. Watson was on the exchange with Japan and he, too, spoke in glowing terms of how well he was treated and how many friends he had made both in Japan and with the other members of the Canadian contingent. Miss Carol Ann Feeney was also chosen for the Japan trip and, at the end of the meeting, Cdr. Stan escorted her to the podium, a picture of youthful loveliness and dressed in a beautiful Japanese Kimono. After she was introduced to the members she gave an interesting description of her trip from the viewpoint of the fair sex. These exchange visits are a great thing to promote friendship and peace throughout the world and both the Canadian youths and those from far-off lands that visit Canada are worthy ambassadors to promote good will among all countries.

Another short talk was given by 1st vice "Dad" Ford on his recent trip to Germany. He also emphasized the very warm welcome and wonderful hospitality they received. In turn, Cdr. Bill informed the members that a return visit by the Mayor and some of his councilmen would be paid Belleville in November and the Club was prepared to do its share in entertaining them while they were here. Lahr and Belleville, it is believed, are the first to become twin cities outside of the commonwealth.

About 50 of those wonderful folks from the Tartan Unit from Montreal East were guests of the Duke of Edinburgh Unit over the weekend and there was never a dull moment from the time they arrived until the wee small hours of Sunday morning. No. 49 Ladies Auxiliary not only served a sumptuous repast but under Cdr. Jack Fitzgerald, put on some of their funniest skits in the evening that had the audience literally rolling in the aisles. A special thanks goes to Cora Walsh and his rollicking melodies on the organ that kept the dance floor crowded every time he played. It was a happy evening thoroughly enjoyed by all and Unit 281 is looking forward to a Montreal visit, probably next spring.

Next Saturday evening sees the start of the Mr. and Mrs. Darts. See you there.



Comrades in hospital are J. Carr, 458; J. R. Boyle, 726; M. Leeman, 819; H. Campbell, 600 and C. Sother, 753. Cdr. N. Sine will be confined to his home for a while with a bad leg injury.

CITY OF BELLEVILLE – LOCAL IMPROVEMENT NOTICE

TAKE NOTICE THAT:

1. The Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville intends to construct as a local improvement the following watermain, with private water service connections where required by individual owners, and intends to specially assess a part of the cost upon the land abutting the work and the balance against the Corporation at large as follows:

Street	From	To	Estimated Cost	Corporation's Share	Owner's Share	Estimated Annual Cost Per Foot Frontage	Estimated Annual Cost Per Foot Frontage
University Avenue	Existing Watermain	1,115 Easterly	$34,763.04	$8,323.42	$26,439.62	$11.85633	$1.42774

EXAMPLE: Lot with 50 ft. frontage would be assessed as follows:
50 ft. x $11.85633 — $592.82.
If paid over a period of 15 years at 8½% per annum, the cost would be:
50 ft. x $1.42774 — $71.39

2. The special assessment is to be paid in 15 equal annual instalments.
3. Application will be made by the Corporation to the Ontario Municipal Board for its approval of the undertaking of the said work, and any owner may, within 21 days after the first publication of the Notice, file with the Clerk of the municipality his objection to the said work being undertaken.
4. The said Board may approve the said work being undertaken, but before doing so may appoint a time and place when objections to the said work will be considered.

An In-house Training Program for Nurses

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal health department officials are modestly pleased with their last spring.

"We still have to evaluate the results with the consumers—the patients—in the North," said Dr. Scott Leslie, medical staff officer in charge of the program.

"I won't say it was 100-per-cent successful, but the nurses really grabbed it. There were, however, some of their needs the program didn't meet."

The medical services branch is hoping these additional needs can be met in the second course of courses, which began again this fall for 48 weeks for 27 northern nurses.

The program is designed to offer nurses who work in the Yukon and Northwest Territories additional skills to carry out function more effectively on their own.

The courses offer more information for the nurse in how to diagnose a case and offer certain treatments that previously had been the prerogative of doctors, Dr. Leslie said.

The nurses learn how to deliver babies, take x-rays, do some dental work and do health examinations, among other things.

"We don't call it a nurse-practitioner program," Dr. Leslie said. "We consider it an in-house training program."

"We see it as a temporary measure," added Kay Keith, staff development nursing officer.

"We have a need for nurse practitioners in the North," said Dr. M. L. Webb, director-general of the department. "Unfortunately, nursing programs in southern Canada aren't preparing this type of nurse."

He said some universities programs now appear to be moving toward the nurse-practitioner program but that the federal nursing service wanted to get going now.

And by sponsoring the courses, the branch believed it could have some say in determining what would be taught so the program would best meet the needs of northern residents, the three said during an interview.

It isn't in any way intended to be a stop-gap measure to help Ottawa's health care, they said.

"It isn't going to give northerners a second-rate care; they're actually going to have a better care than in the south," said Dr. Webb.

The ratio of doctors and nurses to the population in the North is higher than in southern Canada, Dr. Leslie said.

"Geography is the problem up there," he added. The distances combined with poor weather conditions when air travel is impossible means that families can't get to doctors as they might in the south.

The program, offered at the universities of Sherbrooke, McGill, Toronto, Western Ontario, Manitoba and Alberta, is federally funded.

Dr. Leslie said these universities wanted to get involved in northern health programs or already were working with medical services in doctors' programs.

WEDDING

BUDD — HAGERMAN

Rev. W. Sedgwick performed the secret wedding ceremony in Eldorado United Church when Lois Alberta Hagerman exchanged vows with Wayne Douglas Budd. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Hagerman of Madoc and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Budd of Eldorado. Mrs. Evelyn Bailey, Eldorado rendered traditional wedding music and accompanied soloist, Mrs. June Hagerman, Campbellford.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a cream d'ange gown with wide bands of Marietta lace on her high collar, at the wrists and around the waist. The bodice was accented by two bands of lace which continued down to the hem and from the shoulders to the length of the train. Her four - tier silk illusion veil was caught to a Juliette cap of Marietta lace. The bride carried a semi - cascade of pink roses and pink carnations with fern.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Sheila Johnson of Belleville, wearing a purple crepe gown with a multicolored sheer bodice accented by monk sleeves. Bows and streamers enhanced the back while matching wide small flowers adorned her hair. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and hot pink mums with fern.

Bridesmaids, Miss Sharon Budd of Don Mills, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Joan Lee and Mrs. Linda Sexsmith both of Madoc, chose floor length gowns dressed identical to the matron of honor.

Flower girl, Miss Tina Hagerman of Cookston, niece of the bride, wore a floor length miniature version of the other bridal attendants' gowns. She carried a basket of white and hot pink mums.

Mr. Robert Hagerman, of Crookston, brother of the bride was best man.

Mr. Charles Pheppes, Mr. Erwin Wagner and Mr. Gordon Steeves, all of Marlbrough, friends of the bridegroom, ushered guests.

For the reception which was held in the church parlours the bride's mother received the guests wearing a moss green floor length dress with long sleeves. A gold and bronze pom corsage highlighted her dress.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a floor length printed chiffon dress in tones of blue and turquoise. An attached cape and a corsage of yellow poms accented her dress.

For the wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains and northeastern United States, the bride donned a beige pantsuit and white crimp knit suit. Black accessories and a corsage of white cymbidium orchids completed her outfit.

Upon the return, Mr. and Mrs. Budd will reside at the bridegroom's farm at RR 1, Tweed.

MORRISON — McEWEN

TWEED — Miss Nancy Ann McEwen and Robert Gregory Morrison were recently joined in marriage at St. Joseph Chapel, Provincial House Amherstview, Ontario. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Llewellyn McEwen of Fairfield Boulevard, Amherstview. The bride groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morrison of Roblins Drive, Belleville. Reverend Msgr. A. J. Kelly performed the double - ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her sister, Ellyn McEwen, was Maid of honor. Clare Sudden, a friend of the bride, and bridesenior bridesmaid and Valerie Jean Morrison, sister of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid.

Michael Gorring, of Picton, was best man. Ushers were James Wenop of Moscow and Roy Wilcox of Belleville.

A reception and dinner was held at the Amherstview Hall, Amherstview following which the couple left for a wedding trip to Georgian Bay and points north. On their return they will reside in Belleville.

PM Sends Messages

In recognition of Business Women's Week Oct. 15 - 21 being set aside by Business and Professional Women's Clubs in towns and cities across Canada, the Belleville group has received the following message from Mrs. Elliott Trudeau:

"In recent years the subject of women's liberation has received much mixed reaction from both men and women in Canada. But whether the pronouncements of the movement are applauded or hooted down, it is indisputable that women's lives are undergoing serious and profound change. Many women candidly voice their opinions and ideas, others realize they are not alone as they step forth into new territory. Nevertheless, this period of transition, which not without its tensions and confusions, is a time to place outdated roles and values with new ones relevant to the world of the seventies, to particularly difficult for women. They must discover, with little guidance from previous generations and often in the face of sharp criticism, how to balance their roles as wives and mothers and individuals with their own contribution to make to the world.

"I am pleased to present on behalf of the Government of Canada Women's Clubs represents women who are in the vanguard of this transition. May your leadership encourage the emergence of others who, in the public service, business, professions, the arts and sciences. May our Canadian society attain a new level of awareness, and greater use of the contributions of women."

Marmora OES Chapter Installs New Officers

MARMORA — The annual meeting of Marmora Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star was held recently in St. Andrew's Christian Education Hall.

The opening was conducted by Mrs. Merle Rathwell WM. Several visitors were introduced — Mrs. Mary Barton DDGM of Deseronto, six past DDGM's of this district and five Worthy Matrons and one Worthy Patron.

Annual reports from the different committees were read and approved. Mrs. Hazel Hendrick presented the auditor's reported that $140 had been sent to the Estaral of Grand Chapter.

Retiring Worthy Matron Rathwell expressed her appreciation of the past year and thanked everyone for their support. William Barlow, Worthy Patron, added his appreciation and pleasure in serving with Mrs. Rathwell. They presented gifts from the Chapter by Miss Grace Barrow, PM and John Solmes, AP. Mrs. Mae Clarke PM presented a gift from the Star Points to the Worthy Matron.

Miss Marion Heath PDDGM was in charge of the installing board and the floral ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Hazel Mumby. Mrs. Verna Woodbeck was soloist.

The officers for 1972-73 were Matron; John Solmes - Worthy Patron; Mrs. Verna Woodbeck - Associate matron, Burton Woodbeck - Associate patron; Mrs. Teresa Bateman secretary; Mrs. Laura Barlow treasurer; Mrs. Mae Clarke PM - conductress; Mrs. Neva Vandervoort - associate conductress; Mrs. Merle Rathwell PM - chaplain; William Barlow PP - marshall; Mrs. Helen Bell PM organist; Mrs. M. a Simmons PM - Adah; Mrs. Mary Hickey PM - Ruth; Mrs. Phyllis Hickey - Esther; Barbara Frost PM - Martha; Mrs. Carol Solmes - Electa; Mrs. Elsie Neal - warder, and Hiram Mumby - sentinel.

Miss Grace Barrow accepted her office with charm and sincerity. Her motto will be "Friendship and Service with a Smile" and the emblem for the next year is a basket of five keys.

Mrs. Mary Barton DDGM congratulated the new officers and wished them joy.

A salad supper, convened by Mrs. Doris Smith, was served from long tables beautifully decorated for the occasion with maple leaves and pumpkins.

STUNG TO DEATH

BERLIN (AP) — An infant on a Baltic Sea island was stung 800 to 1,000 times by a swarm of bees and died within 14 hours later, the East German news agency ADN reported.

Church Groups

ST. ANDREW'S WMS

At the recent "Back-to-school" meeting of the WMS members were welcomed by the president, Mrs. Ivan Henderson, who opened the meeting with a prayer of gratitude for the bountiful yield provided for the spiritual and physical needs.

Miss Evelyn Matthews led a Thanksgiving service of worship with Mrs. W. Martin assisting as pianist.

"India — One sixth of the World's Peoples" was introduced as the 1972 - 1973 study theme. The program committee had arranged a large and varied display of treasure materials, art figures, wood carvings, brass utensils and handworked fabrics and carpets from India. Mrs. Vernon Weir described Indian culture and music as a way of sharing and as a bridge in understanding between East and West.

Mrs. R. Kingston and Mrs. Laurie Sutherland demonstrated the graceful draping of Indian saris to the enjoyment of all.

The struggle of journalism and the communication media in India was explained by Mrs. Lloyd Smith. A literacy rate of only 30 percent it is noteworthy that publication of Indian news has shown a marked increase. Refreshments included each a copy of "The Illustrated Weekly of India" to read by 27 people in urban centres so that in readership it reaches 800 people. Various Indian Paper shortages and subtle censorship curtail somewhat full freedom of the press in India.

Much is owed to the Christian Church in the way of development, relief work, education and medical services in India. But 85 per cent of the people are Hindus who are experiencing independence. Their new aggressiveness is causing the Indian Christian to feel like a second class citizen. It was concluded that the goal of this year's study of India is to achieve recognition that continued help for India is slowly bringing progress.

A business meeting followed and plans were made to welcome the congregation and friends at St. Andrew's and St. Columba Churches to the Outreach and Involvement Weekend" on October 14 and 15. Rev. Desmond Howard and Dr. Walter Welch are to be the guest ministers at the respective churches.

Social And Personal

The bridegroom was honored by his fellow workers at Canada Cement Lafarge Ltd. The best man, Robert Hagerman gave a party at which a presentation was given.

* * *

At the recent Stratton Minaker wedding, the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Fleming who were present from Belfast, Ireland were proposed a toast in honor of their 48th wedding anniversary. . .

MR. AND MRS. DAVID STRATTON

Stratton — Minaker

Rev. James Cullen officiated at the recent wedding ceremony in Wesley United Church, Mountain View, of Lora Jean Minaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Minaker, of Belleville, and John David Stratton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stratton of Kenora. Robert Barber, church organist provided traditional wedding music.

The bride given in marriage by her father, chose a floor length gown of imported satin peau with an A shaped skirt. Venise crochet lace accented by white satin ribbon was appliqued to the bodice and on the cuffs of the full cameleg sleeves. A deep flounce of accordion pleats bordered by the same lace, trimmed the hemline. The bridal headpiece was organza petals and bows caught in a four-tiered scalloped edge veil of nylon illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses, stephanotis and trailing ivy.

Mrs. Cathy Taylor, of Belleville as matron of honor, wore a full length green nylon gown over green taffeta, embossed with small white appliqued daisies and green velvet leaves. The gown was accented by white taffeta collar and cuffs. She carried a white pony bouquet dotted with yellow sweetheart roses and leather fern.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Dorothy Wilson, of Hamilton, Mrs Patti Smith, of Trenton, and Miss Miriam Alton, of Welland were dressed identically to the matron of honor, and carried the same type flowers.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother Derek Stratton of Guelph. The ushers were Larry Minaker of Hamilton, brother of the bride, Brian Stratton of Kenora, brother of the bridegroom, and a friend Chris De Rosier of Owen Sound.

The reception was held at the Belleville Yacht Club, where the guests were greeted by the parents of the bridal couple.

The bride's mother wore a floor length gown of pure silk floral print with green accessories and a corsage of a green cymbidium orchid. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a full length gown of silk shantung in iced nile green. The jewel neckline was accented by a band of beads and pearls. She wore a pink cymbidium orchid.

Dr. Murray Cameron, of Wingham, was master of ceremonies for the reception.

Leaving for a short honeymoon, the bride changed to a red wool pantsuit with black braid trim and black accessories. She wore a corsage of white sweetheart roses.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Stratton will reside in Toronto.

CLUB 4-H NOTES

TOPS 347

TOPS 347 resumed its normal attendance recently after the summer break. Several new members were welcomed, one of whom attained the honor of being September TOPS Girl. She was crowned with the runners-up and then received the traditional ribbon denoting her status, and also a red rose and gift certificate.

New contests for high losers were discussed and plans finalized for the members who will be attending the TOPS rally in Oshawa.

A social hour followed with coffee and light refreshments served by the gainers of the the month.

MR. AND MRS. DOUGLAS MACDONALD

MacDonald — Geen

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a cream suit and dress ensemble which was enhanced by navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to points west, the bride donned a three - piece navy suit accented by a white carnation corsage and complemented by black accessories.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald will reside at 51 Charlotte St., Apt. 1 Belleville.

Rev. C Kellogg performed the Double Ring ceremony in Holloway St. United Church when Lois Marguerite Geen exchanged vows with Douglas Earl MacDonald. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Geen of Belleville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James MacDonald also of Belleville. The organist, Mrs. John Hodgins provided traditional wedding music to the accompaniment of soloist Miss Shirley Fisher.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She selected a floor length bridal gown of peau de soie. A wedding band collar accented her sheer yoke bodice with diamond embroidery and alencon lace bordered the bodice. Long full point sleeves, a chapel train and an empire waist trimmed with alencon lace also highlighted her gown. Rows of the lace applique encircled the bottom of her full skirt. A silk illusion cathedral veil bordered with lace fell from her Alencon lace headpiece. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and orange roses with baby's breath and ivy.

Mrs. Carol Barry is the sister of honor, wore a floor length green floral full sheer skirt. Her long sleeved crepe top was enhanced by a high collar and empire waist. She carried a bouquet of yellow and bronze mums with bronze daisies while matching flowers adorned her hair.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Debbie Neron, Miss Cheryl Burke, and Miss Alice McQuaid were dressed in identical gowns to the matron of honor only in yellow, orange and bone respectively and carried similar flowers. Miss Shelly Geen, sister of the bride and Miss Linda Geen, cousin of the bride were flower girls. They were dressed similarly to the bridesmaids except in green and carried a small floral bouquet.

Jim Cannon was best man. Gary MacDonald, brother of the bridegroom, Jim Geen, brother of the bride and Richard Markuschewsky ushered the guests.

For the reception held at the Royal Canadian Legion, the bride's mother greeted guests wearing a pale blue floral and dress ensemble. A pink carnation corsage completed her ensemble.

Husband Wants to Come Back; But Love Gone

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: We had arrangements, my husband and I, about everything: money, another baby, sex, love, all those important things in marriage. That is, I tried to talk to him, but he would not talk out problems out or go to a counsellor.

So I went to his doctor with him, and the doctor said: "Why the H— do you want another baby?" And my husband just let him go on like that.

I have been away from him two years, with our one son, and now close friends are wanting me to give him another chance. Does say he wants more kids now.

But it isn't as if I hadn't given him one chance after another. I never got any help with anything. I don't love him any more, my debts a husband say all the right things but the wrong has been done?

Will it bother my boy not having a father? He never played with him. Wanting love. Not Arguments.

Dear Wanting: Pretty hard to bring love to life, once it has been thoroughly killed. This has to be your decision. It is possible Bob has grown up a little; perhaps your friends have helped him see the light.

I'd say he ought to do some high class counselling before he could hope to re-awaken any feeling in you. A bad d o e s not always mean bad, but one who knows how to do some fathering.

It can get pretty lonely, going it alone.

Dear Doris: I am a widow getting married to a widower. We plan to be married in church but may elope and tell-tales. Please tell me how we walk into church and any other guidance.

Dear Widow: Your alternatives are:

1. You and your groom walk in from side front, with the minister. The guests already are already seated in a front row. They rise and stand by your side during the ceremony. Then they remain seated, rising to follow you to the register later.

2. If there are additional guests, you may walk down the aisle preceded by your attendant; and meet the groom at the bottom of the chancel as in the usual manner.

You can still have a lovely ceremony with no fuss, no guests, and I would suggest background o r g a n music "But not the hatchet-faced wild-eyed bra-burning variety."

Women's self image and lack of confidence are among the first things to be tackled in the battle for status, she said.

She decried little girls being brainwashed into thinking that women are second-class citizens taught to have restricted levels of aspirations.

Discriminatory practices in the United States are widely spread they are regarded as normal, she said. Such is more discrimination in the job market on a sexual than on a racial basis.

She urged Zonta members to support a constructive push for equal rights wherever it was to be found.

Food Prices Upsetting Topic

TORONTO (CP) — Food prices and consumer tastes are twin issues that continue to upset almost anyone who thinks about them.

The prices are going up. Service in many supermarkets is minimal. Products are being thinned. Stores are closing.

The price rises are accounted for by many economists, not all of them resulting from supermarket policy but all helping to add up to increases predicted of from seven to 30 per cent.

Sam Gindin of the Oshawa Food Group that owns Food City and supplies the Independent Grocers Alliance, says: "Everything is against us this year—bad weather, poor crop yield and spiralling labor costs."

The rest of the factors causing woes seem to be the result of the so-called price wars. Some experts are predicting that these will bring lasting changes in supermarket operations.

Sales volumes went up for the stores that fought hardest in the price wars, but business reports indicate profit percentages are down for everyone. Dominion Stores President T. G. McCormack said at the annual meeting that the first quarter showed a 16 per-cent increase in sales from a year earlier, and a 23-per-cent decline in profit.

Profit for each dollar of sales dropped to 58 cents from 84.

Loblaw Groceterias Co. Ltd. of Toronto and A and P in Canada are reported to have lost money during the price war. Loblaws closed 69 stores.

While store management worried about profit percentages, consumers were about service.

Mr. McCormack told shareholders people must shop at the beginning of the week to avoid long lineups. The company does 75 per cent of its business from Thursday afternoon to Saturday.

Helen Gagen, c o n s u m e r consultant for Miracle Food Mart, said: "Service is a problem. You can't have carriage-trade service and low prices."

Consumer Ada Kent expressed her frustration in a letter to a Toronto newspaper. She complained she feels like Alice in Wonderland when she gets into a supermarket and can't get out.

Only one or two of a rash of letter writers said they would take their business elsewhere. Some, like Margaret Tremblay, said there were no alternatives to supermarkets in their areas.

Marion Brechin, president of the Consumers' Association of Canada, said:

"We cannot expect the prices of food to remain constant when the factors that go into it are rising astronomically.

"But we think the chain stores should stop trying to kid us, stop saying they're offering deep, deep discounts when the only deep, deep discount is in the service.

"They tell us to shop at other times. If only they'd work with the consumers and say, 'we're trying to pare prices, and you can't expect the service.'"

Joe Cartwright is a supermarket watcher as part of his work with Burns Brothers and Denton, investment dealers.

Mr. Cartwright said he does not believe people are leaving the big stores, despite complaints.

"There are a lot more people going to the larger stores. We have found out that for the majority of people the two most important factors in choosing a store are prices and convenience to them.

Urges Female Equality

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Dr. K. Harriet Christie, deputy secretary of the United Church of Canada, advised women Saturday to look on their rights in the context of all human rights, with the basic issue not women versus men, but discrimination wherever it is found.

"Just as important is black versus white, the haves versus the have-nots and rich nations versus poor nations," she told a meeting of Zonta International, an organization of executive, b u s i n e s s and professional women with more than 600 clubs in 45 countries.

She told the 200 delegates from 11 Canadian clubs and 25 from the United States and Bermuda of taking of the equality of men or women, women must be recognized as persons free of the boxes they have traditionally been put in.

International president Harriette Yeckel of Kansas City, Mo., told members the number of the organization's Amelia Earhart fellowships awards for women students in aerospace research should be increased to 12 from eight.

"Nobody pretends this is a project for merely the needy or the disadvantaged girl," she said. "This is Zonta's investment in brain power, in technology, in research skills and in life-oft which range from outer space to medical advancements in life-saving techniques."

The fellowships have been awarded to girls in 14 countries. One of this year's winners is Adele Buckley of Calgary, a second-year student at the University of Toronto. Mrs. Buckley has won for the second year in a row and was the first Canadian to receive the fellowship.

At the closing banquet Saturday night, Mrs. Yeckel told members one of their missions was overcoming obstacles to women's libertaies.

"We are the original women's lib organization," she said. "But not the hatchet-faced wild-eyed bra-burning variety."

Women's self image and lack of confidence are among the first things to be tackled in the battle for status, she said.

She decried little girls being brainwashed into thinking that women are second-class citizens taught to have restricted levels of aspirations.

Discriminatory practices in the United States are widely spread they are regarded as normal, she said. Such is more discrimination in the job market on a sexual than on a racial basis.

She urged Zonta members to support a constructive push for equal rights wherever it was to be found.

NEW GLASGOW, N.S. (CP) — Sara Amin of South Kanara, India, continued a worldwide trip with a visit to fisheries colleges and schools here recently and held discussions with fisheries a s s o c i a t i o n representatives. Mrs. Amin, headmistress of an Indian government fisheries school for the last 21 years, is studying curriculum at other schools in hopes of upgrading Indian training methods. Her trip is sponsored in part by the World Federation of University Women.

Ann Appreciates Criticism

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: You, of all people, could have done a lot better with that answer to those teen-agers from Tennessee who wanted to know if birth control pills are 100 per cent effective. I couldn't believe my eyes when I read your reply—"Yes, if you take the pill every day without fail at all times."

Those girls said they were 16 and 16 years of age, and this is certainly old enough to be told the facts. I'm sure you know the pill comes as close to being 100 per cent foolproof as any birth control device we know of. It is usually harmless, but because it can produce side effects in some people it should be prescribed by a physician.

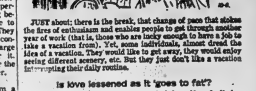
Moreover, you missed a good opportunity to r e c o m m e n d Planned Parenthood. They do a terrific job of sending information of this kind to anyone who asks. Remember that young high school girl, Henrietta Schyral, who testified before the Senate committee on population? She said most teen-age pregnancies are not due to irresponsibility, but ignorance. That girl spoke for thousands.

Usually your answers are excellent, and you generally bombed out this time. I'm disappointed.—Mary Calderone, M.D., executive director of SIECU, New York.

Dear Mary: Of course you are right. My answer was a bomb. I appreciate your calling me on it. And thank you for suggesting Planned Parenthood. This splendid organization has been performing a vital service long before it was considered safe to talk about such things. They will be glad to send birth control information free of charge to anyone who writes for it. Look in your phone book for the address of your local chapter.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a f a i t h f u l follower and have learned a lot from your column. I have consulted it for your advice and I believe everything you say. Recently you told a reader: "Any man can find a woman who will go to bed with him if he sets his standards low enough." Well, Ann, I have set my standards very low and I still can't find anybody. Will you please tell me where to look?—Desperate In New Haven

Dear Yales: I can't tell you where to look, but I'd like to tell you where to go. It's pretty early in the season for you guys to be goofing off. Get back to the books or I'll tell Kingman Brewster on you.



Dear Ann Landers: I have been telling myself I can handle it alone, but now I know I can't. Is there a way to stop people from asking, "What's the matter with you?" I've had arthoplastic surgery on both legs and I use a walker to get around. You can't imagine the number of people, most of them strangers, who stop and ask, "What happened to you?" Or, "what is your trouble?" Please don't tell me these people are genuinely interested. They are just nosey. I try to be pleasant and control my temper, but it's getting harder all the time. The last woman who stopped me got a dirty look. I couldn't even be civil. Can you give me a stock answer to let people know I don't want to be questioned. I need to go out into the world but I'm finding it harder and harder.—Third Degreed

Dear T.: There's no way to prevent people from asking questions. Of course it's gross to ask a handicapped persons, "What's wrong with you?" but they mean no harm. They are just inquisitive. Simply say, "I've had corrective surgery and, I'm getting along fine, thank you." If they press for details say, "I really don't want to bore you," then change the subject.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

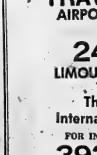
Does everybody enjoy a vacation?

JUST short; there is the break, that change of pace that shakes the lives of enthusiasm and enables people to find themselves once a year of work (that is, those who are lucky enough to have a job to take a vacation from). Yet, some individuals, almost dread the idea of a vacation. They would like to get away, they would enjoy seeing different scenery, etc. But they just don't like a vacation for—vague reasons.

Is love lessened as it 'goes to fat'?

NOT exactly. If a woman (or a man) finds herself gradually losing her constant battle against calories, she probably feels bad enough without telling her that she is not only getting fat but also falling out of love. Indeed, a wife, say, may unconsciously believe that her fight to keep her weight within bounds may be a secret hidden resentment against her husband. At least that reasoning helps her salve her conscience about pulling on weight.

Should a child know about divorce?



YES, even if he asks questions, and about a divorce concerning someone other than his mother and father. If a divorce is pending between his own parents, they should tell him about it as gently as possible. His questions should also be answered plainly and truthfully. He should be made to understand that he must in no way feel guilty about his parents' decision; and he should not be a pawn in the parental contest for his affection.

Bombers Step From Big Apple

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg Blue Bombers took a major step towarding capturing their first Western Football Conference seasonal championship in 10 years Sunday, but Calgary Stampeders will have to wait for another year.

Winnipeg took advantage of a crucial pass-interference penalty against Saskatchewan to score a last-minute touchdown and beat the Roughriders 28-25. Coupled with Edmonton Eskimos 22-16 loss to B.C. Lions Saturday night, the win moved Winnipeg into sole possession of first place.

In Calgary however, the Stampeders spoiled an impressive offensive display with costly errors and dropped a 33-27 decision to Toronto Argonauts in an interlocking contest. The loss before 18,201 fans eliminated the defending Grey Cup champions from playoff contention for the first time since 1966.

Saskatchewan defensive back Bobby Kosid was nailed for pass interference on the Roughriders 49-yard-line on a third-and-10 gamble by Winnipeg with 2:28 left.

The penalty enabled the Bombers to keep alive a 73-yard drive topped by Jim Thorpe's seven-yard touchdown reception with 33 seconds remaining.

Winnipeg running back Mack Herron shook off the effects of a sore left hip to run for 115 yards, giving him 1,257 for the season, a club record.

The Stampeders fumbled four times and lost all of them as the Argos kept their Eastern Conference playoff hopes alive.

Calgary led 19-0 early in the second quarter before quarterback Joe Theismann got the Argonauts rolling, hitting Bill Symons with a 27-yard touchdown pass and Tony Moro with a nine-yarder after a Calgary fumble to send Toronto out front 14-13 at half time.

Symons had two touchdowns and Mike Eben also scored a major for the Argos, who now Alouettes by two points.

Suderman Critical

EDMONTON (CP) — Dick Suderman, a defensive end with Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference, remained in critical condition early today after becoming ill in a restaurant Sunday.

Eskimos general manager Norm Kimball said Suderman, 31, was admitted to university hospital suffering from what appeared to be an internal head injury. It was not know if it was connected with his playing in a game against British Columbia Lions in Vancouver Saturday night.

Kimball quoted hospital officials as saying they believed there was internal bleeding in Suderman's head.

Another club spokesman said the player appeared to be in perfect health when the Eskimos flew back from Vancouver early Sunday. Suderman, however, became "violently ill" after he went in lunch with four team-mates and had to be taken to hospital by ambulance.

He was traded to the Eskimos by Calgary Stampeders last week. A graduate of the University of Western Ontario, the seven-year veteran of the CFL was first picked up by Calgary in 1964. He did not play in 1969 when traded to Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Conference and returned to Calgary in 1970.

Alouette Edge Dulled

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes' 31-25 loss to Hamilton Tiger Cats Saturday cut their third-place margin in the eastern football conference to one game with two to play.

Except for the final score, the game statistics showed in the Larks' favor. They had the best offence (489 yards), the best game ever for Ike Brown (213 yards on 26 carries), the best offensive line display, and sold 17 completions on 26 attempts by Sonny Wade, but they lost.

Both teams collected four touchdowns with Montreal building up a 13-0 lead early in the second quarter on majors by Terry Evanshen, on a 21-yard pass from Sonny Wade, and Brown on a three-yard run. An 11-yard toss from Chuck Ealey to Tommy Joe Coffey and Ealey's one-yard plunge put the Ticats ahead 14-13 at the half.

With about five minutes to play and Montreal leading 25-24, Hamilton had third and one at the Montreal 42-yard line and went for it.

Mike Widger abandoned his outside linebacking position to help out against the expected thrust up around the middle, and Ealey skipped around the outside where Widger had been and ran down the sidelines to the six-yard line, setting up the winning touchdown.

Dolphins Lose Griese

"The mark of a good football team," Miami coach Don Shula said, "is what it can do under adverse conditions—and you can't get more adverse than having a quarterback out there lying on the field."

It was Bob Griese who was lying out on the Orange Bowl's artificial turf Sunday, the victim of a Deacon Jones tackle that resulted in a fractured leg and dislocated ankle which will likely keep the Dolphin quarterback out of the rest of the National Football League season.

The crowd of 80,010 was silent as the stretcher was brought onto the field to carry off Griese. But it was cheering wildly a few minutes later when back-up quarterback Earl Morrall threw two touchdown passes to carry the Dolphins to a 24-10 victory over San Diego Chargers.

"Let's keep it together—let's keep it moving," Morrall said when he joined the downcast Dolphins in the huddle after Griese had been taken to the sidelines.

And he kept Miami together, completing eight of his 10 passes, two of them for touchdowns of 18 yards to Howard Twilley and 19 yards to Paul Warfield. Before he'd come in, Dick Anderson had put the Dolphins on top 10-3, racing 35 yards with a recovered fumble for a score.

The 17-year NFL veteran did just that as Baltimore for several years, backing up Johnny Unitas. Miami got him from the Colts for the $100 waiver price last April.

Wilson's Work Ethic Sends Wings on Way

By IAN MacLAINE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

When Johnny Wilson assumed command of Detroit Red Wings midway through the 1971-72 season he made it clear from the start the easy days were past for is players.

Work, work, and then more work was the medicine prescribed to make the Wings a move, a theory that few hockey observers were prone to admit would work miracles in these days when employers are looking for ways to ease the workload.

But few reckoned with Wilson's stand-pat schemes or the desire of the Red Wings, who emerged, from near complete oblivion in the National Hockey League's East Division collision to almost nip Toronto Maple Leafs for a post-season berth in the playoffs.

And if there was any doubt the methods employed by Wilson were a one-shot affair, they've vanished with the Wings scoring away to the top of the East standings with four straight wins.

Their latest victims, Los Angeles Kings, fell 6-2 Sunday night, Detroit held a one-point lead over the only other unbeaten NHL teams—Montreal Canadiens and Buffalo Sabres.

Detroit and Montreal were idle after a 6-1 win over New York Rangers Saturday while the Sabres edged Boston Bruins 4-3 in Montreal and Buffalo with 3-0-1 marks.

In other Sunday games, the Rangers recovered for their second win of the season by downing Minnesota North Stars 5-2 while St. Louis Blues 4-1 uprised Chicago Black Hawks 3-1, Boston Bruins blasted Pittsburgh Penguins their first post-8-4, and California Golden Seals stopped Philadelphia Flyers 4-2.

Elsewhere Saturday, Chicago downed Los Angeles 4-2, Toronto worked over Los Angeles 6-1 the Red Wings overwhelmed Philadelphia 9-0, Boston blitzed New York Islanders 7-4, Pittsburgh defeated California 3-2, Buffalo tied Atlanta Flames 1-1 and Vancouver Canucks and Minnesota North Stars fought to a 3-3 stalemate.

The Islanders are at home Tuesday night to Pittsburgh while Chicago visits Vancouver.

Mickey Redmond, a 42-goal scorer last year but in an early-season drought with just one to show in Detroit's first three games, scored twice against the Kings who were playing their fourth game in five nights.

Gary Bergman also tallied two goals for the Red Wings Los Angeles' Juha Widing recorded single and Leonard Edwards shutout string at five periods when he scored at 2:13 of the final period.

Edwards, making a comeback after spending part of last season with Pittsburgh, turned aside 31 shots in registering the Saturday shutout and has been mainly responsible in Detroit getting away to its fastest start in the club's 47-year history.

Darryl Sittler, scored goals 66 seconds apart at Buffalo, but

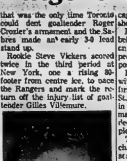
World Series For Juniors

TORONTO (CP) — The 1972 Memorial Cup junior championship will play a series of exhibition games against Czechoslovakian junior club next May, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association announced following its semi-annual meeting here during the weekend.

In accepting the invitation from the Czechoslovakian Hockey Association, CAHA president Joe Krycuka of Calgary said the games "will be a prelude to a world junior championship which will be held in 1974."

The Memorial Cup winners will be decided at a round robin tournament of winners of the Ontario Junior A, Quebec and Western Canada league champions being held in Montreal in early May.

Four Migrate For Hockey



TORONTO (CP) — Four teams from the United States have been given the green light by the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to play in Canadian leagues.

The approval by the CAHA executive is subject to approval by the U.S.H.A.

The teams involved are Bellingham, Wash., of the British Columbia Junior Hockey League; Detroit Junior Red Wings in the Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League and Minnesota and St. Paul in the Thunder Bay league.

that was the only time Toronto could beat goaltender Rogie Crozier's armament and the Sabres made an early 3-0 lead stand up.

Rookie Steve Vickers scored twice in the third period of New York, one a rising 80-footer from centre ice, to stun the Rangers and mark the return-off the injury list of goaltender Gilles Villemure.

MICKEY REDMOND

All the scoring in the turbulent Chicago game came in the first 14 minutes of play as Frank St. Marseille, Danny O'Shea and Phil Roberto beat Hawk goaltender Tony Esposito.

Cliff Koroll got Chicago on the scoreboard as the Black Hawks took the play away but they weren't able to beat Blues' goalie Wayne Stephenson as the Blues turned aside tide after tide of Chicago attacks, blocking 41 shots.

The third period was marred by two outbursts. Near the 10-minute mark St. Louis defenseman Bercley Plager charged the goal judge behind the Chicago net, claiming one of his shots had gone in.

Moments later, the red light behind the St. Louis goal went on when a shot by Koroll appeared to hit the inside of the post and bounce back out.

Referee Ron Wicks conferred with the goal judge before confirming the goal, but when the St. Louis players stormed him in protest he consulted a linesman then reversed his earlier decision—much to the displeasure of 17,000 Hawk fans.

The defending Stanley Cup champion Bruins, in an early-season slump with a 2-2 mark, got two goals apiece from Wayne Cashman and Phil Esposito to romp over Pittsburgh.

Ivan Boldirev scored the first of his two goals at Philadelphia 1:4 into the game and Bill Flett sealed the win with a second goal an empty Flyers' goal with just 25 second remaining.

Rudi Grabs 2-0 Lead for A's

OAKLAND (AP) — Oakland Athletics were home today with a 2-0 lead in the 1972 World Series with hopes of polishing off Cincinnati Reds with the same combination of pitching, power and fielding expertise that won the first two games.

Gene Tenace's slugging and Vida Blue's golden arm in relief won the opener of the baseball classic 3-2 in Cincinnati Saturday. And the upstart Athletics made it two straight Sunday with a 2-1 triumph behind Jim Hunter's right-handed brilliance and a sparkling defense.

"I'm not ready to name you," said Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson, whose National League team was favored to beat the American League champs. "It's close, though."

Dick Williams, the Oakland manager, was naturally happy about taking a commanding lead back to his cozy home park, but he is an uneasy leader in the best-of-seven series.

"We'd had some outstanding pitching, sure," said Williams. "But, heck, they've hit some balls real hard and we've had to come up with good fielding plays to stop the Reds.

"Believe me, this not over. This is going to be some series."

A sanding room-only crowd for the first two games, including a Riverfront stadium record 53,224 Sunday, saw the kind of baseball Williams was talking about.

They didn't have too much to cheer about, though, because the Athletics took an early lead on Hunter's run-scoring single in the second inning and Joe Rudi's home-run blast in the third off Cincinnati starter Ross Grimsley.

Hunter protected that 2-0 lead until the ninth when Tony Perez opened the Reds' final inning with a hard single to left center. When Dennis Menke launched a tremendous drive that Rudi collared while leaping and banging into the left field wall.

Rudi clutched the ball at the top of his glove, supported himself and fired a bullet back into the infield. The relay almost nailed Perez, who strayed far off first. Oakland 2nd baseman Dick Green threw to first baseman Mike Hegan, defensive replacement at first base, knocked the ball out of Geronimo's glove and Perez reached second on the play.

Of his great play, Rudi said: "The ball was hit straight over my head. I started to go back and flip my glasses off, but I thought the ball was coming another foot or somewhere up there. I wouldn't have caught it, I think, if I stretched about as far as I could, really."

Hunter, who served up a fastball to Menke, was of the same opinion.

"I thought the game was tied," said Hunter. "I thought we'd go into extra innings.

"Watch his expression when he finds out that's a gopher ball he's getting into!"

"I couldn't believe it when he caught that ball."

Williams said Rudi was the best catch he's seen in a World Series game, except it a better rating than Willie Mays' much-publicized catch of a ball hit by Vic Wertz in the 1954 classic.

The game was still in doubt though because the Reds had a runner on second base after pitcher Grimsley struck out Gene Tenace's knee-high drive to his right.

Hal Mcrae led off the fourth straight shot off Hunter, a single that drove home Perez with the Cincinnati run.

Williams called on Rollie Fingers to pitch to pinch-hitter Jesus Javier who was pressed on by orders to bunt. Javier did, but fielded the ball and buzzed it to the chest while the A's relief ace stood around. Fingers and prompted bunted.

The scene was similar Saturday when the American League champions beat the favored National Leaguers with the same type of baseball.

Tenace, who only hit five home runs all season, hit two and drove in three runs in the opener. His first homer gave the visitors a 2-0 lead. Tenace then belted a one-bagging drive into the left field seats to break

Parent Pulled

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One wonders after Sunday if Bernie Parent may not already be agonizing for the bright lights of Toronto's Yonge Street and the friendly confines of Maple Leaf Gardens.

The 26-year-old goaltender forsook the security of the National Hockey League club for Philadelphia, the City of Brotherly Love, a multi-year contract estimated at $750,000 and an assortment of gilded accessories to perform in the fledgling World Hockey Association.

The future could hold bakmier for his Philadelphia Blazers who lost their WHA opener, 4-3, to New England Whalers, had their home opener called off because of inadequate support for the ice surface, and got laced 5-0 Sunday by New York Raiders.

But the humility of it all could be in the high-priced Parent twice pulled in the start of the third period after facing only 29 shots and being overshadowed at the opposite end of the ice by little-known Pete Donnelly.

Elsewhere Sunday, Cleveland Crusaders won their third straight, 7-5, over Ottawa Nationals to stay atop the East Division, Edmonton Cougars edged Minnesota Fighting Saints 3-2 and Winnipeg Jets and Houston Aeros remained tied for first with Alberta Oilers in the West Division race.

The Jets dropped a 5-2 score as Alberta while Houston was stopped 5-1 by Los Angeles Sharks.

In Saturday's action, Cleveland nipped Alberta 3-2 and New York toppled Ottawa 8-6.

Donnelly turned aside 29 shots in front of 5,132 New York fans. Wayne Rivers, Ron Ward, Brian Perry and Bobby Sheppard also figured before the Philadelphia goalie was rewarded by veteran Marcel Pronovost.

Brian Morenz scored the fifth and winning goal in the third period while his team was shorthanded.

Moore Behind Bobcat Win

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

Rookie netminder Bob Moore obviously has a few things to learn about playing shutout goal. Or does he?

The Belleville goalie was doing pretty well on his own for 58 minutes and 27 seconds of Sunday's Metro Junior B game at the Memorial Arena. Jim Pilegi, on the other hand had been beaten three times in the Markham nets until he found a perfect solution — he vacated the premises.

The Waxers' goalie was on the bench for virtually the final seven minutes of the hockey game without a score being recorded against him, while Moore was victimized twice in the final 22 seconds.

The final result, however, was still a 3-2 victory for the Bobcats who toppled last year's Ontario champions to remain unbeaten in two regular season starts. And that no one had a bigger hand in the outcome than Bob Moore.

The 5-foot-8 redhead earned the praise of losing coach Bill White who noted that, "Belleville has a good hockey team. They've got a lot of team spirit. I'd have to say that their goalie was the individual standout. He didn't have that many saves to make, but he had some tough ones."

It was White who dropped a strategy cornerbshell by lifting his own netminder in favor of stish attacker with seven minutes remaining in the hockey game and his team trailing 3-0. The move paid off with just under a minute left when the Bobcats missed several long shots at the vacant Markham cage.

It's something we've done plenty of times," he said. "sometimes it works and sometimes we get some pretty big scores run up against us."

He refuses to classify it as a "no might as well lose by 10 goals as one," type of philosophy. "We're not thinking of losing by 10 goals. We're thinking of winning. The boys just have to keep the pressure on and not panic. We started a little bit late tonight, though." White conceded.

Moore lost his shutout at the 19.37 mark when Paul Cowley's hard 30-foot drive zipped between his legs. "It wasn't deflected; he just beat me," said Bob after the game. The midget all-star graduate was beaten again at 19.51 on Danny Atkinson's low shot from the slot area.

On 22 attempts before that the Belleville goalie had been invincible, bolding his lead in the contest during a second-period sag.

They got the puck away faster and they shoot harder up here. I've had to work at cutting down the angles more," he said of the jump from midget to junior competition.

Belleville coach Murray Hunter contemplating an unbeaten season after his team's back- to - back weekend wins (they edged Bramalea 4-3 Friday)? "Yeah, sure," chuckled Moe. "We've got two down and only 34 to go."

In a serious vein he noted that, "we played pretty well tonight, although we're still working too much as individuals. Penalty killing was the key. We took a lot of penalties and we observed every shaping one of them. The referee called a good game." Fremion official Orville "Red" Gravelle dished out 14 of the game's 25 penalties to Belleville.

Tim Yohn scored in the first period when his wrist shot from the right wing boards beat Pilegi on the glove side. Dave Harwood upped the count to 2-0 in the final period when he deflected a point shot Neil Turner.

Turner, a 16 - year - old Trenton native, scored the winning goal at 11.17 of the third on a two - way passing play with Wayne McGeachy.

Specialists Dan Meagher and Rob Foster did an outstanding penalty killing job for the winners, while rearguard Darryl Cole turned in a strong effort in his second game as a Bobcat. Brian Dillon rumbles in sweater was conspicuous throughout the game for Markham, who now sport a 1-3 season record.

Horwood Hit

Forward Dave Horwood of the Belleville Bobcats takes a jab from Markham defenceman Jack Laine, while goalie Joe Pilegi smothers the puck in Sunday's Metro Junior B contest at the Belleville Memorial Arena. The Bobcats, who received the biggest jolt of the night, however, dropping a 3-2 decision to the Bobcats. It was the second win in as many regular season starts for the Belleville B's.

Imperial Scoring Spread

Belleville victories were few and far between in Ontario Minor Hockey Association play this weekend.

Blake Kerr midgets managed one of the three local victories with a 5-2 decision over Picton Saturday. Gary Thompson, Eric Powell, Mike Crawford, Peter McBride and Steve Kirby were the Imperials'-lynchpinners. Jamie Darray and John Woodward scored for Picton.

Bellini peewee majors were the only other unbeaten belleville team, recording a 5-1 win over Brockville. Danny Duffy paced the winners with a hat trick, while Nelson Frederick and Garry McInroy supplied one goal support.

Towers Food City novice majors split a pair of weekencounters, slamming Mac-MacDonalds Hamburg Minors 8-1 Saturday, but taking a 12-4 drubbing from Kingston Young Mets the following day. Rose (2), Parks (2), Mulroney, Doran, Parks and Crawford scored in Saturday's win with Gilbey getting the lone MacDonald's goal. Hanlon scored twice with Parks and Mulroney getting singles in the loss to Kingston.

Mark Crawford's tally was not enough to prevent the Belleville Dixie Lee peewee minors from dropping a 4-1 Sunday verdict to Napanee.

In juvenile action, Western Tire was flanked 3-0 by Kingston while the Kitchen bantams dropped a 5-3 verdict to Oshawa.

Linb's Soccer Kings

KINGSTON (Special) — Lino's Pizza finished as the hottest item on the Kingston and District soccer menu. The Belleville club defeated Italo-Canadians 2-0 Sunday to capture the championship of the 10-team Kingston league.

The victory capped a highly successful season for Lino's who tied for first place in the league standings, but lost the pennant on the basis of goals for-and against. They also captured a major tournament in Smiths Falls this August.

The teams battled through a scoreless first half Sunday before two goals by Fred Zdravko gave Belleville the victory. Zdravko, who has played semi-pro soccer in Toronto has been a scoring star throughout the season.

The Lino's forward counted his first goal when he headed a cross from John O'Neill into the Kingston net. His second counter came when he picked up a cross from Ernie Brown and beat two Italo defenders before picking the corner with a perfect shot.

The defence had lost the services of Tony Concalves in the first half, but got cool from Manuel Montes. Defensively, Bob Kitchen, Joe Iannna and Mike D'Onellas were bulwarks in front of goalie Gary Donovan.

Team manager Fred Jones, whose club fashioned an 11-1-2 record during the regular season, reports that the team is already making plans to enter the Kingston league next season. The possibility of entry into a proposed Eastern Ontario city league is also being considered.

Legion Has Ringers Again

Belleville Royal Canadian Legionaires again proved to be the ringers in the annual RCAF 418 Wing Hardshoe Tournament Saturday.

Branch 99 members George Dominie and Leo Goyer took team championship honors with Dominie winning the individual title.

The fire department duo of Howie Work and C. Miller was second-place team, with Work also finishing runner-up in the individual placings.

Quintes Miss Encore

OWEN SOUND (Special) — How could Belleville Quintes record a 13-3 senior hockey win Friday night and lose 5-4 to the same team 48 hours later, you ask?

"On a backhander," might be Owen Sound Downtowner Bob Monteith's answer, since that was the type of strike the left winger used to flip a rebound past Belleville goalie Randie Reid Sunday for the winning goal with only 25 seconds remaining in the game.

Acting Belleville coach Lionel Betty had another answer. "They got rotten goaltending Friday night," the veteran defenceman recalled Friday's Memorial Arena massacre, one of the worst in Belleville senior hockey memory.

The Downtowners certainly couldn't complain of that Sunday, with Gary Waugh stopping 46 Belleville shots, including some goal - labelled in Belleville senior hockey memory.

The game's turning point came with the score tied 2-2 late in the second period. George Godson streaked in alone on Waugh on one of his patented short - handed scoring threats, but the Owen Sound backstop successfully stood his ground. Dale Watson gave Owen Sound a 3-2 lead at 14.45.

Godson did score to tie it up 3-3 early in the final period, but Bill Abbott again gave the hosts the edge just over a minute later.

Wayne McConnell appeared to have salvaged a point for the Quintes when he scored with 2:06 left to play — winner forced the Quintes to settle for a humbling split and a share with four other teams of second spot in the OHA Senior A standings.

Owen Sound's Bob Duce and Rod Bloomfield replied to Belleville first - period goals by Piotrowski and McConnell.

The Quintes, now 3-2, travel to Brantford Friday, with Belleville senior hockey buffs getting their first glimpse of the new league entry in a 7:30 Sunday evening return match.

Foster Foiled

Goalie Joe Pilegi of the Markham Waxers, slides across the crease to foil a scoring attempt by Belleville Bobcat winger Rob Foster. Despite his fine netminding work, Pilegi was beaten three times as the Bobcats emerged with a 3-2 win in their Toronto Metro Junior B league home opener. Foster's penalty killing was one of the key factors in the Belleville victory.

Belleville Horsemen Couldn't Wait Turn

KINGSTON (Special) — A special "Drivers Invitational Race" was set up to ensure that drivers from the city made it to the winners' circle at least once during "Belleville Day" at Frontenac Downs. It wasn't really required.

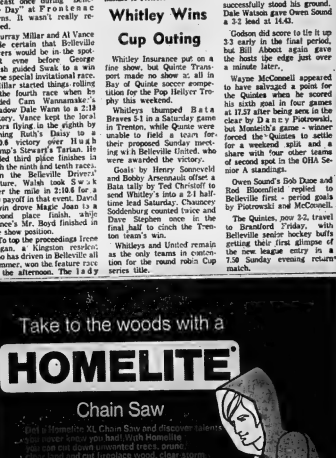
Murray Millar and Al Vance made certain that Belleville drivers would be in the spotlight even before George Walsh guided Swak to a win in the special invitational race.

Millar started things rolling in the fourth race when he guided Cam Winsome's Meadow Dale Wann to a 2:18 victory. Vance kept the local colors flying in the eighth by reining Ruth's Daisy in a 2:10.6 victory over Hugh Wemp's Stewart's Tartan. He added third place finishes in both the ninth and tenth races.

In the Belleville Drivers' feature, Walsh took Swak over the mile in 2:16.6 for a $10 payroll in that event. David Irwin drove Magic Joan to a second place finish, while Vance's Mr. Boyd finished in the show position.

To top the proceedings Irene Hogan, a Kingston resident, who has drivers in Belleville all summer, won the feature race of the afternoon. The lady took Indigo Magic to a sizzling 2:05.6 outing.

Belleville residents, who were admitted free of charge, helped swell the pari-mutuel handle to $41,839.



Whitley Wins Cup Outing

Whitley Insurance put on a fine show, but Quinte Transport made no show it all in Bay of Quinte soccer competition for the Pop Hellyer Trophy this weekend.

Whitleys thumped Bata Braves 5-1 in a Saturday game in Trenton, while Quinte were unable to field a team for their proposed Sunday meeting wi h Belleville United, who were awarded the victory.

Goals by Henry Sonneveld and Bobby Arsenault offset a Bata tally by Ted Christoff to send Whitley's into a 2-1 halftime lead Saturday. Chauncey Soddenburg counted twice and Dave Stephen once in the final half to clinch the Trenton team's win.

Whitleys and United remain as the only teams in contention for the round robin Cup series title.

Lakers Lose First Two

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The champion Los Angeles Lakers are having problems in the National Basketball Association these days.

Beaten by Boston Celtics Friday and by New York Knicks Saturday, they managed a 16-83 victory over Cleveland Cavaliers Sunday in their third road game in as many nights.

The Cavaliers wiped out a 25-point deficit for a 71-71 tie in the last quarter before the Lakers went on to win.

Jerry West and Happy Hairston threw in key baskets as the Lakers pulled ahead again.

West was high with 31 points. Hairston scored 21 and pulled down 26 rebounds.

Atlanta Hawks whipped New York Knicks 109-101 and Phoenix Suns downed Baltimore Bullets 107-98 in Sunday's other NBA games.

Lou Hudson and Pete Maravich combined for 60 points as the Hawks handed the Knicks their first defeat of the season.

Tennis Queen Takes III

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) — Billie Jean King, a star on the women's tennis tour, may be suffering from mononucleosis which could sideline her for several months, her husband said Sunday.

"Billie Jean has been dragging for the past 10 days. Saturday by the 17-year-old Florida girl in the semi-final match of the $100,000 Virginia Slims championships.

"Billie Jean was very close to Leslie Hunt on the tour, and Leslie had mono and was contagious for three weeks or so," Larry King said. "Leslie is no longer contagious, but she went home to Australia after she was beaten here. She was just hanging on

Larry King said, "She could hardly finish her match against Chris Evert yesterday, but she was determined she wasn't going to walk off the court until it was all over."

Mrs. King, the world's No. 1 woman tennis player, was beaten 6-4, 6-2 in 90-degree heat

Robertson Top Driver

MOSPORT, Ont. (CP) — Brian Robertson of Ottawa won the final race of the Player's Challenge series for Formula B cars at Mosport racetrack northeast of Toronto Sunday and clinched the Canadian driving championship.

Robertson, 31, driving a Chevron, nosed out Craig Hill of Mississauga, Ont., and Rick Fornet of Edmonton, the only drivers who could have beaten him for the championship and the series' $5,000 first-prize money.

U.S. Retains Davis Cup

BUCHAREST (CP) — Stan Smith's winning performances in two singles and the doubles provided the margin of victory for the United States in the Davis Cup final against Romania.

The Americans won the cup for the fifth straight year, splitting today's two single matches to win the best-of-five series 3-2.

But the final, held for the first time in a Communist country, was one of the most bitterly fought—both on and off the court—in the 61-year-old competition.

Smith, 26-year-old Wimbledon champion, beat Ilie Nastase in the opening singles Friday and Romania came back to even the count on Ion Tiriac's win over Tom Gorman.

In the key doubles match today, Smith teamed with Erik Van Dillen to win 6-2, 6-0, 6-1 over Nastase and Tiriac. The one-sided match lasted only 67 minutes.

Sunday, Smith clinched the trophy for the U.S. with a five-set victory over Tiriac 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4. Nastase downed Gorman 6-1, 6-2, 5-7, 10-8.

The Americans, in particular team captain Dennis Ralston, made several scathing attacks on the Romanian pair for their behavior during the matches.

Romanian tennis officials complained privately this has been part of a general campaign of psychological warfare started several weeks ago against the Romanians.

Officials said American attempts to obtain neutral linesmen and insistence on Argentine referee Jose Mores as the official arbiter had helped sour the atmosphere before the tournament started.

OMHA Popularity Growing

TORONTO (CP) — Hockey's popularity has shown a sharp increase, according to figures released during the weekend to the Ontario Minor Hockey Association by secretary-manager Vern McCallum.

McCallum told 750 delegates to the OMHA's annual meeting that the number of registered players jumped to 137,934 last year from 98,983 in the 1970-71 season and that the figures represented 7,882 teams, a jump of 1,511 from the previous year.

He also announced that the OMHA will entertain three Swedish teams this year. The Hammarby bantams of Stockholm will play in Aurora, Sarnia, St. Catharines, Oshawa and Aurora again between Nov. 5-11.

The Mora midget and juvenile teams are scheduled to visit Peterborough, Oshville, Oshawa, Hamilton, Stratford, Tillsonburg, London, Tilbury and Watford during the latter part of December and early January, 1973.

The touring Ontario teams also will play their European games late in December and early January.

BUFFALO BOY DIES

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A 14-year-old boy died Saturday of a heart attack in a prep school football game. Bruce Anderson of Buffalo collapsed while playing for Nichols School of Buffalo against the Allendale-Harley School in suburban Pittsford. An autopsy showed the heart attack and evidence that the boy had suffered an earlier, undetected heart attack.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

MONDAY, OCT. 16

Aries (March 21-April 19): It is as good a time as any to come to grips with home, personal problems and limitations. Be come to some resolution.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Vigorous early beginnings make the difference. Pay closer attention to your surroundings if you can get others to check the details.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Indications are for a definite intellectual effort and your need to diversify it with regular pauses for rest and a bit of humor.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Your success depends on meeting your schedules with others going in similar directions. Correspondence is no longer negotiable.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): You cannot do just the things you pick out for yourself without also taking on something you don't like as much.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You have your fair share of things to do, and should demand your part of the rewards promptly. New jobs are not favored today.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Practical maneuvers shouldn't be allowed to divert you from creative urges. Younger people tend to claim attention.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): There's nothing like your personal touch. Conversation provides opportunities for ill-considered remarks.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): By the time you explain what you are going to do and what benefits may result, the time to do it is past. This needn't happen.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Having more drive than usual doesn't necessarily mean taking up a different line of action. Keep your work in your own hands.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Thoroughness at all levels is important now. Information searches are successful, although some of what you learn isn't convenient.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): By getting people to talk, enough will come out that you can at least estimate the story behind any recent mysteries.

To Your Good Health

Trigger Finger Is Tendonitis

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you explain what a trigger finger is? I have a friend who has it, but it won't come back on its own. I have to lift it up, with a movement of pain.

The doctor said the finger has to be cut and a sac removed.—J.F.

Tendons pass through a tunnel or sheath, and sometimes, for various reasons, the tendon and sheath don't fit.

When a finger cannot be straightened after being flexed, that's a trigger finger. If the case isn't too severe, you may be able to straighten the finger, but notice a snapping sound. In more extensive trouble, as in your case, the finger won't straighten unless you lift it back into position.

In children, a congenital defect may cause the tendon sheath to be too small, but the problem is more common among those past childhood. Inflammation of the tendon or lining of the sheath causes swelling of the tendon or narrowing of the sheath.

This form of tendonitis is commonly the result of an injury or excessive use of some finger, pressure on the tendon area. Trigger finger is not uncommon from injury to a finger while playing basketball or some other sports.

Mild cases sometimes are helped by injecting hydro-cortisone into the affected sheath. If surgery is required, it is not as much a matter of removing a sac as of slitting the sheath, allowing it to expand and thus curing the trouble.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What, if anything, can be done to cure low blood sugar? Eating sugar does lessen the faintness. Pressures but they return quickly.—H.M.T.

Various treatments are effective for low blood sugar, depending on the type that is involved—there are several. But in all of them, sugar relieves the trouble only temporarily, and after that, after which the trouble may become worse than ever.

This is because the sugar causes more production of insulin by the pancreas and the extra insulin will lower the blood sugar more than ever. Hence, the wise thing is to avoid sugar as much as possible, and rely on protein which keeps the blood sugar level.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How do you feel about giving powdered milk to a young child and is it the thin side, when fresh milk is available? I believe fresh milk is more nutritious. Am I correct? I want the child to have what is best for him.—J.D.

Powdered milk, when reconstituted with water, has about the same nutritive value as fresh milk.

If it is powdered whole milk it will be equivalent to fresh whole milk; if it is powdered skim milk, it will be equivalent to fresh skim.

Since skim milk has had much of the fat—and calories—removed, the thin child should have whole milk, whether fresh or powdered. A child tending to overweight is better off with skim milk or 2-per-cent milk.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any merit in saying that one should sleep on the left side? And some claim the head of the bed should point north.—C.D.S.

No validity to either.

Opening lead — king of clubs.

A hand played by Jeff Rubens the year he won the Men's Pair championship (1965) is an excellent example of how to partial a high degree of skill with a corresponding amount of good luck to bring home a grand slam.

West led the king of clubs, won by the ace, and Rubens, blissfully unaware of the part trump division, played the ace of trumps at trick two. West showing out, Rubens ruffed a club in dummy with the ten and returned a trump, winning East's nine with the queen.

There was only a slim chance for the contract at this point — the possibility of a three - suit squeeze — but, Rubens elected to play for it.

He led the king of hearts to the ace, returned dummy's last trump finessed the right, then cashed the king of trumps and ace of diamonds to prove that position:

New Rubens played his last trump and West found himself in trouble. Fervently hoping to find partner with the Jack, West discarded the queen of clubs as declarer threw the diamond from dummy.

Rubens thereupon cashed the last of clubs. West discarding the king of diamonds, the time arrived to find partner with the ten. But Rubens produced that card, forcing West to part with a heart. When declarer then played a heart to dummy and finessed the ten, West's agony was finally over.

HERE'S A NEW IDEA

We are going to start a number of new houses for spring possession. If you are thinking about a new house, let us include it in our inventory. You can select a lot and a model either one's or your's. We will then build it to your specifications. You can then sell your existing house at your leisure. If you are unable to sell, you aren't out anything as we can sell the new house to someone else. This will solve the old problem of — "How can I build a new house when I haven't sold my old one".

CONDOMINIUM IS THE ANSWER

For the active man who wants to confine his activities to the curling rink, the golf course or anywhere else that doesn't involve cutting grass, shoveling snow, painting, etc. This is all done for you.
We have units available for immediate possession. These are located on Prince Charles Drive. Oh yes! Down payments run from $711. to $886 down.

EAST OR WEST WE HAVE THE BEST

selection of houses in the Quinte area. All in fully serviced subdivisions. All close to schools. We have 3 and 4 bedroom models. Let us show you our selection.

Nixon Calls for Era Of Order and Justice

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — President Nixon said Sunday his administration has "fought and the frightening trend of crime and anarchy in this landmark," and he pledged to seek still mandatory sentences to keep drug pushers off the streets.

In a paid political broadcast from his Camp David retreat, Nixon asked Americans to join in making "the next four years a period of new respect for law, order and justice . . . a time of new hope in a land free from fear, and a world at peace."

The speech was the second in a series of nationwide radio addresses Nixon is making in his campaign for re-election Nov. 7. He did not mention Democratic opponent George McGovern by name, but he blamed past Democratic administrations for skyrocketing crime and drug problems.

Declaring that the dangerous trend of light or suspended sentences meted out to convicted pushers by permissive judges must be halted," he added:

"I shall ask the next Congress to require stiff mandatory sentences for heroin traffickers, and to amend other federal statutes so as to keep these peddlers of death off our streets after their arrest."

He said crime in the U.S. increased only one per cent during the first half of this year, while in 72 large cities crime actually decreased.

In a statement issued by his Washington headquarters, McGovern said Nixon's claims of success are based on "misleading and fabricated statistics" and the administration has already presided over the biggest increase in crime and drug addiction in history."

The number of addicts has jumped from 315,000 at the end of 1969 to 560,000 today, McGovern said, adding that "increased law enforcement actions appointed by President Nixon, the conviction rate for narcotics violators in the federal courts has plummeted from 79 per cent in 1968 to 39 per cent last year."

TV For Siberia

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union will launch an orbit Saturday a new Molniya-1 communications satellite to maintain telephone, telegraph and television service with distant parts of the country, Tass reported. The satellite will provide communications and TV transmission to the extreme north, Siberia, the Soviet Far East and Central Asia.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Heasman and Mr. and Mrs. John Kean enjoyed a ten-day motor trip to the Gaspe Bay Peninsula.

Miss Rosa Spry, Provincial Councillor attended the Provincial Council meeting held in Brockville.

Mr. and Mrs. John Good, Mr. and Mrs. George Heasman, Ross Howard, Mrs. Ethel Duffin, Mrs. Irene Hogle and Mrs. Olive Whitehead travelled by bus to the Gaspe Bay Peninsula. The group visited points in Ontario, Quebec and Northern New Brunswick and reported having experienced a delightful time.

Library Meet Hears Minister

The Lake Ontario Reg ional Library System Board scheduled its fifth annual meeting in Belleville today.

Speaking for the the luncheon event at the Four Seasons Hotel was to be Lorne M. Johnston, assistant deputy Minister of Colleges and Universities.

Mr. Johnston was to speak on current and future patterns of library usage in both rural and urban areas.

Municipal and library delegates were expected from Ontario, including Durham nine counties in cut-central Northumberland, Hastings, Prince Edward, Haliburton and Frontenac.

A 'Wired City' Debate Proposed

TORONTO (CP) — Broadcasters were invited Sunday night by Robert Welch, provincial secretary for social development, to participate in a "broad public debate on the concept of the 'wired city.'"

He told the Central Canada Broadcasters Association that despite the challenges presented by cities linked by cable systems, "to disregard this development would be to ignore the . . . potential it offers for meeting a variety of human needs."

Mr. Welch said people from a variety of backgrounds should be brought together to establish the basis for a co-ordinated effort in setting social objectives for cable systems.

"Although we are still a long way from establishing over-all policies which would encompass all aspects of the wired city concept, there is a great urgency for us to participate in a broad public debate to involve as many people as possible in determinations which will undoubtedly affect the lives of all of us."

Church Approves Project

TORONTO (CP) — The congregation of Holy Trinity Anglican Church agreed to a formula Sunday that will permit a real estate development company to proceed with plans to build a 2200-million downtown project.

The formula worked out by the church and Fairview Corp. Ltd. will guarantee that the 125-year-old church and more than one acre of land it owns will not be completely shaded out by tall buildings.

Church officials have refused to sell some land to the developers for fear the church would be so dwarfed by the proposed buildings that it would not receive any sunlight.

Negotiations between Fairview and the church have been going on for more than two years before Sunday's vote by the congregation, which supported a compromise solution, 78 to 28.

Fairview is the developer for the T. Eaton Co. which owns most of the land in a large city block on which the proposed project is to be built.

Five Shot

GUATEMALA CITY (Reuter) — At least five persons died in a gunfight Saturday as government security forces rescued a Cuban envoy, whom an Arab napped nine days earlier. Radio Rossbomey, owner of several cinemas here, was found Saturday in a house about 30 miles from here.

Kahane Held

JERUSALEM (Reuter) — The Israeli Supreme Court ruled Sunday that the leader of the Jewish Defence League, Rabbi Meir Kahane, will be permitted to leave Israel on a planned lecture tour. An earlier magistrate's court ruling—that Kahane's passport be held pending completion of charges against members of the JDL in connection with an attempt to smuggle arms abroad for use against Arab diplomats and Arab guerrilla organizations—was upheld on appeal.

Remains Found

SALONIKA, Greece (AP) — Petrified remains of giant mastodons, dogs and horses with three tons estimated to be 13 million years old, a few days uncovered near this city in northern Greece, scientists announced Sunday. The remains also include parts of rhinoceroses and three-toeing animals that looked like foxes.

Genetic Manipulation Possible Within Decade

(CP) — Scientists will have enough knowledge about chromosomes within 10 years to be able to a new where the genes are that control certain specific characteristics of human, a University of Toronto medical biologist predicted Saturday.

Dr. Louis Siminovitch, chairman of the university's department of medical cell biology, said: "We are closer to genetic manipulation than people think. We should be thinking about the implications now rather than after the event."

Dr. Siminovitch was taking part in a meeting at Jackson's Point, about 45 miles north of Toronto, where scientists got together to debate the social impact of developments in modern genetics.

Already, human eggs have been fertilized in a test tube and developed to the stage when the embryo normally would be implanted in the womb wall of the female, he said. The next stage of development would be the implanting of the test tube embryo into a woman who cannot have babies or into a woman other than the one from whom the eggs were taken.

Dr. Siminovitch said the ethics of such research have been severely questioned. The risks, such as production of a malformed child, are unknown, he said.

Horace Krever of the law faculty at the University of Western Ontario, said no one should have the right to make undesired decisions on things affecting others. He said some of the knowledge being sought by scientists cannot be obtained without risk to human life.

Killer Plane Once Sold As Municipal Monument

WASHINGTON (AP) — The F-86 Sabre jet which killed 22 persons when it crashed into an ice cream parlor in Sacramento, Calif., last month originally was stripped down and sold to be used as a monument in Canada.

A Canadian government official said that it purchased the government policy the plane's vital centre section supporting the craft's wings was cut to assure that the plane could never be flown.

The plane's owner blamed the crash on apparent mechanical failure after it floundered during takeoff Sept. 24. Federal investigators, however, say they have found no evidence of mechanical trouble involved in the crash.

Global Warning

MONTREAL (CP) — The nuclear deterrent has not lessened the threat of global war and the challenge to peacemakers has never been greater, former prime minister Lester Pearson said Sunday. The danger of a small war erupting by accident or miscalculation into global conflict is real, he told an audience of about 300 at an ecumenical service. The possibilities for failure to establish peace "have never been greater."

Dog A-peel

SUDBURY (CP) — Lucky dogs in this city are getting some help from strippers at a burlesque theatre. The theatre announced Saturday that, beginning this week it will hold auctions on fat pooch sent by the strippers. All the money from the auction will be given to the Sudbury branch of the Ontario Humane Society.

Show Goes On

TORONTO (CP) — The CBC decided Saturday to schedule the second episode of the Walt Disney film Savage Sam Sunday night despite opposition from the Native Council of Canada.

Earlier this week, Delbert Riley, an official of the union, said it was "extremely offensive" to native people.

He said Indians were portrayed as "savages" and that on the show a dog is portrayed in a better light than Indians.

Snow In Barrie

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — The cold breath of winter began to swirl about southern Ontario Saturday as snow fell in this city 60 miles north of Toronto.

Provincial police said about 1¼ inches of snow fell overnight Saturday, leaving only one lane of Highway 99 from here to Camp Borden open to traffic Sunday morning.

Light snow flurries also were reported in the Oshawa area, 35 miles east of Toronto.

The weather office in Toronto said cold air blowing off of Georgian Bay caused the snow.

Body Found

LAMBETH, Ont. (CP) — A badly-decomposed body was discovered by a hunter Saturday in a conservation area near this community 12 miles west of London. Provincial police said they were unable to determine the sex of the body, but it might be that of Brenda Heinbain, 13, who disappeared Aug. 27.

Crane Vote

BRANTFORD (CP) — Workers at Crane Canada Ltd. voted Sunday 99 per cent in favor of strike action if necessary to back up contract negotiations. A spokesman for Local 7470, United Steelworkers Union, said no strike date has been set yet, however. The previous agreement, covering the 230 workers at the plumbing fixture plant, expired Sept. 30 and provided a base rate of $2.89 an hour.

Mayors Meet

TORONTO (CP) — Sir Edward Howard, Lord Mayor of London, was guest of honor at a dinner held by Toronto Mayor William Dennison during the weekend. Sir Edward and his party, which includes sword-official sword bearer and footman, have been on a five-week 22,000-mile tour of North America.

Gang Killers

CHICAGO (AP) — Eight young men, identified as members of a gang called "The Mau Maus," were charged Sunday in what police termed the "senseless" slayings of nine persons, including four members of one family and three of another. Cook County Sheriff Richard J. Elrod said the victims—killed in four separate incidents between May and September—apparently were randomly chosen by members of the gang.

Two more of the Canadian-built, Korean War-vintage fighters bear the serial numbers of planes sold only to be mounted on pedestals but now are registered with the U.S. Federal Aviation Administration.

The frame of the single-seat fighter plane which crashed in Sacramento was purchased from the Canadian government, said the Canadian official who traced the serial number.

The other two planes to be used as monuments were sold by Maritime Aircraft and Overhaul of Moncton, N.B. The Canadian company has bought both flyable and stripped-down warplanes F-86s from the Canadian government. Maritime was not involved in the plane which crashed in California.

David McEwen, president of the company, said the centre sections on the two planes he sold were cut. They could be replaced, although the planes were "pretty severely cannibalized."

"This is definitely not an airplane that people should be rebuilding on their own," said McEwen. "I call it built-in rudeness."

The F-86 that crashed in Sacramento had appeared at an air show.

The man who supervised the final destruction of the jets is ultimate owner, Spectrum Air of Novato, Calif., said the centre section on the plane "was in beautiful shape" were he first saw it in Syracuse, N.Y.

"If it had been re-outfitted—taken off another bird—you couldn't tell it," said Joseph Patrick of Novato, Calif.

Harold A. Lipsky, president of Spectrum and the man who attributed the crash to mechanical failure, has declined comment pending a federal investigation. The National Transportation Safety Board begins hearings in Sacramento in a few days.

"The Canadian officials who traced the plane's origins is investigating the original sale for

Market Links

TOKYO (AP) — Yasuhiro Nakasone, minister of international trade and industry, said Sunday that Japan has proposed to Australia an economic co-operative body for the Pacific region. Without disclosing details, Nakasone said Australia supports the plan in principle. Meanwhile, in Port of Spain, Trinidad, Caribbean leaders yesterday night to establish a Caribbean common market May 1, 1973, coinciding with the introduction of a common external tariff.

Obote Sought

KAMPALA (Reuter) — President Idi Amin said Saturday he wants former president Milton Obote to return to Uganda to answer murder charges. If found guilty, he will be executed by firing squad, Amin told villagers in eastern Uganda. He said many innocent people had lost their lives as a result of last month's invasion from Tanzania, and asked: "Is that not murder?" Obote has been living in Tanzania since his overthrow in January, 1971.

Crown Assets Corp., which disposes of Canada's surplus government property. The buyer of record for the June, 1970, sale was the city of Oshawa.

But the plane which crashed in Sacramento was one of two listed as sold to Oshawa. Fred Hall, president of the city's chamber of commerce, said the F-86 his organization bought for the city is firmly atop its pedestal at Oshawa's airport.

He said the city never bought or saw the other one. Crown Assets said it doesn't know yet who picked up the other one. Canadian law forbids selling stripped-down planes for munitions to anyone but municipalities or civic organizations.

Of the other two planes which ended up in the United States, McEwen said Maritime sold them in stripped-down condition in September, 1971. The buyer said one was going to London, Ont., the other to Kingston.

McEwen said the same buyer returned later, saying he wanted to buy two jet engines for speedboat racing. Maritime provided the engines.

McEwen said the sales slips for the transactions were made out to Warren Grainer, a speedboat and car-racing enthusiast from Toronto. Patrick also identified Grainer as the man who supervised the initial reconstruction of the Sacramento jet.

The serial numbers on the planes sold for Kingston and London match two registered now with the FAA. One is owned by Spectrum Air. The other is owned by a Danbury, Conn., airline pilot.

Spectrum uses its planes for airshows and exhibitions. The other owner, Ronald E. Reynolds, said he plans to lease his airplane for aerial photography and contract work.

Reynolds said the plane was fully assembled when he got it. He said he knew it was from Canada but did not realize the serial number matched the one sold as a monument.

Subdivision OK

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Municipal Board has ruled that a 166-lot subdivision planned for the outskirts of Niagara-on-the-Lake will not destroy the town's historic character.

Board member W. T. Shrives said that to restrict development around the community to agricultural uses would deny rights to the private owner.

He said there is no provision for such a restriction in the Ontario Planning Act.

The decision also noted that roads and schools in the area are adequate to handle the additional load.

Theatre Rocked

TORONTO (CP) — An explosion rocked the Playhouse Theatre in the city's east end production of Godspell.

Police said they did not suspect foul play. The lone occupant was not injured.

The explosion blew out most windows and collapsed a concrete wall which fell on rows of seats.

General Dies

BELGRADE (AP) — Col. Gen Viktor Bubanj, chief of the general staff of Yugoslav armed forces since 1970, died unexpectedly here Sunday. Cause of death was not reported. Bubanj, born 53 years ago at Fusine, Croatia, joined Marshal Tito's partisans in 1941. After the war, Bubanj, although an air force general, largely credited with working out the conception of total, all-nation defence, developed after Yugoslavia felt endangered in the wake of the Soviet-led occupation of Czechoslovakia in 1968.

Document Revealed
Convicts Said Out of Control

By HARRY MULHALL, Staff Reporter

NAPANEE — A document made public last night by a member of parliament charges it is impossible to control criminals in Millhaven maximum security prison east of here.

Douglas Alkenbrack, PC MP in the last parliament for Frontenac-Lennox and Addington, said today the document he received was identical to one shown him three weeks ago by Millhaven warden Donald Clark.

The document he received Monday, October 2, was unsigned and not on prison stationary, said Mr. Alkenbrack.

He said he had heard late this morning that Mr. Clark denied sending him the material.

Warden Clark was reported on leave and could not be reached for comment.

But at Kingston, John Mahoney, regional director of federal penitentiaries, doubted that the warden was the author.

He said he did not know the contents and had not yet been able to contact the warden.

But as to its veracity "my opinion would be that it is a bloody fraud. . ." said the regional director.

He doubted any of his institutional heads would release "such a thing" to a politician.

Mr. Alkenbrack, who distributed copies of the document — its charges against Millhaven conditions spread over five pages — said that, while he had heard the warden had denied sending the letter, the conditions within the jail still exist and have been corroborated by guards.

The charges were "identical to a document he (Clark) showed me about three weeks ago" when both the MP and the warden "met at a certain place," claimed Mr. Alkenbrack.

He received the unsigned document about a week ago.

Mr. Alkenbrack said he didn't know if the document formed part of any official report from Millhaven officials to their superiors.

Mr. Alkenbrack said he could not directly attribute the unsigned document to the warden, but believed it came from within the penitentiary. He didn't think it originated with inmates.

"It is from, someone who is quite concerned about conditions down there," said the MP.

Mr. Alkenbrack said the conditions outlined were similar to complaints voiced to him by guards within the prison.

He said he didn't doubt the veracity of the complaints.

Mr. Alkenbrack said if there were any repercussions against the warden he would intercede on his behalf.

Militants Hit British

BELFAST (AP) — Northern Ireland's militant Protestants announced today they no longer will co-operate with the British army and government, calling them "our enemies" after a night of violence left at least four persons dead and 20 injured.

Two of the dead were struck by army vehicles during rioting in predominantly Protestant East Belfast.

$80 Million Will Be Spent

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's airframe industry received a new lease on life Monday with the announcement of an $80-million federal project to development of a short-take-off-and landing STOL aircraft by de Havilland Aircraft of Canada.

Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pépin unveiled the plan, which includes an option for a government takeover of the firm.

The aircraft, to be called the DHC-7, will be a four-engine, 43-passenger plane, capable of operating from a 2,000-foot runway.

The first two prototypes are scheduled for completion by the spring of 1973, and Mr. Pepin estimated sales for the following five years at from 150 to 300 planes.

The plane will use a new turbo-prop engine to be developed by United Aircraft of Canada Ltd. About 80 per cent of the components can be manufactured in Canada.

Thor Stephenson, president of United Aircraft, said pollution emission standards of the new PT6A engines will exceed any present acceptance levels.

The project will provide about 1,500 jobs during the development period of 1973-75, and create about 3,000 when full-scale production begins.

Mr. Pepin said the project would allow de Havilland to keep its research team of above 252 persons, described as among the best in their field.

The government option to buy de Havilland from the parent company, Hawker-Siddeley Ltd., extends to June 30, 1974, and Mr. Pepin said it was a precautionary measure allowing the government more freedom of action in the airframe field.

Any purchase of the firm would be based on its value prior to the announcement of the DHC-7 project.

No decision has been made on a takeover, he said.

The DHC-7 will have a top speed of about 275 miles per hour and a maximum range of about 1,100 miles.

B. B. Bundesman, president of de Havilland, said the plane will be the quietest transport ever marketed.

With its relatively short range and quiet flight, the aircraft will be well suited to short inter-city hops, and needing only a 2,000-foot runway it could land in or near a city centre.

Such an aircraft could eliminate the time required to travel from the airport to the downtown area.

Plane Lost, Democrat Is Missing

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Severe storms along Alaska's rugged southern coast threatened to hamper search efforts today for a missing light plane carrying Hale Boggs of Louisiana, Democratic leader in the U.S. House of Representatives, and three other persons, including Alaska's only House member.

A spokesman for the air force's rescue co-ordination centre said the forecast for the bay was for strong wind, heavy overcast and "very marginal flying weather."

Meanwhile, an air force rescue plane searched throughout the night for the missing craft, which failed to show up late Monday on a scheduled 2½ hours, 560-mile flight to Juneau.

Aboard the twin-engined Cessna 310 were Boggs, 58; Representative Nick Begich, 39; 29-year-old Democrat; Begich's administrative assistant, Russell Brown, 31, and the pilot, 38-year-old Don Jonz.

Boggs' administrative assistant, Gary Hymel, said in Washington that the last radio contact with the plane came 15 minutes after takeoff Monday when Jonz filed a flight plan. There was no sign of trouble.

Both PM, Stanfield Use Correct Figures

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield have been clashing on how many jobs have been added in the labor force since Mr. Trudeau took office in April, 1968.

The short answer is that each total being used—Mr. Trudeau says more than one million and Mr. Stanfield says it is only 841,000—is valid.

The monthly reports compiled by Statistics Canada show that in April, 1968, there were an estimated 7,210,000 people at work and that this figure rose to 8,201,000 last month.

That's the basis for the Trudeau claim of more than one million jobs having been added. The precise figure is 1,105,860.

Opposition Leader Stanfield is saying only 841,000 new jobs have been created in the four years and five months since Mr. Trudeau took office. Mr. Stanfield says Mr. Trudeau hasn't allowed for seasonal factors in his figures.

If the April, 1968, and April, 1972, figures are compared, the increase in employment would be only 800,000. If September figures for the two years are compared, the increase would be 672,000.

Kierans to Vote NDP

Lewis Now Thinks NDP Might Win Second Place

OTTAWA (CP) — Up to now, NDP Leader David Lewis has repeatedly refused "to play the numbers game" when asked to predict Oct. 30 election results.

But Monday, encouraged by the announcement of former Liberal Cabinet Minister Eric Kierans that he will vote for the New Democrats, Mr. Lewis told a rousing audience of supporters here the party has a realistic chance of placing second.

Mr. Lewis, travelling under RCMP protection following a shooting attempt last week on the life of an NDP candidate in Kitchener, Ont., said Mr. Kierans is among thousands of disaffected Liberals intending to vote New Democrat.

Mr. Kierans resigned from the federal cabinet last year in protest over government economic policy and wrote the introduction to a book on government handling of corporations published last week under Mr. Lewis's name.

In a letter to Prime Minister Trudeau, released Monday, Mr. Kierans said he intends to vote New Democrat in Mr. Trudeau's riding of Montreal Mount Royal.

Mr. Lewis enthused that a recent Gallup poll indicated an NDP official opposition is "a very realistic possibility."

The poll referred to indicates that NDP support rose to 21 per cent from 15 per cent in the third week of September.

He added that many voters consider the New Democrats, not the Conservatives, as the alternative to Liberal government.

Two Ministers Answer Lewis

No Decision Reached on Pipeline

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Election statements continued to flow Monday from the Mackenzie Valley pipeline proposal as two cabinet ministers denied there is a firm decision to go ahead with the $5-billion project.

Northern Development Minister Jean Chretien said at an Arctic research seminar in Mont Gabriel, Que., that it was premature for New Democratic Leader David Lewis to claim the government is committed to construction of the pipeline.

Mr. Lewis said Sunday the government plans to go ahead, with the project despite warnings that it could bankrupt the Canadian economy. He was referring to study papers prepared for the Mont Gabriel seminar which suggest the pipeline cost may be too much for the economy to bear.

In Ottawa, Energy Minister Donald Macdonald released a telegram to the Committee for an Independent Canada saying there is no commitment at this stage to the pipeline, proposed as a means of exploiting Arctic gas reserves.

But the telegram, sent last week, adds:

"There seems little doubt that a pipeline will at some time be constructed in view of the Indica lons of a successful exploration program in the region of the Mackenzie delta."

Mr. Lewis has said the pipeline plan should be suspended until there is enough Canadian money to complete it.

Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said in Chicoutimi, Que., that Canadian equity control should be the aim of the government pipeline proposal.

And he added that there should be guarantees of environmental protection before actual cons truction gets under way.

The Conservative leader's campaign was relatively quiet Monday but today he is to appear in Chicoutimi with his Quebec campaign leader Claude Wagner.

Mr. Trudeau returns to active campaigning today with a mass rally in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.

NDP Candidate Claims Unions Whipping Boys

TRENTON (Staff) — Referring to Canadian unions as "the nation's economic whipping boys," Prince Edward-Hastings NDP candidate Richard Lunn last night lashed out at several information concerns, including the national media, for their misrepresentation.

Speaking to the Trenton Rotary Club, meeting at the Dutch Mill Inn, Mr. Lunn said unions have been accused of being too powerful, of pursuing their own selfish interests to the detriment of organized workers, the poor, and those on fixed incomes.

He said much of this poor image-making stems from public ignorance of unions, our education system," "one-sided press coverage of labor events," and the Canadian labor relations system itself, which, he charges, "literally forces unions to strike occasionally to obtain fair and justifiable wage increases."

The Hillier native and Toronto journalism instructor used several statistics to back up his claims. One poll revealed that more than one-third of Canadians believe that "big labor poses the greatest threat to Canada in years to come," compared with only 29 per cent who feared big business and 22 per cent who feared big government," he said.

He quoted other polls which found that 91 per cent believe strikes were having a serious effect on the economy, that 46 per cent of the people blamed unions for inflation, 17 per cent blamed government, and 1 per cent blamed businesses.

Mr. Lunn said many politicians, and he named the Social Credit party, and to some extent the Conservatives, have taken advantage of these feelings to capitalize by promising more legislation "to shackle unions and destroy them of their hard - won democratic rights."

As for the Liberals, the NDP candidate admitted that "they've got you accepting a "get tough-with-labor" policy, but did attack these top-level government ministers . . . Otto Lang, C. M. Drury and Jean Pierre Cote . . . as being openly critical of the use of the strike weapon by unions in the public service.

Much of the blame lies with poor education regarding unions, he said. Education systems, he said, graduate Canadians "virtually nothing of value about the labor movement. The textbooks glorify the business tycoons and politicians of the past, without mentioning the heroes and pioneers of organized labor.

"The few mentions of labor deal with the riots and strikes that punctuated it's formative years."

As for the media, Mr. Lunn said their concentration on what he described as the five per cent of labor negotiations that result in confrontation or strike action, retains a "periscope . . . of strikes and occasional picket-line violence."

He cited a poor Canadian labor relations systems as the worst offender. "Organized wage and salary earners are the only group in our society who are obliged to justify and fight for increased incomes," he told the Rotarians.

"The manufacturer who wishes to raise his income merely adds another cent or two to the price of his product; the retailer adds his markup; the doctors and lawyers raise their fees; the landlord raises his rent, and the banker raises his interest rates."

Unlike the unions who must negotiate wage increases, Mr. Lunn said those previously mentioned do so "unilaterally and explain it without reference to any regulations, laws, or other forms of control.

His solutions stated the labor relations system should be corrected to prevent "arbitrary erosion of labor's rights," plus explosion of "the myths about unions, and put forward a positive program to safeguard a st reeg-

Walkers Get Council Thanks

TRENTON (Staff) — Trenton town council Monday night held an official word of thanks for all those who participated in the Saturday, Oct. 7 walkathon that raised more than $2,000 for the proposed Trenton children's pool-in Centennial Park.

Several of the council members admitted to stiff joints and blisters from their participation. Mayor Duncan McDonald completed 14 miles; Councillors George Greer and Ted Parker, walked the full 20, and Councillor Paul Tropp completed six before a large blister put him out of the race.

then labor freedoms."

Unlike strikes, which he said have been condemned as barbaric and obsolete, the New Democratic Party standard bearer criticized "our entire economic structure" as "barbaric. He said this "cut-throat system" reduces a distribution of income governed by power and rank.

Strikes, "contrary to public belief," are not sought after by unions, he said, adding that unions measure success by the lack of need for strikes.

He said in an attempt to shoot down theories that unions are all - powerful, stating if they were, they should have been able to redistribute the national income to a much greater extent than they have so far managed. Although most people are better off today, much the same income gaps remain between various groups of the population.

"This state of affairs could hardly exist if the unions were now more powerful than the employers."

Mr. Lunn concluded his talk Monday, by reviewing the NDP's five-step program for improving labor relations, which he said, they base on the assumption that most Canadian unions are "law seeking rather than too strong," in regard to bargaining for technological change, assuring equal speedups and human values in the mechanization of production.

He Earlier organizing procedures: Canadian unions are restricted to one - quarter of the labor force. Regulations governing union organization and certification should be liberalized and stiffer penalties be imposed on unfair labor practices by employers who want to keep unions out.

Give unions financial facts: The NDP claims unions are refused, all information about companies' finances, or courts are being appealed by employers' profits, productivity and labor costs.

Eliminate management's residual rights: The employer in many cases has the right to make changes in working conditions unless otherwise stated in working agreements. During the period of the contract, the worker has no power to protect members' such changes are made, even if layoffs or dislocations are the result.

De-legalize labor relations: The "intrusion of the courts" into labor relations is labelled a major source of trouble. Rulings of arbitrat on both by governments and government agencies. The NDP charges in many cases, rulings are based on legal interpretation of contracts rather than the intent of a disputed clause or the ideal of "industrial democracy."

— Encourage industrial democracy: The NDP would put an end to private, secret and unilateral decision-making by managers "whose sole concern is profits". Instead, they would insist that all decisions affecting employees and communities in which they live, would be made jointly with the unions. These decisions would include the setting of work schedules, manning and the methods and pace of work.

When You Don't Have Change

A regular feature of the campaign day of Frank Follwell, Liberal candidate for Hastings, is a mini-street greeting session in at least one municipality. Yesterday was no exception. Strolling down Front Street in Belleville, Follwell met Mrs. Harold Howes, a local resident; who didn't have the right change for her parking meter so Follwell fed the meter. Dr. John Hart, a leading Liberal supporter, is shown behind the candidate and Mrs. Howes.

NDP Says Follwell Should Withdraw

The Hastings New Democratic Party this morning issued the following statement:

Ian E. Reilly, Official Agent for "Eridge G. Brethour, the NDP Candidate in Hastings Riding in the October 30th election this morning called for the withdrawal from the election of Frank Follwell, the Liberal Candidate.

Mr. Reilly charged that Mr. Follwell has stooped to the lowest form of campaigning, the use of innocent children to further his political ambitions. To back up his charges Mr. Reilly cited the case of the son of Mr. Gerald Cunningham of Montgomery Blvd., Belleville.

According to Mr. Cunningham, his son had been asked by other students at school to drop into the Follwell headquarters on Front St. to clean up Committee rooms and see what was happening. While there, Mr. Follwell's campaign staff suggested that Mr. Cunningham, son, who is only 12 years old and the other children might get a trip if they would go with them to CJBQ Radio and make some tapes in favor of Mr. Follwell's honesty and integrity, provided Mr. Follwell got elected.

Since Mr. Cunningham's son is a minor, and clearly not old enough to make up his own mind on such a serious matter, and definitely not old enough to vote, Mr. Cunningham has demanded that CJBQ not use the tapes containing his son's statements, and he further has expressed doubts as to the validity of Mr. Follwell's campaign slogan — "The Man For Hastings".

Mr. Reilly went on to say that if Frank Follwell and his campaign committee will lower themselves to tricking children to get elected, what can we expect of them if Mr. Follwell happens to make it appearance of the soloist, Gary Karr, who performed the concerto in A Major for Double Bass and Orchestra by Domenico Dragonetti.

Cunningham, son, who is

The incredible feats of virtuosity Mr. Karr evoked from so cumbersome an instrument, which is considered the grand father of the string family of instruments, was a delight to hear. Undaunted by an unresponding harpsichord in the first movement, the hand some soloist kept fiddling away with a flair that won him a round of applause from the audience.

The Hungarian Dances Nos. 1, 5 and 6 by Johannes Brahms were played next by the orchestra. Typical of its people, the music at times transported listeners into the land of the gypsies. As the nomadic tribes never wrote, nor published their tunes, the concert goer is indebted to the German composer for preserving this stirring Hungarian folk music, which would not likely have reached audiences of the world at large.

In a contemporary vein the orchestra opened the second half of the program with the Adagio for Strings by Samuel Barber. The foremost Symphony is to be congratulated, having such well known artists as its first desks, as the Strings gave a well blended reading of this melodious work.

In the following Suite No. 3 in C Major for unaccompanied violoncello by Johann Sebastian Bach, the solo cellist not had an opportunity to strain dislight the versatility of the instrument. Having addressed the young in the audience at the beginning of this Suite in seven movements, the cellist played only two and proceeded to tell a story of a fly and an elephant while making the appropriate sounds on his instrument. If this proceeding, to which the concert goer is treated of late, is not considered valuable, one could not deduce if from the rousing applause with which the appreciative young performer was rewarded.

The closing selection, Voices of Spring, from the pen of the waltz king Johann Strauss Jr., added old world charm to the evening. Reminiscent of a bygone era and made familiar to millions of radio audiences by the coloratura soprano Erna Sack. Dr. Brott evoked just enough lift from his players to leave his listeners in want of more. Enthusiastic applause was acknowledged by conductor Brott, who did not respond with an encore.

Convicts Unrestrained

The Aikenbrack document charged that the disciplinary ability of Millhaven authority had been "crippled to pretty nearly nothing."

This not only has made control of inmate population impossible but it has completely destroyed staff morale. Higher authority, is resentful of acknowledging this as a fact of life."

Discipline rules have been so altered that inmates can destroy public property with impunity and without restitution, it said.

Regional Director Mahoney discounted the charge about lessening of authority.

"I just don't believe it's true. Changes have been made in disciplinary procedures over a period of time. But to say anybody has been stripped of authority is just ridiculous," he said.

Sparking Attention

Miss Loraine Brown, selected Miss Fire Prevention at CFB Trenton Friday night, gets all the attention from base commander Col. W. G. Paisley and runners-up, left to right, Dawn Tower, Pte. Ann O'Connor and Sharon Wigley. The girls each submitted essays and were selected by a panel of judges. The dance, attended by more than 500, raised approximately $1,000 for the Canadian Muscular Dystrophy Association and was organized by the CFB Trenton Fire Department and the Prince Edward-Hastings Mutual Fire Aid Association.

Council to Name Dundas St. Park

City council will be asked to approve a name for a West Dundas Street park area which during the past summer drew compliments from many city flower lovers.

It is the hillside park area carved out of the old Devil's Elbow hill at the former junction of Dundas Street West and Highland Ave.

A year ago the Belleville Horticultural Society combined with the city parks to plant the hills which this year transformed the former eyesore area into a colorful flower bed.

Society members want to name the area Hills Park and the matter was before the city parks board at its last meeting.

But the area has never been dedicated as a park area and board members referred the naming to city council.

Outdoor Education Centre to Open

The Plainfield Outdoor Education Centre — an ecologically sensitive part of the Moira River Conservation Authority and the Hastings County Board of Education — will be officially opened at noon this coming Saturday.

Wayne Brooks, co-ordinator of outdoor education for the school board, and Helen Jeffrey, chairman of the authority information and education committee of the board will act as co-chairmen for the event.

The general public is invited to attend the opening and to inspect the outdoor education facilities.

The board of education has provided a completely outfitted portable classroom for the site which is in more than 100 acres of bush and scrub land about the Moira river basin east of the Ontario Hydro Generating Station at Plainfield.

Taking part in the official opening will be Eric Runions, director of education, and Donald Williams, chairman of the school board. Assistant chairman James Spry and Don Williams, board chairman will officially open the centre.

Members of the senior home economics class at Harmony Public School will put their classroom learning to practical use. Class members will provide lunch following the opening ceremonies.

Jaycees May Open Information Booth

The Highway 41 tourist information booth which did not open this season, will likely be operated by the Napanee and District Jaycee organization next summer.

Jaycee president Ted Smart said no firm decisions have been made by either the Land O'Lakes Tourist Association or the service club, but if the Napanee Chamber of Commerce declines to operate the booth again, the Jaycees will likely take over the task. The booth, owned by the tourist association, has been manned by the local C of C for the past three years but last summer funds were limited, a new shopping promotion campaign called Hoopla Days was organized, and the booth fell by the wayside.

Mr. Smart feels it will be close to next year before the details will be worked out as to who will operate the booth. Mr. Smart, who is manager of a gas mart on which the booth is now located, is also an executive member of the tourist association for the Napanee-Hay Bay area elected at the annual meeting recently in Kaladar.

He said the service club attempted this summer to get the booth open because of the number of tourist inquiries he received at the gas station but an agreement could not be reached with the association and the booth remained closed.

C of C president Herbert Hayes said the tourist association gave the chamber $300 to offset costs of operating the booth during the summer months. He said the total cost exceeded $600.

Because of Hoopla Days, the chamber had to tighten the purse strings this summer and could not afford to operate the tourist booth, he added.

Mr. Hayes said he could not indicate now whether the C of C will operate the booth next year because a new executive will likely be elected for the 1973 year. He agreed the booth was an asset to the community and local merchants but would not attempt to speculate on the new executive's intentions.

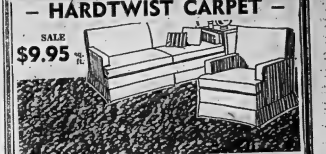
Shaggy Needs A Home



This dog we picked is a long haired terrier. This dog is a boy. We want to call it Shaggy. He is black, white and beige. He has brown eyes. He has long shaggy, soft fur and his ears are too. He is four months old. He weighs 22 pounds. He may grow a little bigger.

He broke his back right leg because he was hit by a car. Some men found him by the road. He has been in the hospital for one month. He had all his distemper and hepatitis shots and is very healthy. He is very playful, happy excited and friendly.

We want this dog to have a good home. We also wish that somebody will adopt this dog and take very good care of it. Please call the Ontario Humane Society (967-1123) between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. Open seven by the Hearing Handicapped class at Queen Mary Public School.

Auto Appeal

Competition in the auto industry is as fierce as any, and probably more intense than most.

Some manufacturers have gone under in recent years, notably Studebaker, and it is ironic to recall that this firm was the first to introduce compacts to the North American scene, a move that was copied by the "Big Three." They continue to prosper, but Studebaker, a company noted for its sleek — almost before-its-time styling — continued to go downhill and finally ceased production.

It is this time a famous German import, whose merit lies not so much in styling but in a functional appearance combined with mechanical reliability, was selling like the proverbial hot cakes all over this continent and abroad. It still does, but the more immediate past has been marked by the extraordinary rise, to achieve a dominant corner of the market ,of Japanese products. Here too are functional lines, combined with reliability and an economy of price and operation that accounts in large measure for their popularity.

The Big Three of course, as well as their smaller rival, American Motors, are also in the compact field and these vehicles are in good demand too.

The other major supplier of cars for the North American market is Britain, although its products (with the possible exception of small sports cars) are no longer in the same mass appeal category as the vehicles from Germany and Japan. And they have strong rivals as well in top quality products from France and Sweden.

Meanwhile the larger type of auto, which for many years now has been synonymous with the North American travelling scene, is still very much to the fore. For long distance travelling in particular this is the vehicle to own. In the area of styling there was a time when this kind of auto had got out of hand as it were. There was an excess of chrome and fins and bulges and a vulgarity of appearance generally. This led a delegate to a conference in The Hague to speak once of the "fantastic and insolent products of the United States auto industry."

But now that is all changed. There are few if any protuberances. Styling is now just that — with fine lines and grace — as may be appraised at The Mall just now. On Sunday a selection of new vehicles was driven into position inside the shopping complex for public view this week. We can envisage a keen respose. Attention is also being given in the modern car to emission control in exhaust systems. It is all part of the continuing and fascinating saga of the automobile.

Exchange with Lahr

It is good to see that in the twinning of Belleville with Lahr in Germany provision is being made for an annual exchange of students. Each year eight Canadian and eight German students will fly to each other's community.

In this way Belleville is increasing still further its direct contacts with other countries. Already we have the Rotary Club's student exchange which brought Sonja Johnson and Dale Lumley from Natal for a year at the Collegiate and sent BCI students Ian Acton and Peter Cox to Natal.

The two South African girls summed up their impressions of Canada in an address to their Rotary hosts in Belleville yesterday. They return home before long and then in January the club will welcome two Australian girls.

Bellevillians are travelled people and our links with the Canadian Forces base at Trenton complements this. In fact it is through this that the most recent of these links is being developed, for it is there that Canada has its NATO operation in the shared defence of western Europe.-And of course there was many an area citizen involved in overseas service in the two World Wars.

However these new links can only make the name of ,Belleville known still farther afield and that is encouraging. It will mean not only new international friendships, but it could also lead to development of fresh commercial and industrial contacts abroad.

Few Speeches But Constituents Will Remember Him

Lee Grills Packs After 13 Years on Parliament Hill

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — It was sort of sad, up there in Room 555D of Parliament Hill's rambling old Centre Block.

Lee Grills was packing.

In Eastern Ontario's Hastings County politics since 1946 when he entered public life as a township councillor, and for 13 years Conservative MP, he was busy stuffing his memories and mementoes of Parliament into 17 cardboard cartons.

He would need more than 17, for there were pictures, plaques and even plants to be boxed.

But for now, all the small office would hold, with cartons covering the floor, the old red cloth sofa and stuffed chair, was 17.

All the while Lee Grills talked. In joy of happy parliamentary memories. And in sorrow.

There have been, some other 50 parliamentarians, Conservatives and Liberals, doing the same thing, cleaning out their desks and offices and saying goodbye to old friends. They were not running in this election, and with each one of them it is a personal and often emotional thing.

With Lee Grills it involved his wife Beatrice, or Barney as friends in Belleville and Ottawa alike know her.

All his political years she had "kind of run with me in double harness, campaigning every day of the life," and now with a serious heart ailment she was in the supportive cast, unit of Belleville General Hospital.

Lee Grills had been intending to fight this one more election, his eighth, but now he could not.

Jack Ellis, a former mayor of Belleville, instead was running for the Conservatives, and Lee Grills was busy packing in confident expectation that he would be moving into Room 558D after the election.

Into the 17 cartons were going the stacked correspondence of the years, files, books, old copies of Hansard in which he had been recorded as saying something about tourism, agriculture — in the Commons.

And pencils, hundreds and hundreds of them, each carrying the message "Lee Grills MP — Your Friendly Milkman — Hastings Riding Belleville Canada" and his picture.

"Must have given away maybe some 150,000 of them," Mrs. Grills says as he dumps a few hundred into a carton, "always had the message printed up near the eraser so when the pencil sharpened down to a stub, it was still there."

Down off the walls were coming the photographs — of the Queen, the Royal Family, the home at 550 East Bridge Street in Belleville, the farm in Sidney township, the 1952 County Council of which he was warden, the old dairy.

He bought the dairy back in the early 1940s, he recalled, for something around $8,000, and a friend asked him if he had a slogan.

"All I've got," he told him, "is two horses, two wagons, a Lessig truck, a small metal-covered building, and a route that sells 600 qts."

When he sold the dairy five years ago, by then known across the country as "Lee Grills Friendly Milkman" sales were running 8,000 quarts.

"Gosh," he exploded, casting a lingering glance over the whiteby disordered office, "the plant. Got, to take that, although how do you pack a thing that size?"

He will find a way, for he has had the big cut-leaf philodendron these many years, ever since the PC ladies of Belleville presented it to him back in 1960.

All the while he was stripping the wall, rough wood 14-shelf bookcase, and packing old Commons Committee reports into cartons, his secretary Janet Salary was busy on the phone.

She was working on pension and unemployment insurance troubles of Lee Grills constituents, and never stopped talking.

"The one thing I feel pretty good about in leaving," he confessed, "is that I looked after my people. You have to do that.

"I never was much on the big speeches in the House. Made mighty few of them. Always figured 101 votes were back home in the county, not up here on The Hill.

"Folks, used to drop their passports around to our home and I would pick them up on the next weekend, take them to Ottawa and they were back the next weekend, as many as 24 at a time.

"Never asked anyone how they voted; they wanted me to do something for them in Ottawa. I'd try to oblige.

"I always figured if a man knows his mail, his phone, and calls for help from his people, that is what counts; and he could let somebody else do the talking in the Commons. . . .

"But I was always strictly home-town service that Lee Grills gave his people. He squeezed out time to take an active part in the work of Defence, Transport, Agriculture, and Public Accounts committees."

Now it was over. He was moving out. Breaking 13 years of a lifetime, and if Barney Ashawa Sunday nights, living the week divided between Parliament and a hotel room, and driving back to Belleville Friday nights to spend a busy Saturday with "all my people."

What will he do now?

Well, at 68 there's the farm, the home in Belleville, friends of a lifetime, and if Barney's health is up to it, maybe some travel. But today it is goodbye on Parliament Hill.

Chester Ronning Saw Red China's Birth

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Diplomat Chester Ronning is retired now but livint an active life in Camrose, Alberta from where he took off recently on a long visit to China, his birthplace and where he served as the last Canadian Minister to the old Chiang Kai-shek regime.

Mr. Ronning has always been a fervent believer in Canadian diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China, an event which finally took place in 1970 after a 21-year wait.

Mr. Ronning, the son of Norwegian Lutheran missionaries who worked in North China, always remembers October 1st, 1949, the day the New China officially came into existence.

During the founding celebrations in Peking that day, a senior foreign affairs committee of Friendship with Foreign People," soon to become Peking's new foreign ministry, asked Mr. Ronning if Canada was going to recognize the new regime.

That fuctionary was Huang Hua who finally came to Canada briefly in 1971 as Foreign Minister, ambassador to Canada, and is now at the United Nations as Chief of the Permanent Delegation of the People's Republic of China at the UN.

Canada did not take up Huang Hua's suggestion back in 1949. According to Mr. Ronning the reason might have been a simple and unexpected snafu in Far Eastern communications.

Lester Pearson, then Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs arrived in Colombo, Ceylon for the opening of the Colombo Plan in January, 1950. He told Hume he would phone Mao in China when he arrived in Hong Kong on his way home. The phone call from Pearson in Hong Kong never got through. Mr. Pearson went home and in June, 1950 the Korean War broke out. The long wait for Ottawa to recognize Mao's China began with it.

Why did we wait so long to recognize China? Who really knows except perhaps Mr. Pearson and the senior ministers of External Affairs of the 1950s and 1960s who held back? The reasons given, and it's probably the correct one, is that public pressures were placed upon Canada from Washington to those two decades not to recognize China. It was impossible

McNie New Man in Cabinet

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Reporter
From The Intelligencer's

A lay preacher, a winner in business, a devoted family man (but in no way a prohibitionist), an ardent Progressive Conservative but a non-conformist politician, old buddy of Joey Smallwood, father of five, and at 52 still working on a B.A.

Jack D. McNie, one of the recent group of cabinet appointments, is one of the most unusual men we have had enter our provincial government.

And one of the most promising.

Mr. McNie is the new minister of colleges and universities.

One would say this will mean an automatic improvement in our present inefficient and generally topsy - turvy situation in higher education.

Universities suddenly finding they are losing their sex appeal and potential new students giving them the go-by.

Students (some of them) with the attitude they are doing us all a favor by going to school.

Community colleges in a status contest with extravagant duplication of courses, waste of facilities and no coherent overall policy."

These are a few of the messy ladies of the really appalling position of our higher education.

Of all the members we have had here in recent years, Jack McNie (who was elected in 1971) is the one who just possibly might be able to make some sense out of this informal tangle.

He has drive. He started with Russell T. Kelly, the Hamilton advertising agency, in 1946 and ended up by owning the company (one of Canada's top 20 agencies).

He will be practical. He is down to earth. As a businessman he is accustomed to looking at the facts and figures. And neither educationists nor civil servants will con him with pious words.

Yet he will want good education. He believes in it. And he knows in it.

He actually is just completing his B.A. (mainly at night he has been taking courses part-time for some years).

And he always has been dedicated to education. His Smallwood appointment was not the first.

Previously the Canadian who won a world reputation for his diplomatic savvy, the same Lester Pearson, could not break the Anglican over China probably because he could be forced up too easily to the Washington bureaucrats.

Yet the Canadian formula for recognizing China, but not including Peking's claim to Taiwan, has become the formula for most of the 30 odd nations which have recognized Peking since we did so in late 1970.

That formula was almost too complicate for the stylized, cautious language of diplomats. It is Canada "takes note" of Peking's claim to Taiwan. Then, to two words were satisfactory to the Peking regime and made possible a document of diplomatic recognition.

A few days ago, The People's Republic of China celebrated its 23rd birthday in a mood of self-satisfaction that the world's most populous nation has left the isolation which the Communist revolution of Chiang Kai-shek initiated in 1949.

The list of countries recognizing Peking, including Japan the largest each of all, is matched by the steady stream of Peking trade fairs which the Chinese have hosted in the last 18 months.

It probably has occurred to the Peking bureaucrats that Western countries by first recognizing China, then sending a trade fair have been doing what the old imperial powers used to do, let trade follow the flag.

A Film's Impact

Brantford Expositor

The movie that launched a million tears, "Love Story," has been subjected to a stinging backlash in recent months. Critics, and they're legion, tear long dry, have started about its fairy tale plot and characters. Ryan O'Neal, its star, even had the gall in a recent movie to agree when Barbra Streisand made fun of its sentimentality: "Love means never having to say you're sorry."

Despite the sour hard realism aside, Love Story had merits. It put across to a generation of young people the fun and interaction of human beings in love, the importance of friends and parents, and the adventure that ordinary living becomes for a young couple. All was heightened by the young wife's death, which, of course, also gave younger viewers some understanding of death's impact. Love Story's television showing on the weekend reaffirmed the movies' basic appeal: its concentration on two things of primary importance to the living room audience: love and health.

No one should feel sorry about crying over Love Story.

Canada's Election: U.S. View

Watertown (N.Y.) Times

The American presidential election campaign has failed to generate the enthusiasm generally associated with the election of a chief executive but it has been hoped, if not really expected by Northern New Yorkers that the Canadians would take up the slack by supplying an exciting contest between Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield. The outcome in Canada on Oct. 30 may well become both the current campaign has exhibited none of the drab that epitomized the activities four years ago.

The outlook for Mr. Trudeau is good, but what a difference four years make. In the spring of 1968 the Prime Minister, then Justice Minister, was like Lochinvar sweeping across the Canadian landscape bowling over his opponents and leaving many a female admirer in a swoon. A bachelor millionaire and a celebrity, a combination that beautifully complemented his erudition. Mr. Trudeau created sparks among Canadian voters. He was charmed, smooth and idolized.

Today, he is still attracting crowds wherever he campaigns and his young wife ought to be worth several votes to him, and she probably is. However, the recent remark of a waitress in Prince Edward Island may reflect that the charisma of a married man may not be that of a bachelor. How else can one explain the crumbling comment: "She doesn't go back to Quebec"? Only his fiercest opponent would have considered so unkind a remark in early 1968. In British Columbia he was referred to as "that French man in Ottawa".

Basically, the reflection of Quebec is also a reflection of the importance of that province in the election struggle. And if anything is likely to create excitement in the Canadian campaign it is Quebec and how other provinces feel about her. Perhaps the outlook is for performances by all party candidates that will be uninspiring as those by American presidential candidates.

Principal Visits Marmora Council

MARMORA (Special) — Wally Beevor, Principal of Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc, was welcomed by Reeve Jack Reynolds at the last regular meeting of Marmora Village Council.

As with other local municipalities that send students to CHSS, Mr. Beevor had asked for the meeting in order that he might become acquainted with the members of council. Mr. Beevor said he hoped that his visit would open up lines of communication between the school and the councils.

Jobs are no longer a sure thing upon graduation, Mr. Beevor said, and pointed out that students will have to be more creative and more imaginative if they are to succeed in obtaining employment that meets their hopes.

Schools must be humanized, Mr. Beevor believes, and reviewed with council his philosophy of what a school should be. He also discussed the goals of the school's administration and answered several questions which Council presented. Before leaving, Mr. Beevor issued an invitation to contact him at any time if a problem arises.

Mr. Morton and Mr. Taylor of the Morsan Chemical and Sanitation Co. of Toronto visited Council that evening and outlined their products which they recommended for rat control and household uses. Council promised to keep the information on file.

Albert Baldwin registered a complaint in regard to assessment of his father's property and water frontage rates.

A motion was passed accepting the county apportionment for 1973—15 per cent of a decrease in apportionment from 1972 and is based on an assessment of $1,114,818.

Tuesday, Oct. 31 will be proclaimed UNICEF Day in Marmora in response to a request from Hastings County UNICEF committee.

A Ministry of Environment letter advised council that plans for the village's proposed sewerage system are nearing completion and asked that a necessary bylaw be enacted.

A claim by Emerson Reid for damages to his car incurred at the Marmora Fairgrounds in June of 1972 has been turned down by the insurance company.

Robert Spencer promised council he would begin the repairs to the wall along Marmora Protestant Cemetery during the coming week and apologized for the delay.

Clerk William Shannon was directed to answer an inquiry from the department of labor that the county is considering the appointment of a building and plumbing inspector after the first of next year.

The Ministry of Environment has advised that, in view of the request by Robert Drummond for an extension of water and sewerage service to his new subdivision, the Ministry has reversed its opinion and is prepared to recommend to the Ontario Water Resources Commission that Matthew St. and part of Highway 7 be included in the sewerage project.

Greer, Galloway and Associates, consulting engineers, have requested a meeting to review with council the safety of the arena structure.

Works superintendent William Bishop reported that the work of filling in the drainage ditch in the new park would be completed within a day or two.

Mr. Bishop expressed concern about the condition of the village's streets, particularly McGill St. hill. The Rideau Construction Co. has failed so far to restore the streets torn up during the water extension project last year to their proper condition.

Canadian National Railways has advised council that the CN's Rideau Area Management has approved the sale of the Marmora right-of-way for the Village's use.

Ann Landers

A Tribute Paid Through Ann's Column

Dear Ann Landers: This per-
...ion I am writing about will never receive any citations or awards. No one will give her a testimonial dinner. She'll never get her picture in the paper, even when she dies, because she's not important or famous. But she is truly one of the greatest human beings who ever lived. Oct. 17 is her birthday and I would like to "immortalize" her in a special way. She reads your column every day.

— This woman lost her parents when she was young. She was raised by relatives who worked her like a slave. She had learned to cook for dozens of boarders by the time she was 16. She married at 20 and reared 15 children. They had no store-bought luxuries, but tons of home made bread and fresh vegetables from her own garden. This woman had a marvelous sense of humor. She knew how to administer discipline and give people faith in themselves because she had faith in herself.

She knew how to live with s m a l l - p o x, whooping cough, measles, TB, broken b o n e s, cancer, heart failure and alcoholism. She survived miscarriages, business failures and had three sons in the war in Vietnam.

She is not a nervous wreck, has never taken a sleeping pill or tranquilizer in her life and refuses to spend five minutes feeling sorry for herself. In case you haven't guessed it already, this woman is my mother—and she is my candidate for Mother Of Any Year.—Proud of Her

Dear Mother: Happy birthday to you, dear. Your cup runneth over.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a 20-year-old daughter who is in college. The other day, out of a clear sky, she said, "I want to tell you something so you won't be surprised when it happens. I am not going to live very long." Then she pointed to the lifeline on the palm of her hand and said, "There it is—plain as can be. My lifeline is crossed by another line about one fourth the way across the palm, which means a very short life."

I tried to persuade her that palm reading is bunk, that there is no significance to it what...ever, but she is unconvinced. Can you give me some facts that will ease my mind? If you said it, she might believe it. Yours, Ann.—Mother In Distress

Dear Mother: Everybody knows somebody who went to a fortune teller, a tea-leaf reader, a palmist, a crystal gazer or an astrologist, and was told something that came true. It was a combination of guesswork, coincidence, happenstance, exaggeration, imagination, adding facts, deleting facts—and it is without validity.

There is no scientific basis for palm reading or kindred fields that predict the future. Tell your daughter to use her head. If those gypsy fortune tellers could predict the future they'd be out at a racetrack or the Las Vegas gaming tables instead of sitting in those hot tents reading palms for a dollar a pop. Many an octogenarian has been buried with a short lifeline, according to a relative of mine who is an undertaker.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 16 and the original girl who can't say "no." They call me Rosie Roundheels and make a joke of it, but it's not funny. My reputation is bad and I'm scared to death my folks will get wind of it. Every time I go out with a different guy I say to myself, "This time I'm going to be a — to Alice. Advice to Parents on Shoplifting

By DORIS CLARK

If you have any reason to think your youngster may be traipsing around with the smarties who help themselves to small articles in our large stores, there are a few things you can do:

1. You can let your own teen-ager know that it is not just mischief to help himself or herself to anything that belongs to anybody else in any situation. It is dishonesty. Discovery might mean a criminal record.

2. Point out that the fear of being "chicken" is in itself "chicken".

3. If there is a shopping expedition coming up around your children and others, be aware of the amount of money they are carrying, what they plan to buy.

4. Know what your children are wearing and where they got it. If it was honestly bought there will be a sales slip.

5. If "clothes swapping" is going on, check with parents of the other swapper to make sure it is on the level.

We begin honest in little things. The father who refuses to be called to the telephone on Saturday, "Tell him I'm out" is making a lie seem o.k. Isn't this dishonest, too?

Dear Doris: This year 20 students, ages 15-17, decided to embark on a trip to the Mediterranean. Through New World Educational Cruises we planned it and our departure is for March 1973. It should prove interesting and mind-expanding because we will have a chance to see for ourselves, places and countries we have long studied about.

The big hang-up is money. Most students are working at a summer job as we have to raise $500, needed ourselves. Could you supply us with any ideas?

We have already sold chocolate bars, had a bottle drive, and a bike a-thon. Other ideas we have are a bake sale, white elephant sale, car washes, dances, fudge sales, lucky draws and suppers.

I would like to have something new that would go over big this fall. — A Future Traveller.

Dear Traveller: From the sound of it you could be giving me ideas! Making your group bank account grow is all part of the fun; and the trip itself will be something glorious to remember.

How about a used book sale? Most people have books they want to get rid of. The fall is a good time for a book sale, since avid readers are stocking up for the winter nights ahead.

Look for an empty store or an open strip of the marketplace and let everybody know that on a certain Saturday they can browse around and find some choice reading. Keep your prices low, and if, toward the end of the day, there are still some left, mark them down drastically.

Radio stations and your local newspaper will likely give publicity to go a ma b i t i o u s cause like this one. Bon voyage!

Senior Citizens Elect Officers

An election of officers was conducted at the recent meeting of the Belleville Senior Citizens Club held at the Recreation centre.

Before the meeting, however, Mr. W. Hales from the Belleville Utilities Commission explained the new plan which Belleville senior citizens may use to pay their utility accounts and the instructions for using the plan were distributed to those present. The plan is not mandatory but is available for those who wish to use it. Anyone wishing further information may telephone or call at the Utilities office.

President Mrs. K. Moon conducted the meeting at which Mrs. Lulu Adams was pianist. The birthday song was sung for those having birthdays in October and in turn they were invited to the party October 27 and asked to bring a guest.

During business, Mrs. Bowers read the minutes of the previous meeting and Mrs. Jackson gave the financial report. Mrs. Vickers reported on the card parties and reported that a nice sum was turned over to the treasury. A report on the sick was given by Mrs. Gist.

Mrs. Lulu Longhurst reported for the committee who went to Toronto in regard to seeing if there would be any assistance in obtaining larger quarters for the meetings.

Lorne Williams City Recreation Director conducted the election of officers with those elected as follows: president, Mrs. Lulu Longhurst; 1st vice-president Mrs. Hilda Brooks; 2nd vice - president, Lee Ketcheson; recording secretary, Mrs. Annie Haley; treasurer, Mrs. Jessie Lalonde, and auditors, Harry Taylor, and Stanley Beggs. These officers will be installed in January.

Mrs. Bedell was in charge of the program and entertainment was provided by Ken Stapley, Mrs. Gladys Smith and her daughters Bonnie and Darlene, members of the Trent Valley Jamboree. The program was enjoyed by all and thanks for the entertainment was expressed by Mrs. Gedell and Mrs. Moon.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Beatrice Smith, Mrs. Ann Ekner and assistants. The draw was won by Mrs. Bessie McMullen.

Members of the Club held a fall bazaar recently in Christ Church parish hall which was well attended. Guests were received by the president Mrs. K. Moon and Mrs. L. Longhurst.

Many beautiful items were sold at the various sales booths and tickets were sold on a lovely quilt and the winner was Mrs. Bessie Shore, Dufferin Ave.

From all reports the results of the event were most gratifying.

'Equal Employment Legislation' Topic At B and P Meeting

By ALLISON STICKLE
Women's Editor

"It is the ability to do the job which counts," emphasized Miss Barbara Shields of the Ontario Ministry of Labor Women's Bureau, as she addressed members of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's Club and guests at a meeting held Monday evening at the Sun Valley Motor Inn.

As special speaker for the meeting during Business Women's Week, Miss Shields commended the B and P Clubs particularly for its stand on the Royal Commission on the Status of Women as its recommendations are used as a blue-print for action.

Speaking on the topic, "Equal Employment Legislation", Miss Shields told her attentive audience of the enormous changes which have taken place during the past few years, substantially since 1963, and since then with the formation of the Women's Bureau in 1970. Further amendments have been made even as recently as last June whereby qualifications are the only prerequisites.

She dealt in particular with the advertising act which states classified ads must be integrated. As a result of the Human Rights Code equal employment rights are given legislative force and working women have the right, and must use this legislation. This point was expressed by Mrs. Gedell and Mrs. Moon.

South African Visitors Describe Canadian Tour

With $200 saved by working in the cavernous book room at Belleville Collegiate, and the hospitality of Rotarians and family friends across Canada, South African students Sonja Johnson and Hugh Tingley went west as far as Victoria during the summer months.

The exchange students related their experiences to the Rotary Club on Monday, often in amusing detail, from the time they followed a snow plow into Quebec City, last winter, shortly after their arrival in January, to a 90-degree day in Winnipeg. Here they were in a hotel with electric blankets but air conditioning was on their minds and when they turned this up it blew the fuses of the blankets.

With a detour into Michigan to stay with friends at Grand Rapids, the girls proceeded across Canada, getting ill temporarily at Sudbury, where they went to the wrong railroad station, enjoying a warm welcome at Sioux Lookout and winding up their visit there with a visit to the garbage dump to "see the bears".

On to Winnipeg, and Edmonton, where they met an Australian girl on a similar exchange visit and on route Jasper, Kamloops and Vancouver where they saw a killer whale — at Stanley Park — and indulged in a modest gambling fling at the Pacific National Exhibition, coming away a dollar or so to the good. Economizing as much as they could though, the girls got through quite a lot of chocolate bars and ice cream during their trip.

Then Victoria and Nanaimo and a start on the journey back to Belleville.

Because of many such requests, the Banff club was unable to make arrangements for the girls, so they went there anyway on their own. Inlike five, as well as to Lake Louise, then to Calgary where they were entertained at a wiener roast; Regina with a look at the "brown and beige patchwork quilt" of the prairies from the air and Thunder Bay where they stayed with a family with five children and gave an informal talk to family and friends numbering about 40.

A visit to an amethyst mine was another highlight of this phase of the girl's trip. Then back to Belleville, somewhat travel weary, via Sault Ste. Marie.

Having seen so much of Canada, not to mention other parts of Ontario, from Huntsville to Niagara Falls, since their arrival, the students, now that their sojourn here is drawing to a close, have been becoming further acquainted with Belleville. This has included a visit to The Intelligencer and a number of other local firms, including Lenning's hat plant on Coleman Street and Deacon's Sportswear plant on Dundas.

Miss Lumley, who plans to become a dietician, and hopes to remain in Canada until January, said when they returned, to South Africa they would be thinking a lot of Canada "because we really loved Canada and will be sorry to leave it."

Miss Johnson leaves for home in December via Holland where she will attend her sister's wedding. She hopes to take up nursery school teaching.

Ernest Burnham, who has been the girls' counselor during their stay, thanked them for their address and Rotary president Robert Ord said they were "exemplary students and wonderful ambassadors for their country."

Board Asks More Light In Park

More night time illumination for the Stanley Parkette area in East Belleville will be installed if a recommendation from the city parks board is acted upon.

During the summer several complaints from area residents were received by board chairman Ald. Paul Russell about noisy nighttime parties at the parkette with a suggestion that a curfew be established.

Since then an investigation of lighting in the area has been carried out with the recommendation that the installation of additional lighting on Southwood Crescent and Stanley Park Drive in the parkette area be installed.

Also the parks board has recommended the installation of an additional dust - to - dawn light in the park proper.

Also at its last regular meeting the parks board recommended approval of the tender of Supreme Fence Ltd. for the erection of 1,410 feet of chain link fence at the board's new garden and supply centre on North Park Street. The tender — the lowest of three received — was for $5,544.

Athol May Get Deputy Reeve

ATHOL (Staff) — If revised voters-lists show the required number of electors, Athol township will be represented in Prince Edward county council next year by a deputy reeve.

Township clerk Douglas Moore said 1,000 voters must be listed before a deputy reeve can be elected.

A change in the Municipal Act has made it possible for the new township voters" list to include the names of tenants. This revision possibly will allow Athol township the electors required for a deputy reeve.

Mr. Moore commented voters' list has not yet been prepared for the upcoming election in his municipality and it will be several weeks before it is known whether the office of deputy reeve will be initiated.

Present reeve of Athol is Keith Brummell.

Hospital Parking Brings Complaints

On-street parking in the vicinity of Belleville General Hospital is a continuing concern of area residents and the city traffic and light committee has been asked to do something about it.

Committee chairman Alderman Arthur Keegan told the traffic committee Monday that he had received numerous verbal complaints and read a letter from one resident, who said homeowners were being made to suffer from the shortsightedness of hospital authorities in not providing sufficient parking for employees.

Parking on streets both east and north of the hospital was making it difficult for homeowners to get in and out of their driveways, it was stated.

Hospital employees, not hospital visitors, were believed mainly responsible for the parking as cars were left for long durations.

The complainant's letter said it might be too much to ask for a complete ban on street parking, as this would interfere with private visitors to area residents.

Alderman Paul Russell wondered whether hospitals should be required to provide parking places for employees, the same as is required for apartments and business places in other parts of the city.

The on-street parking problem in the hospital area was referred to the police traffic department for investigation.

Levesque Says Liberals Plan Violent Incidents

CHICOUTIMI (CP) — Rene Levesque, Parti Quebecois leader, said Monday he has received a letter from a federal Liberal party organizer, saying the Liberals have decided "to instigate violent incidents, if necessary, before Oct. 30," the date of the federal election.

Mr. Levesque said he did not want to elaborate on the letter, but he added the Liberal organizer said he decided to write it because he was "disgusted with such a project."

The Parti Quebecois leader said his party had other documents which would be analysed and then published "if it's worth it."

"These reports are paid for by the citizens and they have the right to know their contents."

In Toronto, Senator Richard Stanbury, president of the Liberal Party, said:

"This is absolute nonsense, slander, the sort of thing that you expect to get from that source, I guess.

"There's no way in which the Liberal party would be involved in any such thing, which Mr. Levesque knows very well."

Asked if his party would have an official statement later, he said:

"It hardly sounds worth an election. It's one of those silly things which would be answered by the citizens and they have the right to know their contents."

PCs Propose Centres For Sport Excellence

OTTAWA (CP) — An environmental corps to relieve youth unemployment and regional training centres to promote excellence in sports have been proposed by the Progressive Conservative party in policy papers released Monday.

The papers outline Conservative guidelines in preparing the document on sports. The party said in a news release that a "key guide" in preparing the documents were the discussion papers used at the party's annual meeting in Ottawa last December and voting on the discussion papers.

The youth policy paper said that an environmental corps would be established in the environment department to help preserve natural resources and the environment.

The corps would be expended every summer to employ 15,000 young Canadians in clean-up and environmental projects across the country.

The party document also said a youth employment section should be set up in the immediate department to help young people find jobs.

Bomb Kills Canadian Tourist

BUENOS AIRES (CP-REUTER) — A vacationing Canadian airlines worker was killed and her optometrist husband injured Monday night when a terrorist bomb exploded on the 22nd floor of a luxury American-owned hotel 48 hours before planned demonstrations in support of former Argentine president Juan Peron.

Lois Crozier, 35, of West Vancouver, was killed when the blast shook the 24-storey Sheraton Hotel, starting a fire that afflicted the top four floors. She was employed in the ticket agency of the Vancouver branch of Pacific Western Airlines.

Her husband, Gerald, 35, was taken to hospital suffering from a fractured right hand and shock.

The blast followed a series of explosions in Argentine cities Sunday night, apparently set by Peronist supporters in commemoration of Peron's march toward the presidency 22 years ago.

Most of the other bombs had been placed in the homes of military officers in Buenos Aires, Santa Fe, Mar del Plata and Mendoza. A navy captain and a neighbor were injured in a Buenos Aires suburb blast, but the other explosions only caused property damage.

Demolition experts defused at least six other bombs.

Allergic Are Free Of Cancer

MONTREAL (CP) — Statistics show that allergy sufferers may be less likely to develop cancer than non - sufferers, Dr. G. H. Strejan, an allergy researcher at the University of Western Ontario, told the International Symposium on Hypersensitivity Monday.

Dr. Strejan said only three per cent of people who have cancer have allergies. He said the incidence of allergies in the general population is three times that percentage.

"A person with an allergy produces large amounts of a specific antibody and this may be connected with the ability to reject malignant tumors."

The doctor said the possible connection between between and the ability to resist cancer is still theoretical.

Vitamin C Needs May Be High

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas scientist reported Monday that new tests suggest that a growing child's daily Vitamin C requirements may be 40 times higher than recommended by the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Academy of Sciences.

Dr. Man-Li S. Yew, of the University of Texas at Austin, addressing the autumn meeting of the NAS, also suggested that the new findings support the views of Dr. Linus Pauling, a Nobel Prize winner from Stanford University who has claimed Vitamin C offers a powerful weapon against the common cold.

Yew made no specific reference in his report to Pauling's common-cold claims, but declared:

"Pauling's suggestion that human needs for this vitamin probably have been underestimated by a factor of 10 or more has frequently been ignored or refuted by rhetoric rather than sound experimentation."

Caution Shown In Assessment Of Chou's Talk

PEKING (Reuter) — Widespread foreign press speculation about China's future leadership after a meeting last week between Premier Chou En-lai and U.S. newspaper editors is being considered by diplomats and knowledgeable observers here with extreme caution.

The 22 editors reported that Chou spoke freely and frankly about the succession problem but there have been disparate interpretations of the meaning of his remarks.

During this year there have been a number of articles in the official press about training "people to believe that, with party committees and revolutionary committees already set up, the men who could be selected and trained have already entered the leadership teams . . . and that in consequence the training of successors is already well under way."

Some observers here took this as hinting that the question of successors to Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai had not yet been resolved.

Most diplomats here support the theory that there will be a collective leadership in a post-Mao and post-Chou era.

successors at all levels throughout the party machinery.

This is seen by most observers here to be more connected with the downfall of Chairman Mao's successor and defence minister, Lin Piao, than with the age of the present leadership.

The latest of these articles appeared in the People's Daily Oct. 13, entitled "Train and Bring Up Millions of Successors to the Cause of Revolution."

The only indication that this could also be applied to the top-most leadership came toward the end of the major article. It said it was wrong for

Canadian Exporters Enjoy Good Year

MONTEBELLO, Que. (CP) — What is difference a year makes for the Canadian Export Association.

Twelve months ago, it looked ahead to a period filled with uncertainties and bleak prospects for international trade. There was no way of predicting how the United States—Canada's main trading partner—would restore order to its economy and the international monetary and trading systems.

Looking back over the year, chairman George Couture reported today, "it appears that Canadian exporters have fared a good deal better than most would have expected."

Value of merchandise exports for the first seven months of 1972 were up $1 billion or 16 per cent over the same period last year, he told the association's annual meeting. In the same period imports showed a year-to-year gain of $1.8 billion or 26.5 per cent.

As a result the merchandise trade surplus fell to $547 million at the end of July from $1.3 billion, but without the sharp contraction it seems probable that the Canadian dollar exchange rate would be higher than it is today."

Mr. Couture said all the deterioration in the surplus this year resulted from Canadian overseas trade. Trade with the U.S. showed a small year-to-year increase of $377 million.

A's Surviving Despite Disputes

OAKLAND (AP) — If the gaudy, shaggy Oakland Athletics should go on to beat Cincinnati Reds for the World Series baseball championship, it would be a staggering blow to the old theory that success is built on harmony and goodwill.

The sports world perhaps has never experienced a more disgruntled, edgy and unhappy team of winners.

Everybody's got a sore toe—from the mercurial owner, Charles O. Finley, and the chess-board manager, Dick Williams, to the star pitchers and the griping coterie of unsure second batsmen.

VIDA BLUE

Dissention is rampant on the Oakland team, yet the 1910 throwbacks with their handle-bar moustaches and multicolor uniforms continue to win.

It's one of the game's great mysteries.

The internal friction came to a steamy broil on the Athletics' wild overnight charter flight home after the team had gone 2-0 ahead of the Reds with a sweep of the first two games in Cincinnati.

Mike Epstein, the team's burly first baseman, confronted manager Williams with his displeasure at being yanked for a pinch-runner in the sixth inning of Sunday's game.

A shouting match ensued.

"It seems you don't like my kind of baseball," Williams said.

"I just feel you don't appreciate the way I've been busting my back for you," Epstein retorted. "I don't want it to happen again."

Williams paled.

"Just get your can out to the ball park and be ready to play ball," the manager barked, and walked away.

Another bitter incident occurred upon the team's arrival at the airport to be greeted by an enthusiastic welcoming crowd. Some of the weary players sought immediate refuge in the team bus.

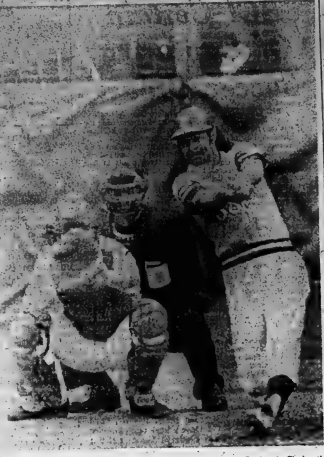
This irked Finley, who later chewed out the offenders.

"If there are any players on that bus who didn't have enough guts to get on the stand and show their appreciation, I don't want them," he said.

Flareups have erupted frequently in the team's march to the American League Western Division title, a playoff victory over Detroit Tigers and through the first two games of the World Series.

Vida Blue, the team's ace 24-game winner in 1971 season who got embroiled in a contract dispute prior to the current campaign, engaged in a word battle with Blue Moon Odom after Blue had saved the final playoff game for Odom in Detroit.

The argument took place in the Athletics' dressing room in front of team-mates and a number of reporters.



"It started out as friendly kidding," Blue explained later. "I apologized to Odom and he apologized to me."

Seals Step Aside for Series

OAKLAND (AP) — California Seals of the National Hockey League have postponed Wednesday's home opener against Chicago Black Hawks due to the baseball World Series, a Seals spokesman announced Monday.

He said the game has been rescheduled for Sunday in the Oakland Coliseum arena. Tickets already purchased for Wednesday's game will be honored.

Oakland Athletics and Cincinnati Reds are scheduled to play the fourth World Series game at the Coliseum Wednesday night.

FIRST A's BLOW — Oakland A's Gene Tenace slams the ball for a two run homer Saturday during the second inning of the 1972 World Series, in Cincinnati, Ohio. Catcher is Cincinnati Reds Johnny Bench. Umpire is Chris Pelekoudas.

Oakland Sits Pretty at Home

OAKLAND (AP) — Oakland Athletics have staggered the Cincinnati Reds with two quick hits and now hope to deliver another solid punch in the third game of the World Series tonight.

"I think we have them on the ropes," said Oakland pitcher Vida Blue. "But you can't count the Reds out y et. You can't let up."

The surprising American League champions are sitting pretty with a 2-0 lead in the 1972 baseball classic as a result of 3-2 and 2-1 victories in Cincinnati during the weekend.

Added to this margin, the Athletics also had the theoretical advantage of the home field in the next three games of this best-of-seven showdown for the world's championship.

After playing on Riverfront Stadium's unfamiliar artificial surface, the Athletics returned home to their field of natural grass at the Oakland Coliseum.

Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson wasn't too happy about its condition, either—the field was soggy from rain and crumpy from use by the Oakland Raiders' football team Sunday.

"I thought Oakland owner Charles Finley had more class than this," said Anderson, whose team's running game obviously would be hurt by the slow conditions.

In addition, the possibility of stormy weather threatened to further muddle the situation at the Coliseum, where a sell-out crowd of 50,000 will watch the struggle. A 30-per-cent chance of showers has been forecast for the contest, which starts at 8:35 p.m., EDT.

"We're handling the Reds easier than we did the Texas Rangers," said Blue, referring to one of the paltry American League teams.

Finley Shells Out 'Raises'

OAKLAND (AP) — Charles O. Finley, maverick of major league owners, locked horns with baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn Monday in a dispute over whether Finley can increase salaries of Oakland Athletics players at this stage of the season.

"I don't give any bonuses, just raises," Finley said after being handed a statement released by the commissioner on the eve of the third game of the World Series between the Athletics and Cincinnati Reds.

Finley referred to $5,000 salary increases three of the Oakland players received in 10 days.

While the Athletics were en route to Detroit on Oct. 8 for the start of the American League playoffs, Finley announced first baseman Mike Hegan had received a $5,000 salary boost but he didn't say it was a salary increase. He said it was a bonus.

And he announced somewhere between Cincinnati and Oakland that Joe Rudi and Gene Tenace were making $5,000 more. Again he didn't say it was a salary increase, but maybe he didn't call it a bonus, either.

Oakland manager Dick Williams is optimistic about finishing off the National Leaguers in his cozy Coliseum. He said when his team first went to Cincinnati for the opener last Saturday, he would have settled for a split of the two games.

"But not after the first game," said Williams. "Then we sure weren't willing to settle for a split."

If the Athletics have any inhospitable thoughts about their visitors, they ought to check Cincinnati's record on the road. The Reds play better away from home, history shows.

"We're a good road club," said Cincinnati left fielder Pete Rose. "We played .700 ball on the road this year."

The Reds also have another thing going for them—confidence.

"We have to win four of five games now and that sounds like an impossible task," said centre fielder Bobby Tolan. "But it's not impossible—if we can get our guys hitting."

Anderson insists the World Series will go the seven-game limit. Asked why, he said: "Because it's going to be tough for us to win it in six."

The chances of a team winning a seven-game series after losing the first two aren't good, though. It's only happened five times since the affair began in 1903.

The Reds will get to see another one of the Oakland aces tonight—John (Blue Moon) Odom. The right-hander, who notched two victories in the American League playoffs against Detroit Tigers last week, was 15-6 during the regular season.

BCI Certain Of Capturing Soccer Crown

ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sportswriter

It was zero for Sero and six for Hicks in Bay of Quinte COSSA soccer action Monday night.

BCI goalies Phil Sero and Barry Hicks both recorded shutouts as the junior Collegians blanked Quinte 3-0, while their senior counterparts were demolishing the Saints 8-0.

The Collegian seniors remained unbeaten in five league games, as they exploded for six first - half scores, despite the cold windy playing conditions.

Sero came up with a key save early in the game on a Quinte penalty shot allowing Charlie Nesterovski to come up with a BCI tally a minute later. Tony Donovan added two more goals in the first half, while Dave Van Vliet notched his second hat trick in as many games. The second half of play was somewhat less until the final five minutes when Greg McMurter added the final two BCI counters.

BCI have now assured themselves of first place in the Eastern Division with a 5 - 0 record and will meet Trenton, the only other unbeaten senior squad, next Monday.

OTTAWA DRIVER FINED

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — Fines of $1,000 were imposed Monday on two harness horsemen who pleaded guilty to charges of bribery and conspiracy in connection with race fixing in 1971 at Pocono Downs. Fined were Kenneth Backer of Ottawa, a driver, and Anthony Bonura of Neptune, N.J., an owner.

FILLY'S DASH FATAL

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Arrowhead, a two-year-old filly, had to be destroyed after being struck by an automobile Monday outside Laurel race course—where she had dashed after tossing her rider en route to the post. She leaped a fence and ran down a road inside the track, then jumped another fence and dashed on to the highway.

Rapid Recoil

BCI'S Gary Adams recoils as Mike Stephenson of Quinte unleash a shot in Monday's Bay of Quinte COSSA junior soccer game at Zwick's Island. For most of the game it was Quinte who were on the defensive as the junior Collegians scored a 3-0 victory to move into a first place tie with Moira Rs in the eastern division. Adams notched his team's first goal and was one of the key BCI offensive threats.

Fast Break

Gary Adams of the BCI Juniors turns on the speed to break past Quinte Secondary defender Steve Edwards in Bay of Quinte COSSA soccer play Monday. The BCI squad recorded a 3-0 victory, while the senior Collegians trounced the Saints 8-0 to remain as one of only two undefeated teams in the high school senior division. BCI and Trenton, the only unbeaten teams will meet next Monday.

Big Red Machine Runs Record to 2-0

The Gas House Hockey League's "Big Red Machine" seems to be functioning better than Cincinnati's at this point. While the Redlegs face a 0-2 deficit in the World Series, Jim's ran their season record to 2-0 with a 5-2 win over Meads Monday.

In other Gas House action last night it was Wilson Concrete dousing Rosebush fuels 6-0 and the Hospital slicing Stewart Warner 5-1.

Carl Bonnbower paced the pizzeria with two goals while singles went to Bob Revoy, Al Ray, Jim Norwood and Bill Dunn. Ted Rowlands and Steve Bedard scored for Meads.

A hat trick scoring effort by George Jackson helped carry the Hospital to their win over Stewart Warner. Dan Murphy added two goals for the winners with single tallies going to Knight, Laughlin and Van Zeelen. Bill Lynch tallied for Stewart Warner.

Wilson's got shutout goaltending from Vern Fraser and two goals apiece from Bob Cormier and Ron Gauvin to best Rosebush Fuels. Gary Thompson and Dave Millar scored the winners' other goals.

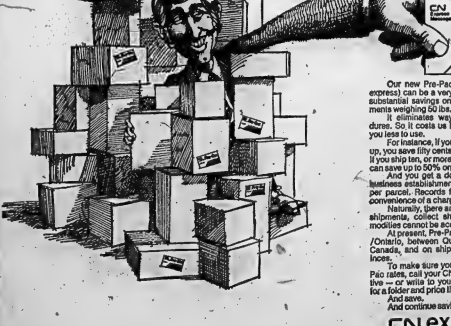
Centennial Settles for Dry Day

Monday wasn't exactly the ideal day for football — cold and windy. However, you'd have a tough time convincing Centennial Secondary of that fact. "It was kind of nice actually — we didn't have any rain," observed junior coach Pat Asselstine. The Chargers have been forced to play their last two games in pouring rain.

The Centennial Juniors took advantage of the dry fields to ring up a 32-6 victory over Centre Hastings, but the senior lads had their offensive troubles in eking out a 7-1 win.

The junior Chargers rode the pitching arm of Rob DeJong and the rushing ability of fullback Ken Lynch to their win.

Lynch contributed scoring runs of five and 25 yards while DeJong unloaded a 38-yard scoring pass to flanker Kevin Solmes and a 25-yard-er to end Randy Neal. Solmes added a second major on a 30-yard flanker reverse. Defensively, end Dave Jeffs was a Centennial standout.



The senior defence continued to shine for Centennial in their tight 7-1 win. "They haven't played a bad game all year for us," praised coach Pat Carty. "There's really not much I can say about our offensive performance yesterday."

The Centennial coach also had words of praise for the Madoc defensive squad. "That is the best game I've ever seen them play. They threw a six-man line at us and stacked up our inside running."

Quarterback Phil Easton scored the game's only touchdown on a 15-yard run, while punter Steve Empey kicked a single. Corner linebacker Wayne Kelly was a defensive standout for the Chargers.

Centre Hastings coach Barry Fryar was pleased with his senior team's continued improvement. "It could have gone either way," he noted. "we had a chance to score from inside their five - yard line, but couldn't take it in."

Basketball Star Salaries Dwarf Those of Other Pro Sports

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Bench earns $82,500 a year as catcher of Cincinnati Reds. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar makes about $82,500 a month during the Milwaukee Bucks' basketball season.

Pro basketball's salaries make virtual amateurs of affluent heroes from other sports, despite a new league war that is skyrocketing hockey paychecks.

Football and baseball stars many of them living on less than $100,000 a year, suffer by comparison.

Jabbar's incredible $400,000 deal with Milwaukee is trailed handsomely by Walt Frazier's $320,000 from New York Knicks and Jerry West's $300,000 from Los Angeles Lakers.

Charlie Scott jumped from the American Basketball Association to the rival National Association's Phoenix Suns and his fee hit the $300,000 class.

Wilt Chamberlain, a holdout with a $1 million hilltop castle, read about team-mate West's new contract, and decided to hold out for renegotiation of his $250,000 salary. He finally was given more than $300,000.

Remember George Mikan? The former DePaul great was voted the top player in basketball for the first half of the 20th century, including a brilliant stint with Minneapolis Lakers.

Mikan, an early giant at 6-feet-10, finally managed to make $20,000 a year in the late 1940s.

And how about Bill Russell? His rookie contract with Boston Celtics was $20,000 in 1956.

about the same as Jabbar hauls down for a week of NBA play. STARTED AT $65,000

Chamberlain got $65,000 as a rookie with Philadelphia Warriors in 1959-60 and in three seasons later rose to $100,000. Boston, not to let Russell be embarrassed, came up with $100,001.

Basketball has many other high-salaried members, including Pete Maravich of Atlanta, $325,000 a year; Rudy Tomjanovich of Cleveland, $250,000 and Spencer Haywood of Seattle, $200,000.

Haywood and McMillen jumped from the ABA to Seattle, $200,000 each.

A current bidding scuffle between the established National Hockey League and the infant, but well-bankrolled World Hockey Association, has seen several hockey players instantly wealthy.

Bobby Hull, the famed Golden Jet of Chicago Black Hawks, was hired at age 32 in a 10-year, $2.7 million player-owner-executive deal by the WHA's Winnipeg Jets.

Derek Sanderson, hockey's flashy answer to football's Joe Namath, let the Stanley Cup champion Boston Bruins for the new Philadelphia Blazers and $200,000.

Meanwhile, Bruin ace Bobby Orr and several other NHL standouts have, as a result of the competition, bagged $1 million deals with their clubs.

Namath is pro football's biggest moneymaker with a $256,000 annual salary, while Joe Theisman heeled New York Jets, and John Brodie, 17 years a 49ers ace close, makes something like $100,000 with the San Francisco 49ers.

The National Football League has a few superstars in the $100,000 range, including O. J. Simpson, Len Dawson, John Unitas, Jim Plunkett, Archie Manning, Fran Tarkenton and Roman Gabriel.

But, few make more than $100,000, and the All-Pro Players Association complains that its brothers deserve a larger share of the 26 teams' gross revenue.

The average NFL quarterback makes $41,500. By position, it drops to a $25,500 average for defensive backs and $22,500 for specialists. Not bad, but far below the average salary of $65,000 earned by basketball's New York Knicks.

It was, of course, a bidding war that sent NFL pay to higher levels. College kids got huge bonuses and veterans of both leagues bolted their pay over night.

When the NFL absorbed the American Football League several years ago, the huge bonuses dropped off and salaries slowed in their streak to the top.

Baseball got its first $200,000-a-year performer when Hank Aaron, currently chasing Babe Ruth's career record of 714 home runs, signed to a three-year pact in 1971 by Atlanta Braves.

However, the Babe's incredible $80,000 salary in 1928 was the pre-income tax era, probably worth more than Jabbar's current $400,000 deal.

Carl Yastrzemski is a $167,000 player for Boston Red Sox, while in the $150,000 class are Willie Mays of New York Mets, Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh Pirates and Bob Gibson, of St. Louis Cardinals.

Ted Williams busted the $100,000 bracket 15 years ago, and anybody with two great seasons expects that much in the modern market.

You can bet that Johnny Bench will make it when the Reds pay him in 1973 for his deeds of this season which included toppling the National League in home runs and runs batted in.

Jack Nicklaus is nearing the $200,000 mark in pro golf. Rod Laver became the first tennis player to earn $1 million, accomplishing it in nine years. Billie Jean King earned $100,000 on the 1971 tennis tour, the first woman athlete to hit such a plateau.

The premier jockeys make more than $250,000, and Pele, the Brazilian soccer star, is a millionaire who gets $200,000 from whooping it up for Santos.

Should be train his hitting? Develop a golf swing? Learn to dunk a basketball?

Whalers Net Quickies

* BOSTON (AP) — New England Whalers scored three goals in five minutes and 34 seconds in the second period Monday night to defeat Chicago Cougars 4-1 in a World Hockey Association game.

The Whalers spotted the Cougars, winless in three games, a goal early in the second period before Dick Sarrazin, John French and Ted Green all tallied to ensure the victory. Terry Caffery added a goal in the final minute for the Whalers, unbeated in two starts.

Following a scoreless first period, Rosaire Paiement put the Cougars on top at 7:30 when he stole the puck from a New England defenceman, skated in along and beat Whalers goalie Al Smith.

In games tonight, Los Angeles is at Minnesota, Winnipeg is at Edmonton against Alberta Oilers, New York is at Cleveland.

Bordeleau's Big WHA Gun

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn (AP) — Christian Bordeleau of the Winnipeg Jets is the leading scorer in the new World Hockey Association, league statistics showed Monday.

Bordeleau is No. 1 on the scoring list with six goals and two assists for eight points. He is one point ahead of Bobby Sheehan of New York Raiders, who has five goals and two assists for seven points.

Tied for third, at six points for games through last Sunday, are Ron Ward of the Raiders and two players from Ottawa Nationals, Ron Climie and Mike Boland.

Mikita Guns for Five

MONTREAL (CP) — Centre Bert Perreault of Buffalo Sabres and Fred Stanfield, a centre from Boston, Barry has five goals and three assists for eight points and his gial output matched only by Cliff Koroll of Chicago. Koroll has one assist to go with his five goals.

Sophomore goalie Ken Dryden of Montreal Canadiens is off to a fast start. He has recorded two shutouts and allowed only three goals in the four games the Canadiens have played so far.

Dryden's two shutouts are tied for as many as the other 26 goalies who have played this season. The only other shutout was recorded by Roy Edwards of Detroit.

Orr Still Non-starter

BOSTON (AP) — Coach Tom Johnson of Boston Bruins said Monday he isn't sure when star defenceman Bobby Orr will return to the lineup of the National Hockey League champions. "I don't feel he is really quite ready just yet," said Johnson. "I watched him skating Friday. He was skating all right, perhaps, but he was not skating like Orr and that is the important thing." Orr had knee surgery in the off-season.

"Henry will take my place in right, pitch. I should need go to the shower."

Toe Back

MONTREAL (CP) — Hector (Toe) Blake, a member of Montreal Canadiens organization since 1935 as a player, coach and in an administrative capacity with the National Hockey League club, has decided on an advisory role with the team. Jean Beliveau, the former captain and long-time centre with the club and now a vice-president with the Canadiens, said Monday that Blake had asked that his duties be reduced. "He doesn't want to feel that he has to come to the office every day and he says he will be happy that way."

Russians Request Tour

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Hockey League and the NHL Players' Association probably will decide by the end of January or early next month if and when a team from the Soviet Union will visit North America.

Rocket Gets Rest

QUEBEC (CP) — Maurice (Rocket) Richard has been given a six-week leave of absence from his position as coach of Les Nordiques of the World Hockey Association to recover from nervous strain and consider his future with the club.

Marius Fortier, general manager of the team, said Monday "there is no way he has resigned."

The team's record in regular-season play is 1-1.

Fortier said one possibility was to have Richard replace Maurice Filion as chief scout with Filion taking over the coaching duties. Filion will handle the coaching job for the week.

The fact the Russian Hockey Association has requested three or four games against individual NHL clubs was confirmed Monday by NHL president Clarence Campbell and Toronto lawyer Alan Eagleson, executive director of the NHLPA.

A statement released jointly by the two said Russian team officials had made their overtures during a conference with Campbell and NHL governors Bill Wirtz of Chicago Black Hawks and Bruce Norris of Detroit Red Wings in Moscow, during the recent visit by Team Canada to the Soviet Union.

It marked the first time such a conference had been officially confirmed, although reports of the request had been rampant for the last two weeks.

The statement said no immediate response to the Russian request was possible as the time due to the uncertainties of scheduling and because of the agreement between the NHL and the NHLPA which provides for consultation between the two groups in respect to any international competition.

The request by the Russians was for a visit in January, 1973.

Cutler Best in West

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For most of the 1972 Canadian Football League season, Mack Herron, chunky running back with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, has been the best in the West.

But it's traditional in Canada for the kickers to dominate the scoring and in the official CFL statistics released Monday, kicker Dave Cutler of Edmonton Eskimos rose from second place to knock off the man who has scored the most touchdowns in the country.

Cutler, who learned his foot ball at Simon Fraser University in Burnaby, B.C., has 97 points on 30 converts, 18 field goals and 13 singles. Herron, a two-year veteran with Winnipeg from Kansas State, has 90 points on 15 touchdowns.

The leading scorer in the country remains Jerry Organ of Ottawa Rough Riders, with 108 points on one touchdown, 36 converts, 24 field goals and seven converts.

In the top five scorers in the EFC, there is only one player whose main talent lies elsewhere than his big toe—Garnet Henley of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, moved to offence this year from a defensive back spot, who has 46 points on eight touchdowns for fourth place behind Organ, Hamilton's Ian Sunter and Don Sweet of Montreal Alouettes.

In the WFC, Herron is the only intruder in the top four—behind Cutler and ahead of Don Jonas of Winnipeg and Larry Robinson of Calgary Stampeders.

Granted, Jonas has many other attributes as a quarterback, but his 87 points are fashioned on one touchdown, 29 converts, 13 field goals and three singles.

Herron continues to dominate the rushing however.

He has carried 217 times for 1,285 yards and 15 touchdowns—an average gain of 5.9 yards for every time he touched the football.

Dave Buchanan of Hamilton is next with 968 yards on 222 carries for three touchdowns and a 4.2-yard average.

Saskatchewan Roughriders have gone to big George Reed only 189 times, but he has turned in 895 yards and 12 touchdowns, averaging 4.7 yards per carry.

Jim Thorpe of Winnipeg, cut adrift by Toronto Argonauts, leads the pass receivers with 34, giving him 981 yards, an 18.2-yard average and eight touchdowns.

However, Gerry Shaw of Calgary has 11 touchdowns on 33 catches for 810 yards.

And how about Jim Young of B.C. Lions? He caught 31 passes, but lugged them for 1,152 yards and 10 touchdowns, for an average of 22.2 yards every time he gathered one in.

Henley, on the other hand, has seven touchdowns by pass, but Hamilton has only thrown to him 28 times for 732 yards—which works out to 26.1 yards per catch, the best in the country.

Dick Suderman Dead

EDMONTON (CP) — Dick Suderman, a 31-year-old athlete who played in the Canadian Football League for seven years, was the victim Monday of a fatal cerebral hemorrhage which apparently had nothing to do with the sport he loved.

Suderman, a defensive end with Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference, died in hospital about 26 hours after he suffered the hemorrhage while lunching at a restaurant.

Married and with three children, aged four to eight, Suderman was having lunch with four team-mates Sunday when he suddenly became violently ill. He was taken to hospital by ambulance and died at 2:15 p.m. Monday.

Suderman, an all-star last year with Calgary Stampeders, was selected as the outstanding Canadian in the 1971 Grey Cup game which was won by Calgary. He was traded to the Eskimos last week for rookie Dave Herbert.

Schenley Nominees Overlap

MONTREAL (CP) — The results of first-round balloting to pick this season's top performers in the Canadian Football League show seven players nominated in more than one category.

And the results, released Monday, show the seven named 26 picked for the annual Schenley awards by 96 sports writers and broadcasters in the nine CFL cities.

This year marks the 20th anniversary of the Outstanding player award by the distillery to commemorate the birthday. the organizers have added a Rookie of the year category to the regular lineman-of-the-year and Canadian player-of-the year awards.

Only two players, fullback Jim Young of the Columbia Lions, nominated for outstanding player and top Canadian, and Ron Lancaster, quarterback with Saskatchewan Roughriders, also in the outstanding class, were previous winners.

Young, along with team-mate Ray Nettles, end Gerry Shaw of Calgary Stampeders, Saskatchewan's Bill Baker, halfback Eric Allen of Toronto Argonauts, Dick Adams from Ottawa Rough Riders, and lineman Ed George of Montreal Alouettes, all were nominated for two awards.

First-round balloting nominates four players from each team

Colts' Boss Rapped

BALTIMORE (AP) — Centre Bill Curry criticized the firing Monday of Don McCafferty, contending the head coach of Baltimore Colts had been improperly blamed for the team's losing record.

"Mac is a decent man and a talented coach," Curry said. "and the way he has been treated is a real injustice"

Curry also rapped Joe Thomas, Baltimore's new general manager, who fired McCafferty Monday, replaced him with defensive line coach John Sandusky, and said the Colts would "sort of start a new regime with young players."

Noting Thomas had announced that the dismissal of McCafferty was made "for the good of the team," Curry said: "That's the same general manager who hasn't bothered to go around and see all the guys and learn their names."

Packers Shade Lions

DETROIT (AP) — Green Bay Packers scored a come-from-behind 24-23 win over Detroit Lions Monday night to take sole possession of first place in their National Football League division.

The Packers now have a 4-1 record to lead Detroit, 3-2, in the National Conference Central Division. Minnesota Vikings are third with a 3-3 mark and Chicago Bears last at 1-3-1.

Quarterback Scott Hunter fired a 15-yard touchdown strike to rookie wide receiver Leland Glass with 1:54 left on the clock, and rookie Chester Marcol kicked the extra point to give the Packers victory in the game televised nationally in the U.S.

Green Bay had trailed nearly the entire game before Marcol's closing moments' conversion, and the Lions never recovered from the shock.

The Packers trailed 17-7 at halftime. Then Errol Mann of the Lions and Marcol traded field goals of 45 and 34 yards respectively before Packer cornerback Ken Ellis turned the game around by racing 90 yards with a punt return for a touchdown.

Mann also boomed a 51-yarder in the final quarter, equalling his club record.

The teams play a rematch Dec. 3 in Green Bay.

Lion's Widow Sues Hospital

DETROIT (AP) — The widow of a Detroit Lions football player, Charles (Chuck) Hughes, has filed a $21.5 million lawsuit Monday against Ford Hospital and three unnamed physicians or osteopaths claiming "they wilfully and wantonly" failed to list Hughes of his heart condition.

Hughes, 28, died during a game with Chicago Bears at Tiger Stadium, Oct. 24, 1971. It apparently suffered a heart attack.

Sharon L. Hughes contends in her suit that while her husband was a patient at the hospital in May, 1971, doctors determined from electrocardiograms that Hughes had a damaged heart but failed to inform him of the condition.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

TUESDAY, OCT. 17

Aries (March 21-April 19): Your first concern the way your friends get tangled up in affairs, perhaps taking chances for you that you wouldn't take now.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): An early start gets you on the crest of the wave and you can roll through the day in good morale, with something to show for your efforts.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Education is the key word for today's achievement. New information is heeded, can be gathered with reasonable success.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): An extra burden of details and some lapses in co-operation shouldn't be allowed to upset you. Be satisfied to do less than planned.

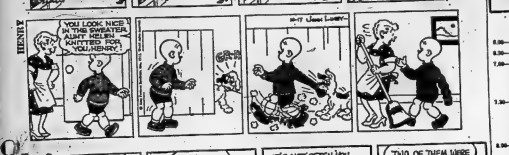
Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Your charm attracts more assistance than usual—if you really want it. Covering for friends works only for a short time.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Bright ideas need developing. Personal collaboration comes more smoothly, perhaps with unfamiliar people, different theories.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Making yourself clear to others without pressure is an exercise in communication skills. Something you did lately will pay off now.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Dealing with authority, coping with questions related to older people turns out more constructive than has been customary lately.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Brief journeys, visits with friends and relatives provide satisfactory results, agreement for future actions.



Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be willing to deal with older people; try again for solutions of chronic problems. Important people are open to suggestions.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): To get the necessary co-operation, you must adjust your approach, accept differences and discrepancies as part of the natural order.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Contact those who can help you. Your contribution to the public good, may be the sensible little bit that tips a balance.

To Your Good Health

Continual Soreness Requires Expert

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has the problem of calluses on his feet which he can never get rid of. He can hardly walk when he gets home. He is a bartender and on his feet all day.

What is the best way of treating this? Would it be better to soak his feet in hot water or cold?—Mrs. A. C.

Such a growth of callus on the feet has to be the result of abnormal pressure on the feet.

Overweight can be one big factor, how much does he weigh? So can faulty shoes, maybe he just hasn't been fitted properly.

But front the sound of the situation, I would strongly suspect some structural defect in his feet, with urgent need for surgical shoes or some correctly-designed support.

In brief, I doubt if he stands a prayer of getting over his trouble until he has the situation analyzed by an expert, which means going to a podiatrist or orthopedist.

Soaking his feet in hot water will relieve the soreness and muscle spasm temporarily, but it won't do a thing to get at the basic trouble.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How can you be sure you have an ulcer, and how different is it from acid stomach? — Mrs. J. W.

The stomach juices are supposed to be acid, but if there is too much acid, it bothers an ulcer. So the amount, along with some other factors, is important.

There's no simple way to know whether stomach distress is from an ulcer, hiatal hernia, gastritis, spasm or some other ailment, but your doctor can distinguish them, often with the help of x-ray.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you tell me the symptoms of a tumor of the brain? I have a sister who thinks she has one.—Mrs. H.M.

It takes a specialist with some pretty sophisticated equipment to diagnose a brain tumor accurately. There isn't any do-it-yourself way.

I'm printing this letter because I regularly get letters from people who are sure they have brain tumors or are afraid they have. For some reason, it's the type of scary notion that some people get and can't get rid of.

Best answer I know for such people is to tell them firmly, but in as kind a way as you can, that they have to do one of two things: Either give up the idea that they have a brain tumor and stop fussing about it, or go to a doctor and find out for sure.

Fussing and worrying about it doesn't do a particle of good, but it makes everybody else sick and tired of hearing about it. Let's summarize by saying that brain tumors can produce many significant and serious symptoms that would send one to a doctor for a diagnosis.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you comment on the enclosed clipping?—A.H.S.

Enclosed clipping is an ad promising to let you lose two inches by being wrapped in some sort of stuff and then just lying down for an hour and a half, while pills, diet, or exercise.

My comment? Anyone who thinks you can change your figure by any such methods is pretty gullible. Too many want an easy way to reduce. It requires effort on your part—the will to reduce, diet restriction and some degree of exercise.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three Ls, for the two Os, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East

3 ♣	Pass	4 ♦	Pass
5 ♣

Opening lead — king of hearts.

A declarer, can falsecard to his heart's content, for it does not matter whether he fools partner, but a defender must be wary of falsecarding, since the decision of the deception may prove to be his partner instead of declarer.

Despite this, there are occasions when a defensive falsecard cannot possibly trap declarer into an error but may result in deceiving declarer. Here is such a case.

West led the king of hearts. Declarer won with the ace and played a club, finessing the queen. West dropped the jack on the queen, hoping that this falsecard would deflect South from his normal course of play.

South naturally assumed that East had started with the K-9-4, originally, after cashing the king of diamonds, he played a heart, West ruffing with the jack and continuing with the queen.

Declarer now made the mistake of ruffing the heart in dummy. East overruffed with the king, returned a spade, and there was then no way for South to avoid a spade loser. As a result, he went down one.

Had declarer discarded a spade from dummy on the queen of hearts, as he should have done, he would have come safely home despite his false impression of the trump situation. He could then ruff a spade in dummy, discard his last spade on the ace of diamonds, and lead a trump from dummy to trap East's theoretical K-9.

It would be unfair to blame South for failing to grab the ace of clubs after West had dropped the jack on the queen.

He had no way of knowing that the trumps were divided 2-2 and that West's jack play was sheer whimsy. But the failure to discard a spade from dummy on the queen of hearts was a mistake of the first order.

Tomorrow: Extraordinary play.

HERE'S A NEW IDEA

We are going to start a number of new houses for spring possession. If you are thinking about a new house, let us include it in our inventory. You can select a lot and a model either ours or your's. We will then build it to your specifications. You can then sell your existing house at your leisure. If you are unable to sell, you aren't out anything as we can sell the new house to someone else. This will solve the old problem of — "How can I build a new house when I haven't sold my old one".

CONDOMINIUM IS THE ANSWER

For the active man who wants to confine his activities to the curling rink, the golf course or anywhere else that doesn't involve cutting grass, shovelling snow, painting, etc. This is all done for you.
We have units available for immediate possession. These are located on Prince of Wales Drive. Oh yes! Taxes approximately run from $711. to $836 down.

EAST OR WEST WE HAVE THE BEST

selection of houses in the Quinte area. All in fully serviced subdivisions. All close to schools. We have 3 and 4 bedroom models. Let us show you our selection.

Belleville and District Obituaries and Funerals

MRS. OLAF J. REED

Resident in Belleville for the past half-century Mrs. Christina Anne Reed, 35 Ritchie St., died in Belleville General Hospital Monday in her 83rd year.

Born in Ripley, Ont., daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Martyn, she had lived in Toronto before moving to Belleville.

A member of St. Andrew's Church, she was active in the Women's Missionary Society and was a past matron, Minerva Chapter 138 Order Eastern Star.

MKRS. Reed is survived by her husband, Dr. Olaf J. Reed, a son Thomas, London, Ont., and was the last of her own family.

She was predeceased by a son, Donald.

Resting at the Thompson Funeral Chapel, where service will take place Thursday at 2 p.m., directed by Rev. Lay Belleville Cemetery.

MRS. RICHARD (ROUSOM) MILLARD

A resident of this city for the past 10 years, Mrs. Ila Belle Millard, 8 Second St., died Monday at Belleville General Hospital. She was in her 78th year.

Born at Verona, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Walrath and had lived in Kingston before coming to Belleville. She was a member of Centennial Free Methodist Church.

Predeceased by her husband, Richard, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Fred (Helen) McGarvey, of Belleville, two grandsons, Barry and Wayne McGarvey both of Brockville and two great-grandchildren. One son predeceased her.

Also surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Reg. (Grace) Turner of London, Ont., Mrs. Dalton (Flea) Flatt, Homer, N.Y., Mrs. William (Eva) Parker of Kingston and one brother, Gordon Walrath of Morrisburg.

Resting at the John R. Bush Funeral home until this evening, then in the Gordon Thompkins Funeral Home, Colborne St., Kingston, where the funeral will be held Wednesday. Service at 3:30 p.m. will be conducted by Dr. Barclay Warren. Interment Cataraqui Cemetery.

ALEX ARMSTRONG

Following a brief illness, Alex Armstrong, Hastings Manor, died Sunday in Belleville General Hospital. He was in his 65th year.

Son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Claude Armstrong, he was born at Warkworth and was an adherent of the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Armstrong was proficient in the art of leather carving and took pride in showing his work at local fall fairs.

Never married, he is survived only by a sister Mrs. Jack (Helen) Layton of Belleville and a niece, Mrs. Alice Falchetto of France.

The funeral will be held Wednesday from the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home with service in the chapel at 2 p.m. conducted by Rev. Laurie Sutherland. Interment Belleville Cemetery.

TIMOTHY JOSEPH CULHANE

Requiem Mass for Timothy Joseph Culhane, 19 - year - old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Culhane, 17 Forin Street, was held Monday morning at St. Michael's Church. Conducting the mass was Rev. Kenneth Stitt, assisted by Rev. James MacGillivray and Rev. C. Gauley. Interment was in St. Michael Cemetery with the funeral being conducted by the John R. Bush Funeral Home.

The bearers were Terry Lynch, Dominic di Tomaso, Michael Trunkish, David Dolan, Patrick Carmichael and William Burke.

The deceased died suddenly at his home on Saturday.

Born in Belleville, Mr. Culhane attended St. Michael's Academy and Nicholson Catholic College and was employed at the Quinte Hotel. He was active in sports.

Aside from his parents, he is survived by five brothers, Michael, Peter and Gregory of this city, and John and Steven, at home, and three sisters, Mrs. Harold (Ann) Bennett and Mrs. Maurice (Pat) Walsh, both of Belleville, and Miss Colleen Culhane, at home.

MRS. WALTER R. LUSCOMBE

Funeral was held at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home, Belleville on Monday morning for Mrs. Walter R. Luscombe, Frederick Peer and William Belch of Peterborough officiated and interment followed at Belleville Cemetery.

Bearers were Orland Pinkston, son John D. Luscombe and grandsons John and Peter Luscombe.

MRS. ALBERT E. BOGIE

Mrs. Marie Bogie, of RR 3 Frankford, died in Kingston General Hospital, Tuesday, Oct. 10.

In her 56th year, she was the daughter of Sutanna and the late Murney Maracle.

Born in Deseronto, she is survived by her husband Albert Bogie.

She had lived in Toronto for 22 years before coming to Frankford and is survived by her daughter Mrs. Ben (Phyllis) Williams of Frankford and Mrs. Ken (Joyce) Neville of Toronto.

She is also survived by six brothers, two sisters and four grandchildren.

She was Anglican by faith.

The funeral service was held in the Jones - Rowe Funeral Home, Friday, Oct. 13.

Rev. Charles Staples conducted the service and interment was in Frankford Cemetery.

Bearers were Harry, David Reg, Avery, Harold and Collins Maracle.

MRS. EVERETT MacDONALD

Funeral was held October 16 at Weaver Funeral Home, Trenton for Mrs. Ruth MacDonald of Montgomery Lodge, Belleville, formerly of Consecon, who died at the lodge, October 13 in her 89th year.

Rev. J. Payton of Trenton officiated and interment followed at Wellington Cemetery. Bearers were Kenneth Alyea, Lorne Alyea, Earl Rowe, Earl Survis, Harry Chase and Earl Baldwin.

Born at Consecon, she was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hayes. Mrs. MacDonald was educated at the Consecon Public School and at Albert College, Belleville.

The deceased was a member of Consecon United Church where she was active in church activities, serving for many years as church organist.

She was predeceased by her husband, Everett, but is survived by a son Bernard MacDonald and a grandson, Robert, both of Trenton. She also leaves a sister, Mrs. Bessie Sharpe of Jordon, N.Y.

In failing health for the last four years, Mrs. MacDonald was a lifelong resident of the Consecon area.

MRS. JOSEPH SCALETTA

A 10 a.m. funeral mass was held for Mrs. Marie Scaletta of RR2, Trenton, October 16 at St. Peter's Church, Trenton with Rev. W. J. Lynett officiating. Interment followed at Mount Calvary Cemetery.

Bearers were Dominic Angelo, Michael Naples, Joseph Charles, Frank and Thomas Scaletta.

Mrs. Scaletta, who died at Trenton Memorial Hospital on Oct. 12, in her 80th year, resided at the Weaver Funeral Home, Trenton.

Born in Italy, the deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustine Scaletta. A housewife, she had resided in Trenton and area for the past 60 years.

She is survived by her husband, Joseph, and grandchildren, Joseph, Anthony and Michael Scaletta and Mrs. Robert (Mary) Galloway, all of Trenton. Three great-grandchildren also survive. Mrs. Scaletta was predecessed by a son, Augustine (Gus) Scaletta.

Sharp Unveils Plans For Toronto Lake Park

TORONTO (CP) — Plans for an 86-acre park along the waterfront of downtown Toronto were unveiled today by External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp.

Mr. Sharp told a news conference here that the cost of expropriating the land along the 2 miles of shoreline probably would be about $30 million.

He defended government secrecy on the project and denied that the new park was an "election goodie" designed to encourage Torontonians to vote Liberal in the Oct. 30 federal election.

"We began negotiations last May and they were kept as secret as possible in order to discourage land speculators," Mr. Sharp said in explaining why Toronto Mayor William Dennison and other top Metropolitan Toronto officials weren't informed of the federal plans until Monday.

Mr. Sharp said negotiations to purchase some of the property weren't completed until last Friday. Other portions of the land will be expropriated.

The cabinet minister said the federal government took the action because there was "growing concern among Toronto citizens that a ceramic curtain, a wall of high-rise developments would deny them access to the waterfront."

Favor Strike

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Students said Monday that 19 per cent of students polled in 18 universities and colleges are in favor of a fee strike in opposition to the provincial government's announced increase in tuition fees. A spokesman for the federation said the final count showed 34,110 in favor of withholding fees and 4,677 against. And although only about 30 per cent of the 160,000 voted, that is a pretty good turnout for students." The federation will discuss the vote at a meeting at the University of Waterloo this weekend.

Cambridge Chosen

GALT, Ont. (CP) — Voters in Preston, Galt and Hespeler chose the name Cambridge Monday for the new city to come into being Jan. 1 with the merger of the three centres through regional government.

Claudette Millar, mayor of Preston, was elected mayor of the new city.

Bail Refused

VANCOUVER (CP) — Despite pleas by a native rights lawyer, provincial court judge Dave Moffett refused Monday to grant bail in more than 30 cases stemming from last week's nation-wide roundup of suspected drug traffickers.

More than 50 accused appeared before Judge Moffett. Those denied bail will have to remain in jail until their trial is held, unless they appeal his decision to the Supreme Court and succeed.

NDP Split Over Airport

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — New Democratic Party Leader David Lewis found himself in the position of having to disagree with two fellow candidates in Ontario-area Monday over the issue of the proposed new international airport, east of Toronto.

Mr. Lewis told a radio open-line program audience that he is not convinced of the need for a second airport in the Metropolitan Toronto area.

Edward Broadbent, NDP candidate in Oshawa-Whitby, said that by the end of the decade "we will need major and significant improvement in both runway capacity . . . and properties should begin now to build an airport."

Another NDP candidate, Alban Ward, running in the Ontario riding, argued that the international airport should proceed immediately. But he said industry and he kind of development needed in the area could be accomplished without having an airport.

Communes Praised

TORONTO (CP) — Former Newfoundland premier Joseph Smallwood says China was a model system to rescue from servitude a billion poor and landless people throughout the world.

Mr. Smallwood, returning from a three-week trip to China, said in an interview Sunday that the Chinese communes provide a way of life that could bring happiness to people scattered across Asia, Africa and central and South America.

"The commune system of collective agriculture and shared industrial enterprise wouldn't be of any significance in North America or most of Europe but for these others possibly a billion people, there is this great model."

What the peasants are doing in China could, at least in theory, be done in all those other lands."

Crew Charged

PIEDRAS NEGRAS, Mexico (AP) — A federal district judge has declared the "formal imprisonment" on homicide and other charges of five crew members of a train that derailed near Salillo, killing more than 200 persons.

Judge Jose Becerra Santiago ruled Sunday that the five will be sentenced for attacks on the general means of communication, injuries and property damage as well as homicide, all due to "serious negligence."

Avoid Pot

TORONTO (CP) — Honors students don't smoke marijuana or drink alcohol as much as lower-grade students, a survey of two Ontario high schools, released Monday, reveals.

The survey of 1,611 students in grades 9 to 13, done last February by the Ontario Addiction Research Foundation, also reveals that non-drug users tend to go to church more frequently than users.

Impose Accord

QUEBEC (CP) — Teachers and Quebec Liquor Board employees were the only members of a common front of 180,000 public service workers still facing an imposed contract settlement today after agreements were reached for all other public service employees.

Not Interested In Federal Post

BOWMANVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Premier William Davis campaigning with his former provincial secretary, Allan Lawrence, denied Monday that his federal election campaigning will harm his relations with Ottawa or set the stage for a move into federal politics.

Mr. Davis and Mr. Lawrence, a candidate in the North-umberland-Durham riding, de-nied at a conference that either was interested in successor. Robert Stanfield as federal Conservative leader if the party lost the Oct. 30 election.

Tenants Careless

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The mayor of Tecumins, Ont., said Monday that municipalities should collect "a couple of dollars a month" from public-housing tenants to repair damage done by vandals.

Mayor Leo Del Villano told the annual conference of Ontario Housing Authorities that "most public housing tenants take advantage of us."

Haul Biggest

TORONTO (CP) — The seizure of 500 pounds of marijuana by RCMP drug officers at an isolated air field near Petawawa Saturday is the largest ever in southern Ontario, police say.

RCMP and United States customs officials, using two light planes, trailed a small aircraft from Minnesota to the small landing strip, about 80 miles northwest of Owen Sound, where the marijuana, with an estimated street value of $500,000, was seized.

The previous largest haul of marijuana in Ontario was a shipment of 300 pounds discovered in a suitcase at Toronto International Airport in 1970.

Vote Again

TORONTO (CP) — Striking union employees at Massey-Ferguson Industries Ltd. in Toronto and Brantford will hold a second vote on a proposed contract settlement Wednesday.

Dennis McDermott, Canadian director for the United Auto Workers, said the new vote is necessary because of the closeness of the last vote Oct. 12.

The previous vote resulted in a 59 per cent vote in favor of settlement by workers in Brantford and a similar vote to reject the contract by workers in Toronto.

Bombs Seized

MONTREAL (CP) — Nine persons were arrested by police Monday for alleged possession of gasoline bombs during a protest march organized by the Mouvement pour la Republique du Quebec.

About 75 persons, mostly teen-agers, participated in the march, organized to mark the second anniversary of the arrest of the War Measures Act, and to coincide with the 28th birthday of Paul Rose, convicted slayer and kidnapper of Pierre Laporte, former Quebec labor minister.

Queen Visits

BELGRADE (CP) — The Queen arrived today for a five-day state visit to Yugoslavia, the first state visit of a British sovereign to a Communist country.

County Is Ignoring Sand Quarry Rules

Prince Edward Digs Sand for Its Roads

PICTON — Prince Edward County council has decided to go ahead with unlicensed sand quarrying operations for winter road control in an area under provincial government restrictions.

The sandpit is in Hallowell township — controlled under the Pits and Quarries Act following controversy on a cement company quarry operation near the Sandbanks.

County warden Russ Benway says the sand must be stockpiled now and that safety cannot be sacrificed for "a piece of paper."

The act demands certain specifications be met before quarrying is licensed by the provincial government.

He says the county applied for a licence which was rejected because qualifying plans were said to be incomplete.

At Queen's Park meantime, a natural resources ministry official said there is no application from the county or Hallowell township on record in Toronto.

Site involved is the Pickering pit where county council last night approved a sandsalt stockpile. The county apparently is excavating sand in the quarry but not removing it.

Harold Davis, mines-engineering branch director of natural resources ministry, says excavation is governed under the act.

He said if the county started quarrying this would be a contravention of the act.

However, if such were the case, he indicated provincial authorities would not approach the issue severely.

"I think we would rather do it in a more friendly fashion than make a prosecution," he said.

He indicated discussions would be initiated with the ministry's field official in the area and local authorities to clarify the situation.

Mr. Davis said the application may not have reached the ministry because site plans of the operation were judged not up to specifications by the ministry's field inspectors.

If such were the case it would be "just a matter of sending it back to have these corrections made."

Warden Benway said today the sand must be stockpiled for the winter and it is impossible to wait for a permit.

He added that "we cannot sacrifice the safety of the citizens for a piece of paper. We did not feel we were defying the government, just doing a public service."

The warden said the county had applied for a licence under the act. Plans were submitted which were rejected because they were said to be incomplete.

United Europe Parley Goal

PARIS (CP) — The ability of nine European countries to live in harmony and make progress towards unity will undergo a crucial test here Thursday in a summit aimed at turning an enlarged Common Market into an eventual federation of states.

But while the leaders will talk of means of reaching eventual goals, including a common currency and closer political links, nationalism will still stalk the corridors with each existing and approaching member state weighing how to obtain a bigger share of the EEC's financial pie.

President Georges Pompidou of France, playing host to the eight leaders, including the new entries, Britain, Ireland and Denmark, is reported to be viewing the proceedings with a jaundiced eye. His aides fay he doesn't anticipate that the two-day summit, in a hotel where Vietnam negotiators have been wrangling, will go down in history as a meeting of great significance.

But Canada and other interested spectators will be watching developments closely. The Common Market, with almost 300 million consumers, controls about 40 per cent of world trade. It is a big and growing market with great political potential—if the leaders can match an outward display of harmony by elimination of inner discord.

The summit agenda is broad and all-embracing, covering economic and monetary union, the growth of European institutions and relations with other industrialized countries.

These external relations may produce greater harmony than other issues. The leaders are likely to say they want no trade war with the United States and undoubtedly will give more than a nudge to a new round of world tariff bargaining expected to open in 1973.

They also are likely to endorse West German Chancellor Willy Brandt's Ostpolitik approach to achieve closer relations with East Germany and Eastern Europe. But they are likely to steer clear of making any unified demand for a higher official gold price or even openly pressing Britain to return sterling to a fixed parity.

Score Wounded

Britons Fighting Two-front War

BELFAST (AP) — British troops battled both Roman Catholics and Protestant guerrillas Tuesday night, and the soldiers said they killed or wounded 10 of the gunmen. Ten soldiers and two policemen were wounded. The bodies of a man and a woman who had been shot were delivered anonymously to the Belfast morgue. They raised the confirmed death toll to 612 in more than three years of communal violence, 400 of them this year.

"We're the meat in the sandwich," said one British soldier of the emergence in force of Protestant gunmen. Heretofore, most of the guerrillas have been Catholics of the Irish Republican Army.

Asthma Drug Boosts Deaths 700 Per Cent

MONTREAL (CP) — There has been no decrease in deaths due to asthma, despite the dozen potent modern drugs now used to treat the disease, says a Toronto immunologist.

Dr. Robert Orange said Tuesday a British study has shown a seven-fold increase in the death rate of asthmatic children aged nine to 14 between 1959 and 1968. The overall death rate by asthma increased by 50 per cent, the study showed.

Dr. Orange, head of the immunology department at Toronto's Hospital for Sick Children, presented new findings on the condition at a three-day international symposium on hypersensitivity here.

The dramatic increase was due, he said, to the indiscriminate use of an aerosol drug sold without prescription until 1968.

The drug relieved the symptoms of asthma—the wheezing and shortness of breath—but the side effects on the heart could be fatal if the drug was used in excess, he said.

Passports Seized

TORONTO (CP) — Immigration officials here took 121 visitors from Ecuador and Haiti off a Montreal-bound flight. The visitors had their passports seized in what officers described as a protest against working conditions in handling a flood of "immigrants" coming in the back door.

Few to Take Test

TORONTO (CP) —The number of Grade 13 students expected to write college entrance exams in Ontario this year is down 46 per cent from a year ago. Officials said they expected that between 25,000 and 30,000 students will take the exams, compared with 47,000 — more than 90 per cent of Ontario's Grade 13s — last year. Officials said students are disenchanted with the tests and the fact that they now must get $11 to take them.

Queen in Belgrade

BELGRADE (Reuter) — The Queen plunges into a busy round of official engagements today with British officials delighted by the immediate impact she has made on Yugoslav public. The Queen, on the second day of her first visit to a Communist country, starts the day by planting a "tree of peace" in Belgrade's Park of Friendship.

Cats Spread Parasites

TORONTO (CP) — Unborn babies may suffer serious injury if their mothers, during early pregnancy, pick up a parasite infection from cats, an American doctor, Dr. John S. Reif, warns. The parasite, toxoplasma, can cause brain damage or blindness in the baby. In an adult it may be mistaken for flu, although it can cause an eye infection. Families can lessen the risk of children getting the parasite by keeping backyard sandboxes covered when they're not in use and by cleaning the litter box daily to remove any eggs before they have germinated and are infectious.

First Ballots Cast

First ballots cast in the Oct. 30 federal election include those of Cpl. James Massey and his new bride Heather at Canadian Forces base in Toronto. Looking on is Capt. The Last Rose of Summer at Corby Park —

Record Low Equalled

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Fall hasn't exactly dropped like an autumn leaf from the Quinte scene.

But a tinge of wintry weather already is tapping at the roots of the season.

Last night temperatures in the Belleville - Trenton area equalled a record low.

And sparse snowflurries are predicted later in the day.

Low recorded during the night at Canadian Forces Base Trenton was 22 degrees — which met with the record for that time set in 1940.

At Bancroft it was 12 degrees and 16 degrees at Tweed.

Tonight cloud will bring some snow — just enough maybe to be noticeable, says the CFB forecaster. Lows may be 22-25 degrees, but Thursday night could see the mercury drop to below 20.

All round, temperatures are 10-15 degrees below normal for this time of year.

And just north of the Quinte district last night it was colder yet. Killaloe had a low of six degrees, replacing the old record of 11 degrees in 1964.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Unseasonably cold weather will remain over Ontario for several more days. A mixture of cloud and sunshine will be the rule today and Thursday with occasional snowflurries. Cloud near Lake Erie later today and tonight may prevent temperatures from dropping much below freezing. Elsewhere temperatures will dip into the teens and 20s again tonight under mainly clear skies and light winds.

Aircraft Locator Signals

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Signals from an aircraft emergency locator beacon have been picked up by aircraft combing heavily timbered, mountainous areas of Southeast Alaska for a missing plane carrying Hale Boggs, Democratic majority leader in the U.S. House of Representatives, and three others.

The coast guard said the pilots of two jet-powered helicopters heard the signals twice some 10 miles west of this Alaska capital city Tuesday, but there were notes of caution.

"We have experienced false alarms in the past," said a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration.

Trudeau's 'New Order'

Society to Reflect 'Human Values'

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau drew an overflow crowd to an election rally in Maple Leaf Gardens Tuesday night, and pledged to work for a social order in Canada that reflects "human values."

An estimated 17,000 persons jammed the hockey arena.

A few thousand others, unable to get into the Gardens, wailed outside for his arrival from a nearby hotel. Mr. Trudeau obliged them by delivering a short, impromptu talk on his way into the rally, a highlight of the Liberal campaign for the Oct. 30 federal election.

Party organizers, not leaving anything to chance, reserved 7,000 seats for Liberal workers to help ensure a good attendance.

Mr. Trudeau, capping a day of campaigning in the Toronto area, delivered a high-road speech devoid of partisan political invective.

The overall goal of his government, he said, has been one of equilibrium, reflecting harmony among the various parts of the country.

The challenge of the future was not simply to remain on the "leading edge" of technological change or of developments in the Arctic and elsewhere. The challenge was "to erect a social order reflecting human values."

Canada had a technical frontier, a geographical frontier and a social frontier.

"We have in 1972 a chance to bring it all together."

But Society Is Sick -- Wagner

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — Claude Wagner recalled the Rev. Jean-Paul Laporte murder as he fired the last of a series of broadsides at the Liberals Tuesday.

On the second anniversary of the tragedy Mr. Wagner, Conservative campaign leader in Quebec, tied the Laporte death to a sick society which he said remains seriously ill under the government of Prime Minister Trudeau.

His remarks came during a speech to cheering supporters who packed a local trade school auditorium Tuesday night.

Mr. Wagner seized the spotlight at the one-day visit with Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield, who returned to Ottawa Tuesday night for a day off before plunging into the final phase of his election campaign.

Also Tuesday, Mr. Wagner accused the Liberals of appealing to racist prejudice in a French-language campaign film used in Quebec.

In an exchange with a local college student, he said he believes Confederation will collapse if the Trudeau government is re-elected Oct. 30 for another four years.

A spirited session with students at the Saguenay-Lac St. Jean junior college ended abruptly after Chicoutimi police received a bomb threat although no bomb was found in a search of the college building.

Lewis on Warpath

Consumers Gouged

SASKATOON (CP) — NDP Leader David Lewis flayed the food and drug industries again Tuesday, calling them guilty of gouging consumers with criminally-high prices.

He said that of every dollar Canadians spend on drugs, 30 cents are spent by the drug industry on advertising and promotion—mostly aimed at doctors, who end up prescribing the drugs most advertised.

"The medical profession has something to answer for in this story but the main culprits are the drug industry and the federal government."

He demanded government action to stop "this skinning of the sick, and in most cases the poor and the old."

In the drug industry, he said, Horner Drug Co. sells 1,000 capsules of Trilioperazine to retailers for $40.32 but Manitoba hospitals can buy the same amount of the drug for $3.

Similarly, he said, Mowatt and Moore charges retailers 815 per cent more for Nitrofurantoin antibiotics than it does the hospitals that purchase in bulk by tender.

Prince Edward's Study To Remain Independent

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward county councillors in a recorded vote Tuesday, rejected participation with Belleville in an area study of waste disposal at this time.

The decision was prompted by a letter from Belleville city clerk Adam Stalkow asking Prince Edward County's consideration in directing their council to allow the study to be incorporated in an area study.

In Belleville the waste disposal question is under review by the solid waste disposal and studge committee.

Councillors Russell Thompson, reeve of Ameliasburg, Clifford Walker, reeve of South Marysburg and Albert Pirath, reeve of Picton voted to join in the area study while the remaining reeves and deputy reeves opposed the move.

Ameliasburg deputy reeve Norman Dean and Picton deputy reeve James Bird did not attend the council session last night.

Reeve Thompson said his municipality has been represented at all meetings of the Belleville committee studying waste disposal and will "stick with it" because eventually it could prove more economical for Ameliasburg.

He indicated his township would, continue in the area study regardless of Prince Edward's decision.

Picton Reeve Albert Pirth outgested it would be to council's advantage to incorporate its study with Belleville's if such participation would not delay the county's study.

He stressed the Belleville committee would also have to agree to work with the same consultants hired by Prince Edward or the proposed incorporation would lose merit for the county.

Sophiasburg reeve George Foster opposed the area study remarking that in Prince Edward a study will cost $10,000. Fifty per cent of this figure will be paid by the government and the remaining half by the county.

Reeve Foster said he felt this expenditure was sufficient for Prince Edward and it would be inadvisable to enter a larger area study when the cost figure is unknown for it.

He was told by reeve Thompson that no cost has been estimated yet since the committee has not contacted the government in this regard to date. The reeve added he did not think council would be required to pay any of the cost this year.

Picton reeve Albert Pirath argued that the county, by incorporating its study with the Belleville Committee could lessen the costs of local investigation.

County warden Ross Benway said nothing exists to verify this premise and he noted a saving could be applicable only if Belleville committee members agreed to employ the same consultants hired by the county.

He said he did not feel there would be any rebate on the estimated $10,000 study cost figure for Prince Edward.

Three Prince Edward county councillors, Russell Thompson, Albert Pirath and warden Benway attended a recent meeting of the solid waste disposal and sludge committee in Belleville.

reeve, said a consulting engineer must be hired to draw up restoration plans for the county pit before a licence can be obtained.

He said if the county does not take the sand from the Pickering pit, it would be expensive to haul it from elsewhere in the county.

Reeve Vincent said he had heard a company usrryinig nearby had obtained a permit at a cost of $2,000 and now is the only company holding one.

In Toronto, Mr. Davis said he believed three licence applications had been granted once to the Lake Ontario Cement Company. However, it could not be confirmed today with the company that Lake Ontario Cement had received its licence.

The matter was mentioned in a report from the county's road committee, which included a motion to permit its roads department "to proceed with the sand-salt stockpile in the Pickering pit as in previous years."

Reeve Vincent also made a motion for the road committee to continue arrangements for surveys necessary to obtain licences for operating in pits in Hallowell township.

Both motions were passed without comment.

IN MEMORIAM

GLOWASKI — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother who passed away October 18, 1970.

Those we love don't go away,
They walk beside us every day,
Unseen, unheard but always near,
And those we think of him today,
For memory is the key that keeps
The treasure we lay upon the years,
And in that treasure chest we find
Those we love most dear.
Sadly missed.
—Always remembered by grandson Lawrence and granddaughter Maureen.

CLAPP — In loving memory of a dear husband and father who died suddenly on October 18, 1971.
We do not need a special day,
To bring you to our mind,
For the days we do not think of you,
Are very hard to find.
If wishes could save days to grow,
We'd give it, you and more,
But wishes can't bring you back,
Come smiling through the door.
—Sadly missed by wife Ethel and family.

DESJARDIE — In loving memory of our dear mother who passed away October 19, 1971.
Mother's love is peace
It never asks, it never sells,
It never called her home to suffer
Or even forgotten by husband
—Lovingly remembered by daughter Doris.

DESJARDIE — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother who passed away October 19, 1971.
We do not need a special day,
To bring you to our mind,
For the days we do not think of you,
Are very hard to find.
If wishes could save days to grow,
We'd give it, you and more,
But wishes can't bring you back,
Come smiling through the door.
—Sadly missed by daughter Diana, son-in-law Ray and grandchildren.

DESJARDIE — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother Laura Desjardie who passed away October 19, 1971.
When days are dark and friends are few,
Dear mother how we often think of you.
Memories are friends, if they are true,
We lost our best friend when you left us dear,
A silent wound by one Brave, daughter-in-law Mary and grandchildren.

Workers are busy at the corner of Front and Bridge Streets locating and lowering the water main. This water artery must be lowered before the storm sewer can pass through the intersection. Once completed, crews can begin working on the portion of road between Front and Pinnacle Streets. Here a worker keeps his feet dry by borrowing a block of a handy power shovel.

Scott Announces Candidacy

Belleville Mayor J. Russell Scott yesterday confirmed what was expected all along.

He announced that he would seek re-election in the Dec. 4 municipal election as mayor of Belleville for a further two-year term.

Mayor Scott said he was making the announcement earlier than he had intended because of the decision of Kingston Mayor Val Swain not to seek re-election.

The Kingston mayor is vice-president of the Association of Municipalities of Ontario, of which Mayor Scott is president. Also St. Catharines Mayor Mac Chown, another executive member of the municipal association says he will not run again.

Mayor Scott said he was making his announcement now to alleviate concern regarding the continuity of office in the newly formed municipal association.

MAYOR J. R. SCOTT

In announcing his candidacy, Mayor Scott pointed to Belleville's growth and said he would seek the support of the electorate on the basis of the continuing orderly growth of the city.

"We have come a long way in the past five years," he said.

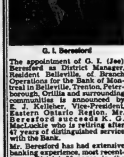
The city's progress spoke well for the present city hall administration and for municipal officials, stressed the mayor.

"We have maintained growth and found jobs for our people."

As a result, Belleville has the lowest unemployment record in the country.

"We have a lot to be thankful for," said Mayor Scott.

Mayor Scott entered municipal politics seven years ago after serving for several years on the Belleville Public School Board.



He served two years as alderman and was elected mayor five years ago on his first try, defeating the then incumbent Jack Ellis.

Three years ago, he was re-elected, defeating the late Richard Ellis.

At the local municipal election picture now appears, Mayor Scott will fight it out against Alderman Robin Jeffrey, who early in September announced she would seek the mayoralty.

At the time it was generally assumed that Mayor Scott would seek re-election, but until this week he had refrained from officially committing himself.

Now completing his fifth year in office, re-election for Mayor Scott would mean his term of office would run to seven years.

Cunningham Favors Civil Drug Charges

PICTON (Staff) — Soft drug users should not be prosecuted under the criminal code but instead should be charged under civil offences.

George Cunningham, Liberal candidate for the Prince Edward - Hastings riding, said Tuesday, he does not favor legalization of soft drugs such as marijuana or hashish, but he feels users should not face criminal charges.

Mr. Cunningham blamed "pushers" as the prime culprits on the drug scene and said they have grown rich with money taken from their victims. Most of them are not users themselves.

"They should be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law," emphasized the candidate in a talk with several secondary school students here yesterday.

Mr. Cunningham said he spoke against the legalization of soft drugs "as a parent and a politician."

He noted today's youth is keenly interested in the drug problem.

Candidate's Confrontation

Liberal candidates for Hastings - Prince Edward, George Cunningham (right) is interviewed by Rodger Courtney, press reporter for the Prince Edward Collegiate newspaper. Students questioned the candidate concerning jobs, the Sandbanks, and drug usage at a meeting Tuesday in the candidate's committee rooms in Picton.

Joe Cox to Seek Alderman's Post

Active in city recreation and a five - year member of the Recreation - Arena Committee, Joseph Cox, 118 Frank Street, will seek an alderman-ic seat on Belleville city council at the December 4 municipal election.

A native of the city, Mr. Cox served as committee vice-chairman for two years, has taken an active part in home and school association work and is a member of Calvary Temple.

Although serving as an appointed member on recreation organizations for many years, this is the first time that Mr. Cox has sought election to city council.

JOSEPH COX

Cox is sales manager for the masonry division of Wilson Concrete and has worked for the local firm for the past 13 years. Closely associated with the building trade, Mr. Cox is active in the Quinte Home Builders Association on which he is a director. He has acted as secretary treasurer of the association for the past four years.

Lodge's Centennial Is Marked

Members of Eureka Lodge, No. 233 AF and AM celebrated the 100th anniversary of their lodge last week with a banquet at the Masonic Temple followed by special ceremonies.

Masons from many parts of the province attended the celebration with special guests including Most Worshipful Brother William K. Bailey, Grand Master of Masons in Ontario, a former resident of the Stirling district.

The Grand Master spoke on the importance of keeping members active in the work of the lodge. A Stephen Choma Strings provided dinner music and special musical selections.

Following the banquet, new regalia and lodge room furnishings were dedicated in a ceremony conducted by Rev. G. Lowry, Grand Chaplain, assisted by lodge officers.

Good wishes of district lodges were offered by District Deputy Grand Master Ralph Neal and E. Sine, president of the local past Masters' and Wardens' Association. Master of the lodge, D. L. Moore responded.

During the ceremonies, items of historical interest were recalled, it being observed that many noted Belleville citizens had served in Eureka Lodge during the past century. Honorary membership was bestowed on Grand Master Bailey.

Gifts of Hastings county cheese were presented to a number of the out - of - town guests.

Students Interview Candidate

PICTON (Staff) — Today's youth seems well informed on political issues and forwards questions "very pertinent to anything that affects life" when interviewing election candidates at school bear pit sessions.

Liberal candidate for Prince Edward - Hastings, George Cunningham, yesterday applauded students for their concern with the environment, inflation and drug problems in an interview with Prince Edward Collegiate Institute school reporter Rodger Courtney.

Mr. Courtney and six fellow students met with the candidate as the Liberal committee rooms here to discuss election issues and forward questions.

The Liberal candidate said, "I rate the young people very highly; they are better read and better informed than some of the seniors today."

He added they insist on straightforward answers and do not tolerate "sermons".

He told the PECI students his party is concerned for their futures and more industry is needed in Prince Edward to provide them with jobs.

Mr. Cunningham, questioned about quarrying at the Sandbanks in relation to the future of the Lake Ontario Cement Cumany Ltd. gave firm support to the plant.

He stressed the problems surrounding the sand removal are not a federal issue but said he has signed a petition circulated by the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce in support of the company.

"I'm for getting off the back of the cement company and getting off the back of the union." declared the candidate.

He described the cement company as the major industry in Prince Edward and said he has spoken with his father, a long-time county resident who can recall when shifting sands covered a hotel at the Sandbanks.

He said he realized many persons want to preserve the Sandbanks and the beach but emphasized he does not favor closing a major industry.

Mr. Cunningham remarked he would not make the Sandbanks a campaign issue.

The Liberal contender added he is not against ecologists and would like to see much of Prince Edward's marginal land reforested with deciduous trees which would give off oxygen. He added the oxygen level has dropped as more and more carbon dioxide has been introduced in the environment.

Mr. Cunningham also said he would promote the revitalization of the Bay of Quinte and would like to see it cleaned up.

The candidate answered questions concerning the immigration of 5,000 Ugandans to Canada and termed their admission to this country "only humanitarian".

He observed the immigrants will fill a number of service jobs but added, "It's not going to hurt us that much."

He felt the admission of the Ugandans here was Canada's only choice as "a tremendous member in the British Commonwealth", and as a member of the United Nations.

Rodger Courtney sought Mr. Cunningham's views involving Canada's poor, such as her Indians and Eskimos and was told these people have been consistently bypassed "by every government and every segment of society."

"We took a lot of their rights away and made them subservient to a lot of our ideas. I really don't know the answer — this I leave to the sociologists," he commented.

He spoke of Canada's unemployed and noted this country certainly has "done better than any other western industrialized civilization." The Liberal party, however, will not be satisfied until there are jobs for all persons seeking work.

Mr. Cunningham praised Prime Minister Trudeau's foresight in visiting China and Russia and said these countries, representing one third of the world's population cannot be overlooked.

He described China as "a large potential market lacking the degree of mechanization and industrialization found here. "Let's sell into China," he urged.

The candidate said Canada, by supporting China's entry to the United Nations, showed leadership. "It's the first time in history that Canada is the major leader in many of these international things," he observed. Mr. Cunningham said other countries now are looking to Canada and noted United States President Richard Nixon followed Pierre Trudeau in visits to Russia and China.

Fire Destroys Parts Firm

THOMASBURG (Special) — An early - morning fire today destroyed one of the leading businesses in this community, seven miles south of Tweed.

The blaze broke out in the furnace room of Thomasburg Auto Parts shortly before 5 a.m. this morning.

Volunteer firefighters and two trucks were dispatched to the scene from Tweed. The force succeeded in containing the fire, intensified by the explosion of welding gases.

Thomasburg Auto Parts, coowned by Harry and Louis Adams and David Calvert, was incured but no value of the loss is available.

Scouts Depend on Apples To Make Training Possible

Cubs and Boy Scouts in the Belleville district will be in serious financial shape if the apple drive does not double its fund raising quota from last year's $1,200.

Not being a member of the United Appeal, and reluctance on the part of organizers to ask for excessive funds and fees from the boys, combine to leave the scout purse empty.

Mrs. Betty Fort, growth coordinator and acting district secretary said this morning, "$2,000 would be the absolute minimum or bare bones for programming in the coming year."

Already the shortage of funds has affected groups across the city in the amount of training being done.

Assistant district commissioner John Dodds, last night said, "not one boy from the Belleville area was able to go to a Jamboree this past summer because the money was just not available.

"Not being a member of the United Appeal, and reluctance on the part of organizers to ask for excessive funds and fees from the boys, combine to leave the scout purse empty.

"If Apple day is not successful and no other funds can be gathered by fund drives, "it will be the boys who will have to pay for individual courses and extras," said Commissioner Dodds.

"We just can't give them as much training as we would like to," he said.

The $2,000 if it is raised will go to support 18 groups in the city handling more than 1,000 boys.

Residential areas are being canvassed during the evenings this week.

On Friday evenings the cubs and scouts will move into the commercial areas to solicit funds to get them through the coming year.

Scouts will be at the Quinte Mall Friday evening and Saturday morning.

While organizers contemplated the apple day, five cubs realized their dream when they were taken up into scouts in a passing out ceremony last night in Christ Church.

The five cubs are Rick Phillips, Ron Phillips, Ian Chambers, Greg Johnson and Steven Savage.

The boys went from the second of Belleville cubs to second of Belleville scouts.

Day of Decision

There are going to be changes in Canada come October 30. Political ridings are going to change and it is simply a question of how many and to what extent the electorate expresses its approbation — or its disenchantment — with the status quo.

That there is a large degree of disenchantment with the way things are politically, with the manner in which the country's affairs are being conducted, is obvious.

Unemployment and inflation are of course two highly inflammatory issues. Another is the wastage of our financial resources on questionable projects, make-work programs and the like, not to mention some aspects of defence spending.

Nobody argues the fact there is a need to put people to work, to find jobs for them, or that the Opportunities for Youth program, for example, is a necessary aid. What does give rise for concern is the lack of any co-ordinated policy aimed at creating real jobs with some promise of permanence and security — and what is also important, of use to the country.

The current figures of jobless —whether seasonably adjusted or otherwise — are deplorable. As a corollary we have the spectacle of an unemployment insurance fund unable to keep pace with the numbers out of work, a fund experiencing huge deficits and with taxpayers facing the prospect of having to pay still more to keep it going. As if this were not enough there has been widespread abuse of the fund, to the point that many have found it not only easy to live on unemployment grants, welfare or whatever, but even more financially advantageous than while working.

Most of us are familiar, in a general way at least, with the findings of the Auditor General. Each year this official reveals the horrors of unbridled spending which Governments seem to fall heir to. And, sensitive to criticism, Ottawa has been trying to curb the power and influence of the Auditor-General who has been such a thorn in its flesh.

The question then for voters is whether the degree of disillusionment with Ottawa's present Government is such that a different administration with fresh approaches to the problems facing the country is needed.

Despite promises of action and warnings we still have inflation. Instead of jobs there is massive unemployment.

There is little in the campaign speeches of Prime Minister Trudeau or his cabinet colleagues that encourages us to believe things will be any better another time around.

We have been told taxes may rise under a Liberal government while Conservative leader Stanfield tells us taxes will be cut to stimulate the economy and create more growth.

We need a restoration of confidence in both the economy and our institutions.

The only certain is that quiet Bonn on the Rhine is only a temporary capital seat.

The borders of Communist Europe as more or less set at the conquest in May, 1945, were extended in 1948 with the Communist takeover of Czechoslovakia. In Asia, the two longest-lasting trouble spots have been countries divided arbitrarily as never before in their long histories, Korea, (North and South) and Vietnam, (North and South).

The Korean War, how to start it, how to preserve the armistice set at Panmungjon in May, 1953, consumed most of the 1950s as far as U.S. Asian policy was concerned. The Vietnam War, how to stop it, and now how to guarantee a peace, have consumed most of the 1960s and all of the 1970s to date.

Germany (in modern times) Korea (from ancient times) and the historic kingdoms of Indochina (from ancient times) have not preserved the historic geographical features which the cold war has apparently permanently altered. Korea's hope after 1945 was that the ancient Kingdom of Korea, destroyed by Japan, would be reconstituted as a liberal democracy.

Indochina was overwhelmed different, since in its history, competing kingdoms for example the Cambodian Empire, tried to dominate what finally became the huge French possession of Indochina. Here, set in contemporary minds as the believed-to-be-safe and capital of Communist North Vietnam, was in history the barren-rocky heart of the old French Indochina and before it of various Indochinese kingdoms.

In effect after years of bloody battle, the expenditure of billions of dollars, a record wartime outlay of first French then American and goodness knows how many Vietnamese lives, the Paris peace talks and Henry Kissinger discussions with North Vietnamese officials are all about creating the one Vietnam.

This is an intention which may never come about in Europe. The fact of two Germanies may be a permanent one after all. West German Chancellor Willy Brandt's "Ostpolitik," foreign policy for the east, has already resulted in West Germany diplomatic relations with postwar Poland with acceptance of its post-1945 boundaries.

Communist Poland, of course, includes p r e - w a r Germany's eastern provinces, except for a sliver of former East Prussia which has gone to the U.S.S.R. But East Germany is no longer diplomatically a pariah outside of the Communist bloc. The other day India recognized her, while continuing to recognize West Germany.

Many years ago at a private dinner party, Lester Pearson made the sage comment that the Korean and Vietnam crises could have been avoided if power politics had not cut them in two as Asian nations. He drew the parallel of Burma which has been a single nation since the war. And he added a third peril would have existed for all concerned in Asia, if there had been a south Burma and a Communist-dominated "People's Burma."

If Henry Kissinger is successful, perhaps all he is doing after so much blood and treasure down the drain, is turning back history's pages at staggering cost.

But When Is Enough... Enough?

Bryce Mackasey Fights Back on Unemployment Spending

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—If anyone has any doubts about the extent of inflation in recent years, Bryce Mackasey, manpower and immigration minister, has dispelled these. About 15 years ago, the late C. D. Howe shocked Canadians with his famous "What's a million?" comment. Mr. Mackasey now tells us that a deficit in the unemployment insurance fund of some 544 times one million dollars is only a "drop in the bucket."

The likeable manpower minister has not been regarded here as an especially cautious or prudent man in his 10 years in Parliament and in the cabinet. Rather, he has been embarrassingly frank at times—embarrassing for the government, that is—and has a tendency to go on the offensive when the lights are flashing an amber signal, if not the red.

His recent comments on what has become the major Campaign issue—the operation of the unemployment insurance scheme—is Mackasey at his worst, or his most, depending on your point of view.

"I'll shake Robert Stanfield right out of his itchy long underwear on this unemployment insurance thing," Mr. Mackasey promises.

He argues that the Conservative leader is politically motivated in attacking the Unemployment Insurance Commission and is "trying to fight this election on the backs of the poor."

In typical fashion he ignores the fact Mr. Stanfield probably doesn't wear long underwear—at least during the heat of a campaign—and that he has not had any connection with the family business that makes that garment for many years.

To accuse a politician, especially during an election campaign, of being politically motivated is like accusing the Pope of being a Roman Catholic. And a great majority of those receiving unemployment insurance are not the poor of Canada, not when the benefits can run as high as $100 a week. The poor with their low incomes get their benefits and are on municipal welfare rolls.

The ebullient Mr. Mackasey then admits, in a Montreal interview, that "of course there is a deficit" in the fund.

"If you want an idea of how much the deficit is, then this should give it to you," he says, pointing to a 17-page file which defends the workings of the commission since the act was amended. Second later, Mr. Mackasey is objecting to the term "deficit" when describing the state of the fund, claiming the government is merely transferring funds from one of its accounts to another. Really, Mr. Mackasey, surely you don't expect Canadians to swallow that one!

The deficit, or transfer of funds—whichever you prefer—totals more than $508 million now and is likely, by the minister's own admission, to rise to as much as $800 million by year end.

That's all money extracted from corporate or private taxpayers, money that could be used for other government purposes or, even better, not collected at all, if under the present formula, the fund is self-sustaining when unemployment is only five per cent of the labor force.

The government would be better advised to trigger an economic atmosphere which would lower unemployment to this level.

At the same time, it should weed-out the lazy, the no-hopers and those who deliberately make themselves unemployed for several months each year in order to collect the generous benefits.

There is growing evidence that many Canadians, particularly those in the middle-income group which has been hit so hard by rising taxes in recent years, are gradually waking up to the fact they are being prayed for suckers. The people who play along with their jobs 11 months of the year with little or no complaint and with no thought of cheating any sort of federal subsidy or hand-out, can resent a mighty force of the polls.

If enough of them realize the present government has downgraded the work ethic to the extent of creating a whole new class of unemployment insurance leaners, then Mr. Mackasey and the Liberals may be in for trouble.

Around the World Countries Remain Divided

By JOHN D. HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst

The cold war frontiers as Winston Churchill visualized them in 1946 during his famous "iron curtain" speech at Fulton, Missouri, are still the ones along which the West and the Communists are bargaining.

This is mainly because neither capitalistic nor communist powers have budged one inch from the geographical positions they agreed upon as "safe" or won by force of arms during the last months of Second World War.

Berlin is still a cold war capital, divided between West and East Germany, sitting in the middle of the latter, with West Germany certain that quiet Bonn on the Rhine is only a temporary capital seat.

Oktoberfests Popular

What's with these Oktoberfests? Well they could be the natural successor to the open line radio programs as an election vote-getter.

It seems the open line shows are being manipulated by the opposing parties, each with their prepared questions designed to boost or embarrass the candidate as the case may be.

But an Oktoberfest? Well this entertainment import from Germany is fast becoming one of the biggest blasts of the fall calendar.

Here the candidates can meet folks in a convivial atmosphere, have a sip or two and unwind a shade before tootering off into the wild blue yonder and who knows, another round of the same somewhere else.

We see that Opposition leader Stanfield for one dropped into three Oktoberfests on his recent fire-day swing through October ridings. Little chance at these to have some wag — or hired political hand — toss him a curve while clinking glasses. The occasion is just not appropriate. Rather it is a time for getting together, shaking hands and letting people know you are glad to see them.

Many Speak German

Galt Reporter

German remains the language first spoken and still understood by more Canadian residents than any other except English and French, Statistics Canada reports. But Italian has surged into fourth place among mother tongues in Canada, displacing Ukrainian, which held that position in 1961.

In its report, the bureau lists nearly 13 million residents with English as mother tongue and 5.3 million with French, as of June 1, 1971. Of the remaining 2.8 million, 561,055 reported mother tongue was German, down (down 6.5 per cent from 1961), 338,360 Italian (up 39 per cent), 309,855 Ukrainian (down 14 per cent) 144,320 Netherlands (down 8.1 per cent) and 134,080 Polish (up 17 per cent).

Then years earlier, only 338,620 residents listed Italian as their mother tongue. On Census Day, 1971, there were more than that number living in the census metropolitan areas of Montreal, Toronto and Hamilton alone.

Nearly 44 per cent of the population reporting Italian as mother tongue was located in Ontario, 25 per cent in Quebec and just over 10 per cent in the four western provinces. More than 60 per cent of the German speaking population, on the other hand, was found in the west, 33 per cent in Ontario and only six per cent in Quebec and the Atlantic Provinces.

Footbridge Shops Target

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

It happened again last night (Thursday). Another window was broken in one of the shops of the footbridge arcade. It is small wonder that this set of business should be the target of destruction and theft.

In the first place the footbridge and the r a i l w a y are very poorly lit at night and, I gather, equally poorly patrolled by the police force. As business-es which pay local and business taxes the shop ownership, this area d e s e r v e the protection which the merchants on Front Street receive.

In addition to this the footbridge is an important access route to the downtown area at night as well as during the day. Surely the pedestrians who use this area deserve better than the darkness that pervades this area when the shops have closed.

Finally the poor lighting and lack of policing is indicative of the general lack of concern for this business area by city officials and even downtown merchants. The concept of the footbridge arcade is a marvellous one. This is an area of peace and quiet charm away from the automobile which dominates the rest of the downtown area. This area could be a great drawing card for the downtown merchants if better sidewalks, lighting and so forth were provided. This is particularly true given the quality of the shops which are presently found in the arcade. These include such functional shops as the Family Bakery, a shoe repair, hairdresser and photographer's shop (the target of Thursday night's vandalism). The Door In The Wall is perhaps the most charming shop in the whole city. Its dinkys Arts and Crafts made almost entirely by Belleville p e o p l e. The city should develop instead of ignoring this area.

A CONCERNED CITIZEN.

Bible Digest

by H. B. DEAN

"That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved."
Romans 10:9

So much depends on what we truly believe about what happened in the manger, on the cross and at the tomb. "Christ died for our sins." "He is not here, He is risen." "He ever liveth to make intercession for us." We need to believe it deep inside and tell it far and wide.

Taxation Enigma

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I wish to make a request to any politician who could supply me with the correct answer concerning personal exemption and taxation.

I must emphasize that I am not an expert in economics or the complicated problems in raising money to run a country in the best interests of its people, rather I am one of the millions whose income tax goes into the treasury to help keep that those whom we elect to represent us will indeed do so in our best interests.

Now to the suggestion. If the public servants could but agree to remain the same and our basic exemptions were tripled right across the board I contend that our welfare system and its costly administration would no longer be required. I would then have a choice to use my money as I see fit and not because an unseen and therefore unaccountable bureaucracy decides for me. I would also suggest that as soon as a person dies the old age pension be should be exempt from all taxes—even that. He has paid long enough, in my mind, to support this country and deserves a better break when his earning power is at its lowest.

I also feel that the use of credit buying, that an every amount of cash would be e c o n o m i c a l l y moving to keep the economy healthy. The important point in this is the return of personal choice.

Please don't use the example of the meagre increase in personal exemptions we received a year ago to say we have it already.

As I mentioned earlier these suggestions may not at all be feasible. However, I would appreciate clarification on this matter.

Spending Restraint Is Theme

By DON O'HEARN
Queen's Park Bureau

TORONTO—It isn't promising any more, the promising of goodies.

It is pledging, pledges to hold back, to restrain.

Have you noticed our politics in the 70s, as being portrayed in this federal election?

There is a distinct change in character of the approach of all sides and all parties.

To date in the campaign two issues in particular seemed to have caught on with the public. One is the "corporate rip-off" attack of NDP Leader Davis Lewis.

(Just how much it has been registering is hard to say, but it has been talked about).

The second is unemployment insurance and the charges of PC Leader Robert Stanfield that the high rates and easy conditions have encouraged malingering.

It is notable that both of these points talk of cutting down, of holding back.

The campaign, of course, hasn't been without its promises.

Stanfield has been talking about something which comes under the heading of increased annual wage.

Lewis has been preaching tax rearrangements which would put more money in the hands of the people earner.

But the emphasis has been on restraint or restriction.

This is the point both men have featured right after night, and it is the one the public apparently is buying.

That this is so should not be surprise to those close to politics at any level today.

Federal, or provincial in the U.S. — there is one pervasive public concern.

The public is tired of spending. Fed up.

And all politicians, n a t u r a l l y enough, realize this yet.

A good number of them are still dedicated to their old ways and methods—of buying votes with the people's own money.

But those who are really close to the public are getting to know it. Its concern with taxes, e d u c a t i o n spending, health spending—spending.

This concern should be the keynote of political rostrum of the next decade and we are seeing it really surface in this election.

Mohawks Determined To Build Olympic Pool

TYENDINAGA RESERVE (Staff) — Michael Brant is hopeful he and his fellow Mohawks will be able to provide this reserve and surrounding white communities with a kingsize, swimming pool next year.

He's determined it will happen. This, despite some unpromising funding indications at the start, for the Mohawk recreation committee of which he is the chairman.

Cost of the Olympic - size pool — sited for the Mohawk Recreation Park near the Bay of Quinte shoreline west of Deseronto — is estimated at $18,000.

As yet, the Mohawks have come up with no one single lump sum to help defray costs but are still hopeful of such aid.

Indications from two federal government officials earlier in the year hinted no government money could be made available under existing aid structures. But a meeting with a third government officer is in the offing, said Mr. Brant, and he's hopeful of some positives outcome.

Then, the representative of a bank which he wouldn't name, offered a $15,000 loan — at 11.5 per cent, claims Mr. Brant. The terms were not taken up by the committee.

If necessary, the committee has even offered to borrow, funding from the federal government, but he admits uncertainty if governments can lend money.

Undeterred, however, his committee has been progressing with fund-raising schemes on its own — raffles, bingoes. So far, Mr. Brant estimates $6,000 has been collected through such community-participation projects, since the idea was conceived almost two years ago.

So, "we're determined to go ahead and we're going ahead," said Mr. Brant who sets a start as next May.

The project, blueprinted by a Toronto contractor, would see an 82-foot pool, 37 feet wide, housed in its own building with showers, locker space pumping and filtering equipment.

A paying proposition, admission might cost 25 cents per swimmer — the only installation of its kind in the area. It would serve both reserve and neighboring Deseronto and Tyendinaga townships.

Popularity of swimming and the cost — is one of the impelling forces behind the projects.

Mr. Brant points out, his committee doesn't totally trust the waters of the Bay of Quinte — which ironically could be the area's biggest natural swimming installation — because of possible contamination. His committee doesn't wish to be held responsible for any illness caused youngsters swimming in the Bay under a committee program. At one point, children from the reserve could swim free at Belleville's YMCA. But the committee discovered busing costs run to $400 a season.

"So, we figured the best thing for the community would be to build one of our own. We started out on the project, we're going ahead with it — and we're going to finish it."

Are Meters Dangerous?

Should the 30-foot no parking regulation which applies to regular intersections throughout the city also apply in downtown parking meter areas?

This was the question asked Monday at the regular meeting of the city traffic committee during discussion on how to make it safer for pedestrians to get across the street.

The subject was introduced as the result of an earlier recommendation for the installation of pedestrian crosswalks on Pinnacle Street at Loblaws and at Campbell Street being referred back by city council for more information on costs.

The recommendation for crosswalks had been made by the committee on the suggestion of Police Chief Douglas Crosbie, and yesterday was again tabled for a further report from the police chief.

In the meantime, however, the traffic committee will recommend to the parking authority that one parking meter on the west side on Pinnacle Street south of Market Street be removed on a trial basis.

Removal of some parking meters at the present courtesy walks was proposed at last week's council meeting by Alderman Enos David, who said this would improve visibility and could make the recommended legal crosswalks unnecessary.

At the same time, police chief Crosbie will be asked to report on the feasibility of the removal of all parking meters within 30 feet of intersections and crosswalks in the downtown business area.

Car-Train Crash Injuries Minor

FOXBORO (Staff) — Three members of a Foxboro area family were treated and released from Belleville General Hospital Monday, following a train-car mishap here.

The car, driven by Hugh James McDonald, 42, of RR2, Foxboro, was hit by a Canadian National train on a Rosedale Avenue crossing about 3:45 p.m.

Mrs. Norma McDonald, wife of the driver and passenger in the car, and the couple's 16-year-old son, Robert, also a passenger, sustained minor injuries.

No estimate of damage to the automobile or train are available.

Belleville detachment OPP investigated the incident.

L'Amable Man Crash Victim

BRECHIN, Ont. (CP) — A 66-year-old man from L'Amable, was killed in a two-car accident here Monday as he was returning to his home after visiting Toronto to make arrangements for the funeral of his son-in-law.

Walter Hannam of L'Amable had made arrangements in Toronto for the funeral of his son-in-law, John Glaser of Scomberg, killed recently in a traffic accident near Sault St. Marie.

Also killed in Monday's accident here was Thelma McKnight, 38, of Port Bolster, Ont., a passenger in the car which was in collision with Mr. Hannam's.

Two Escape Injury

TWEED (Special) — Two Kaladar district motorists, Gary Laverne Thibault, 15, of RR.1, Kaladar, and Roger Garey, 20, of Arden, escaped injury in a weekend accident which saw their cars collide on County Road 2 five miles south of Flinton.

Police said the two cars collided as they crested a knoll midway between Flinton and Actinolite. Property damage amounting to about $600, most to the Thibault car.

Deadline Set

TRENTON (Staff) — Saturday is the final day for registering for the Brighton and District Minor Hockey Association.

To date more than 140 boys from tykes to juveniles have signed up for the season and those still wishing to do so can join between 10 a.m. and noon at the Scotty Broughton Youth Centre.

Britons Mugged By Girl Gangs

LONDON (CP) — A bizarre and frightening new phenomenon of urban violence is haunting British streets—the girl mugger.

Increasing assaults by teen-age girls—usually in twos or threes and often from prosperous, middle-class homes—are being reported in newspapers. Police estimate there are several dozen gangs of girl muggers.

In a recent incident, a 25-year-old school teacher was attacked by three teen-age girls as she waited at a suburban bus stop. The girls stole her watch, tried to pull rings off her fingers, took her money and kicked her face viciously, leaving her bleeding on the sidewalk.

One of the assailants lived in a £25,000 home in Hayes, a middle-class dormitory area on the fringes of London. Her mother said the girl lived a normal life until she began hanging around with local hippies.

In another case, two 17-year-old blondes, one armed with a flick-knife, the other with a spike, forced another girl of 17 to hand over her leather jacket.

Most girl muggers concentrate on female victims, particularly the old and vulnerable. They refer to it as "granny bashing".

Police are worried about this new development because girls, using wigs and makeup, can disguise themselves more effectively than their male counterparts.

Until recently, girls were rarely accused of assault or crimes of violence. Their role in gang activities was usually to act as decoys, luring victims to the attack.

One scientist who has studied the problem relates it to the general female bid for equality.

Girls who have grown up in relatively sheltered homes now freely roam the streets, just as boys have always done, says Prof. Trevor Gibbens.

"It is a natural result that, in becoming equal, they have become equal in all areas, including violence."

Two Arrested

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Two Toronto persons were to appear on provincial court here today to face charges in connection with Monday's seizure of about 700 pounds of marijuana.

Police said Jack Renner, 37, and Elayne Vince, 23, were being brought back to Windsor Tuesday night after appearing in provincial court in Toronto on a narcotics charge.

Charges were laid against the pair, both former Windsor residents, after a police drug squad found the 700-pound cache of marijuana in a River Canard, just south of here.

Sharp Favoring Independent Line

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp has completed a study of future Canada-United States relations with the conclusion that this country should increase its independence while maintaining harmonious relations with its neighbor.

In a 34-page booklet, Canada-U.S. Relations: Options for the Future, Mr. Sharp is in favor of a comprehensive long-term strategy to strengthen the Canadian economy "and other aspects of national life" and reduce the present vulnerability from outside influences.

"If the outcome is a Canada more confident in its identity, stronger in its capacity to satisfy the aspirations of Canadians and better equipped to play a part in the world, it is an outcome that is bound to make Canada a better neighbor and partner of the United States.

"Above all, it is an outcome that should buttress the continuation of a harmonious relationship between the two countries."

In considering future Canadian-U.S. relations, Mr. Sharp looked at two other options—that Canada try to maintain the present relationship with a minimum of policy adjustments, or that Canada move toward closer integration with the U.S.

In a look at the first option, he said maintaining the existing relationship could result in increased Canadian dependency on the U.S., along with painful economic adjustments to offset changes in American policy.

The other option, closer integration, would not only result in greater Canadian dependence on the U.S., but it might not be acceptable to Canadian public opinion. Reactions would vary across Canada "but it is not unlikely that many French-speaking Canadians, the prospect of union with the United States would be viewed as risking their spiritual emergence in a sea of some 200 million English-speaking North Americans."

No Delay

OTTAWA (CP) — The Economic Council of Canada said Tuesday the federal government has made no move to delay the council's annual report until after the election.

A council news release said the report, assessing Canada's economic prospects to 1980, will be made public Nov. 6, 10 days after the federal election.

New Democratic Leader David Lewis suggested Monday that the report has been delayed because the government does not want it made public during the election campaign.

Garbage Bag Body That of Missing Girl

LAMBETH, Ont. (CP) — The body of a young girl found in a plastic garbage bag last Saturday has been identified as Brenda Heesbeen; 13, who disappeared last Aug. 27.

Provincial police said Tuesday the badly decomposed body had been identified through dental records, clothing and a ring.

Police did not reveal how the young girl died. An autopsy is being performed.

Five provincial police inspectors from the force's criminal investigation branch are working on the case.

Insp. John McPherson said police have several leads and have interviewed "dozens of persons" since the body was found by a duck hunter in a conservation area.

The police are checking on a report from the girl's father which indicated a middle-aged man talked to the girl several times one day during the early summer and asked her to get into his car.

Insp. McPherson said there was no reason at this stage to link the death of the Heesbeen girl to two unsolved murders in Ontario.

Last spring, the dismembered body of a young, married woman was found in a creek near Port Stanley and in 1969 the body of a 15-year-old girl was found in a creek near Tillsonburg.

Brenda's body was found in about one foot of water in a creek near this community Tuesday, a squad of police started going over every square inch of ground in the area where the body was found.

Ten Cabinet Ministers Own Shares in Firms

TORONTO (CP) — Business investments made public Tuesday by Ontario cabinet ministers reveal that 10 of the 24 ministers own corporate shares with six of them holding a controlling interest in their firms.

The disclosures were ordered by Premier William Davis under a tough set of guidelines to deal with conflict of interest. Tuesday was the deadline for revealing share holdings. Earlier, the ministers submitted a list of their land holdings to the clerk of the legislature.

The guidelines followed the resignation of Darcy McKeough as treasurer over an investment he had in a Chatham land development scheme, and a similar land conflict of interest involving Attorney-General Dalton Bales, who remained in the cabinet.

In the list made public Tuesday, ministers disclosing share holdings were: Resources Secretary A. B. R. Lawrence; Labor Minister Fernand Guindon; James Snow, government services; James A.i.d., environment; Gordon Carton, transportation and communications; John White, industry and tourism; Allan Grossman, revenue; Sylvanus Apps, correctional services.

Last week, two new ministers, Jack McNie, colleges and universities, and Claude Bennett, minister without portfolio, made their share holdings public. Others said they had no share holdings, including Mr. Davis.

Leo Bernier, natural resources minister, said that he owned a one-third partnership, not controlling interest, in a Bernier and Sons, of Hudson Ont. He has no land holdings.

Two other ministers, Robert Welch, social development secretary, Justice Secretary George Kerr, said they were not actively involved in their law practices, although both their former firms still carry their names.

Those reporting no investments of any kind were: Eric Winkler, chairman of management board; Education Minister Thomas Wells; Rene Brunelle, community and social services; Treasurer Charles MacNaughton; Agriculture Minister William Stewart; Health Minister Richard Potter; and Margaret Birch, minister without portfolio.

Scientists Favor Pipeline Caution

MONT GABRIEL, Que. (CP) — Most of the 100 scientists at a special federal government "think tank" this week would probably say "go slow on a natural gas pipeline to the North."

But the scientists believe the decision will be political and economic rather than scientific.

Dr. J. Tuzo Wilson, a geophysicist and principal of Erindale College, told a news conference Tuesday that most scientists, especially earth, plant and wildlife specialists, would want more time to do research.

But the rate of development in the North, and therefore the scientific activity, will likely be tied to political and economic conditions, he said. Dr. Wilson said the government wants to see the development of the North and is pushing for the pipeline.

Earlier, Dr. R. F. Legget of Ottawa, former director of building research for the National Research Council, told reporters that scientists have the technical know-how to permit immediate construction of a pipeline in the Mackenzie Valley.

This included the technology that would prevent damage to the environment and would ensure participation in the project by northern natives, he said.

However, he added that the technology for a pipeline in the eastern arctic was not yet advanced enough.

Dr. Wilson, who is also president of the Royal Society of Canada, said that if the country is thinking of spending about $6 billion on a pipeline, then much more research money must be available to evaluate what will happen when oil and gas reserves in the North are used up.

He said the world faces a crisis in supply of fossil fuel (oil, gas and coal) and that this could happen "within a lifetime."

He said this could be as close as 20 years or as far off as 60, depending on the reserves and how they are used.

"Scientists are cautious," about using up reserves without having alternative energy sources, such as solar energy or some form of clean nuclear power.

"Inthe long run the onus will be on them to supply something else."

Nursing Homes Rules to Allow For Expansion

TORONTO (CP) — Regulations governing nursing homes in Ontario will be eased to allow some smaller homes to enlarge, Stanley Martin, deputy health minister, said Tuesday.

Mr. Martin, addressing the Ontario Nursing Home Association convention, said the changes will allow some of the smaller homes to "become economically viable." He said they will be permitted to enlarge facilities provided that more beds are needed and standard of operation is acceptable.

In some areas, two or more smaller homes, may combine "to develop a new facility with about the same total number of nursing-home beds," he said.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD STRAND

Strand — Lee

Cookes - Portsmouth Church in Kingston was the scene of a recent double-ring wedding ceremony when Valerie Elaine Lee exchanged vows with Edward Strand. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Lee of Kingston and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arne Strand of RR1 Carrying Place. Rev. Samuel Delve performed the ceremony while Mrs. Howard Bell of Kingston provided organ music to the accompaniment of the soloist, Mrs. Daisy Rennie of Brighton.

The bride selected a floor length organza over taffeta bridal gown. The silk illusion matching headpiece and veil were enhanced by hand-rolled edges. Guipure lace interwoven with pale pink satin ribbon accented the bride's bodice, train, bottom of her gown and cuffs. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of candy pink roses, rosebuds and white carnations.

Miss Verna Lee, as her sister's maid of honor, was attired in a long pale pink organza over taffeta gown. The embroidered bodice of her gown was interwoven with pale pink satin ribbon. She carried a bouquet of pale blue roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss Vanessa Lee, sister of the bride, and Miss Ann-Marie Strand, sister of the bridegroom, were dressed similarly to the maid of honor except in blue and each carried pink rose bouquets. The junior bridesmaids, Misses Debbie and Cindy Comeau of North Bay were pale a pink gown similar to the bridesmaids and carried pink rose bouquets. Miss Shelley Comeau, also of North Bay, as the flower girl, was attired in a pink down similar to the bridesmaids' while she carried a white basket with blue roses and pink satin ribbons.

Jerry LaPalm of Camilton was best man. Irwin and John Strand, of RR1 Carrying Place brothers of the bridegroom, and Angus Sinclair of Belleville ushered the guests.

For the reception which was held at S a i n t Luke's Hall, Kingston and followed by a party at Odd Fellows Hall, the bride's mother received guests wearing a floor length pale mauve organza gown over mauve taffeta with large pink gold and blue velvet flowers embossed on her gown. A corsage of candy pink roses matched the rosebuds in her hair.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a long deep rose crepe gown with corsage of pink roses accenting her gown.

For the wedding trip to northern Ontario, the bride chose a rose, blue and white floral nylon sheer over taffeta street - length dress. White shoes and a corsage of pink roses completed her dress.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Strand will take up residence at 700 Sir John A. Macdonald Blvd, Apt. 405, Kingston.

Social And Personal

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest William Summers, Belleville wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Linda Anne, to Mr. Paul William Waters, son of Mrs. Ruth Waters, Toronto and Mr. Willilen Waters of Scarborough. The marriage will take place in Bridge Street United Church on Saturday, November 18, 1972 at seven p.m.

50th BIRTHDAY

A birthday party was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jacques, West Bridge Street for Mrs. Gertrude Fry on the occasion of her 80th birthday. Many friends and relatives called with gifts and best wishes during the day.

* * *

Prior to her recent marriage, Mrs. Edward Strand (nee Valerie Lee) was entertained at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Donna Patterson of Kingston. The bride's aunt Mrs. Grace Lee of Kingston, gave an engagement party. A gift was received by the bride from the Directory Assistance Office. Bell Canada, in Kingston, where she is employed. Gifts and best wishes were also received from Norway where the bridegroom was born.

Friends and relatives gathered recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Jaques, Belleville to honor Mrs. Gertrude Fry on the occasion of her 80th birthday.

Herbal Gardening Attracts Enthusiasts At Horticulture Meet

by BONNIE KING
Women's Reporter

Two enthusiastic herbologists from the Toronto Garden Club delighted members and guests of the Belleville Horticultural Society last evening in Harry J. Clarke School auditorium. Mrs. John Langdon and Mrs. Allan Findley gave rebirth to herbology, an ancient science, by describing the total care from growing a herbal plot using herbs in food.

"If not for herbs, many ancestors would not have survived," said Mrs. John Langdon, a world traveller and authority on herbs. Herbs are as old as gardens, the speaker noted. She then carried this ancient science to today's uses. Herbal ingredients are found in medicine, perfume, incense, wines, liquers, insecticides, dyes, cotions, linens and cosmetics. In planting a herbal garden, Mrs. Langdon suggested a plot the size of a single - size mattress would yield sufficient crop for any large size family.

With fresh samples to illustrate her discussion, this guest speaker went on to describe the various herbs grown such as: basil, parsley, chives, sage and summer savory.

Herb gardens may be grown in containers also such as barrels, boxes, tubs, baskets and pots. They also require proper care including a full sun, good drainage and rich soil.

Following Mrs. Langdon's personalized address including humorous anecdotes on her experience with herbs another equally informative speaker addressed the gathering.

"We could well take heed because we are, after all, what we eat," said Mrs. Allan Findley. "In essence, a herb is a plant whose roots, seeds or leaves improve the taste of food."

She also described herbology from ancient times to present culinary and medicinal use. Roast beef, omelettes, pork chops, hamburg, bread and fish were a few foods mentioned whose flavor can be enhanced by herbs. Mrs. Findley also noted several interesting herbal concocted dishes from other countries. Deep fried parsley served piping hot is supposed to give a great lift to bora d'oeuvres.

Basil herb vinegar, easily made by anyone, adds a tasty finish to salads. A member of the mint family, this herb is known as the happy herb. Sage, used in tea can also make mouthwashes, for rough sore throats with honey and has also been known as a treatment for palsey.

This avid culinarist gave her rice 'tried and true' herbal dishes. She also said that with herbs, individuals could add or subtract according to their palates dictate.

Mrs. Findley also brought samples and following her talk, which included methods of making herbal seasonings from the garden to the table, she illustrated several of her own colorful home-made delights.

Following both guest speakers' tips, advice and history of herbology, a question and answer period was in line, when everyone, keenly interested, approached Mrs. Langdon and Mrs. Findley for further comments on the subject.

'In Essence, A Herb Is.....'

Herbology, a fast growing method used in gourmet cooking and an interesting challenge for garden enthusiast arrived in Belleville last evening. Mrs. Allan Findley, left, and Mrs. John Langdon both of Toronto, answer questions and learn a few tips themselves while describing their samples of herbs from the soil to the bottle, as basil vinegar. Cecil Becker, president of the Belleville Horticultural Society, joins in the conversation — which was keenly received by members and visitors of the society.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN KNIGHT

Baptismal Rites

FRANKFORD — The Sacrament of baptism was conducted by Rev. E. Brown to a large congregation in Frankford United Church last Sunday.

The following children were baptized: Andrew Scott Carpenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. T. Carpenter. Corey Ronald Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hall. Stacey Kim Pearce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Pearce. Kimberley Dawn Pearson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Pearson. Brian John Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Pearson, all from Frankford, and Lisa Marie Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. F. Mason, Batawa.

Knight — Taylor

St. Columba Presbyterian Church was the setting for the double-ring wedding ceremony on October 7 when Sherrill Elizabeth Taylor exchanged vows with Ronald John Knight of Hamilton. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. Denton T a y l o r of Belleville and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. R o n a l d S. Knight, Belleville and the late Mr. Ronald S. Knight. Rev. David Murphy performed the ceremony. Ralph Blatchford rendered organ music and accompanied the soloist, Dr. Alex S. McKay, of Calgary, uncle of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected a floor length g o w n of satin peau which featured a midi-length coat of Swiss guipure lace. Long sleeves were accented on her fitted bodice while a deep ruffle adorned the hemline. The long illusion net veil which was edged in guipure lace was gathered to a close-fitting Bavarian cap covered with the same lace. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis, i v y and pale yellow cymbidium orchids.

Maid of honor, Miss Marsha Taylor, sister of the bride, was attired in a floor length burgundy bapiste gown with ruffles accenting the neck, wrist and hem. She wore a mid-length overvest was of fishnet lace. She c a r r i e d a wicker basket of fall chrysanthemums, miniature cat tails and wheat.

Miss Valerie Knight of London, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Rosemary Simson of Toronto, w o r e avocado green gown in a similar style to the maid of honor. While Miss Beverl Burns of Vancouver and Miss Alan Leadbeater of Halifax wore gold gowns similar to the maid of honor's also.

For the reception held at the Park Room, Four Seasons Hotel, the bride's mother received guests, wearing a f l o o r length gown of purple chiffon over taffeta. A corsage of white gardenia enhances her dress.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a long chiffon over taffeta gown in shades of tangerine, brown and gold which was accented by a white gardenia corsage.

For the wedding trip to the Muskoka, the bride donned a gold wool p a n t s u i t with matching accessories and a corsage of gold cymbidium orchids.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Knight will reside in Hamilton.

Church Groups

WOMEN'S MISSIONARY COUNCIL

FRANKFORD — The Women's Missionary Council meeting of the Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle was held Monday evening at the church.

The meeting opened with a prayer session from 7.30 to p.m. and the secretary and treasurer reports were given by Mrs. Kay Patrick. The monthly bulletin was read by Mrs. R. Stronz.

Various needs were mentioned, Mrs. W. Hallwell gave a run-down of new ideas and this winter's plans.

The members retreated to the lower auditorium and spent the evening preparing Guipure text greeting cards for the mission field.

Successful Living

If You Lose Friend, Ask Yourself Why?

By DORIS CLARK

Occasionally we all lose friends because our interests diverge, or our paths in life separate. It is easy to accept this sort of lost friendship.

But perhaps once in a lifetime, we may lose a friend through a serious misunderstanding. This isn't so easy to accept. It hurts to have somebody say, in effect, "I don't like you any more. I don't want to know you."

Such a loss should lead to some deep soul-searching. Is it possible we will discover a personality defect which can be remedied?

Our search may, of course, make us realize that we acted as we saw fit at the time, and could not in all conscience have done anything else. So we chalk it up to experience and accept the loss with regret, but no remorse.

Losing a good friend is painful. Sometimes, though, it is one of the unavoidable hazards of living. — Dorothy Turcotte.

Dear Doris: I am 20 and in love with a man 36. This is the first time I've ever been sexually involved. But when I met this man I really felt very strongly and thought "What really is virginity anyway?" I'm not sorry I slept with him in fact I really enjoyed it and have no guilt feelings whatsoever.

My problem lies in that he is married, though separated. The marriage was never consummated and he is finalizing proceedings for an annulment. He knows my feelings about him but feels he cannot become as serious as I am because he has too many other pressures to contend with (in his job) although he likes me and would probably marry me "if circumstances were different." I'm sure a love could develop here and I don't want to lose him. We have a very honest and blunt relationship where we tell each other exactly how we feel and what is going on.

Do you think I should pursue the relationship? I think he is worth waiting for, I really don't think age is an important factor as I look older and he looks a good deal younger. — Perplexed.

Dear Perplexed: I have my doubts. Liking is not loving; and that pressure you hardly a reason for single blessedness. He likes the freedom he is going to get. Let's see how he acts when he gets it.

Without more knowledge of that previous union, of you, and of him, I cannot venture an opinion. Perhaps it is very much older than 28, even if you think you are mature.

* * *

Dear Doris: I had my teeth out in hospital. After that I had to go to my dentist three times to check-ups and I have to go again in two weeks' time. Last week I received a bill from my dentist of $385 to pay for my dentures, which I think is too much.

Doris, could you please find out if government insurance pays anything for dental care like this? — Anxiously Waiting.

Dear Anxiously: There will be provision for hospital costs but medical care schemes do not yet include the cost of dental care or dentures.

The amount you pay may sound like a lot to you, and not too easy to scrape up. But the time you're going has hardly been spent on you amounts to a good deal of professional, personal care.

After extractions, there is the work of taking detailed molds of your mouth with and without teeth; great care in producing your pattern of teeth, and one which suits your other features; careful fitting of the right color, shape and material, and the cost of a laboratory technician to do what only the L. T. can. I wouldn't say his price is out of the way.

A discussion about prices with your dentist would help to clarify things. Good teeth take skill to make — good enough that you don't find yourself keeping them in your bureau drawer most of the time.

And good teeth are a key to good health.

Ann Landers

For Physically Handicapped Only

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you printed a letter from a woman whose husband had suffered a stroke. He was in his 50s and had always been a wonderfully satisfying lover. The woman said she was sure he would be unable to function sexually after his illness—he had lost the use of his left arm and leg. Their family doctor suggested that she take him to the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago. Within two years the man had regained partial use of his leg and complete use of his arm. And then his wife added happily, "He is once again a completely satisfying lover."

That Rehabilitation Institute in Chicago must be a place where they work miracles. I wonder if they can do anything for my husband. He hasn't had a stroke, but at the age of 52 he has gone completely dead. He was never a great lover, but he was at least there. Now he's nowhere. I hope I've made myself clear. Please tell me if that hospital can help him.—Batting Zero

Dear Zero: Since that woman wrote I've been deluged with letters from readers, both male and female, who are also "batting zero."

Dr. Henry Betts, the medical director of the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago would like me to make it clear that their skilled counselling to the severely handicapped and this sometimes means helping patients reactivate their sex lives. The inability to function sexually, however, must be related to a spinal cord injury, Parkinson's disease, cerebral palsy, burns or some other medical problem. At present, they are not set up to treat impotent males and troubled females who are "batting zero" solely because of emotional problems.

Dear Ann Landers: How strange that your advice should have appeared one day late for me. Yesterday's paper carried a letter from the girl who asked if she should tell her fiance about her past—he had been begging her to do so for several months. You said, "No. A man should be willing to accept a woman for what she is. If he becomes too persistent she should tell him to get lost." You pointed out that many men promise to not hold a girl's past against her, but somehow they can't keep the promise and all of a sudden she's a tramp and a streetwalker and their marriage is never the same.

Right now I am crying my eyes out. I went with my fiance for over a year. We were very much in love. I decided not to tell him about an affair I had had with a man he dislikes. The night before last he begged me to trust him. He swore he could forgive anything, but he had to know who the other man in my life had been. When I finally told him he said, "I could have forgiven you for being with any man but him. I could never marry you now. I'd like my ring back please."

Print my letter. It might help some gal for whom it is not too late.—Swales Eyes in Tulsa

Dear Tulsa: Good riddance. He sounds like a heel.

Confidential to Say It Again: Your friend is correct. Those ear-splitting sounds the kids dig have already produced a number of cases of partial deafness. A person whose ear drums are assaulted by hours of continuous amplified rock music may pay a big price for his entertainment. So turn it down, you cats.

CLUB 4-H NOTES

COOPER 4-H HOMEMAKING CLUB

TWEED — The October meeting of the Cooper 4-H Homemaking Club was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Sizen. The theme was "Fall Delights" are Mrs. Elwood Graham and Mrs. Fred Sizen. Nine girls enrolled for this project.

Results of the election of officers are as follow—president, Linda Clarke; vice-president, Debbie Rose; treasurer, Diston Nolan; press reporter, Sandra Stein.

The second meeting of October was held one week later, at the home of Mrs. Elwood Graham. The club name chosen for this project is "The Cooper Crackers" and "The Club Girl Entertains". The discussion pertained to: making people welcome in your home; how to use recipes and working methods. The demonstration was on flower arrangements. Some types are: triangle, asymmetrical, hogarth, round, convex and crescent. A discussion followed on ways to preserve flowers to last longer and on placing flowers.

Lunch was served following the meeting.

QMS Mark Anniversary

Quinte Medical Secretaries marked the seventh anniversary as they held the annual meeting October 10 in the General Hospital.

Chaired by president Mrs. Diana Maxwell, the meeting dealt with plans for the bake sale to be held at Quinte Mall Nov. 4 and reminders that songs and ballads were still needed to complete the QMSA Song Book. The collection of supermarket tapes with which to purchase the equipment is to be continued. Initial arrangements were discussed for the annual Christmas party, to be held this year at San Lach Gardens Dec. 6.

After the regular business meeting, the following slate of officers and chairmen for the 1972-73 year was presented by the nominating committee chairman Mrs. Mae Cathcart: president, Mrs. Sharon Tapp; honorary president, Dr. R. M. Anderson; vice president, Mrs. Jacqueline Vivian; secretary, Mrs. Doreen Ward; treasurer Mrs. Maggie Groom telephone and membership, Mrs. Geraldine Murphy; social Mrs. Dorothy Trumble; publicity and historian Mrs. Shirley Elliott and program, Mrs. Eileen Conley.

The meeting was adjourned after reminding members of the two Clinic Days at Hotel Dieu Hospital in Kingston on Oct. 14 and Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto on Oct. 21.

The next regular meeting will be held Nov. 8 at the home of QMSA honor representative, Mrs. Mae Cathcart.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONNELL

Do children resent authority?

NO, not the voice of authority which they recognize as controls that need to guide them as they progress to maturity. What children may resent is the imposition of authority upon them by parents or other adults who take pleasure in boosting others around. Then the family relationship can deteriorate into a contest of wills with the honest children hiding their time until they can do more boasting of their own.

Can a wife help her husband too much?

NO, not if she is concerned only about her husband and their life together. A husband, of course, will appreciate all the help a wife can give. Sometimes, however, a wife seems to do more harm than good with the help she renders to her husband; perhaps unwarily, she doesn't want him to succeed. She might false alarm because he lets her assume too much of the burden to make his enjoyable; so she is indirectly letting him know how she feels.

Is taking a break just a copout?

NO. When somebody has a knotty problem that requires deep concentration, he can put it down for a while without feeling that he hasn't got the guts to solve it. A brief respite may help him look at the question from a different angle and speed up the solution. If such a person, however, were to toss the whole problem aside because he might be wasting time about his ability to handle it, he could be copping out, and he just doesn't care who knows it.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Prince Edward - Belleville LADIES' CLUB

A good attendance numbering 42 members and four visitors met at the Recreation Centre last Wednesday for the regular meeting of the Prince Edward - Belleville Ladies' Club. The total membership, with the four visitors joining, is 78.

President Mrs. F. Henderson opened the meeting in the usual manner, after which minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary Mrs. A. Mitchell. She also gave an account of the recent bus trip. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. L. Fox and a report was read by the corresponding secretary Mrs. A. Cole; also that Mrs. Garbutt will mark her 98th birthday on October 30. Mrs. H. Vickers is a patient in Room 518 at the hospital. Plans were made for the November meeting when it is hoped there will be a special speaker from the Salvation Army.

Mrs. E. J. Morris introduced the guest speaker of the meeting, Mrs. C. Holmes who was a delegate to the Home for the Aged convention held at the Skyline Hotel in Toronto.

She spoke on the theme of the convention, "Broadening Horizons — What's New in 1973?" and noted that much progress has been made in the Homes for the Aged, this mainly due to the splendid work of the auxiliaries. It was felt that the care for the aged in Ontario is one of the finest in the world. With an increase in the number of residents for senior citizens it was suggested that these be near Homes for the Aged, so that these people could volunteer their services.

"The auxiliary," she said, "does much for the entertainment of residents of the homes," and alphabetically dealt with their endeavors — A is for accomplishment; U is for useful; S — for expedient; I — for intermingle; A — for awareness; R — for respect for others; and Y — is for you (only you can give your time to serve.)

In closing Mrs. Holmes quoted a poem sent in by the Hastings Manor Times which made an appropriate conclusion to her talk.

Mrs. Morris expressed thanks to the speaker and presented her with a gift.

All enjoyed lunch at the close.

Nixon Veto Of Water Bill Upset

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon vetoed Tuesday night a $24.6-billion bill aimed at ridding American waters of all pollution by 1985. But the Senate quickly voted to override the veto.

The Senate vote was 52 to 12, nine more than the two-thirds majority required to override. The House of Representatives is expected to vote on overriding the veto this afternoon.

The Senate vote came early today, two hours after Nixon had clapped down the pressure by calling it staggering and budget-wrecking.

Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern was on hand to join those voting to override.

The bill also contained funds for the Great Lakes cleanup agreement signed in Ottawa last year by Nixon and Prime Minister Trudeau.

Nixon said any spending bill this year which would lead to higher prices and taxes "defies signature by this president." He said: "I have nailed my colors to the mast on this issue; the political winds can blow where they may."

He had asked for a water-pollution bill that would have committed $6 billion in federal funds over a three-year period and he called the bill which came to his desk "a staggering, budget-wrecking $24 billion."

Mounties Display Fortress

TORONTO (CP) — The RCMP held open house for reporters at their new headquarters here Tuesday, but maintained tight-lipped security about some of the building's contents.

Part of the tour of the 13-storey building, described by Metropolitan Toronto's planning commissioner as "a medieval fortress," included a glimpse of the computer room.

When photographers raised their cameras to take pictures, a sergeant popped out of a nearby office and said: "No pictures."

The sergeant said "Ottawa policy" forbade photographing the computer.

When asked what type of computer it was, he said: "Let's just say it's a computer."

Insp. Ralph Culligan led the press through most of the building, which consisted mainly of empty offices.

Reporters were not taken to the upper floors, which have been allocated for security and intelligence.

The tour also omitted the incinerator on the roof of the building that will be used to burn an estimated 80 pounds of confidential papers daily.

The RCMP was exempted, Insp. Culligan said, from an anti-pollution bylaw prohibiting installation of incinerators in new buildings.

YOUR OWN CONSUMER BILL OF RIGHTS
We are developing a program which we want to make as meaningful to you as to us, and we are, therefore, proposing a Consumer Bill of Rights giving you guidelines for defining your own rights as consumers.
I am excited about what promises to be a new milestone in cooperation and understanding between one supermarket chain and it's customers.
More about the Consumer Bill of Rights later.

Canadians Commence Casting Votes Overseas

OTTAWA (CP) — The submarine HMCS Rainbow, docked in Pearl Harbor, opened a polling station for the crew this week. Canadians in Hyderabad, Peking and Kampala cast votes in miniature elections.

All were taking part in a complicated new electoral operation that reaches out from Ottawa to wherever even two or three Canadian federal employees or servicemen are gathered. The objective is to collect advance ballots for the Oct. 30 general election from up to 18,000 Canadians serving abroad.

Bureaucratic gymnastics involving jetliners and special couriers, cabled messages and secret tallies are required by 1970 changes in the federal electoral law.

For the first time, federal employees posted abroad, and their dependents 18 and over, can vote in a federal election while away from home. Previously, the right to vote outside Canada was limited to members of the armed forces and their spouses.

Another change since the last federal election in 1968 widens the range of eligible voters in the armed services poll abroad. Any dependent of a serviceman who is at least 18—not just his wife—can vote.

The revised system also means that the poll of public servants abroad—diplomats, trade envoys and the like—and the armed forces ballots collected outside Canada will be counted in with home-front constituency vote totals on election night.

Previously, the service vote was held election day and reported days later in the constituencies at home. Sometimes a close result on election night was changed by the days-later counting of the service vote.

From 9 a.m. local times Monday until 6 p.m. Saturday, about 3,300 public servants and dependents at embassies, consulates and trade offices were eligible to cast ballots at 139 special polling stations around the world for candidates in their home constituencies.

VOTE AT SEA

At the same time, up to about 15,000 armed forces personnel and dependents are voting. The great majority are in Europe, but also included are sailors at sea and servicemen with the United Nations in Cyprus, with the truce commission in Vietnam, on assignment in Australia, Pakistan, Israel, Peking and on the forces medical team assisting in the evacuation of Asians from Uganda.

Regimental Names Won't Be Abolished

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence department said Tuesday there are no plans to abolish traditional regimental names, badges and headgear in the Canadian Armed Forces in favor of uniform military designations and dress.

A department spokesman was responding to a letter circulated by the Governor-General's Horse Guards, an armed forces reserve regiment, charging that "military authorities in Ottawa" planned to abolish distinguishing titles and dress "in a short number of months" and urging that trustees of the regiment "use any influence you have to counter this move promptly."

Two Indicted for Yablonski Murder

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two United Mine Workers officials were indicted Tuesday by a federal grand jury on conspiracy charges in the 1969 murder of Joseph A. (Jock) Yablonski.

The indictments charged William Prater, 53, of LaFollette, Tenn. and Albert Pass, 58, of Middlesboro, Ky., "with conspiracy to deprive Yablonski of his rights under the Civil Rights Act, and alleged the murder resulted directly from that alleged conspiracy.

In addition, the jury charged both with obstructing justice, obstructing a criminal investigation and depriving Yablonski rights guaranteed under federal labor laws.

Pass, secretary-treasurer of the union's District 19, also sits on the UMW's policy-making international executive board. Prater is a District 19 field representative.

Yablonski and his wife and daughter were found shot to death in their nearby Clarksville farmhouse Dec. 31, 1969, three weeks after Yablonski lost a bitterly fought election to incumbent W. A. (Tony) Boyle for the union's presidency.

In addition to the federal indictment, both also face state murder charges in the case.

Seven persons have been arrested so far in the case. Of those, Only Pass and Prater are awaiting trial. Three others have pleaded guilty, while two have been convicted and sentenced to death.

Storm Damage Reparations Asked

WASAGA BEACH, Ont. (CP) — A number of beach-front property owners at this resort community 20 miles northwest of Barrie have asked Wasaga Council to press for federal and provincial aid for storm damage.

High winds and waves for the last two weeks have caused an estimated $100,000 in damage along a two-mile stretch of beach.

The high water has damaged a variety store, a restaurant and a number of cottages.

Athletics, Reds Hope History Won't Repeat

OAKLAND (AP) — The Oakland Athletics and Cincinnati Reds were faced with another possibility of rain from the worst weather in the Bay area in 19 years as they prepared to play the third game of the World Series tonight.

The last time it rained as hard in the area was during the 1962 series when San Francisco Giants and New York Yankees waited three days to play a baseball game.

The Athletics and Reds hope that lightning doesn't strike twice.

"The rain didn't help us—I wanted to play," said Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson after the third game of the 1972 Series was postponed Tuesday night by a hail and rain storm.

And a chance of showers was forecast for tonight.

"I was disappointed," said Cincinnati starting pitcher Jack Billingham, who was ready for "the most important game of my life."

Oakland manager Dick Williams, who said his pitching rotation would have to be re-evaluated if another rainout occurred, took the delay philosophically.

"We're still two up," said Williams, whose American League champions hold a 2-0 lead in this best-of-seven-game series over the National League champion Reds.

Billingham and Oakland's John (Blue Moon) Odom had finished their warmup and were prepared to start Tuesday night when heavy rains struck the Coliseum. It was a continuation of the intermittent rain that had been going on in the Bay area for 19 straight days.

Umbrellas sprouted immediately. The crowd of 50,000 sighed and groundskeepers, who had worked hard to get the baseball diamond ready, blanketed the infield with tarpaulin. But it was useless.

The rain picked up momentum and then hail stones began falling. The sun shone a few hundred yards away from the ballpark and skies were blue and pink.

Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn, trudged through the oakfield slop and decided it was impossible to play ball.

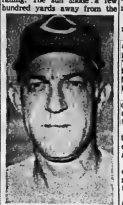
Kuhn, however, did tell the reporters.

"I went out and took a look at the field with the senior umpires," said the commissioner. "It was perfectly apparent that the amount of water on the field made it totally unplayable for baseball.

"In some places, water was over the shoetops and on almost every step, you sink into the turf."

Odom was all set to go tonight, saying that the extra day's rest would make him stronger.

"The layoff won't have any effect on my control," said the right-hander. "I might even throw a little harder."



Williams interjected: "Nothing bothers Odom. He pitches well in pressure games. Look what he did this season for us.

"We went on the road and he beat three of the best pitchers in the American League in a row-Gaylord Perry of Cleveland, Jim Palmer of Baltimore and Detroit's Mickey Lolich."

Odom will be Williams' pitcher even if the third game is rained out tonight.

"If we have rain on Thursday, then Odom will go, too," said Williams. "But after that, we'd have to have a staff re-evaluation."

Tuesday night's rainout pushed back the entire Series schedule. After tonight's 8:30 p.m. EDT start, the fourth game is scheduled for Thursday night and the fifth, if necessary, will be played in Oakland starting at 4 p.m. EDT Friday.

SPARKY ANDERSON

Coliseum Like Jail?

OAKLAND (AP) — Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson elaborated Tuesday on his much-publicized statement that Oakland Coliseum is an ugly ball park.

"Actually," Anderson said, applying a gentle needle to his Oakland hosts Tuesday night, "this park is better than Baltimore's. "Baltimore's is like San Quentin prison," he laughed.

"This one is like Folsom prison."

Gotta Gets Jinx Award

EDMONTON (CP) — Ottawa Rough Rider coach Jack Gotta, named Canadian Football League coach of the year Tuesday night, doesn't have far to go for suggestions about cracking the jinx associated with the award.

Frank Clair, Gotta's predecessor and now general manager of the Riders, won the award in 1966 and 1969 and led Ottawa to a 1969 Grey Cup win over Saskatchewan. Clair is the only coach ever to win the award and the Grey Cup in the same season.

Gotta was selected by his fellow coaches for the Annis Stukus Trophy, presented at the Edmonton Eskimos' annual $100-a-plate dinner. Clair, accepting the award on behalf of Gotta, called his coach a "very dedicated guy . . . who has rebuilt the club."

Gotta said in an Ottawa interview he isn't scared of the Grey Cup jinx. "I don't believe there's a kiss of death on it (the award)."

He said he was "really pleased" to win the award, but suggested the donors should wait until the end of the regular season before announcing the winner.

Former Edmonton club president Mos Lieberman, who presented the trophy, named after a former Edmonton and British Columbia coach said balloting was the closest in the 12 - year history of the award. About 50 fans attended the annual dinner.

Gotta, a 41-year-old product of Oregon State University, took over the Riders after Clair moved to the front office following the Grey Cup win. The 1970 team fell to last place in the east and rebounded to third last season before making a run at the Eastern Conference crown this season.

A stingy defence has helped Ottawa Battle Hamilton Tiger-Cats for first place in the east. The Ticats are 9-3 and hold a two-point edge over the Riders, who are 8-3. Ottawa is assured of a playoff berth and could finish first by sweeping the three remaining games while Hamilton must lose at least one game against Toronto and Winnipeg.

FRANK CLAIR

Clair praised Gotta for building a contender following the loss of quarterback Russ Jackson and running back Vic Washington and Ron Stewart, standouts on Ottawa teams in the 1960s.

After playing college ball at Oregon State, Gotta went to the Calgary Stampeders in 1958 and made the Western Conference all-star team. He was traded to Saskatchewan in 1959 and led them in passing, rushing and yardage gained on passes in 1961, 1962 and 1963.

Gotta finished his playing career with Montreal in 1964 and became an assistant to Eagle Keys at Saskatchewan in 1965.

Two years later he joined Clair in Ottawa as an assistant.
